Mortson Speaks To Midget OMHA Champs

CAMPBELLFORD, April 7 — (ENS)—President Franklin S. Linton of the Campbellford Rotary Club introduced Gus. Mortson, star defenceman of the Toronto Maple Leafs, to the guests of the Rotary Hockey Banquet in the Parish Hall here on Friday evening, held in honour of the newly-crowned Ontario Midget C Champions.

Mr. Mortson talked to the boys about hockey as a career, but warned the youngsters not to neglect their school studies. He said N.H.L. hockey was a good paying proposition. He described the Leaf's scouting system, headed by a former player, Bob Davidson, as the best anywhere, and advised the boys to play their best at all times as they never know when a professional scout was eyeing a game, looking for prospective future talent.

Gus also told of the strict regulations of the training camp, and stated that rookies at such camps were always an incentive to experienced players to work harder, because no player was sure of a place on the team because of his past performances. Medical check-ups, weighing, good food and plenty of milk, early rising and 11 o'clock curfew were features of the pro hockey camps. Fines for offenders were $50 for the first offence.

Smoking is discouraged, but not banned. Alcoholic beverages of any kind are strictly forbidden.

During an informal discussion, Mr. Mortson said he considered Milt. Schmidt of Boston as perhaps the most valuable in the N.H.L. He praised the work of Broda in the Toronto nets in the recent playoffs. He said Detroit would almost undoubtedly take the Stanley Cup this year.

Jack L. Christie, secretary of the O.M.H.A. of Toronto was on hand and brought the greetings of the association to the local champions. He said the O.M.H.A. in which the local lads played and won the championship, is the largest minor hockey organization in the world. He congratulated the local midget team, who will hold the Dr. R. W. Matchett trophy for 1952.

Al. Watkins of Peterborough, district convener of the O.M.H.A. was in attendance and spoke briefly, offering his congratulations to the winners.

Dr. W. W. Baker, chairman of the Rotary Club Sports committee, which sponsors both the minor hockey teams during the past few years, presented each lad of the midget team as well as their coach Howard Wilson and manager Lloyd Taylor with leather jackets. The jackets will bear both the O.M.H.A. championship crests and the Rotary crest. Dr. W. W. Baker also presented Rotary Club crests to each member of the Bantam team, who were unsuccessful in the playoffs, but who were also guests of honour at the banquet. He complimented the boys most highly on their achievements, and thanked particularly Mr. Wilson and Mr. Taylor who gave much of their time and effort in piloting the boys to their victorious finish.

Bantam coach, Don Free also presented with a gift on behalf of the team, and Jack Free also received a token of appreciation of the two teams for his refereeing chores.

Captain "Buck" Wilson of the Midget champions made a brief speech of appreciation, and called upon Jason Field, a teammate to present coach Howard Wilson with a gift on behalf of the team. Assistant captain Jim Baker presented team manager Lloyd Taylor with a gift, also on behalf of the team.

F. M. Rutherford, and J. P. Wood showed a number of movies. This year marks the first time the Midget C trophy has gone to an Eastern Ontario team.

Lakeshore Waters High From Heavy Rainfall

COBOURG, April 7 (ENS)—Heavy rains on Saturday night and early Sunday created flood conditions in some parts of the town which threatened to approach the flood of last month. On James St. the town creek started to back up at the outlet under Patterson's mill but the waters subsided before things got out of control.

Many cellars were flooded again. For smelt fishermen it meant another delay in the opening of the season as the creeks in the district ran too high for netting.

Set World Record

ADELAIDE, April 7 — (Reuters) — A world record is claimed for a shark, 16 feet long and weighing 2,333 pounds, caught on Sunday from a cutter at Streaky Bay, off South Australiia. The shark, a white pointer, is the first gamet fish weighing more than one ton ever landed by rod and line anywhere in the world, the secretary of the South Australian Big Game Fishermen's Association, E. V. Palmer, claims.

To Fight Locusts

JERUSALEM, April 7 — (Reutetrs)— Planes and locust squads stood by today following a warning received from neighboring Jordan that a huge swarm of locusts i. advancing on Israel. The warning stated that one of eight swarms which had settled down in Jordan is being carried westwards by the desert winds.

This is the 26th picture in the Examiner's Baby Picture-Quote contest. For the first five days of each week the Examiner will publish a baby picture and quote from the collection of Constance Bannister and on Saturday will publish the winning local pictures. In the Examiner's contest readers are being asked to submit baby pictures and the trick is to write a suitable caption implying what could have been on the baby's mind to create such an expressive picture. Every home where here are children has an unusual baby picture, so look over your family album, pick out and write the caption and send picture to Baby Photo Editor, Examiner, Peterborough. Pictures must be of babies two years and less. Two prizes of five dollars a week are given and a grand prize of ten dollars at end of contest.

OBITUARIES

THE REV. JOSEPH GALLAGHER

The Rev. Joseph Gallagher, 67, redemptorist missionary stationed at St. Alphonsus Parish for the past two months died suddenly in Toronto today.

Father Gallagher was spending the weekend at St. Patrick's Rectory when he died.

Born in Eganville, Ont., he had formerly served at St. John, New Brunswick, Yorkton, Saskatchewan, Montreal and Toronto.

The funeral will take place Wednesday at St. Patrick's Church, 141 McCaul St., Toronto, where requiem mass will be celebrated at 10 p.m. Burial will be in Mount Hope cemetery, Toronto.

MRS. ALBERT VALOIS.

Mrs. Albert Valois, 58, the former Ida Emma Mander, of 252 Woodbine Ave., died Sunday in hospital after a long illness. She was the widow of Albert Valois, who died in January of this year.

Born in Kingswinford, Staffordshire, England, she was a daughter of the late Benjamin Mander and Mary Ann Brooks. She had lived in Peterborough for 32 years, and was a member of St. John's Anglican Church.

Surviving are two sons, Norman, of Quebec City; Leslie of Peterborough; one sister, Mrs. S. Harding (Gladys) and one brother Albert, both of Peterborough.

Funeral service will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p.m. by the Rev. J. A. Purser of St. John's at the Comstock funeral home. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

FREDERICK C. RICHARDSON

Frederick C. Richardson, a former Peterborough man and for the past 38 years member of a firm of consulting engineers in New Haven, Conn., died in that city in hospital on Saturday following a prolonged illness. He was born in Peterborough, 66 years ago, son of the late Thomas M. Richardson and Eliza J. Coddingham, where he received his primary and secondary education. Mr. Richardson was employed with the old William Hamilton Company in the drafting department. He left here for Schenectady where he remained 10 years and then he went to New Haven.

A former member of St. Andrew's church, and of its hockey team, he was also active in sport at the Y.M.C.A., chiefly basketball and road running. Mr. Richardson was past master of a Masonic Lodge in New Haven.

He leaves his wife, the former Hannah Roach, two sisters, Mrs. H. W. Cooke (Ada) and Mrs. William Miller (Lena), both of Toronto, and a brother, William A. Richardson of this city.

Funeral arrangements have not been decided but burial will be in New Haven.

Mrs. Thomas Martin

LAKEFIELD, April 7 (ENS)—Funeral service for Mrs. Thomas Martin, the former Sophia Caroline Moore, whose death occurred on Wednesday in hospital, was held on Friday afternoon from the Hendren Funeral Home.

Mrs. Martin was an active member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church and has resided in the village for the past 23 years.

Flower bearers were six grandsons, Walter and David Lean, Laurence and Cecil Neil and Terry and Francis Skelcher.

Pallbeaers were Chester Hamilton, Ralph Hamilton, Howard Hamilton, Walter Moore, Kenneth Moore and Stanley Giles.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Horace Kaye, of St. Andrew's Church, and burial was in Hillside cemetery.

Jazz Takes Over

LONDON, April 7 — (Reuters) —Staid Albert Hall, usually the stage for symphony orchestras or concert virtuosis, rocked Sunday night to the two-beat rhythm of Dixieland. Counties' Deficit Hits $15,545, Auditors Report

COBOURG, April 7 —(ENS)—Net deficit of $15,545.73 occurred in the year 1951, it is revealed in the auditors' report presented at last week's session of Northumberland and Durham counties council. The deficit resulted in the year's operations after providing for a prior year's deficit of $11,-652.55.

Loan interest, $5,150; printing, postage and stationery, $4,850; counties' roads, $14,000; hospitalization, $41,000; counties home, $2,-900; provision for doubtful hospital accounts, $4,500; total—$36,-100. Underexpenditures — executive and legislative expenses, $1,-200; weed inspectors, $2,000; child welfare, $14,100; reforestation. $3,000; scholarships, $600. Total—$20,900. Difference, $15,200.

In listing the replacement value of counties' buildings, the auditors pointed out that some of the properties are not insured to the full extent of the required co-insurance amounts. Due from other municipalities is the sum of $26,-393.07, made up of counties rates unpaid as at Dec. 31, 1951, $17,-239.39; road accounts receivable, $491.22 and hospital accounts due from other municipalities, $8,671.-46. However since the time of the audit for Dec. 31, 1951, counties rates repaid amount to $15,340.

In the accounts payable total of $49,664.51 is the sum of $15,893.72 owing by the counties to various hospitals on account of hospitalization of indigent patients. Due to the health unit as of Dec. 31, 1951 is the sum of $17,250.

In revamping the counties bookkeeping system, the new auditors, who were engaged at the January session, introduced some changes which included serially-numbered duplicate receipts to be issued for all cash received. All receipts are now being desposited to the credit of the municipality without any deductions and all payments are now being made by cheque, properly numbered.

Clash In Morocco

MAKNES, Morocco, April 7— (AP)— Armed Moroccan tribesmen from the Atlas mountains foothills clashed during the weekend with French police and soldiers outside a local court at Mrirt. Five Morroccans were killed. Mrirt is about 75 miles south of Maknes in the interior of French Morocco. The tribesmen came from the hills to protest the trial before a local Kaid's leader's court of several persons accused of agitating against the authorities.

Parties Dissolved

DAMASCUS, Syria, April 7 (AP) — The Syrian government Sunday dissolved by decree all political parties and organizations in the country. The decree dissolved nine previously authorized parties. The Communist party has never been authorized in Syria, and the new decree put a damper on clandestine Red activity. The decree said there will be no parties until a new law governing them can be issued in accordance with the Syrian constitution.

Guerrillas Active

MANILA, April 7 — (AP) — Communist Huks killed one man and kidnapped a village officer in two raids Sunday, army headquarters said .They looted stores and homes. The kidnapping took place less than 25 miles north of Manila.

Omemee WMS Plans Service For Easter

OMEMEE, April 7— (ENS) — Easter meeting of Trinity United Church W.M.S. was held in the basement of the church, Mrs. T. A. McConnell presiding and 27 present.

Reports were heard from treasurer Mrs. R. E. Brooks, Christian stewardship secretary Miss C. Connell, literature secretary Mrs. G. Overholt and Christian citizenship secretary Mrs. A. Rutherford. Statistics quoted by Mrs. Rutherford showed an increase in the drinking of spirits in Ontario.

Arrangements were made for the annual W.M.S. Easter Thankoffering Sunday Service in the church, which is to be held April 20, at 7 p.m., with the Rev. Floyd Honey, recently returned from China, as speaker. The Y.P.U. groups of Omemee and Bethel are to join in the service. Mothers of Mission Band members are being asked to meet with the W.M.S. in the basement at 6.50 and attend the service in a body.

Thank-you letters were read from Mrs. B. Pogue for being remembered in a recent illness, and from Mr. and Mrs. L. Casey and Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Earle, remembered in bereavement.

Mrs. H. Graham, leader of Group 2, had charge of the program which developed the theme "Easter gave us the Bible". The fact that the New Testament was born out of the experience of the early Christian Church was made plain by a series of scripture readings by Mrs. M. Jones, Mrs. J. B. Hough and Mrs. Jane Bradley. These were interspersed with Easter hymns. Mrs. S. Moyer spoke briefly on the significance of the Resurrection, and Mrs. Hough led in prayer. "Open the gates of the Temple" was sung by Mrs. E. A. Cornell, accompanied by Miss Lillie Race.

A social half hour followed, with Group 2 as hostesses. During this period Mrs. V.E.R. Zufelt made an appeal for outer dressings needed by the Canadian Cancer Society.

Down 2.4 Points In Two Months

The cost of living index for March 1st stood at 189.1 points, the lowest it has been since last August. It was a decrease of 1.7 points from February 1st, and was the largest decrease since January 1943. On a percentage basis, the drop in the index was the biggest monthly one since May, 1932, in the depths of the Depression when a 2.3 decrease was noted. The most recent drop of 1.7 points added to the decrease of seven-tenths of a point the month before (as of February 1st), makes a total decrease in two months of 2.4 points. Persons whose pay envelopes are geared to the rise and fall in the index on a two-point change will note a small reduction next pay day.

• • •

As we remarked ten days ago, and again last Thursday, another drop in the index may be expected when the statistics for March are calculated, that is, the index as of April 1st. People who were greatly worried about the inflationary conditions last year should be reassured by these indications of a decline in living costs. Whether or not it is a temporary lull remains to be seen.

• • •

If the decrease in the Index is continuing and gradual there need be no cause for alarm. It should not be forgotten that while the index now stands at the August 1951 level, that level itself was 20.4 points higher than the August 1950 index (168.5). That very large one-year increase could be offset during the next year by a similar decrease without depleting the vigour of the Canadian economy. However, a drop of twenty points in the short period of the next twelve months would be as unsettling as was the rise from August 1950 to August 1951.

• • •

The cost of living index is a phenomenon. What is essentially a statistical fabrication of and for economists has become since 1946 a national shibboleth and something of a national monster. In what other sphere of studies has a specialist's cyphering, wholly meaningful only to experts, become a household word, a popular anxiety? It is the misfortune of the Index that it is both overrated and misunderstood by thousands of people who follow its figures. Its name has been its undoing: something called "Cost of Living Index," no matter if it is designed for the information of experts who understand its function and limitations, has been seized by the generality of people worried by their own living costs and thinking to find in it an explanation, an ally or a scapegoat. Perhaps it is well for the Index and its misinterpreters that the Bureau of Statistics proposes to change both its bases and its facile name in mid-summer. "Consumer Price Index" is less likely to be a popular effigy.

Good C.N.R. Year But Another Deficit

The Government-owned Canadian National Railways last year had the largest operating revenues in its history: $624,834,120. However, its operating expenses were also the largest it has ever had, totalling $580,150,221. This higher expense was due chiefly to wage increases amounting to $34,900,000. The resulting net operating revenue was therefore $44,683,899, a decrease from 1950 of more than fifteen million dollars.

The surplus of revenue over operating expenses was disposed of as follows: $12,900,780 in taxes (although the C.N.R. is owned by the Government it pays taxes); $23,467,703 to pay interest on bonds held by the public, and the residual $8,315,416 was applied to government interest charges. These were, as usual, not nearly met, since they total $24,347,412 for the year. Therefore the C.N.R. again has to go to Parliament to cover a book deficit of $15,031,996.

We call this a false deficit. When the C.N.R. was formed in 1923 out of a lot of bankrupt or near-bankrupt railway companies, the Government underwrote the deal generously. Although it saved the rails for Canadians use, it also saved the companies and their shareholders from complete loss, to which they had been heading. The Government put these outmoded, unwarranted "debts" on the books of the newly-formed C.N.R. where they still are to this day. Until the C.N.R.'s debt-haunted books are revised and the debt-ridden financial structure changed, the C.N.R. will always have to show an income deficit, even when its operations are profitable enough to pay taxes, interest on proper debts and leave a substantial surplus.

President Donald Gordon states in his Annual Report that he expects that Parliament will act on the 1951 recommendations of the Royal Commission on Transportation that the financial structure of the C.N.R. be re-assessed. The Commission, established in 1948, made its finding public last year, and had this to say about the heavy fixed interest charges which the system has had to face since 1923: "The Canadian National Railways has established a case for reduction of its fixed charges and for the desirability of the Company being able to accumulate out of earnings a reserve of 'something to come and go on'."

President Gordon quietly reports this year: "It is expected that the measure of relief recommended by the Commission will be made available to the Railways in 1952." As we have said in these columns for many years, this relief should be granted, and the C.N.R. put on a proper financial footing. To be forced to operate under a continual deficit, in spite of excellent operations and good surplus, is hurtful to the C.N.R.'s enterprise.

Explosion At Washington

Political observers in both the United States and Canada have been wondering for some time when the continuing revelations of corruption in certain Government departments and agencies would cause an explosion at Washington. Few doubted it would happen, and several said Attorney-General McGrath would be involved; it happened at the week-end, and he was. Details of the immediate cause of the explosion were not released officially, but a possible pattern of events was reported.

Newbold Morris, a New York lawyer with a long history of service to the cause of political reform, a Republican by party, had been summoned by the President, to be "cleanup" chief for the Democratic Administration. Mr. Morris was almost immediately under fire from Democratic Senators because the law firm he belongs to in New York had profited from a deal in oil tankers, involving the Government, which appears to have been tainted, to say the least. Undeterred by this Mr. Morris was planning to continue his inquiries into corcupt practices.

Whether encouraged by the attack on Mr. Morris, or whether inspired simply by a desire to hush up some aspects of questioning, Mr. McGrath indicated he would not answer the former's questions. A quarrel apparently ensued, and Mr. McGrath discharged Mr. Morris abruptly. Mr. Morris let this be known, and the next thing the capital heard about was a fist-pounding scene in plain sight—but out of hearing—with President Truman, Mr. McGrath and Presidential Press Secretary Joseph Short as participants. Then came Mr. McGrath's "resignation."

What the ultimate result of this explosion will be is a matter of guesswork. It seems, however, that Mr. Truman has once again suffered from a virtue that he carries almost to the point at which it becomes a vice—loyalty to his friends. He had been advised months ago that Mr. McGrath should be dismissed in the interests of the Administration, if for no graver reasons. The memory of Mr. McGrath's service in the last Presidential campaign, however, led Mr. Truman to persist in retaining him—a course now probably regretted.

Tongues In The Legislature

Even before the days of the Family Compact, the disposal of Ontario's Crown Lands was the juciest plum in the hand of government, a prime source of patronage. Every Ontario Government in Upper Canadian history has held on to this plum. Even now there is no Commission or separate Crown Company to administer Crown Lands and timber rights thereon. A department of government—Lands and Forests—presided over by the Honourable Harold R. Scott, handles leasing, selling and licensing. Under the present Minister of Lands and Forests and the Frost Government, the management of Crown land and timber rights has been progressive—but it must still be subject to political pressures.

Even as in the days which brought the Family Compact into disrepute, Crown lands and their administration can still rouse tempers and incite charges. On Wednesday the C.C.F. House Leader in the Ontario Legislature charged that the crudest form of lobbying had taken place in connection with the passing of the new Crown Timber Act. We would not say that the Ontario Forest Industries Association, which presented a brief that day to the committee, is so inept as to lobby crudely. Mr. Grummett must have had other persons and incidents in mind.

His language roused Mr. G. C. Wardrope, Conservative member for Port Arthur, to call for his resignation. But Mr. Wardrope's own language had the heat and rancour which seem to have characterized any debate about Crown lands since the days of the revolutionary William Lyon Mackenzie. Mr. Wardrope said that the C.C.F. Mr. Grummett's charges were "deliberate, malicious, political skulduggery." In this Crown lands responsibility of his Department, Mr. Scott sits over a smouldering bush which has been blazing into sudden flames since the Burnhams and their kind were granted tracts hereabout a century ago. If Mr. Grummett is going to resign because of his tongue, he had better take Mr. Wardrope into the wilderness with him.

Musical Notes

by
PETER PIPER

TIMES CHANGE, and topical allusions which must have seemed uncommonly apposite or amusing in Shakespeare's day now have to be explained to modern readers in cumbrous footnotes. Nor has music escaped this blighting influence. In order to feel the full impact of Schubert's song, in which the lover anxiously awaits the arrival of a letter from his inammorata, the modern listener has to be acquainted of the fact that the fanfare-like figures in the accompaniment are intended to suggest the post-horn, a picturesque detail of the rather rudimentary postal service of Schubert's day that is still to be found on certain German and Scandinavian postage stamps. The post-horn was a bugle-like instrument played as a signal by stage-coaches carrying mail. It had no valves, keys or slide, and was only able to play five or six notes of the harmonic series. Bach also imitates the post-horn: in his "Capriccio on the departure of a dearly beloved brother" he introduces an "Aria di postiglione" (postillion's air) and a Fugue in imitation of the post-horn. Handel, too, introduces a "Symfonie allegro Postillons" for strings with oboes in unison (curiously enough no brass) to herald the entry of the Wise Men in "Belshazzar". Incidentally why do we not occasionally hear some of these other oratorios of Handel?

◇ ◇ ◇

YET ANOTHER recording of Messiah has just appeared, this time from a concert given by the Toronto Mendelssohn Choir, conducted by Sir Ernest Macmillan. This particular performance was also broadcast, so that some of my readers would already have some idea of the quality of the records: unfortunately I was unable to hear it at the time, and the records have not yet come my way. The undertaking has been made by the Beaver Gramophone Company, a new Canadian firm, as an opening to series of recordings by Canadians, and as such deserves the warmest commendation. I notice on the prospectus that the usual cuts have been made; even the fine chorus "And he shall purify the sons of Levi" has been omitted. One could fill half of a concert programme with the numbers customarily omitted from Messiah.

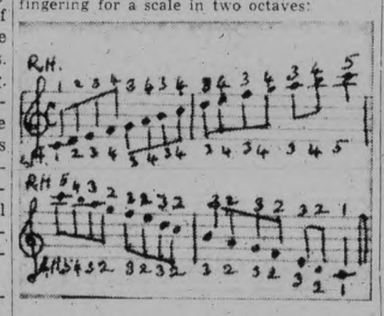
MANY YEARS AGO I read that the early performers on the harpsichord and other keyboard instruments of the time very rarely used the thumb, and it seemed odd that such an apparently obvious manoeuvre should have been overlooked. For example, Henry Purcell in his Choice Collection of Lessons for the Harpsichord, published between 1696 and 1699, gives the following fingering for a scale in two octaves:



By way of explanation the fingering for the right hand (placed above the notes) is the same as the modern scheme, i.e. the thumb is numbered 1, but in the left hand fingering (placed below the notes) the thumb is numbered 5, ring finger 4, and so on. Note that the thumb is employed only once in two octaves and that the fingering is different ascending from descending: also unlike the modern fingering the ascending left hand is different from the descending right hand. Try it out on the piano and see how awkward it is! Yet there was a very good reason for restricting the use of the thumb which will become apparent to anybody who has touched one of the older instruments. In nearly every case the keys are considerably shorter than in the modern instruments. Consequently, unless the fingers are excessively curved the thumb is forced off the keyboard. Moreover the touch is usually very light, and it is an easier matter for the fingers to glide from key to key without the interposition of the thumb. In any case the thumb would scarcely ever be used on a black note, as this would bring the rest of the hand too far forward. The prohibition of the thumb on the black keys except for playing chords and as a last desperate resource long outlived its usefulness in academic circles, though Chopin made frequent use of the thumb in such cases. I would particularly mention the turns of E flat near the end of the celebrated (alas, too, too celebrated) Nocturne in E flat major, which must be fingered 14321 if they are to come off neatly.

BULLETIN from the Kiwanis Music Festival in Peterborough. Last Monday was closing date for entries, but a number of passengers have been scrambling aboard as the gangway was being lowered. At the time of writing this article there have been 803 entries compared with last year's 642. There has been a significant increase in the adult vocal section, though 90 per cent of the entries are from out of Peterborough. I shall be looking forward to hearing the soprano oratorio, in which a boy soprano has entered. Girls' vocal solos are about the same as last year, but more boys have entered. Rural schools, junior piano solo and piano duo have shown increases, but there have been decreases in four-hand piano duets and junior vocal ensembles. The youngest competitor (in the junior piano solo) is only 4 years old. It is strange that there are so few entries in the Sight Reading classes. The ability to read fluently at sight is sadly neglected, and I would lay a good deal of blame for this state of affairs on the Schools of Music, who allot only a small percentage of the total marks in their examinations to this most important branch of musicianship. In my opinion a false emphasis is given to prepared pieces and technical work, which, while essential to the would-be professional concert pianist is of lesser importance to the amateur. Any musician worthy of the name, whether professional or amateur, should be able to read at sight any moderately easy piece as easily as he can read the newspaper. Those who find the newspapers unreadable will presumably be unable to say so if they have got as far as the end of this column!

The Doctor Bill That Really Hurt

(CALGARY HERALD)

DOCTOR bills, especially the big, painful ones, can come at the most inopportune times. The biggest, most painful and most inopportune bill was delivered last week to Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer, R. A. Butler.

The bill, chargeable to all the taxpayers in Britain, is for 20,000 doctors in the National health service scheme and amounts to a staggering $120,000,000. As most doctor bills do, it upset the budget for the country this year and is going to create a major headache for the Conservative government.

Regardless of how much the Conservatives may dislike the health scheme, they will have to foot this particular bill. The bill is an award handed down by a high court judge in a five-year legal argument over pay for doctors under the national health program. The decision of the court was that the doctors were being underpaid. They will therefore receive increases of about $30 a week and three years' back pay of approximately $4,500.

Mr. Butler, in his tough but fair budget, had kept his hands off the national health scheme, merely announcing that it was hoped to keep its costs within a $1,200,000,000 ceiling this year. That hope has been blasted with this bill for doctors. The question which the Conservative government must now find an answer to, is whether to curtail services or to increase the contributions which the average Briton must make.

A few months ago, the government sent out a few tentative feelers towards increasing charges on some medical services. The popular resentment incurred was such that the Conservatives decided to refrain from tinkering with the health scheme at that time. Now the government has decided to impose charges on prescriptions, dental treatment and so on, despite strong Labour opposition.

In the meantime, the British people will be paying a little higher taxes this year in order to clear up this medical bill. The Labourites, who loaded this casket of bills on the backs of the British taxpayers, are going to have some fancy explanations to make as to why this burden keeps on getting heavier.

The moral of this doctor bill is that national health schemes of this type are unhealthy and costly. They offer so much "next-to-nothing" service that the public expects it for next-to-nothing. They offer so much "service" that the public expects medical men to be at their beck and call like butlers. The result is the doctors are overworked and underpaid; the scheme itself is over-extended and undernourished.

The Conservative government was courageous enough to reduce the food subsidies this year. If it wants to continue facing frankly unpleasant facts, it will cut down many more extraneous and costly services provided now in the health program. Britons will live to thank it for that.

The Queen's Champion

(EDMONTON JOUI

AN interesting item in the preparations for Queen Elizabeth's coronation is the proposed revival of the ancient office of King's—or as it now will be, Queen's—Champion, which has been dormant for more than a hundred years.

This office goes back to the Middle Ages, and used to provide the most spectacular part of the whole ceremony. After the actual coronation ritual in Westminster Abbey, a great banquet was formerly held in Westminster Hall. In the midst of the festivities, the champion would suddenly ride into the hall, dressed in complete armor and mounted on a war horse, 'the second best in the royal stables." Speaking through a herald, he would challenge to mortal combat anyone who denied the newly-crowned monarch's title to the throne. The challenge was repeated thrice, once at the door of the hall, once in the centre, and once at the foot of the royal dais, and each time he made the traditional gesture of throwing his gauntlet to the floor.

If no one answered the challenge, the custom was for the King to drink the champion's health in a silver cup, which was then presented to the knight as a gift. The rules also prescribed that if he actually had to fight anybody — and won — he was to receive the armor he wore, and the horse. Like many ceremonial offices, this one was hereditary, passing from father to son in the Dymoke family, which held the manor of Scrivelsley in return for this service.

In medieval time, when the succession to the crown was often in dispute, all this was no mere formality. However, no one ever seems to have accepted the challenge, even in times of civil war. As the throne became more stable the need for such drastic tests of public sentiment disappeared. The champion made his last appearance at the coronation of George IV; in the business-like Victorian world, such things were considered out of place.

Why the ceremony should be revived now, and how far the original procedure may be carried out, are not yet clear. There seems a distinct tendency in Britain to turn back nostalgically to colorful rituals of the past as an escape from the drab austerity of the present.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

When the morning was come, all the chief priests and elders of the people took counsel against Jesus to put him to death: and when they had bound him, they led him away, and delivered him to Pontius Pilate the governor. (Matt. 27: 1,2.)

◇ ◇ ◇

And it was the preparation of the passover, and about the sixth hour: and he saith unto the Jews, Behold your King! But they cried out, Away with him, away with him, crucify him. Pilate saith unto them, Shall I crucify your King? The chief priests answered, We have no king but Caesar.

Then delivered he him therefore unto them to be crucified. (John 19: 14-16.)

In the end of the sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulchre. And, behold, there was a great earthquake: for the anger of the Lord descended from heaven, and came in and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it . . .

And the angel answered and said unto the women, Fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified. He is not here: for he is risen, as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay. And go quickly, and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead; and behold, he goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see him: lo, I have told you.

And they departed quickly from the sepulchre with fear and great joy. (Matt. 28: 1, 2, 5-8.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Brown was talking to some friends about a fishing trip he was contemplating. "Are there many trout up there?" asked one of the friends.

"Trout? Thousands of 'em," replied the other, enthusiastically.

"Will they bite easily?"

"Will they?" said Brown. "Why, they're absolutely vicious. A man has to hide behind a tree to bait his hook!"

A woman got on a bus and took the only empty seat, next to a harmless-looking reveller. Soon she opened a map of Manchuria and began to study it.

The reveller gazed at the map for a while and finally addressed the woman in an interested tone: "Sure you're on the right bus?" he asked.

A coffee salesman was travelling through Alabama, and as he waited for a train he chatted with a lazy-looking man idling on a seat at the station. "Ever drink coffee?" he asked, with an eye to starting up interest in his line.

The man admitted he drank lots of coffee. Fifty cups a day.

Fifty cups a day! Doesn't it keep you awake?" inquired the salesman.

"Well, it helps!" answered the man.

Moths Capture Volleyball Lillico Trophy

Barney Dundas' Moths won the city volleyball championship and the Lillico Trophy for the second straight year Saturday at the Y.M.C.A. By virtue of two wins a week ago and two wins Saturday, the Moths won the best-of-seven final series, four games to one, from Ken Kingston's Spiders.

After the games the trophy was presented by James Lillico, on behalf of his father, to Mr. Dundas at a banquet which honored the first Lillico Trophy winners.

On the first trophy-winning team in 1934 were the late Charles Thorpe, Walter Kidd and Rod Grant, and Gordon Matthews, Chris. Graham, Art Rhodes, Archie Hood, Vern Foster and Albert Dryland. Foster and Dryland are still playing in the league.

Dundas' Moths won 15-9 and 15-10 Saturday in easy fashion. They were down at the beginning of both games but rallied, overtook the Spiders and romped on to the wins. Don Whittaker, Hugh Dibben and Dundas were spiking with setups from Larry Gould, Alex Sinclair and Bill Lewis. The alternate player was Vern Foster.

For the last of the final set the Spiders were without three regulars, Ken Kingston, Jerry Byrett and Jim Wharry. Steve Csumrik and Ab Dryland substituted, mixing in with regulars Howard David, G. H. Roper, Harry Yudon and Howard McLean.

Last week the Moths won 15-12 and 15-12, losing the third game 15-10.

Dave Addyman's powerful Crickets aggregation defeated Mac Campbell's Bugs two straight Saturday for the consolation honors. Leading all the way, they won 15-4 and 15-13.

Besides Addyman on the winners were Jack Richardson, Ab Dryland, Rod Reed, Gord Minty, Roy Westropp, Errol Hanbidge and Walker Jones.

Teen-Agers Meet In Mission Circle

BETHANY, April 7 (ENS). — The April meeting of the Teen Age Mission Circle was held at the home of Mrs. T. J. Jackson, with Miss Joan Bristow presiding.

Bible readings were given by June Wright, Eleanor Rowan and Janet Bigelow, all telling the Easter story and the effect that the Resurrection had on the followers of Jesus.

At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a social hour enjoyed.

Women's Guild Plans Easter Monday Play

OMEMEE, April 7 — (ENS) — Regular meeting of Christ Anglican Church Women's Guild was held Thursday at the home of Miss Hilda Clark. Mrs. H. V. Smith reported her findings on the matter of buying silverware and on motions of Miss V. Jones and Mrs. H. Hill it was decided to purchase nine dozen each of knives, forks and teaspoons and one dozen tablespoons. Mrs. S. Nurse reported on supplies bought for the church pantry. On motions of Mrs. A. Stephenson and Mrs. N. Ruttle it was agreed to engage a plasterer to plaster the rectory bathroom.

Mrs. Nurse volunteered to be responsible for the printing of tickets for the play "Henpecked Henry" which the Guild is staging Easter Monday. Mrs. H. Bent and Mrs. A. Stephenson were appointed to supervise the candy sale between acts.

It was decided to hold the May tea as usual on the first Wednesday of May, in the church basement. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Stephenson volunteered to be responsible for flowers for the church on Easter Sunday.

The next meeting of the Guild will be at the home of Mrs. Bent with Mrs. R. James and Mrs. V. Cornwall as hostesses.

At the close of the meeting lunch was served by Mrs. Laidley, Mrs. Ruttle and Mrs. Clark.

Criticize O.B.A. For Minor League Playoffs

GUELPH, April 7—(CP)—The Ontario Baseball Association was strongly criticized for its methods of conducting minor league playoffs when the Intercounty Baseball Association held a special spring meeting here Saturday.

Bill Farquharson of London presented a special report on minor league playoffs, backing a recommendation that the Association withdraw its minor league teams from post-season O.B.A. play. The recommendation was based on several grievances, including the lack of time available to minor league players after school started in September, the long trips involved and the lateness of the season.

Farquharson said he thought the I.B.A. should adopt his committee's report as it stood and move to strengthen the association which sponsors the eight-team intercounty senior baseball league which opens its season May 16.

Tim Turlow and Les McLeod, both of Preston, defended the O.B.A. and said they thought there would be reorganization of the minor league set-up in the near future when a change in the association's executive was scheduled.

It is reported the O.B.A. will adopt a tournament system for its playoffs and each division will play a round-robin elimination.

The Farquharson report was adopted, but not until after McLeod changed it to read that the intercounty teams would not participate in minor O.B.A. playoffs unless they were conducted on a tournament basis and prior to the middle of September.

The intercounty group decided to raise its entrance fee to almost double that of 1951 in all classes, a move which will bring about $500 in revenue over last year. It will also charge a certificate tax over and above the one collected by the O.B.A. This would amount to an additional 25 cents a certificate, not to exceed $5 a club.

Still dealing with its minor league clubs, the intercounty decided to run a baseball school designed to improve both coaching and playing methods. It is hoped to obtain instructors in players from the international Leafs for the first school early in May.

Marmora Legion At Vimy Service

MARMORA, April 7 (ENS). — Eight persons were received into the membership of St. Andrew's United Church on Sunday morning on transfer. Those about to join the church on profession of faith will be received into the church on April 20. The Rev. G. D. Young who officiated, preached on "The grace of the Lord's Supper." Mrs. Russell Long sang "The Palms."

In the evening Marmora Branch 237 Canadian Legion held its annual Vimy church parade to St. Andrew's. Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary also attended. Sergt. Robert Gray was in charge of the parade. Rev. G. D. Young, in completing a series of sermons "Jesus Answers Our Questions" presented the subject "The Victorious Life."

Jack Grant, soloist for the evening sang "The Stranger of Galilee."

W.A. Helps To Buy Choir Surplice Gowns

BETHANY, April 7 (ENS). — The Women's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Church met at the home of Mrs. Reginald Palmer on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Allan Gribble presiding in the absence of Mrs. J. J. Hamilton, who is ill in Civic Hospital, Peterborough.

The sum of $25 was donated towards the purchasing of new surplice gowns for the choir.

Mrs. Allan Gribble, Mrs. H. Rayson and Miss Winnifred Nesbitt were appointed as delegates to attend the annual Auxiliary meeting in Toronto.

The minutes of the previous meeting and letters of thanks from those who had received gifts during illness were read by the secretary Mrs. R. Jarvis. Miss Winnifred Nesbitt gave the financial statement.

Further work was given out to be completed for the annual bazaar and several finished articles brought in. A bale of clothing was packed for sending to outpost missions.

A letter was read from Mrs. T. S. Gault, wife of the rector, announcing her safe arrival in England and expressing good wishes to all members of the parish. Mrs. Palmer assisted by members of her group served lunch.

Providence Clips Mohawks 6-2

By The Canadian Press.

Providence Reds moved into the finals of the American Hockey League during the weekend, downing Cincinnati Mohawks 6-2 to take the best-of-five semi-final series 3-1.

The Reds now tangle with Pittsburgh Hornets, winners of the western division championship, in a best-of-five series starting at Pittsburgh Tuesday.

It was a second period scoring explosion that shot the Reds into the finals.

A first period 1-1 deadlock was blown wide open in the second 20 minutes when the Reds tallied four times with Barry Sullivan getting two goals.

Sullivan and Jack McGill each scored within 30 seconds early in the second period as the Mohawk defence collapsed. Bill Wylie got a Cincinnati goal at 8:32 but Sullivan and Ray Powell each connected and the Reds went into the final period with a three-goal lead.

Sullivan got his third goal and the sixth for the Reds at 3:44 of the third period while Morley McNeill was sitting out an interference penalty. After that the Reds went into a defensive shell to protect their lead.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Niagara Falls Collegiate seniors are Ontario interscholastic basketball champions for the second consecutive year.

But it took all their prowess to eke out a 65-63 victory Saturday night over Windsor Patterson at the University of Toronto's Hart House gym. The title wasn't decided until the last 20 seconds of play when Peter Potter sank a set-shot.

Patterson had gained the final in the afternoon by defeating Sault Ste Marie Collegiate 99-64 while Niagara Falls romped to a 78-57 win over Ottawa Technical School.

Niagara Falls led all the way in taking their second title but a strong Windsor comeback gave them a scare. The winners held a 19-12 lead at the end of the first quarter, a 36-31 edge at the half and a 55-47 margin at the three-quarter mark. Windsor tied it up with less than a minute to play.

Good Old Days

CARLSHALTON, England—(CP)—While felling a hollow tree in this Surrey district J. J. Goodenough found an undamaged batch of butcher's bills dating back to 1757. Typical sales included a 12-pound leg of mutton for four shillings eightpence, and a calf's head for 10 pence.

The third no-hitter of the 1952 Grapefruit Circuit at the second combined one came Sunday at Chattanooga when Warren Spahn and Ernie Johnson combined to hurl Boston Braves to a 1-0 victory over Brooklyn Dodgers. A home run by Willard Marshall decided the issue. Spahn went seven innings, striking out three and walking one. Johnson fanned two and had little difficulty finishing up.

New York Yankees may have a hard time getting off to the first-place position most of the experts predict for them in 1952. They lost first baseman Joe Collins Saturday when he suffered a sprained ankle sliding home in a game with Boston Braves at St. Petersburg, Fla. He will be out for at least two weeks. Earlier, it was announced second baseman Gerry Coleman is being called back to the Marines.

Guelph Shades Canadiens 4-3 In First Game

MONTREAL, April 7—(CP)—First blood in the Eastern Canada junior hockey finals belongs to Guelph Biltmores, the sharp-shooting Ontario champions who turned back Montreal Canadiens 4-3 Sunday in the opening game of the best-of-seven series.

Biltmores spotted Canadiens' two first-period goals before netting a pair of their own in each of the second and third frames to win before a crowd of 10,133.

The second game will be played here Wednesday night, with the third game at Guelph on Friday and the fourth at Toronto next Sunday.

Ron Stewart, a burly defenceman who got to Guelph in a roundabout way through Toronto Marlboros and Barrie Flyers, was the big gun.

He fired the tying goal on a blazing 40-foot shot and staged a standout performance on his own blueline. Aldo Guidolin, Dean Prentice and rugged Lou Fontinato were the other goal-getters for Guelph.

Don Marshall and Connie Broden tallied for Canadiens in the first period and Dave McCready got their third goal.

Bruising Period

The teams tore into each other in a bruising first period that saw 10 penalties handed out. The boys tamed down somewhat for the second period.

The Biltmores, who set an Ontario Hockey Association record with 341 goals in 45 games, started to roll in the second period when they tied the score. Then they connected for a couple of soft goals which the usually dependable Charlie Hodge muffed in the third period.

The Habitants caught fire a little too late. They scored their third goal with two minutes to go and put on an all-out attack in the game's dying minutes but the Biltmores held them out and it was a case of time running out on the Canadiens.

Village Puck Fans Root For Marmora

MARMORA, April 7 (ENS). — No hockey team ever took a cup final more seriously than the Marmora Millionaires after the Trent Valley League trophy. On Monday night there will be a great exodus of villagers to Belleville to witness the encounter with Trenton Flyers that winds up the season. The picture theatre will not open its doors that evening and the two drug stores have indicated they will close. Reports of Friday night's encounter omitted to state that three of the Millionaires were injured in the third period. Capt. Stubby Trumble received a cut over the right eye which caused much bleeding and he did not report to the dressing room until four minutes later. Asked by Clinton Nickle (who follows the team to render first aid when necessary) why he did not report to him earlier, he said: "The pressure on the team was too strong for the moment." The hefty Glen Lavender received a knockout and had to be carried off the ice but returned to play seven minutes later. Bert Gray received a blow in the mouth with a hockey stick but stayed in the game. That is the spirit of the whole team and it is occasioning a large sale of advance tickets in Marmora.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Who knows, there might be a new setup in the Girls' Softball League this season. Cobourg and Belleville belles are seeking entry and likely the Lindsay lasses will be back. Along with three or five local teams. It would make a nice six-team or eight-team circuit if it can be worked out. Matter of travelling expenses, of course, but going around by car doesn't run into too much, and the players get a bang out of the odd trip through the schedule. Anyway, annual open meeting of the loop is Thursday eve at 7.30 in the Y.M. President Bill Flint advises that reports will be presented, officers elected and plans made. Last year's winners were: Westclox seniors, Marines intermediates, and Woollens juniors. Cobourg went into intermediate "AA" playdowns and took Ontario honors.

It's hockey night once more at Civic Arena—and this could be the last time we make such a statement till next November. Yes, Stouffville Clippers and the Petes clash at 8.30 this e'en in the arena, and you'd better make it a bit before half after eight, if you want a rush seat. This sizzling senior "B" playoff series has 'em all talking as the Petes fight a hard uphill battle to keep in the race and stave off sudden elimination. Their 7-6 win in the dying seconds of last Thursday's tilt here was a honey of purest clover, and more than 2,000 paid customers left the arena happily exhausted. You see fans at these provincial playoffs you never see all through group play. They wait for the best, and this is it.

Ixnay on Petes' Goal

Must have been more than 200 from here at Stouffville Saturday and they were treated to another jim-dandy ere Clippers squeezed out a 4-3 win. Shouldn't have been worse than a 4-4 tie, though, as Peters' goal was called back for offside and it certainly looked okay to us. Petes protested bitterly and fans from here threw stuff on the ice, but the refs had the final say. They weren't giving the visitors any break at all—even ejecting Coach Jim Ellis for calling Allen "stupid". Jim went off, changed his hat and topcoat for a windbreaker and cap, and returned to park beside his bench and direct the club. The timer also clipped four seconds off the game with Harding out and the Petes swarming hotly around the Stouffville net. It was grim.

* * * * * *

Well, it's a hot series between two well-matched and classy senior "B" squads. The Petes are down 3-1 on games and must win tonight or hang 'em up. But they've outplayed Clippers in the last two tilts and certainly should be getting some breaks soon. They ought to take this one tonight and get back in the hunt—in fact, they simply have to do so, or else. They turned in a terrific effort Saturday and 'twas a grand game. Dugan was in on two to lead Petes at bat, and Jake Wade again came up with a solid all-around performance. Harding was good, too, in the net. They all shot the works and deserved the verdict. But Clippers took it, alas. So, it's do or die tonight here.

* * * * * *

Canadiens Edge Bruins

Canadiens are slight favorites now to rub out Boston Bruins as the deciding game of their Stanley Cup semi-finals is on Montreal ice tomorrow. That was a great scrap last eve in Boston, going into the second overtime period ere Canadiens gained a 3-2 nod to even the series. There have been longer cup games in hockey's history but none fought any harder as both clubs battled every inch of the way with so much at stake. Bruins might yet come back to take it Tuesday, but which ever team does is going to be pretty tired going into the finals against the powerful Detroit Red Wings.

* * * * * *

Indications are that the C.O.B.L. will operate in two sections this season. Jack Devine writes from Belleville that Trenton Flyers are interested in fielding a ball team in a setup with Peterborough, Belleville, Kingston and possibly Batawa. Now, the three U.S.A. teams in the northern part of New York State hald a huddle early this week to decide whether or not to come into an international senior amateur circuit, so more should be known of this aspect shortly. But the clubs concerned should know what's what right soon so they can make plans accordingly, as play will start in another six weeks or so. Petes are anxious to hold a re-organization meeting as soon as something definite is known on the league setup.

Down Sports' Rialto

Annual meeting of the Civic Softball League is at eight tonight in the Y.M.C.A. GETS SHUT-OUT—Boston Bruins' goalie Sugar Jim Henry stops a hard shot from Montreal Canadiens' defenceman Tom Johnson during the fifth game in Montreal of the Stanley Cup best-of-seven semi-final series. Henry got a 1-0 shut-out and Boston took a 3-2 edge in the series. Behind Henry is team-mate Milt Schmidt. Sunday night Montreal tied the series in the second period of overtime.

Clippers Edge Petes By 4-3 In a Redhot Playoff To Take 3-1 Lead On Series

A one-goal edge in the first frame paid off for the Clippers in Stouffville last night as they held the Petes on even terms in the final two periods to eke out a 4-3 win before 2,000 fans. It gave the Toronto team a 3-1 margin on games in their best-of-seven O.H.A. senior "B" provincial playoff series. The fifth game is here tonight. It was 3-2 for Stouffville in the first, they got the lone tally of the middle heat, and the Petes counted once in the third, though the Ellis squad had a margin on play in the last two stanzas. Some 200 Peterborough fans whooped it up in another redhot tilt, each side drawing four penalties.

The Petes felt that they got a bad deal on several occasions from Referees Ken Holmshaw and Pearcey Allen. The officials called back one Peterborough marker, claiming an offside, and the Petes protested this bitterly—visiting fans throwing programs and a few bottles on the ice in anger over the ruling. Another time play was halted to penalize a Clipper when Jake Wade had possession in a good position to score. The losers argued hotly over this one, too. Again one ref waved off an accidental trip against Bill Stewart but the other one skated across the ice and penalized him. To cap it all, Coach Jim Ellis was ejected from the bench for criticizing Allen. Jim changed attire and returned to sit next to the box and direct his side.

Stouffville scorers were Nick Bangay, Hal Gibson, George Stark and Morley Petch. Bud Watson and Frank Stevenson aided on a pair, as Gibson, Nick Bangay and Jack Rumney were in on one each. Arn Dugan had a goal and assist for the Petes, Curly Mason and Gus Leonard each scoring once, as Jake Wade, George Steele and Red Peters helped each on one. Wade turned in another stellar defence game and both goalies shone. Stunden was almost unbeatable as the Petes poured in to pepper him hard in the final two frames. Curly Mason returned to action and went well for the visitors.

Even On Play

Play was speedy, clean and quite even in the lively first period, and both goalies were tested often. Dugan got credit for the first marker early as he was banging away on an in-close scramble when a Stouffville defender pulled the puck into his own net. Dugan later drew a hooking penalty but it did no damage. Gibson and Bud Watson came close as Clippers drove and then Nick Bangay hit the cage with a hot angle drive inside from Bud Watson after a corner faceoff. West nearly notched one as the Petes piled back, and Gus Leonard slapped home a passout on a fine play built up by Jake Wade and Steele, Jake carrying it up. Clippers evened it when Petch cuffed one in from the crease edge after Stevenson circled the net with Gibson's pass to slip it out in front. A bit later, Stark put them in front from Bud Watson and Nick Bangay in close with Harding down after one fine save.

A Mason-Dugan thrust nearly paid off to open the second and then Garvey and Floyd had a good try. But Clippers got the lone goal of the period on Gibson's backhander inside defence on a play from Rumney and Stevenson as the Petes' defence proved slow in clearing. Fryia was gated for interference but the Petes held them off in his absence. Gus Leonard and Steele were robbed before Stewart drew a cheap tripping penalty. Garvey came close after a faceoff and, with Stewart back, the Petes pressed in hard. Peters scored on a bouncer from the blue line, partly screened, but after the goal was scored the whistle went and it was ruled offside, Holmshaw claiming West was inside at the time—though he was well out.

Trouble Brews

Players argued hotly and the fans began to toss things. Play was held up while the ice was cleaned and police removed two fans for throwing a bottle. Coach Jim Ellis was then ordered from the Petes' bench while Dugan drew a boarding penalty at that time. With order finally restored, Dugan returned and Stewart pulled a good rush. Stevenson went over for interference and the Petes argued that Wade might have scored in close but for the whistle sounding too soon on the play. The Petes pressed hotly but couldn't beat Stunden the rest of the hot chukker.

With Ellis back by the box in disguise, the Petes tore in furiously to open the third, and, as Nick Bangay went over for tripping, they blazed hot rubber at Stunden; who was bouncing all over the end of the rink. Clippers kept changing fast and a rush by Gus Leonard and Steele nearly counted. Bangay was back in the rugged stepping when Rose got it for tripping but again the Petes couldn't penetrate the Stunden armor. After Rose returned, Gibson was waved away for elbowing and this time the Petes got a goal. Mason slammed it home in close from Dugan and Peters on a ganging-up play. Gibson got back and the Petes poured in hard to hem Clippers in and pepper the goalie. Stouffville, plenty tired, began icing the puck to relieve pressure. With 30 seconds left, Harding was pulled and the Petes kept whamming away but couldn't count. The timer rang the gong four seconds too soon, and got away with it. Teams:

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Peters and Wade; centre, G. Leonard; wings, Steele and West; alternates, Jopling, E. Leonard, Dugan, Stewart, Mason, Garvey, Floyd and Fryia.

Clippers: Goal, Stunden; defence, Baker and Rose; centre, B. Watson; wings, Stark and N. Bangay; alternates, Gibson, J. Watson, B. Bangay, Rumney, Bell, Stevenson, Petch and Machin.

Referees, K. Holmshaw and P. Allen.

BACK IN ACTION — Curly Mason returned to action after a foot injury layoff to score one of the Petes' goals in Stouffville on Saturday, but the Ellis crew dropped a 4-3 decision and must win here tonight or drop out for this season.

Local Curlers Wind Up Lengthy Season

After about five months of continuous curling, the rink was closed Saturday night for the 1951-52 season and nowt he next and final item on the program is the big annual banquet at the Empress Hotel tonight. The party is scheduled to start at 5:30 o'clock. No doubt there will be a large crowd at this banquet and all will be glad to hear about the successful season, etc. There is always one feature about these banquets that appeals and that is the presentation of prizes—this is an important part of the program.

Today we have the complete list of the scheduled winners (not including open bonspiels.)

May we add our congratulations to each and all.

Charltons Top Titular Play In Badminton

Club finals of the Peterborough Badminton Club wound up the season Saturday night as championships were decided for the men's, women's singles and doubles and the mixed doubles play. Most of the events were evenly contested, providing an excellent brand of badminton for the fairly large spectator crowd.

In only one championship, the men's singles, did the 1951 title holder retain honors. Ralph Charlton repeated his last year's performance with ease as he erased Willard Elmsley in two straight games, 15-3 and 15-5. Charlton was playing his best badminton this season.

In almost as easy fashion Charlton teamed with Mrs. Charlton to win the mixed doubles championship. With two straight wins again, 15-7 and 15-5, the Charltons tumbled Marg and Bob Baker, last year champions.

Dominate Play

The Charltons continued to dominate title play when Mrs. M. Charlton swept the women's single honors from Mrs. Bob Baker in a best of three series. Mrs. Baker won the first game 12-10 but fell in two close-fought games, 11-8 and 11-7.

Last year's men's doubles champions, Reuben McDonald and Vince Douoghue were not hitting their usual stride in that event Saturday night. Therefore they lost out to Ed Johnston and Bob Baker in three games, the champions winning 15-6 and 15-9, and losing 15-13.

Audrey Donoghue and Marg Baker, after a year apart in the women's doubles, teamed up again Saturday night and outmatched their competition. They grabbed the championship with two wins, 15-5 and 18-15, over Verna Rose and Mrs. M. Charlton.

The consolations this year were enthusiastically played and indicated that the club will be powerful in the future with many promising players on the way up.

In the singles play, Rose Fletcher defeated Jean Drummond 11-0 and 11-1 while Sandy Fleming won two of three over Leon Patton.

The consolation doubles fell to Bob Carley and Fleming with 15-12 and 15-6 wins over S. Foster and Marc Vermette. In the women's doubles Joan Smedmore and Rose Fletcher teamed to defeat Eva Copp and Marg Lundy 18-3 and 15-6.

M. McKee and R. Lindberg won the mixed consolation in two of three games from Rose and John Fletcher.

Summary:

Club Championships

Women's Singles — Maurice Charlton defeated Marg Baker, 10-12, 11-8, 11-7.

Men's Singles—Ralph Charlton defeated Willard Elmsley, 15-3, 15-5.

Women's Doubles — Audrey Donoghue and Marg Baker defeated Verna Rose and Maurice Charlton, 15-5, 18-15.

Men's Doubles — Ed Johnston and Bob Baker defeated Reuben McDonald and Vince Donoghue, 6-15, 15-13, and 9-15.

Mixed Doubles—Maurice and Ralph Charlton defeated Marg and Bob Baker, 15-7 and 15-5.

Dr. R. G. Martin presented the prizes after the games and the general meeting was held with the election of officers for next year. Those elected were R. Bakr, E. Johnston, S. Fleming, R. Stuart, V. O'Donoghue, Mrs. W. Jones and Marg Lundy.

Films Dangerous

LOS ANGELES, April 5 (AP)—Movie and television scenes showing how to take narcotics are promoting addiction among children, a Federal Narcotics Bureau official told the California Juvenile Officers' Association Friday. "Such films arouse the curiosity of youngsters and lead them to try the drugs themselves as an experiment," said Ernest M. Gentry of San Francisco.

One-Game Lead

GANANOQUE, April 7 (CP). — Gananoque Gans took a one-game lead in their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate A semi-finals here Saturday night when they defeated Collingwood Shipbuilders 6-1. The series opener was a 4-4 overtime tie.

Hermann Replaces Layton As Lee's Partner

HANS HERMANN

SKY-HI LEE

Hateful Hans Hermann, the huge strutting German grappler replaces Lord Athol Layton as teammate with Hi Lee in the main tag team mat bout here Tuesday night. Layton was injured when hit by a chair in the mob scene that followed last week's sizzling main bout at the Brock.

Police and wrestlers had quite a time breaking up the riot when Layton and Lee got an unfair decision over Lu Kimm and Zorra. The latter two demanded a return match and will meet Hi Lee and Hermann, but with a different referee in charge.

It should be another redhot go before the biggest crowd of the season.

More top talent will be on the card when headliner Bobo Brazil tangles with speedy Warren Bockwinkle in the semi-final.

A newcomer to Peterborough, New Mexico's starry Charro Aztec, takes on rough Stan Mayslack in the preliminary bout of one of the best wrestling cards ever served up in the Brock Arena.

Football's First Draft Rule Passed, Applied By Big Four

OTTAWA, April 7 (CP). —Canadian football's first draft rule was set up and applied by a closed meeting of representatives of the Big Four Saturday.

They didn't announce following the meetings the selections made but it was learned later that 17 college stars were drafted, five by Montreal and four each by Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa.

Under the draft rule, each club takes a turn at naming a player whose services it will seek for the coming season. Other clubs agree not to approach that player. The choices begin with the last-place club and proceed to the first-place team of the previous season.

Montreal's tail-end Alouettes, represented by manager Lew Hayman and coach Doug (Pea Head) Walker, picked Harry Lampman of Queen's University outside. Als other choices all were from McGill University. They were halfbacks Ken Wagner and Gene Robillard, and linemen Dawson Tilley and Bob MacLellan.

Eye On Linemen

Toronto Argonaut choices leaned heavily to linemen, including University of Toronto's middle Marsh Hames, snap Al Dancy and outside Jack Roberts. Their only backfield choice was Queen's halfback Ross McKelvey.

Hamilton Tiger Cats picked the Ontario Rugby Football Union's leading pointgetter among its draftees—half Mel Hawkridge of McMaster University. They also named snap Bill Berezowski of McMaster, and two University of Western Ontario players, lineman Bob McMonagle and backfielder Gerry Fitzgerald.

Ottawa Rough Riders named three Varsity players and one from McMaster. Two were backfielders—half Bob Garside and quarterback Alex Lawson, both of Varsity—and middle Walt Bashak of McMaster and Al Brown of Varsity.

Costly Lesson

TIMMINS, Ont.—(CP)— Young boys making their first attempts to smoke cigarets were blamed for a blaze that gutted a rear porch here, causing damages of $300. The porch was in flames when firemen arrived.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

This is the third and last of a series dealing with unusual Stanley Cup incidents.

One of the boasts concerning play for Canada's premier hockey prize, the Stanley Cup, is that only nature, or death, ever halted the play. This, like many other claims made in sport, is not correct.

Nature halted the play in the nineties, when for two years there was no ice available at the finish of the season. Death abruptly stepped into the Cup picture in 1919, when the Montreal Canadiens, champions of the east, invaded Seattle to play the Metropolitans for the Cup. Five games had been played, each team having won two, with one tied, when the black 'flu, which scourged the continent and left hundreds of dead in its wake, hit both clubs. Nearly every player was stricken, one died, Joe Hall succumbing, and that series never was completed.

But back in the misty past, in 1899 to be exact, there was an unfinished series, and viewed in retrospect, this fiasco has its humorous overtones, though doubtless there was nothing funny about it at the time.

Champions of the east were the Montreal Victorias, representing one of the greatest truly-amateur clubs in Canadian history, an organization which disbanded in the thirties, when the press of professionalism became too great. The club refused to sacrifice its standards, and closed down completely. Champions of the west were Winnipeg Victorias, a great team, and also completely amateur.

These two Victorias teams had fought out a grim battle in 1896, each winning a series. In 1897, the Montreal Victorias again won the Cup, defeating Ottawa, there were no Cup matches in 1898, but in 1899 the all-Victorias rivalry flared again, as the two teams met on Montreal ice, best two out of three games.

The Montreal team won the first, 2-1, in a rugged contest. The second was tied at 3-all, when the series suddenly collapsed.

Tony Gingras, Winnipeg star, was crashed across the knee by a Montreal player, and limped off the ice. No replacement was allowed in those hardy days, unless it was proven that an injured player was unable to continue. The argument concerning Gingras' fitness to play raged hot and heavy. The debate grew stormy, and the referee, Jack Findlay, came in for such sharp criticism that he doffed his skates, left the building, and went home.

So when the teams finally agreed to play, there was no referee. A rink executive hastily summoned horse and sleigh, drove to the referee's home, found him in bed, urged him to return and carry on, and the official consented. He donned his skates and sweater. But the walls were thin in the building. He was in between the two teams, and heard both denouncing him in terms of a torrid nature. So he tramped out of the room, jumped on the ice, skated right out of the rink. And this time, he refused to return.

So the game was called off, for lack of a referee, and then the entire series was abandoned, and the Winnipeg team returned home.

But the western club wasn't done as Cup contenders. The great Montreal Shamrock team ousted Montreal Victorias as Cup champions, and in 1900 downed Winnipeg Victorias. But the battling westerners won the trophy in 1901 and 1902 in eastern invasions, then vanished, as a team, from the Cup picture.

Your comments and suggestions for this column will be welcomed by Elmer Ferguson, c/o Calvert House, 431 Yonge St., Toronto.

VICTORY ENGINEERS, Sugar Jim Henry, left and Jackie McIntyre, exchange admiring glances in the Boston dressing room after Bruins' 1-0 victory over Canadiens. Sugar Jim was masterful to bang his collar, McIntyre bagged the game's lone tally. However Canadiens tied it up last night and the final game will be Tuesday at Montreal.

Canadiens Trip Bruins 3-2 To Tie Up Series, Force Another Montreal Tilt

BOSTON, April 7. (AP)—Tied up again at three games all, Montreal Canadiens and Boston Bruins head back today to the Canadian metropolis for Tuesday's seventh and final game. The winner will qualify for the Stanley Cup finals against the National Hockey League's champion Detroit Red Wings. It took Canadiens 89 minutes and 49 seconds of rugged play Sunday night to keep this semi-final series alive by downing Bruins 3-2. The Bruins, who had won three straight games, needed one more triumph to qualify for the final round for the first time since 1946.

During the eighth minute of the second overtime session, Rookie Centre Paul Masnick, called up from the Cincinnati American Hockey League farm club for the occasion, slapped a six-foot angle shot after taking the rebound of a 30-foot shot defenceman Doug Harvey bounced off Boston Goalie Jim Henry's pads.

Henry played the last 40 minutes or so under a terrific handicap. Early in the third period his nose was fractured by a puck Harvey fired from almost point-blank range.

Rookie Scores

At the time, the Bruins had a 2-1 lead. Montreal's opener came when rookie Eddie Mazur caged Billy Reay's rebound during the first minute of the second session.

After Henry was injured, the game was halted for 17 minutes. He did not see the equalizing goal Maurice (Rocket) Richard blasted in from 30 feet out about three minutes after play was resumed.

Richard, held under a tight rein by the Bruins during most of the previous five games, managed to break clear after hooking a loose puck. Then he turned on one of his famous scoring drives.

The Boston scorers were the veteran Milt Schmidt and Dave Creighton.

Masnick confessed to his jubilant teammates that he had hesitated before letting go with his game-winning shot.

"When I got my stick on Harvey's rebound, I thought the angle was much too sharp. I wanted to get a bit closer to the Boston net but I knew I didn't have time so I just let go. I wanted to jump over the sideboard when it went in."

Montreal's casualty was coach Dick Irvin who was cut on the forehead by a puck Milt Schmidt slapped against the boards in front of the Montreal Bench. He directed the game for the rest of the session and later five stitches were taken to close the gash over the bridge of his nose.

Snead Captures Tournament On Poor Score

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 7 (AP)—It could be that Snead didn't win the 1952 Masters golf tournament but that four others lost it.

That's what a lot of folks were saying as they left the Augusta national course late Sunday after Snead hung up a mediocre 286 and not another golfer could get close to it.

His final round was a paid 72—modest for such a man as Snead.

That 286 was the worst four rounds of victorious golf ever shot in a Masters', but still it was good enough to give the mountaineer from Virginia a four-stroke margin over Jack Burke, Jr.

Burke played finest golf of the wintry, windy day in shooting 290.

Vancouver's Stan Leonard missed with a total of 305. He was 17 strokes over par with rounds of 75,76, 75, 79.

Behind Burke came Jim Ferrier, Tommy Bolt and Al Besselink with 291 and then Lloyd Mangrum with 292.

Before the final round opened five men had chances to win—Snead, Ben Hogan, Besselink, Bolt and Middlecoff. With a chance at one of golf's greatest titles the five went out to make their bid.

Blew Chances

Tommy Bolt was first up among those ranking the lowest but he blew his chances completely. The man called "Thunder" because of a roaring temper dropped into a tie for third with an inglorious 74 for a 921 total.

Then Cary Middlecoff went out and down went his challenge on a miserable (for a golfer like Middlecoff) 78.

Al Besselink had a chance to win, especially when Snead faltered on the front nine. But the big, confident kid faltered also. His final 74 gave him a 291.

Finally, there was Ben Hogan, the guy who just doesn't blow up. But Sunday Ben blew as he hasn't blown in years—a 79 for a 293 and a tie with three others for seventh.

During their careers Hogan almost every time has either whipped Snead or finished higher creating over Snead what is known as "Hogan's Hex".

The hex is supposed to dictate that Snead can't win a major tournament with Hogan in the field.

Sunday's victory in the masters before a crowd of between 15,000 and 20,000 represents only the second time Snead has won with Hogan in the field in a major or unusually large tournament in over two years.

Snead had $4,000 prize money today to mediate over. Every professional in the tournament got at least $200 when the successful meet was concluded.

Believe Cards May Steal League Pennant

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, April 7—(AP)—The defending champion New York Giants and the powerful Brooklyn Dodgers, in line with most of the experts, will have eyes only for each other. That might prove to be the undoing for both clubs.

For while the Giants and Dodgers are battling each other, it is not at all unlikely that Eddie Stanky, freshman St. Louis manager, could steer his dark horse Cardinals right into the World Series.

That, at least, is what the writer predicts will happen. So, the ego inflated because of having been fortunate ti pick both pennant winners in 1951, as well as six of the last seven National League victors (Dodgers finished second in '50) the choice here is the Cards who finished third last year, 15½ games behind the Giants.

The Giants boast the best pitching staff in the League but the loss of Monte Irvin, who fractured his ankle last week, was a crippling blow to their chances to repeat. Also, they are certain to miss Stanky, who contributed so much to their come-from-behind pennant conquest last year. They also face Mays, the fine young centrefield-a difficult job replacing Willie whose call to service is imminent.

Crippling Loss

The loss of ace righthander Don Newcome has hurt the Dodgers where they were the weakest last year—in the pitching department. Although there have been flowing reports on the progress of Clem Labine, Ben Wade and John Rutherford, it is mostly unlikely that any of tnarethcoi any of the trio can make up the 29 victories Newcombe took with him to the Army.

The writer picks the order of finish this way:

1, St. Louis; 2, Brooklyn; 3, Philadelphia; 4, New York; 5, Boston; 6, Cincinnati; 7, Pittsburgh; 8, Chicago.

The Redbirds, who haven't won in six years, appear ready to challenge again. If there is a pennant left in the trusty old combination of Stan Musial, Enos Slaughter, Red Schoendienst and Harry Brecheen, this should be the year to bring it off.

The presence of Stanky, both as a player and manager, is certain to aid the Card cause. He has brought to the Cards the same inspiring leadership, flaming spirit and contagious hustle that has played such a vital role in bringing pennants to three clubs within a space of five years.

The Phillies could create a heap of trouble with Curt Simmons' return from the army. They have one of the best pitchers in baseball in Robin Roberts (21-15) and a good looking freshman hurler in Steve Ridzik. Then there are Bubba Church, Russ Meyer and Howie Fox.

The Braves are going in for the youth movement. They've come up with some fine looking kids but they still need a good shortstop. A hard-hitting outfield headed by Sid Gordon plus Warren Spahn, the league's ace lefthander, makes the Braves a constant threat.

Find Two Major Obstacles In Egypt Taking a Vote

CAIRO, April 7 —(Reuters)—Illiteracy and the lack of voting rights for women are two major obstacles Egyptians will face when they elect a new parliament May 18.

About 4,500,000 men of 21 years of age or over are entitled to vote, but only some 750,000 are literate. Many persons who can read and write cannot vote because they are women.

Egypt is considering the use of party signs on cards—like India did in her recent election—so that the voter can place a mark opposite the party candidate he supports.

The problem of making sure each voter goes to the polls only once is more difficult. The story is told how during one general election, Ahmed, a servant, failed to turn up for work.

When he appeared the next day, his master asked him to explain his absence.

"I started for work but eight different policemen made me go and vote," Ahmed said.

To prevent any one voting more than once—frequently in the name of someone who is dead—one suggestion is that on leaving the polling booth, the voter have his left hand marked with indelible ink.

The majority of the voters are Fellaheen (peasants).

Varied Transport

Many travel part of the way to polls by boat, for the densely-populated area of Egypt is cut by the river Nile and criss-crossed by irrigation canals.

Some travel by automobile and some by gharrys (horse-drawn carriages). Those who have to travel by rail are given free tickets. Some arrive at the polling stations on horses and donkeys while others come in from the desert areas on camels.

The election will provide Egypt's feminists with another opportunity to press their claims for equal rights. Leader of the feminist movement is Doria Shafik, editor of several women's magazines.

Mrs. Shafik, mother of two children, opposes the system which deprives educated women of the right to vote while the most ignorant male peasant has a say in an election.

The new election will be the third in slightly more than seven years. One held in January, 1945, resulted in a coalition government, while the second in January, 1950, swept the Wafd party, headed by veteran statesman Mustapha Nahas Pasha, to power.

Weeds Costly

TORONTO, April 7 (CP)—Weeds cost Ontario farmers an estimated $40,000,000 last year, experts of the crops branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture said Sunday. A. H. Martin, director of the branch, estimated the loss comes to about $4.65 for every acre tillable land in the province.

VOL. CIV. No. 83 — MONDAY, APRIL 7, 1952

MAIN STREET TOPICS

CANTATA AT ST. JOHN'S

"The Passion of Our Lord According to St. Mark" was sung by the choir of St. John's Anglican Church Sunday evening.

NO WHEAT LOSS

Fall wheat and pastures in sev- sections of Otonabee are re- have come through the winter in healthy condition.

TRENTON RATE UP.

Trenton's tax rate was expected to take a 12 to 15-mill jump from its 50-mill rate of last year. Education costs play a large part in the expected increase.

PALM BLESSED

The customary distribution of palm, commemorating the entry of Jesus Christ into Jerusalem, was a Sunday feature at the Roman Catholic churches of the city Sunday.

WANT ROAD EXTENDED

Hastings County Council is asking the Ontario Department of Highways to extend No. 14 Highway from Marmora to Coe Hill to open up tourist attractions in that section.

EASTER WEEK SERMONS

A course of devotional addresses entitled "The Enemies of the Cross" will be given at St. John's Church Monday to Thursday, inclusive, at 8 p.m. by the Rev. J. A. Purser.

CHILDREN START FIRE.

Some children playing with matches started some papers smouldering Saturday afternoon by the side of the home of William C. Grant, 776 St. Mary's St. Mrs. Grant noticed the smell of smoke and phoned firemen to make sure the embers were all out. When the firemen got there the flames were out. There was no damage to the house

INQUIRY CARDS

Approximately 2,200 inquiry cards for tourist accommodation in the Kawarthas were filled out and brought back from the 10-day Cleveland Sportsman's Show ending Sunday night. Assistant manager of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, Don Kingdon said today that about 15,000 Kawartha folders were given out during the show.

Started In Chute

Fire Chief George Smith said today he is satisfied that the fire that destroyed part of the Braund block on Charlotte St., on Thursday night, started in or around the wooden garbage chute at the rear of the Hollywood Cafe. Inspector Ray Simmons of the Fire Marshal's Department is still investigating how the fire got started.

Canal Bridge Urged By County And Commission

Another move has been started to have the Canal Bridge spanning the Trent Canal on the Warsaw Road, replaced with a larger and sturdier bridge. The Warsaw Road is the continuation of Parkhill Road.

The County Council have joined forces with the Suburban Area Roads Commission in asking Transport Minister Chevrier to replace the present swing-bridge. A similar request was made a couple of years ago but nothing came of it.

"Heavy traffic can no longer use it," said J. A. Middleton of the Sudburban Area Roads Commission. "The bridge is only 14 feet wide and the approach is on a steep hill. At present the bridge is a traffic bottleneck."

Another objection is that the bridge has a weight-load limit of eight tons. Many large trucks now weigh four tons even when empty; as a result, the legal limit is continually being broken.

Heavy county equipment—such as snowplows and gravel crushers —weigh more than the limit and have to detour by a safer route.

The present bridge is of concrete and steel construction and is more than 50 years old. The road surface is wooden planks with an asphalt covering.

Not In Estimates

The Department of Transport pays for the upkeep of the bridge which swings open to let water traffic through the Trent waterway. Thomas Ryan of the Trent Canal office here said they have done some preliminary surveying of the project but he doesn't think that anything will be done this year. The department hasn't included anything in its estimates for such a job.

Because of the narrowness of the bridge two cars have difficulty passing and two-way traffic is impossible if a large truck approaches. Members of the Suburban Commission point out that the Warsaw Road now has heavy traffic at peak periods and the narrow bridge is a bottleneck.

JAY-WALKING PEDESTRIANS wander through traffic but safety conscious school children in Ottawa wait until these two boys of the school safety patrol stop traffic so they can cross safely. Fifteen hundred school children cross this intersection at Wellington St., and Melrose Ave., in the heart of Canada's capital four times daily. Constable Don Mackay (left) recently appointed to set up the scheme here will be starting a training program in city schools to get the scheme in operation as soon as possible.

Constable Hopes To Start Safety Program Immediately

After a week in Ottawa, Constable Donald Mackay was so impressed with the safety patrols operated by Ottawa school children that he returned Sunday night full of enthusiasm and eager to begin his new job of organizing the system here. "It's terrific," was Constable Mackay's first comment on the scheme and he says he is going to get started just as soon as he can make the necessary arrangements with school authorities.

Today, Constable Mackay is meeting with K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, and he hopes to get started immediatey.

When Constable Mackay was appointed by the Police Commission to set up the scheme here, it was announced that an instruction program would begin in schools right after the Easter holidays. The present guards are to be maintained until school ends in June, and in September the commission expects to introduce the Ottawa method of school safety patrols operated by the children themselves.

Too Soon

Constable Mackay says that the advice he obtained in Ottawa from school and police authorities is that "this would be rushing it and it won't be completely successful if it is started that soon, throughout the city."

Ottawa is extremely proud of the system and its record of not having had any children injured since the scheme was started in 1946. Now, in 14 other cities in the province, older school children are on safety patrol duty seeing that their classmates get across the street, to and from school safely.

After a thorough course of safety instruction, teams of safety patrols are appointed from grades 6 and 7. Two of the boys or girls (one on each side of the street) are stationed at intersections where the children have to cross.

Corporal Fern Groleau and Constable Don Cole are in charge of the safety scheme which relieved 30 Ottawa policemen of traffic duty at school crossings.

To get the system in operation here, Constable Mackay says that an intensive education program will have to be put into effect. First, every pupil has to be trained, and this can only be achieved, he is convinced, by instructing every class in all schools in common safety, to make them safety-conscious, and by impressing them with the importance of being careful in crossing the street and obeying the pupils selected for the safety patrols.

Then, the pupils selected by their teachers as guards for the safety patrols must be given further instruction. After one school has been thoroughy trained, then the process is repeated at another school, until all public and separate schools in the city can dispense with the present guard system and the children will be able to take over.

A secondary aspect of the system is the education of the public so that motorists will stop when one of the safety monitors raises his sign to let a group of children across.

In Ottawa, this system has been backed up by the courts. One motorist who failed to obey the stop sign was brought into court, fined $80 and his licence was suspended for three months.

In Ottawa several theatres have recognized what the children are doing by giving free theatre passes. The Ottawa Transportation Commission honors identification cards issued to members of the safety patrol by giving them free transportation and Constable Mackay hopes that some similar recognition will be given the children here.

Joseph Rogow President B'nai B'rith

New officers of Peterborough B'nai B'rith Lodge were installed Sunday by Sidney Rakita, representative of the Supreme Lodge of Washington, D. C.

In his address, Mr. Rakita told of the help he received from the lodge during his youth, and during his years in university and in hospital after the Second World War.

Mr. Rakita said that after he was shot down in the war, he was sent to the United States, where he spent two-and-a-half years in hospital. While there, he said, a member of the lodge visited him every day.

Gifts were presented at the meeting to outgoing president Harry Silver, and to Irving Moldaver, secretary of the lodge for the past five years. Telegrams of congratulations were received.

New officers are: president, Joseph Rogow; vice-president, Irvin Cipin; second vice-president, Harry Schwartz; secretary, Phil Macks; treasurer, Herbert Schacher; warden, Morton Columbia; trustees, Al Moldaver, Dr. Ralph Green, Meyer Cherney and Frank Petersiel.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Joseph Rogow, wife of the incoming president, and Mrs. Harry Silver, wife of the outgoing president.

$23,520 Bull Bought By Louis Cadesky

A Shorthorn bull of the Calrossie family, for which Louis Cadesky paid $23,520, is included in a shipment of prize cattle that are due to be landed at the quarantine station at St. John, N. B., Tuesday.

This young animal destined for Louada Manor Farm, Harvey township, Peterborough, is only one of a valuable accession of Shorthorns for Canadian breeders.

Actually the price at the auction was 10,000 guineas. This animal is also from the famous Calrossie herd in Scotland.

A report from Montreal today says "The freighter Salacia also brought another bull, "Calrossie Welfare" valued at $10,290 which is going to a breeder at Edmonton; the two other Calrossie bulls, one worth $23,520 and going to a Peterborough, Ont., breeder; and the other en route to a herd in George town and worth $17,640."

Aboard the Salacia, the prize animal cargo is under the care of Alan H. Trench, M.R.C.V.S., veterinary surgeon and two assistants.

The animal Louis Cadesky is importing from Scotland is the 15-months-old bull "Calrossie Armada" by Calrossie Welcome out of Calrossie Broadhooks Ann by Kirkton Baronet, a breeding detail obtained today from Ken Hunt, manager of Louada Manor Farm and its herd.

Mr. Cadesky paid 7,900 guineas second highest price at the Perth sale. Top price was 10,000 guineas for Calrossie Highland Piper going to the Cross farms at Calgary.

The grand champion was bought for the Bennett herd at Georgetown, Ont., for 6,100 guineas.

Knows Herd

Mr. Hunt knows the Calrossie herd and its owners, John and D. T. MacGillivray. He was guest at their home on his visit to Scotland about two years ago in the interest of Mr. Cadesky.

Louada Farm is already infused with Calrossie and Kirkton Baronet lines, and it is apparent that Mr. Cadesky is intensifying his interest and plan of establishing one of the finest Shorthorn herds in this country.

Adjourn County Court

Judge J. A. McGibbon, acting judge for Peterborough county, today adjourned the non-jury sittings of the county court immediately after the sittings opened. A criminal case will be heard April 16. Morley Simmons of Asphodel is charged with dangerous driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Mrs. J. Gannon Pioneer Stock Dies At 90

Mrs. Maria Gannon, whose father-in-law gave his name to the narrows connecting Pigeon and Buckhorn Lakes, died Saturday at her home in Ennismore. She was 90 and suffered only a short illness.

Her mother's family also provided a name for a narrows — Harrington's— connecting Buckhorn and Chemong Lakes.

Until her brief illness, Mrs. Gannon was a lively woman with a keen interest in the life around her. One of her dreams was to see a causeway built across Gannon Narrows.

Mrs. Gannon didn't live to see the actual beginning of her dream, but talk in favor of the cause way has been strong, and there is a possibility that work may start by fall, if steel is available for the bridge part of it.

MRS. JOHN GANNON.

Family There 127 Years.

The Gannon family has lived by the Narrows for 127 years, now, and five sons survive to carry on the name.

Mrs. Gannon was born in Ennismore township, near where the western end of the floating bridge was built in later years. She was a daughter of the late Thomas Perdue and Catherine Harrington.

Active in the work of St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, she was a member of the Catholic Women's League, and the Altar Society. Her husband; John Gannon, died several years ago.

Surviving are four daughters and five sons: the Rev. Sister Mary of the Rosary (Mary), St. Joseph's Convent, Calabogie, Ont.; Mrs. Sydney E. Thompson (Marian), New Jersey; Mrs. James Noonan (Bertha), of Otawa; Mrs. Alvin Franks (Veronica) of Omemee; Stephen, Thomas, Edward, Michael and Norman all of Ennismore.

Two daughters, Catherine and Irene, pre-deceased her. There are seven grandchildren.

Requiem mass will be said on Tuesday at 10 a.m. in St. Martin's Church. The body is resting at the family residence. Burial will be in St. Martin's Cemetery.

$800,000 PROGRAM

Oshawa utilities commission has asked city council to issue debentures of more than $800,000 for extension of mains, new pumping and purification depot, and reservoir in the north end of the city.

Steel Firm Announces Plan To Expand Search For Iron Ore Into Durham

Pittsburgh Company Says Indirect Evidence Of Iron Ore Occurrence Shows In South Monaghan, Hope Townships

Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation of Pittsburgh disclosed Sunday that it is expanding its search for new iron ore reserves in southeastern Ontario. Associated Press reports that the company announced it had acquired exploration options near Peterborough, in Durham, Northumberland and Frontenac counties. Jones and Laughlin said that it has told owners of the land "there is indirect geophysical evidence of possible iron ore occurrence," and that their properties "merit more detailed examination."

The first field crews of geologists are expected to begin exploration in a few weeks.

William M. Fiedler, chief geologist with Jones and Laughlin Company, said that if iron ore of acceptable grade was found in the Ontario counties it would have to be recovered by deep-mine operations.

The Associated Press story identifies the source and purpose of the interest in options that were taken on many properties in South Monaghan and Hope townships, and elsewhere in Durham and Northumberland counties late in 1951.

Owners Didn't Know

Owners said they had no information at the time other than intimations that the flurry in acquiring rights was not related to agriculture.

Since then the Ontario agents of the company have informed farmers that the company "had changed hands" and that the options were transferred to its successor. The probable use of a Gieger magnetic machine in surveys from an airplane indicated a quest for iron deposits.

That is the only news South Monaghan farmers have received since they gave options to Toronto representatives of interests who were unnamed in the negotiations.

Previously, the company has been exploring and carried out extensive explorations in the Michipicoten district of Ontario for some years, and has leased reserves in that Lake Superior territory.

The Examiner was the first newspaper to report the location and extent of options in South Monaghan and Hope townships and elsewhere in Durham and Northumberland counties.

Individualist Poll Clerk Elected To Council

LINDSAY, April 7 — A vote of confidence was given Walter Clark by the people of Monmouth in the municipal election held there last week. Mr. Clark was elected a member of the council.

Following the previous municipal election held there Dec. 3, 1951, Mr. Clark was criticized for irregularities at the polling station where he was deputy returning officer.

These irregularities included allowing relatives to carry ballots home to sick voters and then returning the marked ballots to the polling station. Residents were also allowed to vote whose names weren't on the voters' list.

Mr. Clark freely admitted these irregularities at a hearing of the case and the election was declared invalid and a new election ordered by Judge J. A. McGibbon of Lindsay.

In spite of the extra rates they would be called to pay to cover court costs, the people of Monmouth nominated and elected Mr. Clark to the council.

Re-elected Reeve

Walter C. Mangan was again elected reeve and the other councillors elected were: L. McNeely, F. Davenport and H. Dunford.

Ross Anderson, a former reeve, who had been defeated at the December election, and had brought the irregularities to light was again defeated. He said that he felt that he had been defeated in a fair poll this time.

Cobourg Doctor Children's Aid Head

Dr. N. S. McKechnie, of Cobourg, was elected president of the Association of Children's Aid Societies of Ontario at the 10th annual conference held in Toronto Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. J. G. Wharry, of Peterborough, who has been a vice-president of the association for the past three years and who was chairman of the conference, announced her retirement from active participation in the organization. Mrs. Wharry has done outstanding work both as a member of the Peterborough Board of Directors and the provincial organization, and was highly complimented on her work by Mrs. Jule S. Driscoll, York County. She was presented with a nosegay of flowers.

Give Opportunity

In her opening remarks at the conference, Mrs. Wharry defined the objective of the Children's Aid Societies as the establishment of equal opportunity for every child to lead a normal life without fear.

She stressed the realization of the professional as a partner of the layman in the good of the cause. "We cannot stress too much the fact that both the professional and the layman have a contribution to make and each should be repeated for his individual contribution."

Mrs. Wharry also said that the decisions made by the boards of societies and the kind of child welfare that will be made available in the province so long as we continue under private auspices.

400 Attend

The conference was attended by approximately 400 delegates from 53 societies in the province. Those attending from Peterborough were Miss Rachael Young, superintendent of the Peterborough Children's Aid Society; Mrs. C. Pilon, Mrs. P. Irwin, Mrs. D. Diplock, Miss Dorothy Metcalfe, John Twigg.

Canadians Show Wide Interest In Use Of Fluorine In Water

By The Canadian Press

The fight to check tooth decay by the addition of sodium fluoride to drinking water is gathering momentum across Canada. Several communities are following the lead of Brantford, Ont., which has used artificial fluoridation, experimentally for the last six years.

Edmonton and Moose Jaw in the West, Granby and Pointe Claire in Quebec, and Toronto, Windsor and Oshawa in Ontario and ready to follow suit, a Canadian Press survey shows.

Many centres are considering fluoridation while in other communities the practice has been strongly recommended. These groups include Timmins, Guelph, St. Catharines, Kirkland Lake and London in Ontario; Saskatoon, Swift Current and Assiniboia in Saskatchewan; Lethbridge and Drumheller in Alberta; Saint John, N.B., and Montreal.

Still other communities have adopted a wait-and-see attitude. Several cities have rejected fluoridation as "wasteful and too costly."

On March 27, Health Minister Phillips told the Ontario legislature that he would like municipalities to wait at least another year before adding fluorine to their dinking water.

Dr. Phillips said it would take that long before more statistics would be available on present fluoridation tests. He said that final results would not be known until 1955 or 1957.

Tests Take Time

Dental associations of Ontario, Canada and the United States were all carrying out experiments, but, he said, results would not be conclusive until that time.

"If a municipality has enough money, I'd be the last to stand in its way," he said. "But if I were on the municipal council, I'd like to see proof before I spent the people's money."

He said that artificial fluoridation would cost 12 to 14 cents per capita for the first year and after the first year, cost would be six to eight cents.

Some centres such as Stratford, Woodstock and Ingersoll in Ontario and several Alberta communities are fluoridated naturally. Overdoses are reported in some areas.

It is estimated that one in every four persons in the United States will have sodium fluoride in their drinking water by 1953. Fluoridation has been used there since the late 1930s.

The practice started when a Colorado Springs dentist drew attention to the condition of children's teeth in the community. Experiments were carried out which found too much fluoride caused mottled, brown and chalky teeth but no decay.

Where there was little fluoride, tooth decay was evident.

After six years' study, the American Dental Association decided fluoridation safe and cavitites were reduced 60 to 65 per cent.

Brantford Statistics.

In Brantford, officials say tooth decay in 1951 dropped 55 per cent in the five-year-old group to 15 per cent in the 13 to 16-year-old group. In pre-fluoridation years of 1944-45, 140 out of 2,600 school children had perfect teeth. Last year, 464 out of 2,906 children were found without decay.

Unlike Vancouver and Victoria, where opposition is to the cost of artificial fluoridation, an anti-group has grown in the United States claiming that sodium fluoride is an accummulative poison which causes soft bones and teeth if taken in too large quantities.

Antis say lemon-yellow fluorine is poisonous if taken in large amounts.

Health officials say that one drop of sodium fluoride in 1,000,000 drops of water is a safe dose. The American Public Health Association and U.S. National Research Council have approved its use.

More than 140 United States communities have fluoridated their water and advocates say tests show no difference in birth and death rates.

In Toronto, fluoride research has become intensive. Tea has been found to contain 30 to 60 parts per million, butter 1.5; pork .2; sardines 7.3 to 12.5; apples .8 and cabbage .31 to .5 parts.

A report was issued by federal health department officials recently outlining the complexities of fluoridation and stressing the sparse amount of evidence available in Canada. The report said any community considering fluoridation should discuss the matter fully with local dental, medical and water authorities.

Black Out City

ST. CATHARINES, April 7 — (CP)—Two automobiles collided here Saturday, tearing a verandah off a house and blacking out all city lights for a time. Five persons suffered minor injuries. Cars driven by Alan Peets, 38, and Charles Whitty, 26, collided, crashed into a hydro pole and rolled onto Mrs. J. McTavish's lawn, knocking down the verandah.

Unreality Is Subject Of Lesson Sermon

"Unreality" was the subject of the lesson sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world including First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Peterborough, on Sunday.

The Golden Text was "In the multitude of dreams and many words there are also divers vanities: but fear thou God." (Ecclesiastes 5:7).

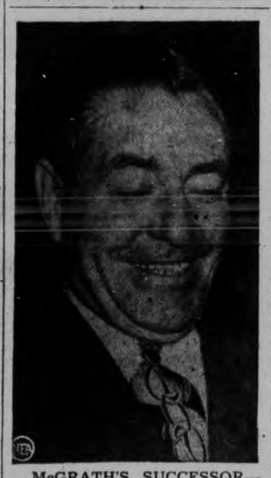
Selections from the Bible included the following from John 1: 1, 3 "In the beginning was the word, and the word was with God, and the word was God. All things were made by Him; and without Him was not anything made that was made."

Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook included the following "Everything good or worthy, God made. Whatever is valueless or baneful, He did not make,—hence its unreality."

Pipeline Ready Soon

TORONTO, April 7—(CP)—A. N. Horne, president of Trans-Northern Pipe Line Company, announces that the company's 10-inch, petroleum products pipeline from Montreal to Ontario centres is expected to be in operation by early October. The line will connect refineries at Montreal East with Cornwall, Prescott, Maitland, Kingston, Belleville, Port Hope, Toronto, Clarkson, and Hamilton. A six-inch, 44-mile line will serve Ottawa from a junction near Cornwall.

Shipments of pipe from Welland are due in Montreal this week.



McGRATH'S SUCCESSOR—J. P. McGranery, U.S. judge for the eastern district of Pennsylvania, has been named by President Truman to succeed Attorney-General J. Howard McGrath, who resigned just three hours after firing Newbold Morris as the administration's corruption hunter.

JACK, 14-year-old coal wagon horse, looks a little embarrassed standing neck deep in the Indianapolis Water Co. canal. Owner Carl Bridwell (on bank with rope) told the Indianapolis police water rescue squad that the wagon loaded with two tons of coal must have rolled into the water and pulled Jack after it. The wagon is under water behind the horse. "He's too smart to drink from the canal," Bridwell said. Nobody saw the accident happen and the horse was only slightly hurt.

Welders Vital On Pipe Lines

VANCOUVER —(CP)—A school for pipeline welders has been started here by the builders of the western portion of the $83,000,000 Edmonton-Vancouver trans-mountain pipeline.

An experienced "Big Inch" welder from the United States is giving instructions in the school, established by the construction firms handling the huge contract.

Contractors have long known that welders are the key men on big pipe-laying jobs, where the length of line laid down in a day of good weather may spell the difference between profit and loss.

Speed is essential because of varying weather conditions, and because the contractor gets a cash advance per foot of pipe laid, amounting to a percentage of the contract price.

From the school here the contractors expect to get between 80 and 100 welders experienced enough to go on the job in June, or who will develop the necessary speed and accuracy in another short spell of intensive training.

Welding these great pipe lines is done in two stages. First the 40-foot sections of pipe are joined together with tack or bead welds. Other welders follow, welding "downhill" on the pipe joints and building up a strong bead that is x-rayed for faults before the wrapping and coating machines come along for the final touches.

Shoot River In Raft

GODERICH, April 7 — (CP) — Two air force officers shot the flood-swollen waters of the Maitland River Saturday in a rubber raft from Auburn to Goderich, a distance of 20 miles. Seven hours after they started, Flt. Lt. J. G. Ruseon and FO. Sam Bowers reached here. They had succeeded in doing what 10 airmen from Clinton failed to do last year.

Five Drownings Reported In 19 Weekend Fatalities

By The Canadian Press

Five persons were drowned during the weekend, including a former swimming champion. There deaths brought to 14 the number of persons killed in Eastern Canada during the weekend.

A Canadian Press survey early today showed four persons killed in Ontario, nine in Quebec and one in New Brunswick. Besides the drownings, four persons were killed in traffic accidents and three in falls. One woman died of injuries suffered in a fire and a child died after swallowing some pills.

Two children playing on the ice-covered Ottawa River, near Hawkesbury fell through the ice and drowned. They were Gilles Bernicky, 6, and his sister, Claudette, 5.

In Toronto, Laczle Kovacz, 27, a recent immigrant who was a champion swimmer in his native Hungary, slipped off a bridge and was drowned in the flood-swollen water of Highland Creek.

Alfred Cook, 54, fell into the St. Francois River near Montreal and was drowned. Also in the Montreal area, police recovered the body of an unidentified man from the St. Lawrence River.

Curious Child Dies

A curious child, Robert Kerr, 2, picked up some pills left on a dresser in his Shawinigan Falls, Que., home, swallowed them and died.

On a highway near Repentigny, Que., two persons were killed when an automobile ran into a group of persons watching a tow truck lift an automobile out of a ditch. They were not immediately identified.

In Toronto, James Laird, 54, died of internal injuries believed to have been suffered when he was struck by a truck Friday. At that time, he was released from hospital after observation but the next day was found dead at home.

Amelia Goldwater, 10, died at Montreal of injuries suffered Thursday when he was hit by a car.

A volunteer fireman in Edmunson, N.B., George M. Herbert, 43, got up to answer a fire call, struck his head and died of his injuries.

Two aged persons were killed in falls at Montreal. Harry Goodman, 92, fell from a balcony at his home and Charles Barrette, 71, fell down a flight of stairs.

Mrs. George Beland, 68, died at Hull, Que., from injuries suffered when she leaped from a window of her home Friday to escape a fire. Her son was killed in the blaze.

Natives Build University In The Jungle

IBADAN, Nigeria —(Reuters)—The largest university for Africans is taking shape in the still wild country just outside this sprawling native town.

It will bring full university education to Africans.

Africans and many Europeans have long complained that the colonial powers in Africa have neglected education, and thereby hindered the development of African self-government.

Ibadan is the answer, and at the same time a challenge to Africans themselves. For without African support, the grandiose schemes of the Nigerian administration cannot succeed.

Ibadan University was started in 1948 by the transfer of 104 students from Yaba College in Lagos to the interior. Last year there were almost 300 students. The university's supporters hope that one day there will be 7,000 students.

The permanent buildings now are going up rapidly and a university town of pleasant houses is rising alongside for the tutorial staff. An impressive panel of professors and lecturers have been gathered together under Dr. Kenneth Mellanby, a brilliant young English scientist who specializes in parasitology.

There are faculties of arts, science, medicine, and agriculture and veterinary science.

By European stnadards, tuition and residence charges at Ibadan University are cheap. College fees, which cover both residence and tuition, range from $260 to $500 a year.

But these fees are still beyond the reach of a large number of Africans. Last year only 89 students paid their own expenses.

There are 23,000,000 people in Nigeria and the university representation, therefore, is on a minute scale at present.

Bees Talk In Dance

TORONTO, April 7 — (CP) — When bees buzz at the Ontario Agricultural College, Dr. Morris Smith knows what they are talking about. He told the annual meeting of the Ontario Naturalists' Federation Saturday that when a bee discovers honey, it reports back to the hive and by dancing and humming tells the other bees where the honey is. Dr. Smith said the type of dance tells observers what the bee is saying.

12-Cent Investment Earns $14.88 Profit

ELYRIA, O., April 7 (AP). — Clyde Jones put some bar soap with soft soap and came up with a pretty good thing financially. He was investing 12 cents and making $14.88 profit. It's legal, too.

Jones left Elyria but before he left he told police how he set up this high-paying business.

He bought a 12-cent bar of soap. He chopped it into 10 small pieces. Then he sold the 10 pieces, individually wrapped, at $1.50 each. The small pieces of soap were to clean eye glasses and windshields.

Business was brisk, too, until one Elyria man, who had paid $3 for a special introductory offer of six pieces of "clear view," sniffed his purchase.

"Smells like ordinary strong soap," he said.

"It sure does," said police.

"It sure is," said Jones.

Detective Edward Stankard said Jones made no guarantees of any kind and no misrepresentation. But Jones packed his factory —one razor—and left town.

War-Torn Seoul Rebuilds Under UN Guard

By DON HUTH

SEOUL, April 7 (AP)—Korea's ancient capital — four times a battleground in the 20-month-old war—is stirring to life again.

But years of struggle are ahead before its present war scars will disappear.

The U.S. Eighth Army has discouraged the Republic of Korea from moving the government and thousands of employees back here from the temporary capital at Pusan. It remembers the refugee problem in January, 1951, when the Allies retreated south less than four months after Seoul was liberated from the Communists.

Seoul still is a key military point. Endless columns of refugees and crowded conditions could clod the army's operation.

Every avenue of entry into Seoul is rigidly guarded by United Nations and Korean military police.

But hundreds slip by the police every night. They work their way upstream on the south side of the Han river and cross on rafts and boats during the night. Others weave their way through the front lines from North Korea.

Col. Charles R. Munske, head of the U.N. civil assistance in Korea unit in Seoul, said in an interview there are an estimated 750,000 persons here now. The pre-war population was about 1,700,000.

Sordid Surface

Seoul is not a pretty place.

Black market operations are flourishing but business is slow because of high prices. Prostitutes do a thriving trade.

Behind the sordid surface of Seoul are industrious Koreans working hard to keep the pulse of life beating.

Through the aid of U.N. civil assistance, Munske said, many small factories are springing up. There are small textile mills, rubber factories making rubber-soled shoes and belting for electric motors and others turning out construction materials.

About 700 such plants are functioning in Seoul and its industrial suburb Yongdonpo.

Lack of water, electric power and materials, however, crimp living and working conditions in the old capital.

The South Korean government hopes, with U.N. help, to have three waterworks functioning in the city soon. Plans are being made to repair the Hwachon reservoir complex to feed power into the city.

The telephone system is not restored. No work is being done on the devastated main government buildings.

Munske estimated there were 300,000 dwelling in Seoul before the war. A survey disclosed that at least 150,000 were destroyed, 50,000 damaged and 100,000 slightly damaged.

About 500 new homes are being built.

Hospitals are jammed, mainly with sick and wounded refugees from North Korea. Munske has asked for equipment to open more units.

There is no starvation in Seoul. Munske said rice and grain is brought in monthly. Seven milk stations serve milk and rice gruel once daily to registered persons.

A STRUGGLING JAPANESE Communist is hauled from a hiding place in a cottage during a pre-dawn raid this week by Japanese police at Ogoghi Dám, 56 miles southwest of Tokyo. Twenty-three Reds, described as "mountain village action corps" members were taken into custody in the raid. They put up a brief fight but were overpowered by a 100-man police squad. The raid followed a crackdown on Communist publishing houses and propaganda distribution centres in Japan.

Soviet Writer Fails To Find Any Culture In Canada

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, April 7 (AP) — A Soviet citizen who has recently visited Canada has given the Russian people a detailed account of culture (or rather the lack of it) in Canada.

He told of arriving in Ottawa on a Sunday which, he said he was told, was the "most boring day of the week" in the Canadian capital for everything was shut down except the churches.

"On Sundays," said S. Shcherbatykh, a Russian newspaperman, in the paper Soviet Art, "there are two and even three church services organized." He was still referring to Ottawa.

He reported with amazement that in all Canada there isn't a single opera or drama theatre and blamed American movie magnates for saturating the country with Hollywood products.

The Soviet citizen visited a number of productions staged by what he said were called "Drama Leagues," and he came away with a pretty poor opinion.

He saw some people stage Chekhov's "Cherry Orchard" in Ottawa and he reported that the actors wore fur coats against backdrops of cherry blossoms.

He reported with somewhat suppressed artistic horror that a drama league in Toronto put on Gogol's "Inspector General." He said the actors endlessly drank vodka and deliberately fell on the stage.

Hollywood Seizure

Referring to the Ottawa and Toronto theatrical offerings, he said, "It is no surprise that such spectacles do not make a success with the public."

Discussing the state of culture in Canada, the Soviet visitor said, "The cinema is almost the only form of cultural entertainment for the Canadian population.

"All the Canadian cinemas have been seized and divided between themselves by American film companies."

The visitor told how Canadians, complaining about this, had pointed out to him that the best actor and actresses in Hollywood are all Canadians.

He mentioned Deanna Durbin, Alexis Smith and Yvonne De Carlo.

(Miss Durbin was born in Winnipeg, Miss Smith in Penticon, B.C., and Miss De Carlo in Vancouver.)

Scherbatykh said the Canadian government which spends "colossal amounts of money on armaments at the orders of Washington, is not at all bothered about the cultural needs of the country."

He told of visiting clubs of progressive Russian and Ukrainian organizations in Toronto, Winnipeg and other cities.

Things To Be Tougher

MONTREAL, April 7—(CP)—Trade Minister Howe said in an address Saturday that the Canadian dollar is the strongest currency in the world but things are going to be toughter for the Canadian exporter to the United States. "The people of Canada can look to the future with great confidence," he said.

Marriage Dissolved

VICHY, France, April 7—(Reuters)—A marriage which lasted for 12 years has been dissolved here because police discovered the husband is a woman. "Jean-Gabriel" Farden, 51, married a widow with two teenage children in 1940. Fardet, whose real first name is Vivienne, joined the Vichy militia soon afterwards as a soldier. In 1946 she was sentenced to five year's imprisonment as a collaborator.

Kitchener Dog Wins International Title

OTTAWA, April 7 — (CP) — Tatjan of Recklaw, a Doberman Pinscher owned by Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Wickstrom, of Kitchener, was judged the best dog in the Ottawa Kennel Club's International Championship dog show in Saturday night.

It was the Doberman's second victory. Friday he was judged the best of breed and the best in the working group at the show.

The Governor-General, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, attended the Saturday night show and presented the prizes to the major winners.

Cobourg Man Elected O.A.C.A.S. Head

TORONTO, April 7 — (CP) — Fred Promoli, assistant superintendent of Windsor and Essex County Children's Aid Society, indicated Sunday that some townships aren't fully suporting child and family welfare in their areas.

He told the annual meeting of the Ontario Association of Children's Aid Societies that a "protection" committee found many societies have frequent requests from townships indicating that the latter would see families broken up rather than shoulder the expense of administering aid.

Children of such families are maintained as wards of the Children's Aid Society and at the expense of the county, he said. Thus the townships escape the responsibility of public assistance to the family.

Dr. N. S. McKechnie, of Cobourg, was elected president of the association. He succeeds R. K. Ross, of St. Catharines.

Other officials: Mrs. James G. Matthews, Toronto, and Clarence Halliday, Ottawa, vice-presidents; J. K. Robertson, Brantford, treasurer; Murial Milligan, Hamilton, secretary.

Directors elected for two years: Mrs. Elsie Purcell, Guelph; Clin Carter, Picton; James Griffis, Port Arthur; E. H. Etherington, North Bay.

Dr. Lorna C. Thomas, of Brockville, was elected a director for one year.

Doubt Ming Sung Ships Can Be Seized Legally

OTTAWA, April 7 (CP). —The government is trying to find out whether Canada could seize the seven controversial Ming Sung ships by force even if the chance presented itself.

There is some doubt in official minds that she could legally grab them even if one or more of Canada's three destroyers in the Far East waylaid them on a dash from Canton along the Chinese coast to Shanghai.

Reports out of Hong Kong that the seven ships, built, registered and mortgaged in Canada, have all been seized by the Chinese Reds and may make the 950-mile dash to Shanghai, have prompted both parliamentary questions and government inquiry in Ottawa.

Question of Right

At a time when Canada is anxiously against any step that might precipitate general war with Red China, she is hardly likely to send her destroyers into Chinese territorial waters to seize the ships. But some seagoing veterans are of the opinion the ships would have to come outside that three-mile limit occasionally in such a voyage because of shoals and it would be fairly easy to plot just where those appearances would occur.

If the destroyers could waylay them outside the three-mile limit, they would not be violating Chinese waters. But there still is the question whether Canada would have the right to seize them even there.

The ships are the ones built in Quebec after the war and given permission to fly the Canadian flag in Oriental trade. Use of the Canadian flag was originally explained as a step to prevent seizure by the Reds.

Rabies Outbreak Spurs On Great Fox Hunt

By ROBERT E. GEIGER.

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP) —Some of the greatest fox hunts in United States history are under way.

Rabies has broken out among these animals and among dogs and livestock. Mad foxes have attacked people. They have invaded fashionable suburbs.

Scores of people have been bitten, and at least four have died this year. In several areas people have been cautioned not to walk alone on streets after dark.

Both grey and red foxes have increased tremendously because their furs no longer are fashionable.

"We've expected rabies to increase ever since we noted, several years ago, that foxes were increasing," says C. C. Presnall of the predator and rodent control section of the Fish and Wildlife Service.

Big Increase

Foxes are so hard to count that their exact numbers are not known, but experts say there is no doubt there are thousands more in eastern states than just a few years ago.

In Pennsylvania alone there is a campaign to kill 95,000 by the end of April.

On a national basis the increase in rabies isn't extremely alarming, some experts say. But they agree that the scattered outbreaks have been terrifying where they have occurred.

Rabies cases among domestic animals—dogs, horses, cattle and the like—increased from 7,597 in 1949 to 8,022 last year. But this year there was an increase of about 40 per cent in the first 2½ months compared with the first 2½ months of 1951.

Thousands of persons are given rabies vaccine every year. This is the only known preventive, but it must be administered promptly in a series of doses.

Rabies is a virus disease to which nearly all warm-blooded animals appear to be susceptible. It generally is transmitted in the saliva by means of a bite.

It's Loaded—So Be Careful!

Before you drive the Golden Anniversary Cadillac, there is one thing we should like to impress upon you: It's loaded—so be careful!

There's more power in that dynamic engine than you'll ever need—except for the rarest emergency. And it should never, never be used for dramatic display on the get-away.

If somebody else wants the honors when the light turns green—let 'em go. You don't have to prove anything, anyway.

But that great power works for you—even when you're not unleashing it to its full limit.

It works for you as a reserve—and gives you that easy, quiet, flowing ride which makes a Cadillac such a joy to own and such a thrill to drive . . . .

It gives you that slow-moving engine—that simply loafs at all legal speeds—and which is a literal Methuselah when it comes to long life . . . .

And it is a primary reason for that unbelievably low upkeep expense, at which Cadillac owners never cease to marvel. And the easy-going engine, that never operates under strain, is a big factor in this economy.

Yes—Cadillac's great power really works for you—and is one of the vital reasons why Cadillac's performance is so outstandingly different.

But we trust that no Cadillac owner will ever use it for unnecessary accelerating—or for dominating the highway. To do so is not only counter to the rules of safety—but it is not in keeping with the graciousness the motoring public has come to expect from the person who sits at the wheel of a Cadillac.

Have you seen this great Golden Anniversary creation? If not, we should be pleased to welcome you to our showrooms—at any time.

Foxes Now Fed Of Whalemeat; Ashwell's Idea

THISTLETOWN, Ont. — (CP) — Fishermen in Newfoundland who use drums, tins cans and stones to make a catch keep fox farmers here supplied with food for their livestock.

Charles Ashwell got the idea of feeding whalemeat to foxes when he visited Newfoundland in 1947. He bought a share of Arctic Fishery Products Limited, a whaling plant at South Dildo, Trinity Bay, Nfld.

The plant can produce little more than enough to supply Ontario fox ranchers, who shy at horsemeat, now up from one cent to 10 cents a pound.

Pithead whales, sometimes known as blackfish, visit Trinity Bay for six or eight weeks during the year in search of squid. When a school is sighted, the company's patrol boats move in from the seaward side beating drums or tin cans, throwing stones and slapping their oars on the water.

The whales are driven into shallow water, roped and dragged ashore.

Each whale, weighing up to four tons, yields meat for the foxes, blubber to be converted into oil and bones to be ground up for chicken feed.

During slack times of the year, the meat freezing plant is converted to freeze blueberries for export.

20-Year-Old Air Raid Shelter Yields $10,000 Hoard Of Food

SPOKANE, Wash., April 7 — (AP) —A spacious underground bomb shelter built at least 20 years ago and heavily stocked with musty food and the necessities of life came to light Saturday through the will of a Spokane printer.

The rambling nine-room concrete shelter was laden with cases of canned foods, jars of wheat, cartons of vitamin pills and malted-milk powder, sliced toasted bread, fruit juices and raisins.

It was built by Lewis N. Benson, who died last December at 84. He willed that it and some of his stocks and bonds be divided between the Volunteers of America and the Salvation Army, Walter Merryweather, executor of the estate, said.

Merryweather estimated the foodstuffs cost about $10,000. Most of it now is unfit to eat.

Mrs. Jack L'Homme, who was buying the house from Benson when he died, said he seemed to live in fear of want and a bombing attack.

Recover Body

TORONTO, April 7 (CP)—The body of Laczle Kovacz, 27-year-old Hungarian immigrant, was recovered Sunday from flood-swollen Highland Creek. Kovacz —a champion swimmer in his native land—was drowned Saturday when he slipped from a temporary bridge into the churning creek to become trapped inside a culvert.

U.S. Offers Plan To Gradually Ban A-Weapons

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., April 7 (AP)—The United States outlined to the U.N. disarmament commission Saturday an arms-atomic census and check-up plan designed to lead by stages to elimination of atomic weapons and reduction of armament.

The plan called for U.N. inspection in the early stages to determine the size and location of all atomic energy plants.

Britain and France immediately announced they will study the plan. But Russia's Jakob A. Malik denounced it as a smokescreen to hide the U.S. rearmament program. Malik reiterated the old Russian demand that arms reduction begin with prohibition by the general assembly of the atomic bomb.

U.S. delegate Benjamin Cohen told a commission sub-committee studying the census project that Malik had rejected the plan without even reading it. He urged Malik not to pervert the attempt to work for an arms reduction program.

Reviews Charges

Malik ignored the U.S. delegate's statement that atomic check-ups were to be included from the first. He renewed charges that the plan is aimed at getting information from others and hiding atom secrets in the United States.

He brought out again the old Russian demand that the entire disarmament program start off with a U.N. atomic weapon prohibition and reduction of armed forces of the big five by one-third.

Cohen said the United States is ready to hear any suggestions for altering its proposal. This program calls for five stages of inspection, going from the least secret to the more secret areas of military information. The successful completion of each stage, Cohen said, would bolster international confidence. Each country would know what others had in a specific field at the end of each stage.

In stage one, the new plan calls for a quantitative count in the nature of a report on existing strength levels of all armed forces and of the location of installations and facilities concerned with armaments of all types, including atomic.

Governments would report their data. U.N. inspection teams would see if atomic plants were where the reports said they were. They would check the number of persons employed and the size of the plants. But they would not be permitted to go inside atomic plants.

Such checks would increase in importance up through stages four and five, when all secret weapons of the so-called conventional types and atomic weapon stockpiles would not only be inventoried but checked against earlier information—such as that on raw materials and power—to see if there were any hidden stocks.

The U.S. working plan would make it possible for other countries to suspend their participation if seven members of both the commission and the security council found any country guilty of violation and it does not correct the violation in a reasonable specified period.

Find Renewed Demand For Steel Products

CLEVELAND, April 7—(AP)—Fear of a strike and a relaxation of government controls has caused "renewed vigor in demand" for some steel products, "Steel" magazine says today.

The metal-working journal says the strike threat was resulting in mills becoming cautious about accepting orders for the third quarter of this year and added:

They don't "want to book more tonnage than they might possibly be able to deliver."

The magazine says that if there is no walkout, the continuation of the demand depends on how well automobiles sell and how much building construction is started.

Port Officials Look Forward To Busy Season

By The Canadian Press

Canadian port officials today looked forward to a shipping season they predict will be good, if not better than average.

A Canadian Press survey showed that port workers at Halifax, Vancouver, Saint John, N.B., and various other deep-sea ports already are in the midst of their annual springtime burst of business.

The inland ports of Montreal, Quebec, and Toronto are set for the 1952 navigation season which, although officially opened, has not yet swung into high gear. Opening of these ports will, as usual, cause a slackening off of activity in the east-coast ports.

A huge new pier, officially opened at Halifax last week, will provide much-needed dock space. During the busy season some ships have had to "line up" for berths.

Some 10,000,000 bushels of grain, double last year's amount, has been shipped from Halifax so far this year. Another 500,000 bushels now is on its way there by rail.

General cargo is moving smartly aboard ships at Halifax from the Far East and Europe while trade with the British West Indies and Newfoundland keeps many ships busy.

Pulpwood Shipments

Large quantities of pulpwood will be shipped to Britain and France this year from Saint John. Such shipments were curtailed during the busy winter season because of harbor congestion.

In British Columbia officials expect at least equal last year's record shipping season. Most deep sea ships operating from that area are foreign. Japanese shipping, reopened last season, is expected to increase this year.

In Quebec grain elevators are scheduled to be filled to their 4,000,000-bushel capacity when the navigation season opens about the first week in May.

Extensive plans for increasing the pilot service and installing 151 navigational buoys are being made.

Average Season

Toronto harbor commissioners expect an average season. At least one new shiping company has agreed to use the port this year.

The season at Churchill, 600 miles north of Winnipeg, will open about July 27. National Harbors Board men are arranging to receive grain about May 1. Some 10,000,000 bushels will pass through this port as compared with 7,500,000 last year, a record movement.

Shipping through Churchill is expected to be at least double that of last year, as heavy equipment and supplies are moved 350 miles to Ferguson Lake, in the Northwest Territories, where a new nickel plant has been established. More tonnage than last year has already been signed up for inward shipping.

Democratic Illness

TORONTO, April 7 — (CP) — Alcoholism, "a democratic illness," was discussed Sunday at an Ontario Alcoholics Anonymous conference. More than 1,000 former drunks, each wearing a tag with his first name and last initial on it, heard Adam C., of Toronto, say the anonymity of the movement keeps in members "who otherwise perhaps won't get another chance." He said alcoholism is a democratic illness because it is no respecter of persons.

Building Trades Plan Centre For Apprentices

MONTREAL, (CP).—One of the largest building trade apprenticeship centres in the world will soon be built in Montreal.

The new centre, recently described by Quebec Labor Minister Antonio Barrette as unique in Canada, will be built at a cost of more than $1,000,000 of which more than $400,000 will be contributed by the provincial government.

Mr. Barrette says that since 1945 more than 6,800 students have been trained in the present building trade apprenticeship centre located in the rehabilitation centre.

Many of them now occupy key positions in the building industry he says, and almost all of them have done well at their chosen trade.

The new centre will have 150,000 square feet of floor space compared to the present 64,000 square feet. It will consist of five buildings, including one where students will be able to get practical experience in construction of actual houses and other buildings. The other four buildings will house classrooms, a gymnasium, an auditorium, and offices and workshops.

ROUGH TREATMENT

In ancient Turkey and Egypt bakers who sold underweight or bad bread were nailed to the doors of their shops.

There has been much comment on the unusual and very fitting centrepiece arranged for the tea table at the annual meeting of the Peterborough Humane Society last week by Miss Phyllis Denne. The feature was a collection of china dogs representing nearly all the different breeds. The dogs were placed on the table top beside small dolls dressed in handmade, old fashioned costumes. The beautiful tablecloth used was of hand-drawn corn colored linen, and was centred with a bouquet of pale yellow and mauve flowers.

A hot supper was served to about 150 guests by the Bridgenorth W. A. Friday evening. The tables were set up in decorative Easter array in the new school. Mrs. W. G. Ray was convener for the occasion. A nice sum was realized and will go toward a new furnace for the church. A two-hour program of entertainment took place in the church afterward. The Rev. D. P. Morris led in community singing with Mrs. C. Telford at the piano and chairman was Mr. W. G. Ray. Five films were shown. Mr. Walter Farr of Peterborough favored with songs, and was accompanied by Mr. Robert Johnston. Two short, humorous skits were enacted by Alice McKay and Donna Doughty.

Mayor Whitton Criticizes Apathy

TORONTO, April 7 (CP). — Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa lashed out Saturday night at the "apathy" of women and urged them to put more drive and purpose into their actions and gain some control over "extravagant" tax spending by man.

A tremendous boost in taxation in the last 13 years has been the "thief in the house" in the big rise in the cost of living, but women's hands were tied because almost 100 per cent of government tax-spending in Canada "is entirely in male hands," Miss Whitton said in a speech at a joint dinner of five Toronto women's service clubs.

She said "one good place" in which women could begin purposeful action is in the demand of a cost-of-taxes index, based on the trend since Jan. 1, 1939, and including total federal, provincial and municipal taxation exacted from the people.

Fairmount W.M.S.

FAIRMOUNT, April 7 (ENS).— Mrs. Harold Ball was hostess to Fairmount W.M.S. for their Easter meeting. President Mrs. Fred McIndoo called the meeting to order and opened with an Easter hymn. The roll call was answered with an Easter verse.

Mrs. E. Downes, literature secretary reported that Fairmount W.M.S. had won the reading contest sponsored by the Presbyterial and would be awarded the bookshelf. The supply secretary, Mrs. H. McGee reported two quilts completed and a third partly done.

Mrs. Norman Earle had charge of the program and was assisted by Mrs. Russell Earle and Miss Jean Hanbidge, the theme being "Easter Gave Us the Bible."

The meeting closed with prayer and lunch was served by Mesdames T. McIndoo, E. McCarrell and Norman Earle.

Beverley Pringle Is Bride Of Mr. George A. Gray

Miss Beverley Jeanne Pringle, the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Bruce Pringle, became the bride of Mr. George Alfred Gray in a late afternoon wedding Saturday at the Murray St. Baptist Church, the ceremony being performed by the Reverend Ivan C. Morgan. Mr. Gray is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Percy Gray of Burlington.

Pink snapdragons, white tulips and maufe stocks, amid the soft glow of many candles formed a beautiful setting in the church. The wedding music was by Mr. Stanley Northrop and Mrs. Stanley Northrop was soloist.

Before the bride entered the church Mrs. Northrop sang The Lord's Prayer and during the signing of the register she sang "I Love Thee," by Grieg.

An imporated gown of American ice blue starched chiffon was chosen by Miss Pringle. It was made with fitted sleeves and a high Mandarin neckline, detailed with embroidered medallions circling the shoulders and extending on the bodice. The skirt, falling in deep folds over a crinoline and extending into a sweeping train, was offset by matching medallions. Her veil of tulle illusion fell gracefully to finger tip length from a matching pill box headdress. She carried a bouquet of mauve sweet peas centred with a mauve orchid.

Mr. Pringle gave his daughter in marriage and she was attended by her sister Mrs. Gordon F. Matthews as matron of honor and Miss Barbara Gray, younger sister of the groom, Miss Anita Davis and Miss Joan Plunkett as bridesmaids.

The matron of honor wore a frock of American turquoise blue marquisette over matching faille in ballerina length, featuring the nipped-in waistline, and accented by a frothy marquisette stole. She wore a matching circlet of marquisette and faille in her hair and carried a quaint wicker basket of palest pink and mauve sweet peas and pansies. The bridesmaids also were frocked in American turquoise blue faille with very full ankle-length skirts of the marquisette and matching stoles. They wore similar headdresses and carried baskets of mauve sweet peas and pansies.

The groom's younger brother, Mr. Jack Gray, was his attendant. William and Murray Gray, brothers of the groom, Gordon Matthews and Max Graham ushered.

The wedding reception was held at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club. The bride's mother received in a jacket dress of pussy willow gray with deeper shade faille trim and her hat was of contrasting shades. She carried a bouquet of tiny white rosebuds on her purse. The groom's mother assisted, wearing navy blue and a navy blue hat accented with white and corsage of pink and white sweet peas.

For travelling to the United States the bride wore a jacket dress of navy and white ottoman cord and a navy hat with white and yellow trim. Her accessories were navy and she wore a shawl collared topcoat in yellow wool.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray will live in Western Ontario.

"Quaker Night" Held At Y.M.C.A.

"Quaker Night" at the YMCA on Saturday was open to all Quaker Oats Company employees and their escorts. It was a night of fun with volleyball games, swimming, dancing, bowling and billiards the feature diversions offered. Even the fair sex took a turn at the billiard table on this occasion. A hard fought volleyball game was won by the office team. the dancing included popular and old time styles.

Door prizes were a carving set, given by the Company and won by Mrs. George Carew, and a YMCA membership ticket, given by the Y and won by Mr. Victor Coombes.

The evening was made possible through the co-operation of Mr. Fraser of the Y.M.C.A. staff.

Guests Defy April Showers For Agnes Neill Chapt. Tea

April showers did not deter guests from the delightful tea held Saturday afternoon by the Lieut. Col. Agnes Neill Chapter of the I.O.D.E. The surprisingly large crowd of ladies, many defying the rain by wearing their lovely new spring hats, were welcomed by the new regent, Miss Marjorie Benson, and the first vice-regent, Mrs. G. Ardern, and Miss Jean Darnley was at the treasurer's table.

Also receiving was Mrs. A. W. Turner, of Stouffville, who was the originator of this chapter and is its honorary regent. Mrs. Turner also made the draws on the two-piece set of linen-covered luggage and for the tea table bouquet which was a pretty arrangement of mauve iris and daffodils.

The luggage was won by Miss Norma Harrison of Highland Rd., and the flowers by Mrs. J. C. Finnie, 700 Armour Rd. Tickets on the luggage were sold at the tea by Mrs. Gordon Vallery and Miss Agnes Chalk and on the flowers by Mrs. J. Stark and Miss Joan Gardiner. Miss Eleanor Chapman sold tickets on a baby's layette, made by the members, which was displayed complete with basinette. The draw on this will be made shortly at a chapter meeting.

A talent table, which was well supplied by the members, enjoyed a very good business under the charge of Mrs. S. Adamson, Mrs. Arthur Gertley and Mrs. M. Uloth. Similarly with the home baking table where Mrs. A. Lacey, Mrs. Charles Boulter, and Mrs. Bernard Hamlin were salesladies.

The candy table was in charge of Mrs. D. Tanney, Miss Eleanor Cameron and Miss Eleanor Jobbitt. "Touch and take" parcels very prettily wrapped and usually containing pieces of costume jewellery, were in charge of Mrs. Charles Lockhart and Mrs. R. Gray.

Mrs. Robert Huffman was in charge of the tea table which featured the lovely floral centrepiece and was lighted by yellow tapers. Ladies pouring tea were Mrs. H. C. Benson, Mrs. E. Graham, Mrs. N. H. Hamley and Mrs. E. E. Estlick, in turn.

Throughout the time of serving tea there was a background of soft music provided by Mrs. Wm. Messervey, Mrs. Hugh Redmond and Miss Eleanor Taylor.

The servers were Mrs. Fred Todd, Miss Jean Blodgett, Mrs. L. E. Morrison, Miss Joan Magee, Miss Corinne Coones, Mrs. Dean Cutmore, Miss Kay Hendry, Miss Zetta Jamesor, Miss Helen Thompson, Miss Helen Mathias, Mrs. Keith Kidd, Miss Joan Austin, Miss Isobel Shearer, Mrs. Wm. Sawyer, Miss Dorothy Franks, Miss Helen Boyer, Mrs. P. Wellwood, Mrs. James Baird.

Mrs. R. Beck, social convener, and Miss Betty Pogue, her assistant, were in charge of replenishing plates and tea pots with the help of other members.

Newfoundland Girls Attract Yanks In Big Marriage Boom

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 7—(CP)—United States servicemen have been in Newfoundland for 10 years and they like it.

The Yanks join in sports and social activities and they co-operate with provincial authorities. But more than that—they are marrying Newfoundland girls.

Marriages between islanders and American servicemen stationed at the three Newfoundland bases have increased to a point where straightening out citizenship of wives and offspring has become one of the major jobs of U.S. Consular offices.

If anybody is unhappy about the arrangement, it is the unmarried males who already exceed eligible females in this province. Bachelor servicemen have cut into the woman surplus in the years the U.S. forces have been stationed here, and last year more than 800 Newfoundland girls went back to the States with their American husbands.

That's the figure revealed by the U.S. Consul General's office here. It covers marriages at the St. John's and Argentia bases, but does not include many others at west coast Harmon Air Force base.

Adopt Children

American couples are also taking to parentless Newfoundland children. Last year 25 adoptions were arranged by authorities in co-operation with the Newfoundland Department of Welfare.

St. Peter's C.W.L. Announce Lay Retreat

A retreat, sponsored by St. Peter's sub-division of the C.W.L., for the ladies of the parish, to be conducted by the Rev. A. Pape, O.S.A. of Mary Lake Retreat House, King, Ontario, on April 24, 25 and 26, was announced by the president, Mrs. J. Begley, at the well-attended April meeting in the Social Centre Sunday.

Annual reports showed a successful and active year in the summaries submitted. Mrs. F. Guilfoyle, social convener, reported a very sucessful retreat was held ending with the Holy Year tour. A study club was organized under the direction of the Rev. P. P. Butler, but was discontinued owing to the illness of the director. Six ladies of the sub-division took residents of the House of Providence to Cobourg for a picnic. This was a Diocesan Council project. Forty-nine dinner, nine luncheon and breakfast tickets were sold for the provincial convention in September. A garden party and two teas were held during the year, also five euchre parties and two bingos.

Mrs. E. Quinlan, membership convener, reported a membership of 239 including 12 new members. A Girl Guide company has been formed and also a Mothers' Auxiliary for the St. Peter's Girl Guides.

Mrs. S. J. Houlihan, welfare convener, reported a Christmas party was held for the House of Providence in conjunction with the three other sub-divisions of the city. Sixty-seven baskets, including candy, fruit, cookies and tobacco, were distributed to the residents and gifts of large baskets of fruit were sent to the House of Providence, St. Vincent's Orphanage and the Precious Blood Monastery, a donation of $25 to St. Vincent's Orphanage and 32 Christmas hampers were sent to needy families. New clothing and food was given to needy families, also several families were given warm clothing.

Miss Anne Murray, magazine convener, reported 12 subscriptions to the Canadian League Magazine. Mrs. P. J. Burke, rosary convener, reported 48 rosaries were said for deceased members and mass cards were sent to nine members who died during the year. A mass was offered for the living and deceased members of the subdivision.

Mrs. D. F. McCarthy, treasurer, reported total receipts $1,050.73, expenditures $942.44, bank balance $108.29. From the sale of aluminum ware $192 was realized. A donation of $50 was made to the Social Centre. Donations to Mayor's Fire Fund, $15; donation to High School Award Fund, $10; donation to St. Vincent's Orphanage, $25; donation to Rt. Rev. P. P. Butler on his leaving the parish, $25; donation to K. of C. for use of club room, $25. The sum of $103 was spent on Christmas welfare baskets; donation to Diocesan Scholarship, $29.20; diocesan per capita, $29.20; provincial per capita, $14.16; national per capita, $29.20; national budget, $5.00; Sisters of Service convention, $23.36. From donations 25 card tables were purchased at a cost of $168. Furnishing for Social Centre, $36.

A slate of officers to be elected was presented by the nominations chairman, Mrs. F. Guilfoyle, assisted by Mrs. Lucas and Mrs. Lane. Election of the officers was conducted by Mrs. F. J. Lynch and the following were elected for the coming year:

Rev. J. F. McGuire, director; Mrs. J. Begley, president (re-elected); Mrs. F. Guilfoyle, first vice-president; Mrs. A. Vondette, second vice-president; Mrs. S. J. Houlihan, third vice-president; Mrs. J. Lane, recording secretary; Mrs. D. F. McCarthy, treasurer.

Councillors are Mesdames T. J. Carroll, A. Beresford, F. Hickey, Miss Rose Brennan, Mrs. E. Quinlan and Mrs. A. Willis.

Barbara Harkness Is Bride Of Harold Trick, Millbrook

Ferns and white tulips formed the setting in St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Millbrook, for the marriage of Mary Barbara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Harkness, to Harold Alfred Trick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Trick all of Millbrook. The Rev. A. A. Chote, rector, officiated at the double ring cermony.

Wedding music was played by Mr. J. O. Medd, and before the bride entered the church Miss Yvonne Richards sang "I'll Walk Beside You" and during the signing of the register she sang "Because".

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of ivory satin with sweetheart neckline and small stand up collar. The fitted bodice buttoned down the back with tiny self-covered buttons, with long sleeves ending in lily point over the hands, and the long full skirt extended in a train. Her long veil of tulle fell from a small stiffened brim centred with a spray of lily-of-the-valley and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Only attendant was her sister, Miss Carolyn Harkness, who wore a gown of pink net over taffeta with tucked bodice, tucked cap sleeves, and bouffant skirt and a hat to match. She carried a bouquet of yellow carnations and mauve iris. Mr. Mervin Trick of Toronto was his brother's groomsman and the ushers were George Harkness, uncle of the bride, and Gordon Trick, a brother of the groom.

The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Palmer where the bride's mother received, wearing navy crepe with red accessories, a small red hat, flower-trimmed, and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother, who also received, was dressed in grey crepe with navy accessories. She wore a navy straw hat with floral trim and had a corsage of red roses.

Tea was poured by Mrs. C. Harkness, the bride's grandmother, and Mrs. Zilla Seaton. Tea attendants were Misses Marilyn Palmer and Jean Smith, Mrs. Donald Trick, Mrs. Ivan Challice and Mrs. Mervin Trick.

The bride and groom left afterward on a motor trip to points west. When going away the bride wore a suit of beige gabardine with green accessories, and flower-trimmed hat, and a corsage of bronze roses.

They will live in Millbrook on return.

Baker-Cockburn

At All Saints' Anglican Church at three-thirty o'clock Saturday afternoon, the marriage vows of Earls Isabelle Cockburn and Clarence Willis Baker were pledged before the Rev. Maurice Poole. The bride is daughter of Mrs. A. E. Cockburn, of Pembroke, and the groom a son of Mrs. Samuel Baker and the late Mr. Baker, of Peterborough.

Spring flowers decorated the altar for the occasion and wedding music was played by Miss Margaret Flowers, organist.

The bride wore an afternoon dress of navy and white taffeta with a navy hat trimmed with white velvet petals and navy accessories. Her corsage was of pale pink rosebuds and sweet peas.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dormer were attendants, Mrs. Dormer wearing navy with colored sequin trim and clips and a navy hat and accessories. The corsage at her shoulder was similar to the bride's.

The couple are spending their honeymoon at Pembroke and will return to live at 40 Benson Ave., Apt. 2, in Peterborough.

Travelling, the bride wore a dressmaker suit of grey with short topcoat in teal blue and navy accessories.

"I'm an explorer and I always bring him along to get a waiter's attention!"

Painful Cramps of "Monthly Periods" halted or strikingly relieved in 3 out of 4 cases in test by doctors!

• Women and girls who suffer from those functionally-caused cramps, backaches and headaches of menstruation — who feel upset and irritable on certain "particular days" — may often be suffering quite unnecessarily!

Such is the conclusion from tests by doctors in which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gave complete or striking relief from such distress in 3 out of 4 of the cases tested!

Modern in action!

Yes! Medical evidence shows Lydia Pinkham's Compound is thoroughly modern in action. It strikes directly at the cause of menstrual pain!

The effectiveness of Lydia Pinkham's needs no proof to the millions of women and girls whom it has benefited. But how about you? Do you know what it may do for you?

Take Lydia Pinkham's through the month. See if you don't get the same relief from the pains and weakness of "those days"! See if you don't feel better before and during your period!

Get either Lydia Pinkham's Compound, or new, improved Tablets (with added iron). Both are grand, too, for those "hot flashes" and nervous feelings of "change of life"!

Don't suffer needlessly when relief may be so near!

Lydia Pinkham's has a quieting effect on the uterine contractions (see chart) which often cause menstrual pain!

DOROTHY DIX

Girl Advised Not To Try To Hold Reluctant Lover

DEAR MISS DIX: Two years ago I met Bill, with whom I am now very much in love. At the time of our meeting, he was engaged to Mary. Shortly after the engagement he went into the army; Mary dated others then broke the engagement—and Bill's heart! He turned to me.

I wrote him every day and restored his faith in women. I grew to love him and thought he was slowly coming to love me, too. When he returned from service we began going together and I was sure he had forgotten Mary.

Now I find that he has been seeing her. He doesn't know that I know this, and he doesn't want to hurt me. I realize he is still in love with Mary. However, I cannot feel that I am doing justice by letting him go with her, knowing that she was once unfaithful. Neither do I want to keep him bound to me against his wishes. In my opinion there are two ways to determine the problem. Should I tell Bill I have seen him with Mary, and let him decide, or should I keep silent hoping that devotion and patience will make Mary's love seem foolish?

I want to make Bill as happy as possible and hope that by doing the right thing he will be. Either he forgives Mary, or learns to love the girl who was loyal. The decision lies in my hands, for I know he would never do anything to hurt me, yet is confused between his love for Mary and his obligation to me.

DORIS I. L.

ANSWER: If Bill's ultimate choice is Mary, I can readily see that he is giving up a fine person, generous and understanding. However, the heart is an unpredictable organ, wandering where it will with no thought for wisdom. If Bill still loves Mary, as it would appear he does, it will be best for both of you if you let him go without further ado. For Bill's sake, it is to be hoped that Mary's former treatment of him was due to a misunderstanding rather than a fundamental flaw in her own character, that she has now profited by the mistake and is prepared to give Bill the love he deserves.

Tell Him You Know

Rather than continuing a deception, it would be best for you to tell Bill you know he has been seeing Mary, and ask him what he wants to do. If he is uncertain, continue seeing him for a while; in the long run it may be harder on you to take this delaying action, but there is always a chance it will give you Bill for keeps. Don't nag him about Mary, go out on other dates yourself, and give him time to make decisions. Put it to him very definitely that the choice is his—even though you know the decision is now up to you.

There are, however, two other points to consider. One is Mary's personality. If you honestly feel that she hasn't the qualities Bill needs in a wife, you'd be actually hurting him if your surrendered you claim too easily. Then there is Bill's own character. Has he really been in love with you, or have you felt right along that his affection was transitory? You caught him on the rebound. Will he resent your trying to hold him, even if his feeling of obligation keeps him at your side?

My summing up of the situation is that Mary probably broke the engagement in a fit of pique and hastily regretted it, that she and Bill have never stopped loving each other and probably never will, and that under the circumstances it is best for you to let him go gracefully. It's much better for you to suffer heartache now than to wait a few years and have your heart completely broken. You will find someone else to take Bill's place as impossible as I know it seems now.

DEAR MISS DIX: For the past six months I've been going with a man in his late forties. He recently lost his job and since then has shut himself off from everyone. He won't come to see me unless I make a special point of asking him; when he comes he doesn't talk, and is very moody. I'd like to help him, but don't know how.

RUTH R.

ANSWER: For a man in his forties to lose a job can be a frightening thing. There still exists the erroneous but widespread theory that no one past 40 is capable of working and your friend probably fears the effect of this. He should not, since jobs are not too difficult to find nowadays, and even men in the dotage of the forties can be in demand.

He needs something to rebuild his confidence, and of course a job is what will be most effective. Continue to coax him to your house, give him the self-confidence that he needs to go out and get a job, then pray that he finds one. His moodiness may count against him if he lets it show to prospective employers. Try, gently, to make him realize it. Good luck.

DEAR MISS DIX: Which would make a better boy friend, a boy who seems to like me, but acts like a baby, or a boy, equally nice, who is more mature and reliable? We are all high school students. ANNABELLE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Definitely the more reliable boy. A boy who has been babied at home will expect the same treatment from a girl friend, and believe me, Annabelle, nothing is more boring than a boy who expects to be catered to every minute of the day. Avoid 'em like the plague.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Revelation of Canadian Cookery Talent

You may have read in one of our Canadian magazines for women that there was to be a Canada-ide contest for the best canned salmon recipes.

Out of the 20,000 recipes submitted 20 were tested and chosen in the magazine's home bureau in Toronto.

The contestants who originated these 20 salmon recipes were notified of their success. Besides winning a deluxe model electric range they were invited to go to Toronto, all expenses paid by the salmon canners and the magazine, to compete against one another at a public cooking party. The winner of the final contest was to win a new car.

I attended the cooking party, where each contestant actually made her own dish, and thought it was a wonderful show.

A broad section down the centre of the showroom was occupied by the 20 contestants who each had an electric range and refrigerator, and a table and chair to work at. The audience of 1,000 was seated by fours at tables on tiered platforms at the sides. The orchestra was on the stage at one end and the judging table was just below and in front of them. The brand new car was at the other end of the entrance.

The contestants seemed all to be pretty and efficient and composed.

I wish I could give you those prize-winning recipes here today but you will have to wait for the May issue of the magazine.

I spoke to Mrs. Gordon Hill of Chatham, Ontario, who was the winner of the car, long before we knew the decision. Her salmon and almond casserole looked as if it had prize-winning class from the outset, for I watched her coolly prepare the whole thing. Her two young daughters sat only two tables from me.

Mrs. Mahoney of Tweed, made Fish Pielets, using salmon. I was jealous of those judges as they tasted all of these mouth-watering dishes.

While we are waiting a whole month for the May issue of the magazine to arrive giving us these prize-winning dishes, let's try our hands at

Salmon Panada

A creation of my own that I think should have been sent into the contest. Blushing Violet shyly speaks again.)

One 1-lb. can red salmon or 1 pound of cooked fresh salmon; in frying pan melt 3 tablespoons butter, do not brown it — merely melt it. Add the salmon and break it into large chunks with a fork. Gently turn it over so that butter soaks into it — over very low heat. Meanwhile have ready 1 cup breadcrumbs made from crisply toasted bread. Soak these in 1½ cups of hot milk, mixing with fork. All the milk should be soaked up. This is where the dish gets its name—panada. To this hot panada add ½ cup finely chopped parsley, 1 small clove garlic chopped as fine as possible, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, and 3 tablespoons very soft butter. Mix well. Transfer hot salmon and butter to baking dish, spread panada over evenly, and sprinkle with grated old cheese, preferably Parmesan. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 30 minutes. Just before removing from oven, if it is not golden brown and crisp on top, raise it up to top of oven, turn on top burner and brown it to your satisfaction — but watch it closely. (Chopped almonds could be sprinkled over, but that's another story.)

What's Right?

You wish to recall yourself to a person you have met but who may not remember you.

WRONG: Go up to the person and say with a smile: "I'll bet you don't remember me."

RIGHT: Say to the person: "I'm John Jones. I believe we met at the Smith's house."

After-Meal Distress?

Don't let flatulence, heartburn or sour stomach spoil the pleasure of a good meal. Take a Digestif Rennie Tablet after eating —see how quickly you get relief. RENNIES contain antacid ingredients which help relieve indigestion fast. Carry a few RENNIES with you. 25c at Druggists.

Canadians Save Fair Amount Of '51 Income

OTTAWA, April 7—(CP)—Canadians salted away a fair chunk of their personal income in 1951.

A government budgetary white paper reported today that Canadians earned $15,818,000,000 last year and put $641,000,000 of it into personal savings, boosting total personal savings to $1,740,000,000.

In 1950, personal income totalled $13,457,000,000 and personal savings declined to $860,000,000 from $1,005,000,000 in 1949.

Expenditures on consumer goods and services ate up $13,062,000,000 of the 1951 personal income, compared with $11,862,000,000 in 1950, while direct taxes took $1,016,000,000, compared with $735,000,000.

Bulk Of Income

The bulk of 1951 personal income —$9,640,000,000—came from wages, salaries and supplementary labor income. Other sources included $2,191,000,000 as net farm income, $1,595,000,000 as net income of non-farm unincorporated business, $1,454,000,000 in interest, dividends and net rental income and $1,001,000,000 in government payments of various kinds.

The personal savings of $1,740,000,000 consctintued
000,000 constituted slightly less than 35 per cent of the nation's savings —$5,059,000,000— from all sources in 1951, compared with about 22 per cent in 1950, 30 per cent in 1949 and 27 per cent in 1948.

"While a good part of the increase in savings took the form of a reduction in consumer debt," the white paper said, "there was also some increase in liquid saving."

50 AAs Attend Convention

Fifty members of Alcoholics Anonymous from Peterborough branches attended the weekend convention in Toronto. An estimated 1,500 AAs and their friends came from all parts of Ontario.

Hank G. of New York, one of the speakers who is also a trustee of the Alcoholic Foundation, said the success of AA lay in the common bond of "one drunk talking to another."

An alcoholic is like a sealed teapot set on a hot stove, he said. He is ready to explode inside. But when he can tell his problems to others in a similar predicament, it is like removing the seal and the cause of the explosion.

Help 125,000

Since 1935 AA has helped 125,000 people, said the New York speaker.

He said that a chronic alcoholic must be ready to admit that he cannot continue to drink and survive.

There is no permanent cure for alcoholism, he said. But he conceded that there are some "normal drinkers." Each day after work he mixes a cocktail for his wife.

"How anybody can sip a highball for 20 minutes I don't know. The only way I ever wanted to drink was: Give it to me big and give it to me fast, and keep 'em rolling."

One of the speakers was a Peterborough AA.

Newfoundland

"As far as I have seen, the adoptions have been very successful," says Ellis A. Bonnet, the Consul General. More applicants are coming forward now than at any time since the bases were established in 1941.

Marriage to a serviceman does not automatically give U.S. citizenship to a Newfoundland girl, but speedy naturalization is arranged when the couple returns to the States. The same applies for adopted children.

But babies born of an American father and a Newfoundland mother can start waving the Stars and Stripes as soon as they are old enough to lift a flag—providing Daddy is over 21 and has fulfilled certain residence requirements in the United States. If not, the youngster has to be naturalized along with his mother."

Frank Bedore

NORWOOD, April 7—(ENS)—Funeral of Frank Bedore, 58, of Norwood, was held Saturday afternoon from his late residence, with the Rev. R. D. Duncanson officiating and burial in Norwood cemetery.

Mr. Bedore died Thursday at his residence following a lingering illness.

Pallbearers were William Montgomery, Herbert Campbell, Armar Weir, Harry Clements, William Golloher, Harry Rogers. Flower bearers were Merrell Spencer, Russell Kavanagh, David Bongard, Alfred Bongard, George Oitment Sr., Clifford Davey, Charles Puffer, Maitland Kirk, Ernest Haig, Victor McConnell.

Inflationary Pressure Under Control Abbott Tells Commons

By GEORGE KITCHEN

OTTAWA, April 7. (CP)—Inflationary pressures have been brought under control, though the underlying inflationary potential remains high, the government reported today in a financial white paper. The paper, giving a review of the 1951 general economic position, said the opening months of 1952 showed that the outward inflationary pressures have been curbed. At the same time, it warned that any series of events which sharply raised international tensions "could bring about a renewal of direct inflationary pressures that might seriously test our economic defences."

But, for the moment, the prospects for 1952 indicated "continued high levels of employment and general business activity, without any renewal of overt inflation, and with most of the increased output occurring in the defence and defence-supporting sections of the economy."

The white paper, ordinarily issued with the budget, was made available this year a day earlier? Finance Minister Abbott brings down his budget in the Commons Tuesday evening.

Not Even

The paper said those inflationary pressures which still persist are not evenly distributed through the economy.

At some points in some regions, the economy was likely to be "fully or more than fully extended." At other points and in other regions, the available resources likely would fall short of "full utilization."

"While these contrasting situations will not persist indefinitely, it may take time to adjust them since resources both in labor and plant and equipment are not fully or easily transferable, either technically or geographically."

Noting the steps taken to control inflation, the paper reported that total money supply and bank loans levelled off or declined slightly during 1951 after a sharp rise in 1950. Consumer credit outstanding, which increased by nearly 30 per cent in 1950, declined by about four per cent during 1951.

Prices went up in 1951 and, in the entire period from the outbreak of the Korean war in 1950 to date, the wholesale price index rose by slightly less than 11 per cent and the cost-of-living index by almost 13 per cent.

Steady Decline

For 1951, as a whole, wholesale prices average 13.7 per cent above 1950, but the larger part of the increase was confined to the first quarter. It has declined steadily since last July. The index of farm products also shot higher, but by February, 1952, was back to the rate of January, 1951.

Except for December, the cost-of-living index rose every month in 1951. For the year, the increase amounted to 11 per cent, but most of the rise occurred in the first two quarters. Declines in February and March of this year brought it back to August, 1951.

Preliminary estimates placed gross national product at $21,241,000,000 against $18,122,000,000 in 1950 and $16,462,000,000 in 1949. Allowing for the upward movement of prices of about 11 per cent, the government estimated the "real increase in product was something more than five per cent.

Gross national income was estimated at $17,229,000,000 against $14,555,000,000 and $13,194,000,000. Personal income was $15,818,000,000 against $13,457,000,000 and $12,757,000,000.

Personal Spending

Personal spending on consumer goods and services was shown at $13,062,000,000 against $11,862,000,000 and $10,963,000,000. Another $1,016,000,000 of the personal income total went for taxes, compared with $735,000,000 and $789,000,000.

The remainder of personal income went into personal savings, which totalled an estimated $1,740,000,000, compared with $860,000,000 in 1950 and $1,005,000,000 in 1949.

Labor income was estimated at $9,640,000,000, 17 per cent above 1950. Annual average earned income per paid worker rose from $2,316 in 1950 to $2,551 in 1951.

Average weekly earnings in nine leading non-agricultural industries average $49.61 against $44.84. The December figure was $52.41 for 1951 and $46.63 in 1950. Hourly earnings in manufacturing were $1.24 at the end of 1951, compared with $1.08 a year earlier.

Higher Employment

Part of the increase in total Labor income was accounted for by higher employment. The number of people employed throughout 1951 averaged $5,175,000, an increase of 129,000 over 1950. The civilian labor force, which includes both employed and unemployed, averaged $5,284,000, up to 67,000.

Investment in plant, equipment and housing continued to increase and formed a slightly larger share of gross national expenditure. It totalled $3,807,000,000 against $3,216,000,000 in 1950 and $2,968,000,000 in 1949.

Preliminary estimates indicated new residential construction declined to $778,000,000 from $801,000,000 in 1950, while other new construction rose to $1,215,000,000 from $1,026,000,000 and investment in new machinery and equipment climbed to $1,814,000,000 from $1,389,000,000.

Budget Highlights

OTTAWA, April 7 (CP)—Highlights of the economic white paper tabled today in the Commons by Finance Minister Abbott:

Estimated budgetary surplus of $355,737,000 for the 1951-52 fiscal year compared with $211,294,000 for 1950-51.

Revenue for 1951-52 reached an all-time high at $4,003,111,000, an increase of $890,575,000.

Expenditures estimated at $3,647,374,000, an increase of $746,132,000.

Estimated national debt at end of fiscal year $11,077,600,000, a decrease of $2,343,800,000 from its peak of $13,421,400,000 in 1946.

Personal income tax yielded an estimated $980,000,000 in 1951-52, an increase of $327,700,000 or 50.2 per cent over the previous year.

Corporation income tax, largest source of revenue, yielded $1,134,000,000, an increase of $334,800,000 or 42 per cent over the previous year.

Excise duties down by more than $19,000,000 largely due to a drop in sales of tobacco products and alcoholic beverages.

OBITUARY

PETER STUART

Former head of the oat milling department of the Quaker Oats Company, Peter Stuart of 438 Rubidge St., died today in hospital following an illness of four months. He was born in Chicago, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Stuart, and came to Peterborough in 1916 where he was employed for the next 12 years. Ten years following that he worked in the company's American branches in Fort Dodge, Iowa, and St. Joseph, Mo.; he came back to Peterborough in retirement in 1938.

Mr. Stuart leaves his wife, the former Muriel T. Scott, and four sisters: the Misses Mileta, Hazel and Blanche, all of Pasadena, Calif., and Mary at Chicago. He attended the George Street United Church and was a member of Royal Arthur Lodge A.F. and A.M., Corinthian Chapter, Scottish Rite and Rameses Shrine.

Date of the funeral has not been decided; the Comstock funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

Plan Radar Stations

ROTTERDAM, April 7—(Reuters)—Plans are under way for four radar stations to be set up here to promote ship safety and help harbor pilots guide vessels into port during fog. Each harbor pilot going out to guide a vessel in will carry a portable radio telephone to keep him in constant contact with the shore-based radar stations.

Canada's Net Debt Drops $355,700,000 In 1951-2

OTTAWA, April 7 — (CP)—Canada's net debt dropped by $355,700,000 in the 1951-52 fiscal year—from $11,433,300,000 to $11,077,600,000—the government reported today in a budgetary white paper tables in the Commons.

The $355,700,000 figure represented Finance Minister Abbott's budgetary surplus from his 1951-52 financial operations. It is applied to the net debt.

The decline meant that the net debt has dropped $2,343,800,000 since it reached a post-war peak of $13,421,400,000 in 1946. At the outbreak of war in 1939, it totalled only $3,152,600,000.

Here are the net debt totals since 1939:

1939—$3,152,600,000; 1940—$3,271,300,000; 1941—$3,648,700,000; 1942 — $4,045,200,000; 1943— $6,182,800,000; 1944—$8,740,100,000; 1945—$11,298,400,000; 1946—$13,421,400,000; 1947 — $13,047,800,000; 1948 — $12,371,600,000; 1949—$11,776,100,000; 1950—$11,644,600,000; 1951 — $11,433,300,000; 1952 (estimated)—$11,077,600,000.

Cigarette Sales Cut Revenue

OTTAWA, April 7—(CP)—Reduced sales cut into the government's revenue from excise duties on cigarettes and alcoholic beverages in 1951-52, it was shown today in a budgetary white paper tabled in the Commons by Finance Minister Abbott.

Estimated total revenue from the duties on cigarette and drinks dropped $19,000,000 to $222,000,000 from $241,000,000 in 1950-51. Excise duties on cigarettes produced $102,000,000 against $114,500,000 and on alcoholic beverages $123,000,000 against $129,400,000.

The decline was offset by the higher excise tax—an additional Federal levy—which was put on tobacco products in the last budget. It yielded $110,000,000, an increase of $24,800,000 over the preceding year.

Representations have been made to Mr. Abbott to reduce tobacco taxes in his new budget on the ground it has reduced cigarette sales.

Given Contract For Hangar

OTTAWA, April 7. (CP)—A total of $49,200,000 worth of defence contracts was awarded during March 1-15, the Defence Production Department announced today.

Two big military contracts went to Montreal firms. Biggest single contract was one for $12,400,000 which went to Bristol Aeroplane Engines (Eastern) Ltd., Montreal, covering a two-year work contract for the repair and modification of aircraft engines.

An Edmonton firm, Alexander Construction Ltd., will erect 21 R.C.A.F. buildings at Cold Lake, Alta., costing $4,700,000. At Wainwright, Alta., a $1,000,000 water-treatment plant and storage reservoir will be built by Baynes Manning Ltd., of Vancouver. The plant will be for the R.C.A.F.

Construction of R.C.A.F. hangars featured over large contracts. Two of them, costing $2,100,000, will be built at Winnipeg by a Winnipeg firm, Bird Construction Co. The Carter Construction Co. of Toronto will erect another one at Trenton, at a cost of $1,000,000.

Says Workers Loaf On Job

NEW YORK, April 7 (AP) — Newbold Morris said today that some people on the federal payroll in Washington "have worked only a half-hour in six months."

Morris, fired last Thursday as a special assistant United States attorney-general assigned to clean up corruption, made the statement to The New York World-Telegram and Sun.

Morris said Attorney-General J. Howard McGrath resented his investigation "just as soon as he learned that I meant business." McGrath fired Morris and three hours later resigned.

Morris said neither James McGranery, nominated as attorney-general, nor J. Edgar Hoover, director of the F.B.I., "can do what my mission was supposed to accomplish, even if they were of a mind to attempt it."

Humane Society New Executive

Members of Humane Society executive committee elected at the society's annual meeting Thursday night are: Mrs. Mark Burnham, Mrs. R. N. Stuart, Mrs. Morley, Powell, Mrs. Fred Holmes, Mrs. E. J. MacDonald, Miss Mabel Collins, Miss Ethel McFadyen, Miss May Denne, Mrs. Charles Pilon, Mrs. T. Smith, Mrs. William Cole and Miss Bernice Garside.

Start Oil Prospecting In Israel Soon

JERUSALEM, April 7 — (Reuters)— The Canadian New Continental Oil Corporation will start prospecting for oil in Israel soon, a government official said today. Company president Frank Castel conferred about exploration here this morning with Israeli Agriculture and Development Minister Levy Eshkil.

New Continental is one of the several foreign concerns which applied for oil prospecting franchises.

The Canadian company is likely to start test drilling as soon as the Israeli parliament gives its official approval.

NORWOOD, April 7—(ENS)—Funeral for Phillip Fitzpatrick, 82, who died Wednesday at the home of his sister Mrs. E. H. White, 643 Charlotte St. Peterborough, following a short illness, was held Friday in St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church, Norwood.

Requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. C. J. Carroll, and burial in St. Paul's cemetery.

Pallbearers were, James, Joseph and John Fitzpatrick, Joseph O'Leary, Bernard Quinlan, Vincent Quinlan.

Order 4 Diesels

MONTREAL, April 7 — (CP) — Four diesel locomotives which will have the distinction of operating in the most northerly latitude of any railway diesels in North America have been ordered by the Canadian National, it was announced today by E. A. Bromley, vice-president. They will be placed in work train service on the C. N. R.'s new 147-mile development line now under construction between Sherridon and Lynn Lake in Northern Manitoba after delivery next August.

Building Hydrogen Bomb U.S. Senator Announces

WASHINGTON, April 7. (AP)—Chairman Brien McMahon (Dem., Conn.) of the Senate-House of Representatives Atomic Energy Committee, said Sunday night that "building a hydrogen bomb . . . is under way at the present time" by the United States. The senator made the statement in an interview. He did not make it clear whether he meant:

1. That scientists still are working toward finding out whether such a super-weapon can be built.

2. Or, on the other hand, that the study stage has been completed and actual construction of an H-bomb started.

McMahon brought up the subject when he was asked what could be done to avert a war with Russia.

Must Build Strength

He replied "we must continue to build up our influence and our strength," and added:

"I do not retreat from what I said in February, 1950, when we talked about building a hydrogen bomb, which is under way at the present time

"I pointed out that armaments were no substitute for disarmament because eventually armaments and armament races lead to conflict. So what we have got to do is bring about disarmament."

McMahon said "we have made great progress and strides in (atomic) weapon development." Then he said "the constant tests are evidence of that," and added: "You don't test old things and old ideas."

McMahon also announced that the atomic energy committee soon will hold a series of public hearings "on both peacetime uses and military applications of atomic energy."

British Budget Effects Studied By Canadian

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor.

R. P. Bower, commercial counsellor for Canada in London, comments on the recent British budget in the current issue of Foreign Trade, published by the foreign trade service of the Department of Trade and Commerce.

He says the effect of the budget on Canadian trade is difficult to assess, and adds, in part:

"Withdrawal of open-general-licence treatment from a number of commodities will not directly influence Canadian sales to the United Kingdom because none of the affected products are currently moving from Canada to the U.K.

"However, the austerity introduced in all recent U.K. corrective measures is bound to work toward a lowering of internal demand. Ultimately, this may have an adverse effect on Canadian exports, even of the so-called essentials, and more probably upon some of the products covered by token imports.

"On the other hand, the ultimate solvency of the U.K. is the best guarantee of a long-term market here for Canadian goods. Whatever the short-term consequences, therefore, the long-term goal of strengthening sterling is desirable.

"For U.K. exports to Canada, the budget is likely to be helpful."

C. N. R. Earnings

The annual report of the Canadian National Railways presents an illustrated fashion, where each dollar of 1951 revenue came from, and where it went.

Where it came from: freight 79.8 cents; passengers 7.6; mail and express 6.2; other revenue 6.4.

Where it went: payrolls 56.1 cents, fuel 9.5; available for interest 5.1; depreciation and retirements 4.1; track material 3.9; pensions 2.0; taxes 1.9; other expenses 17.4.

Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada, Ltd., has the longest power span in the world across Kootenay Lake in Southeastern British Columbia. It is 10,656 feet long, more than two miles, or some 3,000 feet longer than its nearest rival, in Switzerland.

The line consists of three two-mile cables, the third of which was put in recently by Dominion Bridge Co., Ltd. It is in the new 87-mile power line from plants on the Kootenay River, near Nelson, to the company's operations at Kimberley, and is part of a $63,000,000 expansion program.

British Post Office Ends Guide Service

LONDON, April 7 (Reuters).—Citizens who lose their way can no longer ask Britain's general post office for a special messenger to take them home, but anyone can still send a cow or a dog through the mails provided it is docile and has a rope around its neck, the House of Commons was told Sunday.

Asking the House to allow the post office £70,000,000 for capital development, assistant postmaster general David Gammans detailed some of the services it offers.

He said: "Until recently any gentleman who was unable to find his way home could go to the nearest post office and ask to be taken there by special messenger.

"He could in fact post himself home," he said.

First Car Auction

TORONTO, April 7 —(CP) — Cliff Ashworth, a successful salesman of cars in Canada, staged his first English-style automobile auction Saturday. Five auctioneers sold more than 1,100 spare parts and eight cars as a crowd of 1,000 watched.

Prairie Farmers Preparing For Busy Springtime Harvest

REGINA, April 7—(CP)—The calendar says spring, but Western farmers are getting ready to harvest.

As winter snows melt and run-off water builds up into small lakes in the Prairie sloughs, about 130,000,000 bushels of grain from the 1951 crop is lying in the fields in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The Western farmer is preparing to tackle a job that might well baffle the more orthodox agriculturist. He has to get one crop off, put another in, all in a short space of time.

The large holdover from the fall harvest, amounting to from one-quarter to one-third of the crop, was caused by winter's early onslaught. A large part of the grain that was harvested in the fall was taken off so sodden it needed artificial drying, but that's another story.

The chances are that when the farmer gets his spring harvesting started, the grain will grade better, and bring him more money, than that taken off in the fall. But he has to be sure the grain is dry before he goes to work on it.

That is not too much of a problem, because the experts say that by the time the land is firm enough to support the weight of a combine, the grain will certainly be dry.

Situation Extreme

Most springs there is some grain from the previous year's crop left over to be harvested. But this year's situation is extreme. In Saskatchewan there are about 88,000,000 bushels of wheat in the fields, and there are an additional 56,000,000 bushels of oats and barley. The wheat is roughly one quarter of the 329,000,000-bushel wheat crop.

About three-fifths of the unharvested wheat lies in the swath. That means it was cut before the winter set in. Some is in stook—arranged in conical piles in the fields. The rest was left standing.

Agriculturists say there is likely to be little difference in the condition of the wheat, whether standing or in the swath. But the uncut grain will have been knocked down by the snow and will be much more difficult to handle than the swathed grain.

About 42 per cent of the wheat harvested in Saskatchewan last fall graded No. 3 Northern or better. (The top grade is No. 1 Northern). Experts say the grain harvested this spring could improve by as much as two grades over the fall harvest.

The main hazard is spring rain which could drive the grain into the soil and cause deterioration.

Hardest Hit

Most of Saskatchewan's unharvested grain is in the northeastern crop district, around Humboldt, Melfort and Hudson Bay, and in the west-central area, which includes Kindersley and North Battleford. The unthreshed area covers some 5,500,000 acres and of this 4,600,000 acres is wheat.

The spring harvest certainly will delay seeding the new crop. But in many cases the unharvested fields are earmarked for summer-fallow this year. There the farmer will be able to get his seeding done first, then turn to the 1951 crop.

Alberta has an estimated $80,000,000 worth of the old crop still in the fields. This includes 40,000,000 bushels of wheat, 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 bushels of barley and 30,000,000 bushels of oats. Manitoba, which grows grain on a smaller scale than the two provinces to her west, fared better last fall and has only trifling amounts still to be harvested.

So far the spring has been dry and sunny. If present weather conditions continue, many fields should be sufficiently dried out in three weeks or so to allow the farmer to get at his spring harvest.

Lakefield School Hobby Fair Draws Hundreds Of Guests

LAKEFIELD, April 7 (ENS) — Hundreds of interested guests thronged the rooms of Lakefield public school on Friday evening when the Home and School Association held their annual Fair and Hobby Show. Guests were received by president, Mrs. Stanley Burger and Mrs. J. L. Fraser, Mrs. T. Corkery, Mrs. William C. Grant and Mrs. C. Coons.

The event is designed to give pleasure to both young and old and as well as the many interesting hobbies on display, there were movies for the children which were in charge of Ken Jakins, A. W. Newson, Clarence Coons and Stanley Burger. Of special interest for the children also was the fish pond managed by Mrs. W. Webb and the ice cream booth where Mrs. Gerald Northey and her helpers did a thriving business.

The ever popular home cooking table was convened by Mrs. E. Rogers and Mrs. H. E. Gastle and Mrs. J. L. Delaney were soon out of their supply of home-made candy.

The kindergarten room was converted into a tea room, in charge of Mrs. C. H. Hunter and Mrs. Harold Deeth. A cutwork cloth covered the table, which was centred with a most attractive arrangement of spring flowers in a silver holder, flanked with yellow tapers in silver candalabra. Silver tea services at either end of the table were presided over by Mrs. W. B. Walker, Mrs. R. H. Campbell, Mrs. R. E. Sutton and Mrs. C. Coons.

The children's hobbies were in charge of Mrs. T. Corkery and Mrs. J. A. Arnott, and to this department a contribution was made by each child in the Public School, and by many of the High School. The Public School display was quite varied and included knitting, sewing, modelling, map making and art, while the High School's contribution was almost entirely sketches, maps and paintings. Of special mention was the manual training display by pupils, both boys and girls, of the Public School. This included such articles as lawn chairs, brackets and pin-up lamps.

The adult hobby show was especially fine this year. Outstanding was a display by Mrs. J. Orr, now of Peterborough, but formerly of Holland and that of Mrs. J. Prikker also from Holland. These displays included hand woven blankets, wooden shoes, mosaic pictures, a Holland "tea service", complete with tiny stove for keeping the tea hot and many other interesting items. Leather work, including purses, billfolds, etc., done by both Mr. and Mrs. C. Lilley drew many favorable comments. A glass tank of tropical fish displayed by Ralph Millage were interesting as were several large toy airplanes with motors displayed by Jack Millage.

Art exhibited in the adult section was done by Mrs. M. Deck, Miss Eleanor Deck, Mrs. C. Coons, Mrs. L. J. Delaney, Mrs. S. E. White, John McKerchar and Oscar Schlienger.

Mrs. J. McKerchar and Mrs. Kenneth Kichty gave practical demonstrations of their handicraft, the former was weaving and the latter smocking. Both had several finished products on display.

Both the Junior Institute class and the Sea Scouts had excellent exhibits. In charge of Adult Hobbies was Mrs. T. E. M. Last and general conveners for the Fair were Mrs. J. L. Fraser and Mrs. Clarence Coons.

Norwood W.M.S. Sets Date For Spring Tea

NORWOOD, April 7 (ENS) — The Woman's Missionary Society of Norwood United Church held their Easter meeting in the Sunday school room with Mrs. John Starke in charge. It was decided unanimously that the group send for badges for the C.G.I.T. After some discussion, May 10 was chosen as the date for the spring bazaar and tea.

Mrs. Fred Gardner and her group then took charge of the program, the theme being "Easter gave us the Bible." Mrs. Gardner led in prayer. The following ladies took part in the program, Mrs. John Starke, Mrs. S. S. Breckon, Mrs. Rork Ferguson, Mrs. Robert J. Leeper, Mrs. Robert J. Girven, Miss Maizie Buck and Mrs. A. E. Hogg. Mrs. John Gardiner led in prayer and gave the benediction.

River Hogs

NOTTINGHAM, England (CP)—A fishing association is asking for legislation limiting the speed of barges on a local river. It complains the barges create a wash which undermines the banks and causes anglers to be thrown into the river.

Business As Usual

CARMAN, Man. — (CP) — The Dufferin Agricultural Society decided to go ahead with preparations for their 73rd annual exhibition in mid-July, after considering the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan recently. The fair learned that Brandon, Portage and various other fair boards are going ahead with arrangements.

trim your figure

NOT YOUR HEALTH

IT'S 100 TO 1 YOU'RE NOT GETTING ENOUGH VITAMINS and MINERALS

If you're dieting to trim your figure, don't impair your health. All too often, people on a diet overlook the necessity of a proper balance in the food they eat and the necessity of eating foods in the combination that provide sufficient vitamins and minerals. 100 to 1, you're not getting enough vitamins and minerals. If you're doubtful about the vitamin and mineral content of your diet, then supplement your meals with R 7-11, a formula composed of 7 vitamins and 4 minerals in a palatable liquid—pleasant tasting and quick acting.

VITAMIN B DEFICIENCIES

B Vitamins are among the commonest of all dietary deficiences. R 7-11 provides an ample supply of Vitamins B1, B2, B6 niacin and D-panthenol in every daily dose of merely three tablespoons—PLUS the other vitamins and minerals so frequently short in most diets planned to trim the figure. Full directions and a list of all the valuable contents of R 7-11 are printed on each box. Go to your drug store and ask for R 7-11 . . . it's a health insurance for slimming diets.

CHANGE YOUR FIGURE —NOT YOUR NATURE

Don't become anti-social, irritable and moody. What you eat and how much you eat can determine whether you'll be a peaceful individual or a wild-eyed character bent on revolution. A slim diet can dull your interest in the opposite sex. Lack of certain foods can make you unsociable, dull, hard of hearing, dim of eyesight and slow in reactions. Properly balanced meals may help you get a promotion and a raise. The addition of R 7-11 as a daily food supplement can help you maintain the important balance in your body chemistry. Try R 7-11 today.

Stiffer Penalties Recommended Against Drivers

OTTAWA, April 8. (CP)—A Royal Commission on revision of the Criminal Code has recommended changes to facilitate action against persons responsible for motor-car deaths, dangerous driving and speeding. The recommendation was contained in a report tabled in the Commons Monday by Justice Minister Garson. The commission urged that criminal negligence be so defined as to cover cases of motor-manslaughter, dangerous driving, speeding and similar offences. The existing definition, said the report, was too broad. It had caused a great deal of confusion, particularly in motor-manslaughter cases, as to the degree of negligence required to sustain a conviction against an accused person.

In a draft bill appended to the report, the Commission inserted this definition of criminal negligence:

"Every one is criminally negligent who shows a wanton or reckless disregard for the lives or safety of other persons by doing anything, or by omitting to do anything that is his duty to do."

Duty would mean a duty imposed by law or a duty for the breach of which a person could be found liable in civil proceedings.

Same Maximum Penalty

Deaths resulting from criminal negligence would carry the same maximum penalty as manslaughter —life imprisonment. Bodily injury to another as a result of criminal negligence would carry a maximum penalty of 10 years.

The recommended changes, said a Justice Department official, might make it easier to obtain convictions particularly in motor-manslaughter cases. Juries were reluctant at times to convict a man of manslaughter, but they might convict him of criminal negligence.

Mr. Garson did not indicate when he tabled the 10,000-word report whether the government plans to accept the recommendations of the commission and submit them to parliament for approval.

Make Recommendations

The Commission, established to eliminate inconsistencies or defects in the code, made these other recommendations:

1. That the death penalty for rape be abolished and replaced by a maximum penalty of life imprisonment and the lash. The death penalty has only been imposed once in a rape case and that sentence later was commuted to life imprisonment.

2. That minimum sentences for crimes be abolished and that the code provide only maximum penalties. The existing code outlines the maximum and minimum penalties which may be imposed. The change would give the court more freedom to fit the punishment to the crime.

3. That all charges be based on the criminal code or on Canadian statutes. At present charges can be laid under the common law of England and under old English statutes.

4. That in cases where a person has been convicted of driving while impaired, the court have power to suspend his driving licence.

5. That a judge be allowed to suspend the sentence of first offenders without the consent of Crown counsel.

6. That the jurisdiction of magistrates be extended to reduce the number of offences which must be tried by a judge and jury.

Two Million Voting In Illinois

CHICAGO, April 8 — (CP) — An estimated 2,000,000 voters went to the polls throughout Illinois today while the rest of the United States watched to see which of the presidential hopefuls they prefer.

The 2,000,000-vote would be the biggest in a decade. Weather and the political temperature— both warm— made it a distinct possibility.

This is the fifth of 16 States which hold primaries in election years to give voters an apportunity to indicate which of the presidential aspirants they like.

In Illinois the race is for popularity alone, although the results may influence the actions of 50 Democratic and 50 Republican delegates to the National party nominating conventions in July.

These 100 delegates will be elected today and 10 more for each party will be named at State conventions.

Major contenders on the ballot for the Republican preference are Senator Robert Taft of Ohio and former governor Harold Stassen of Minnesota. There was a strong write-in campaign under way for Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, however.

Kefauver Alone.

Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee is alone on the Democratic ballot, but he faced a write-in upsurge for Illinois governor Adlai Stevenson. Voters can write in Stevenson's name for president and also put an "x" by his unopposed listing for nomination as governor. Both will be counted.

For Stevenson, today's election may be the point at which he decides finally whether or not to seek the Democratic nomination as president.

Thomson Purchases Florida Newspaper

TORONTO, April 8 — (CP). — Roy Thomson, publisher of 15 Canadian newspapers, announced today he has purchased the St. Petersburg, Florida Independent, for $750,000.

The evening paper publishes six days a week and has a circulation of 35,000.

Mr. Thompson said he proposes acquiring further American newspapers if they become available. He now owns 14 Canadian dailies and one weekly, the Orillia (Ont.) Packet and Times.

Labor Scoring New Gains In UK

LONDON, April 8 (AP)—The Labor Party continued its smashing gains in British county elections today by winning control of the Lancashire Council for the first time in history.

Lancashire is the heart of the British textile industry, recently hit by a growing depression. The Conservative government, which ousted Labor in the National election last October, so far has refused the industry's requests for sales tax cuts to stimulate buying.

Labor chalked up a net gain of 29 council seats, winning 65 to 50 for the Conservatives and six for Independents.

Ratepayer Requests Higher Assessment

DORCHESTER, April 8. (CP)—Santa Claus has come to town.

One North Dorchester township ratepayer complained Monday to council that he considered his assessment too low and asked to have it increased.

It was.

Sam McCartney, operator of a cheese factory here, told council he thought he was getting more benefit from a drain than his $17 assessment.

Another taxpayer, a newcomer to the district, felt his assessment of $797 was too high by $100.

"Take the $100 off his and put it on mine," Mr. McCartney said. Council did.

Egyptian Papers Divided On Progress Of Talks

CAIRO, April 8 (Reuters).—Egyptian newspapers took opposite sides in the rumor game today, one suggesting that Anglo-Egyptian talks were near a breakdown, another saying that they were proceeding smoothly.

Al Misri reported that angry scenes took place Monday when Sir Ralph Stevenson, British Ambassador, had an interview with Prime Minister Hilaly Pasha on their countries' differences.

It accused Britain of deliberately trying to undermine the talks which are aimed at settling the dispute over British occupation of the Suez Canal zone, and Egypt's demands for control of the Sudan.

The paper Al Ahram differed sharply with Al Misri, suggesting that a basis for settlement is near.

Al Misri said Stevenson told the Prime Minister that the internal affairs of the Sudan—now studying Britain's proposals for a new constitution—were none of Egypt's business and had no bearing on the present talks.

"It is reported Hilaly became so angry at this statement that he could hardly control his passion," Al Misri reported.

"He told Stevenson he could not accept such a contention, and that he considered Stevenson's statement to be tantamount to rupture of the talks and a proof that Britain does not sincerely wish to re-establish her relations with Egypt on a friendly basis."

But Al Ahram forecast that the talks would be carried on, and suggested that Britain would modify her attitude of "hands off the Sudan."

Has Mental Defects Expert Says

Youth Remanded In Custody Of Hospital Supt.

BOWMANVILLE, April 8.—(Special)—Harold Deneau, 16-year-old ward of the Bowmanville training school, today was declared unfit to stand trial for the bludgeon-slaying of Sidney James Goff, 36-year-old Cartwright township farmer, who befriended him.

Dr. C. S. Tennant, forensic psychiatrist for the Ontario Department of Health, said: "I have no hesitation in reporting him (Deneau) not fit to stand trial."

Low I. Q.

The doctor said the accused would not understand what was going on if he were sent on for trial, nor would he be able to instruct counsel. He said Deneau's intelligence quotient was 76, giving him a mental age of less than nine years.

Deneau was charged with the March 16 killing of Sidney James Goff in a barn on the Goff farm. The slain man's body was found under a pile of straw in a feed alley in the barn. The killer had pulled a grain sack over Goff's crushed head.

Dr. Tennant said he spent two hours examining the accused in Cobourg jail. "I found he (Deneau) was not suffering from any mental illness," Dr. Tennant told court, "but found marked evidence of mental defect."

The doctor said Deneau's general knowledge was extremely limited and substantiated his statement by reference to the examination he conducted in Cobourg. The boy said he thought the Queen of England was Princess Margaret; believed England to be about 1,200 miles away; did not know the name of the country to the south of Canada, but knew that the United States was close by; could not give even the approximate population of any city, town or country.

Further referring to his investigation, the psychiatrist said the youth was poor in mental arithmetic. He could not multiply nine by three and get 27, the doctor said, nor could he add nine and three mentally.

Remanded To Hospital

Deneau was remanded in custody of the superintendent of the Ontario Hospital at Whitby for a further series of tests as to his mental condition.

The youth went to the Goff farm from the Ontario Training

Steal Smokes Worth $6,417

HAMILTON, April 8 (CP). — Inspector of detectives Walter Hagan announced today that a west-end tobacco warehouse had been entered sometime during the weekend and over $6,000 worth of cigarettes stolen.

Police said that 32 cases of cigarettes with a value of $6,417 had been taken.

The manager of the company said that the federal budget probably cut down the loss considerably.

"We cut down our stock because we knew the budget was coming down this week. The thieves took everything we had. But if it hadn't been for the budget it would have been worse," he said.

Break For Dunkers

PHILADELPHIA, April 8. (AP)—New social horizons opened before the habitual dunker today—a doughnut with a handle. A "new utilitarian tennis-racket model" made its debut in city hall courtyard. It was given a test run by the first contributor to the 1952 Salvation Army drive. He also received a free cup of coffee to slosh around in. The handle, about three inches long, is an extension of the doughnut itself. After eating down to the handle, the dunker is apparently on his own again.

BRIDGE WASHED OUT—Pounded by huge ice boulders and rising waters for two days the $1,000,000 Saskatchewan Landing bridge, 35 miles north of Swift Current, had three central steel spans swept away. The spans, weighing hundreds of tons, were hurled 40 feet, then sank in the South Saskatchewan river. Premier T. C. Douglas placed damage at between $200,000 and $300,000. He said the bridge will be repaired and ferry service will be set up.

Reds Hint Willing To Trade

MUNSAN, Korea, April 8. (AP)—Communist negotiators hinted today they are ready to give in on Russia as a "neutral nation" to help supervise a Korean truce if the Allies would permit the Reds to repair their airfields. The hint was indirect. It was so broad it might have been overlooked if Communist newspapermen had not previously said the Reds were ready to make such a trade. The hint came from Maj.-Gen. Hsieh Fang in a 3½-minute session of a subcommitte of truce negotiators. He was explaining why the Reds asked the subcommittee to take the question of truce supervision out of the hands of staff officers.

Hsieh said the purpose was "to settle" the two key questions "together."

U.N. command negotiators took no official notice of the hint. Hsieh did not elaborate and the meeting adjourned.

Bradley Hopeful

Almost simultaneously with the brief meeting, Gen. Omar Bradley, speaking in Macon, Ga., said he had great hope for a peaceful settlement of the Korean war. The chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs of staff denounced as absurd the Red demand Soviet Russia police an armistice.

In the truce village of Panmunjom this is the way Hsieh hinted the Communists were willing to forget their Russian demand for a consideration:

"Since your side refused to discuss and settle the question of airfield restrictions in the staff officer meetings, we suggested the resumption of sub-delegation meetings to settle the question of airfield restrictions together with the question of nomination of neutral nations."

Maj.-Gen. William K. Harrison, senior U.N. subcommitteeman, told reporters the statement "was false in that the question of airfields was excluded from the staff officers meeting by agreement."

He said the Reds "have not come out with any definite proposal. I think all of us have learned there is no use trying to guess what the Communists mean by insinuation and hint."

Observers suggested the Reds might be jockeying to get the U.N. delegates to propose a trade. The Allies are waiting for the Reds to make their moves.

Jail Costello 18 Months For Refusing To Testify

NEW YORK, April 8. (AP)—Gambler Frank Costello was fined $5,000 and sentenced to 18 months in prison today for refusing to testify before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee. Sentence was pronounced by Judge Sylvester J. Ryan who denied Costello's last-minute effort to obtain a mistrial.

The sentence will be served in a federal prison.

It will be the first time Costello, with a long career as a rackets boss, has served time behind bars since 1915, when he spent 10 months in jail for carrying a gun.

Four Terms

The punishment included four terms of one year each, to run concurrently and three of six months each, also to run concurrently. The two sets of sentences are to run consecutively.

Costello, convicted last Friday on 10 counts of contempt of the senate, could have received a maximum of 10 years in prison and $10,000 in fines.

Costello's lawyer said he will appeal.

It was Costello's second trial on the contempt charges. The first ended last January because the jury disagreed.

Suchan Not Well Moved To Hospital

TORONTO, April 8 — (CP)— Steve Suchan was taken from the Don jail Monday night to Toronto General Hospital when he was found to have a high temperature.

Suchan, 24, has been charged, together with Leonard Jackson, with murder in the shooting of Sergeant of Detectives Edmund Tong. He was returned from Montreal by plane five days ago where he was in hospital with bullet wounds suffered in his capture. Since his arrival here he has been in jail hospital.

Hospital physicians said today that Suchan's condition is "satisfactory" but he is expected to stay in the hospital for "a few days anyway." A 24-hour police guard has been placed at his bed.

Red Artillery Shells Ships

SEOUL, Korea, April 8 (AP).—Red artillery shells splashed all around the American minesweeper Endicott when she swept into Chongjin harbor, 70 miles from Soviet Russia, the U.S. Navy reported today.

Shore batteries fired 75 rounds of 120 millimeter shells at the converted destroyer, the Navy said, and the Endicott was "straddled many times" by the shell bursts.

The Endicott, other U.N. warships and planes from the U.S. aircraft carrier Philippine Sea opened up on the Red batteries and silenced them.

Warships furnished most of Monday's action, and today started out the same way, as clouds and rain dampened air and ground action.

Red shore artillery fired star shells in an effort to locate the U.S. destroyer Hamner which was harassing Communist positions near the eastern end of the 155-mile ground front last night. All fell short.

British planes from the light carrier Glory pounded Reds in the western hills while three warships hit Communist targets with an international rocket barrage. The rocket attack was made by the British Frigate crane and the American destroyer Chevalier and Rocket Ship 403.

The U.S. Eighth Army reported the Reds attempted three light probes Tuesday morning along the ground front. All were thrown back.

Wanted—One Pied Piper For Helgoland Rats Driving Returning Germans Off Island

HELGOLAND, Germany, April 8. (AP)—For seven years, this rocky little North Sea island has been bombed so heavily it would seem nothing could live on it.

But the rats did. Millions of them. There are so many that the Germans—who at long last have won the island back from the R.A.F.—now are wondering how to retake it from the rodents.

Helgoland was used as a bombing-practice target by the R.A.F. from the war's end until last March 1. Then the British turned it back to German control. The Germans are planning to rebuild and resettle the place. But they'll have to get rid of the rats first.

The rodents are making life miserable for the advance guard of German workers now cleaning up bomb debris. They gnaw through the strongest cabinets and eat up the food supplies. They chew workers' shoes, tunnel through walls, undermine floors, and cut telephone lines with their strong sharp teeth.

Rat hunts have become the spare time occupation of the workers. Poison attacks also were considered, but that would kill the birds for which the island used to be famous.

Nearby Hamelin had a similar rat problem once. But it's been some years since a pied piper was heard of.

Wage Chief Hints Steel Strike May Be Settled

NEW YORK, April 8. (AP)—The government's wage chief said today he had "some confidence" that the steel wage dispute may be settled before a country-wide strike at midnight tonight. It was the most hopeful sign in recent days in the darkening steel picture, that has already caused mills to begin cooling their furnaces in expectation of a shutdown. Nathan P. Feinsinger, chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board, told reporters he has presented some suggestions to the industry, and now will present them in a separate conference to United Steelworkers (C.I.O.) leaders. This is the first time, he said, he has offered direct suggestions for a settlement in five days of talks.

May Seize Industry

Meanwhile in Washington the commerce department today was reported ready to operate the strike-threatened steel industry in the event President Truman decides on government seizure.

Officials gave this word to reporters today on the heels of public disclosure that Truman has asked Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer to interrupt a mid-western tour and return here immediately.

These officials said seizure orders have been drafted for Truman's signature.

However, there apparently has been no definite decision to seize the industry.

Mill shutdowns already have made idle more than 100,000 of the 650,000 United Steelworkers (C.I.O.) ordered to strike some 98 steel producing companies.

Allied industries, such as railroads, also are laying off workers in the expectation of losing business.

Already the walkout is on at Lone Star Steel Company in northeast Texas. Vice-president

Would Trade With Red China

LONDON, April 8. (AP)—Word from Moscow that Communist China might buy British fabrics got a lightning "let's talk business" reply from Britain's slump-stricken textile industry Monday night.

Lord Boyd Orr, leader of a British trade delegation to the Kremlin-sponsored trade conference now going on in Moscow, sent cables Monday to textile organizations saying:

"Urge send responsible representatives with samples. Immediate business. Missing opportunity."

By nightfall the chamber of commerce in Manchester, heart of the British textile industry, sent him this answer:

"Consulting other cotton and rayon organizations. Request immediate information regarding types and quantities required in yarns and fabrics."

Abbott Presents Federal Budget At 8 Tonight

OTTAWA, April 8—(CP)—The Federal budget, with its story of what this 1952-53 fiscal year holds for the Canadian taxpayer, will be brought down in the Commons tonight by Finance Minister Abbott.

Amid indications that any tax relief will be meagre, Mr. Abbott will begin his budget speech at approximately 8 p.m. EST. After his customary review of the past year's fiscal operations, he may reach the taxation portion an hour later.

Both Mr. Abbott and Prime Minister St. Laurent have warned taxpayers not to expect much tax relief while the Korean war and other international tensions continue.

Main Possibilities

Three main possibilities exist:

1. An easing of the excise tax on cigarettes, which was boosted last year. Preliminary government statistics already have shown that the government lost money on excise duties on tobacco last year because of reduced sales. The high tax also has led to increased smuggling of cheaper American smokes.

2. A realignment of income tax schedules which would incorporate into the basic tax rates the 10-percent defence surcharge placed on personal and corporation incomes in the last budget. This does not necessarily mean there will be alterations in income tax, though some adjustments are possible.

3. A better break for the taxpayer who has medical bills to deduct from his income for tax purposes. The Commons recently adopted—apparently with government agreement—a private resolution asking that limits on the amount of deductable medical expenses be widened.

High Living Costs Cutting Down Nudists

LONDON, April 8 (AP) — The high cost of living in the nude has wiped out one-fifth of the back-to-nature clubs in Britain since last Summer.

This was reported today by the Sunshine Press Agency, a trade journal.

The Agency estimated the number of organized nudists in the United Kingdom now at a bare 50,000 and blamed the drop in membership on rising costs which have boosted dues from 10 to 15 per cent.

QUEEN ELIZABETH and the Duke of Edinburgh arrive by car at Buckingham Palace in London to participate in an investiture ceremony recently for those most closely connected with the funeral of her father, the late King George VI. Awards of the Royal Victorian Medal in silver went to persons who had provided personal services for the sovereign. The Queen and Duke drove from nearby Clarence House where they currently reside.

Goodfellow Says Few People Get Ont. Pension

TORONTO, April 8. (CP)—Welfare Minister Goodfellow said in the Ontario Legislature Monday that the government's new "pioneering" legislation to pay $40 monthly to totally disabled persons will be "quite restrictive." "A great many people are going to be disappointed," he said at a night sitting that gave second reading to the bill. It would be paid generally to those bedridden or in need of personal care. Where the $40 was below the amount a permanently disabled person would have received in direct municipal relief, the government indicated it will pay half of any extra payment made by the municipality to bring the pension up to relief levels.

Hon. G. H. Challies, vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, suggested a possible increase in hydro rates.

He said in his annual report: "The effects of costly fuel-electric generation and the rising costs of materials and labor must soon be reflected in hydro finances."

Hydro now was selling all the power produced but when Niagara expansion was completed the Commission would have a "modest reserve" of dependable capacity. After that, "the only answer within economic acceptability, is the St. Lawrence project."

End of Prosperity

Opposition leader Farquhar Oliver said the present "serious decline" in farm prices may mark the end of Canada's present overall prosperity.

"It may be that the fall of farm prices is the thing that will be the breaking point in the prosperity which we have known," the Liberal house leader said in speaking on his motion charging the government with a lack of policy to meet the problem.

Debate on the opposition motion developed into a full-time discussion that lasted for most of the afternoon sitting.

The government's reply to Mr. Oliver came in an amendment to his motion which said the house supported government measures "to provide an economic environment in which there may be a betterment in farm income and way of life." The government amendment carried on a voice vote, and no vote was taken on Mr. Oliver's motion.

Urges Cheese Subsidies

Mr. Oliver urged the province to resume subsidies on premium bacon and cheese and to subsidize freight charges on Western grain for Ontario cattle raisers.

Public Works Minister Thomas said nothing "fundamental" ever came out of a bonus.

"If you want bonuses, go and get our tobacco tax and use some of it," he told the Liberals.

The Liberal leader urged an "active advertising campaign" to increase the market for surplus food, and a reorganization of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph to make it meet farmers' needs.

"If that institution is to serve the needs for which it was founded, it should be removed from political influence," Mr. Oliver said.

Agriculture Minister Kennedy said the province had no control over the loss of beef, cheese and bacon markets. It had come to an agreement with the federal government, however, on a plan to offset some of the losses caused by the United States embargo on beef following the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease. And it was likely that Britain would sign a contract this year for Ontario cheese.

Farmers were producing more meat, milk and grain per acre than ever before in the province's history, and price increases had been negotiated this year for seven crops under the province's Farm Products Marketing Act.

Food Surplus Plan

W. J. Grummett, C.C.F. House leader, suggested another plan for disposing of surplus food supplies. The province and the federal government should agree to purchase the surpluses jointly and send them to Britain as a gift.

J. W. Allan (P.C., Haldimand-Norfolk) said surpluses were not so large that they could not be handled by the provincial or federal government, whichever was most directly interested. If the population increase continued its trend of the last 10 years, Canada would be faced with a shortage of food.

T. R. Dent (P.C., Oxford), a prominent Western Ontario cattle breeder, said he felt the beef and dairy cattle industry would return to normal as soon as the U.S. embargo ended. He felt that foot-and-mouth disease could be shown to be extinct in Canada in six months.

Peter Manley (L., Stormont) said the opposition was asking for bacon and cheese subsidies only as "emergency measures." As vice-president of the Stormont County Cheese Association, he said the cheese marketing problem would be severe in the near future. There were 30,000,000 pounds of cheese in storage and present production totalled 85,000,000 pounds.

"Misleading Farmers"

Albert Wren (Lib. - Lab., Kenora) charged the government with "misleading" farmers into thinking they had "little or nothing to worry about." Farmers were "greatly concerned" over their welfare, and labor shared their concern because poor farm conditions could hurt the entire economy.

During debate on an annual government bill to suspend for one year the operation of a statute which permits Ontario to collect five per cent of the federal income tax, Mr. Salsberg charged Premier Frost with "double talk" in saying Ottawa owed the five per cent to Ontario.

Ontario could have had $100,000,000 since 1947 if it collected its five-per-cent share. "We didn't because the government didn't want to. It is unfair to state the situation is that we want the money but Ottawa won't give it to us."

Some Difficulties

Premier Frost replied there were "practical difficulties in the way" of Ontario collecting the tax.

The "common sense" way, Mr. Frost said, was for Ontario to collect all the income tax and agree to give Ontario a cheque for its five-per-cent share. This would avoid duplication of tax collection.

The federal government had agreed with eight provinces to collect a number of provincial taxes such as corporation taxes, and pay them annual subsidies under the federal-provincial tax rental agreement. If Ottawa could do this, it could give Ontario and Quebec, which had not entered the agreement, cheques for their five-per-cent income tax share.

Ask Producers Cut Milk Price

LONDON, Ont., April 8. (CP)—Ontario milk producers will be asked to join distributors in seeking a lower price, it was indicated by directors of the Ontario Milk Distributors Association meeting here Monday.

The executive of the distributors' organization within two weeks will discuss application to the milk control board for a lower milk price because of the surplus supplies of milk becoming available throughout Ontario.

M. G. Simpson, secretary of the association, said the 600,000,000-pound surplus of milk forecast for Canada this year indicated that it would be necessary to seek a decrease in the price paid farmers for the product.

Lyle Chapple, of Chatham, raising the question in a meeting of directors with distributors from the district, said that in the Chatham area there was a growing surplus of milk.

"If the law of supply and demands holds, then the price of milk must go down," he said. "We owe it to the people who buy the milk to apply for a decrease in the price we pay, and we owe it to the farmer so that we can sell more."

Child Drowns

HAMILTON, April 8—(CP)—Richard King, 5, was drowned Monday in an old cow pond in west-end Hamilton. Playing with his six-year-old brother, Johnny, and a friend, the child apparently stepped out on a log and fell off.

Suggest Hitler On Mystery Sub

COPENHAGEN, April 8—(AP)—A dynamite blast which raised remnants of a sunken German submarine brought Danish speculation today that leading Nazis—perhaps even Hitler—tried to flee the falling Reich in a U-boat.

The sub was one of three bombed by the R.A.F. May 4, 1945. At least two were found sunk near the Danish coast. The fate of the third is unknown.

The dynamite charge, set off during salvage operations, broke a torpedo tube and raised huge amounts of rotting food. Investigation showed the U-boat was crammed with goods and carried no munitions.

No papers were found to identify the occupants nor to prove the deduction the U-boat might have contained high-ranking Nazis.

Some Danes wondered whether Hitler might have been one, although Allied investigation has indicated he probably died in a Berlin bunker as the Germans said he did.

The mystery of the submarine probably never will be solved.

Divers are blasting the ship to salvage steel. Corpses of those aboard have been carried away by the water, and only a few skulls have been left.

Local Builders Keen To Start In Smith

Several builders are interested in the Land Assembly Plan of housing development in which the federal and provincial governments are joining hands with the city.

W. Ross Thompson, of Davis-Thompson Co., informed the council Monday night that inquiries are coming to him about the time of completion of the survey of the Smith properties which are to be annexed.

"In order that a choice of lots may be made" is the explanation of that interest in Mr. Thompson's letter. "Several builders are definitely interested and have requested us so to advise you."

These men already have the building of some 200 houses to their credit, and more are planned for this year, in continuing their financing arrangements with the company.

Press Office Head Appointed To Mexico

OTTAWA, April 8—(CP)—Allan Anderson, 55, head of the press office of the External Affairs Department, has been appointed to the Canadian Embassy in Mexico and will leave Ottawa in June, it was learned today.

He will serve as No. 2 man at the Embassy, headed by C. P. Hebert, the Canadian Ambassador.

A native of Aberdeen, Scotland, he came to Canada as a boy and worked for some years on The Winnipeg Tribune. He entered the government service in 1943 with the Wartime Information Board and became assistant director of the Canadian Information Service, which succeeded the W.I.B. after the war. He joined the External Affairs Department in 1947.

Plan To Investigate High-Handed Actions

OTTAWA, April 8 — (CP) — Justice Minister Garson said Monday an investigation will be made into what an opposition member termed the "high-handed actions" of an American airline.

Ellen Fairclough (P.C., Hamilton West) asked what the government intends to do about the action of American Airlines in having eight Canadian employees taken to Buffalo, N.Y., for lie-detector tests in conection with a $75 robbery at the line's Toronto office. Mr. Garson said: "The matter will be investigated."

Masonic Hall Fire Ties Up Traffic

HAMILTON, April 8—(CP)—Hundreds of automobiles were held up for almost two hours this morning when fire broke out in the Masonic Hall at nearby Hamilton Beach.

Fire hoses were laid across the pavement at the scene and traffic was halted for miles in both directions. Hundreds of persons were late for work.

The building suffered extensive smoke and water damage, firemen said.

Phone Pickets Being Organized

NEW YORK, April 8— (AP) — Striking C. I. O. Communication Workers are causing few delays to telephone service across the United States, but a union official says picketing will multiply the jams starting Wednesday.

Coupled with a Western Union Telegraph strike, now in its sixth day, an effective stoppage of telephone service would leave air mail as the country's chief means of relatively-quick long-distance communication.

A clearing of the clouded communications picture was not an immediate prospect. Federal mediators were working on both the telephone and telegraph disputes, but their efforts were fruitless.

The unique situation that caught the telephone and telegraph services simultaneously stems from union demands for wage increases although the strikes are not related.

Western Union claims it has restored service among 82 key cities. But the C. T. U. says it has "the country sewed up" outside of New York, where an independent union represents employees.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, April 8 —(CP) — Ontario stockyards cattle prices dropped from 50 cents to $1 on steers with heifers selling 50 lower and cows and bulls generally steady. Trading was dull. Receipts: cattle 1,560; calves 140; hogs 480; no sheep or lambs. The leftover from Monday was 225 cattle.

Choice steers sold at $27-27.50 with good steers selling at $25.50-$26.50 and mediums downward to $23. Good heifers were at $24.50, $25. Medium to good cows brought $21-23 with common downward to $16.50. Good bulls sold at $21-$23 while choice fed yearlings made $27-27.50.

Choice fed yearlings sold at $29-$32 with common to medium selling from $20-$28.

Hogs were at $26 for grade A with sows $16 dressed.

No sales of sheep or lambs reported.

MONTREAL LIVESTOCK

MONTREAL, April 8—(CP)—Trading was dull and prices were generally steady today on the Montreal livestock markets.

Receipts were 52 cattle, 250 calves, no sheep and lambs and 200 hogs. Total offerings on Monday were 1,063 cattle, 1,933 calves, 30 sheep and lambs and 3,437 hogs.

Cattle offered this morning moved fairly well at about steady prices with Monday. Some good steers sold at 27-27.25 and medium 24-26. Medium heifers were 20-25 and common 15-20. Good cows sold at 21-22.50, medium 18-20, common 15-17.50 and canners and cutters 10-15. Good heavy bulls brought 20-22.50, while common and medium made 15-20.

Calves sold at about last week's level. Good vealers brought 23-24, while common and medium veals ranged from 15-22.50.

Hogs were steady at 26 for grade "A". Sows sold at 16.

Truman Appoints Draper To Council

PARIS, April 8 — (AP). — President Truman today named William H. Draper, Jr., as permanent U.S. representative to the North Atlantic Council.

The appointment was announced here and gives the 57-year-old former investment banker a new job in American diplomacy—coordination and supervision of U.S. participation in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and execution of the mutual security program.

Truman named Livingston T. Merchant, who in 1949 was appointed Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs, as alternate U.S. permanent representative to the North Atlantic Council.

Plan Higher Rents For Wartime Houses

BRANTFORD, April 8 (CP).—Tenants of 350 wartime houses soon may pay higher rents, it was announced at Monday night's city council meeting.

Council has asked the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation to increase its payments to the city which are paid instead of taxes. The council's finance committee said the increase is necessary in order that citizens who already own their homes won't have to subsidize the housing projects.

Mouse Invades House Interrupts Drew

OTTAWA, April 8. (CP)—A mouse invaded the House of Commons Monday night.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, was addressing Prime Minister St. Laurent on a technical point of procedure when the mouse began running around his feet. Mr. Drew stopped momentarily, looked down, then continued.

The invader was chased into the corridors by a page boy, and there quickly met his Waterloo. The page boy proudly displayed the dead mouse afterward.

Two Drunks Fined

Two men pleaded guilty to drunk charges in police court today.

Frank Middleton, 47, 90 Henri St., Montreal, and John R. Smith, 26, Ennismore, were each fined $10 and $2.50 costs or ten days in jail.

New Shop Opens

COLDSPRINGS, April 8. (ENS) —A crowd attended the opening Saturday afternoon of Paul Harris's new machine shop, which replaces the one destroyed by fire last Dec. 5. A door prize was won by Frank Shier, and lunch was served in the afternoon. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Harris were host and hostess for a social evening.

Band Plays Concert

MARMORA, April 8. (ENS)—Campbellford Citizens Band presented a concert in the Plaza Theatre here Sunday evening. The concert was sponsored by Marmora Chapter I.O.D.E. Marches, waltzes and selections from Gilbert and Sullivan were included in the program. Chairman was L. Begley, principal of Marmora high school, and Don Bennett conducted the band.

Cheese Directors Worried About Sales

BELLEVILLE, April 8—(CP)—Directors of the Ontario Cheese Producers Association today expressed concern over lack of prospective export sales while cheese production is increasing.

Holding their quarterly meeting here, the directors predicted an increase of at least 10,000,000 pounds over last year's cheese output.

The marketing board of the association will meet today with representatives of the cheese buying trade to negotiate a price for cheese. The association is asking a government floor price of 30 cents a pound.

Wage Chief Hints

W. R. Bond said some 900 of the plant's 1,200 workers quit Monday midnight.

He said the stoppage 24 hours before the union deadline came after union representatives rejected a company proposal for a 7½-cents hourly wage boost restroactive to March 7, plus a 2½-cent increase in six months and a similar raise six months later. Bond said the steelworkers asked a total of about 60 cents an hour.

President Philip Murray of the steelworkers took time out from the New York sessions to declare over an N.B.C. network:

"At midnight, the nation's production of steel will come to a halt."

Lift Cattle Ban

TORONTO, April 8 — (CP) — The February 26 ban imposed on shipments of cattle from the Ontario stockyards to rural points because of fears of spreading foot-and-mouth disease has been lifted, it was announced Monday. Feeders, stockers and dairy cattle now may be purchased on the market here for shipment to Ontario points.

U.S. Dollar Up

MONTREAL, April 8 — (CP)— The United States dollar today opened at a discount of 1 11/16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, up 3/16 from Monday's close. That is, it took $0.98 5/16 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.75⅝, up 3/16 from Monday.

Rain Increases Flood Danger At Pierre City

PIERRE, S.D., April 8—(AP)—Forecast of rain posed an added threat today to this capital city of 5,700 population, already girding itself against the bank bursting Missouri River.

Rampaging waters of the "Big Muddy" swept upon Pierre with the added volume of runoff from swift melting snowdrifts, cut down by Monday's 70 degree temperatures.

Nils P. Jensen, Pierre Red Cross chairman, said the city was preparing for a water level of 22.8, seven feet above flood stage. Weather forecasters predicted it might reach 23 or 24, for the worst flood conditions in 71 years.

Pierre officials were maintaining an around-the-clock vigil on the river gauges. Plans were all made for evacuating, housing and feeding residents who may be forced from their homes. If forecasts hold true, about 20 blocks of Pierre would be under water.

Flood waters dropped slightly Monday night at Bismarck, N.D., but large low-flying sections of that city and neighboring Mandan were still inundated. Some 1,000 persons were made homeless when the Missouri hit its highest crest for 42 years Sunday in central South Dakota.

Have To Leave Homes

At Linton, 65 miles southeast of Bismarck, some of the 1,675 residents were forced from 20 homes Monday night when Beaver Creek, a Missouri tributary, swept from its banks to cover part of the community with three feet of water.

Eastern North Dakota also faced a flood threat from the Red River. R. W. Schultz, federal meteorologist, said the stream would hit the 17-foot flood stage at Fargo today, and would crest 34 feet next week-end. This would equal the 1943 flood, which was the second most damaging on record. The Red River flows north into Canada where Winnipeg suffered heavy damage from the river last spring. The river rose 18.1 inches at Fargo yesterday.

Market Prices Recover On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, April 8 — (CP) — Stock market prices recovered in early afternoon dealings.

Western oils and Jenny Golds attracted most speculative interest. Industrial dealings spread slowly from leading issues and a few base metals showed activity. Volume for the first three hours was 2,390,000 shares.

Utilities came back strongly to form industrials' strongest section. Manufacturing companies also drew firm support but liquors, retail stores and textiles remained weak.

Western Oils brought gains and losses into balance as Anglo-Canadian, Canadian Atlantic, Charter, Dome Explorations, General Petroleum A, National Petroleum, Security Free and Canadian Williston turned upward.

Base Metals were mixed Cassiar, East Sullivan, New Calumet and United Asbestos strengthened while Barvue, Noranda, Quemont and Osisko weakened.

Senior Golds made little headway. Junior producers and prospects slipped from Monday's gains.

Prime Minister Opposed To Divorce Changes Proposed By CCF

OTTAWA, April 8. (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent told the Commons Monday he does not believe the majority should "force upon the minority who do not believe in divorce the acceptance of divorce as a legal institution." By the same token, he does believe "the larger minority" should force upon "a smaller minority the position that there could be no divorce at all."

Mr. St. Laurent expressed that view in opposing a C.C.F. proposal that parliament be relieved of dealing with divorce petitions from Quebec and Newfoundland and that the Exchequer Court of Canada be given the job.

The discussion developed during study of private members' business as the C.C.F. group attempted to delay passage of one of a group of 111 divorce bills until the chamber had debated "alternative methods" of handling divorces from the two provinces, which have no divorce courts.

Later, the chamber debated a private motion by Hughes Cleaver (L.-Halton) calling for drastic alterations in House procedure as a means of speeding up business.

The upshot of this debate was that the chamber eventually adopted a motion by Mr. St. Laurent reconvening a special committee to consider the question of the chamber's hours of sitting and general procedure.

Suggests Committee

Mr. St. Laurent suggested the committee, which met last fall and recommended a shorter working schedule along with other modifications, might study Mr. Cleaver's motion.

In the divorce debate, Mr. St. Laurent indicated an objection to sending Quebec-Newfoundland divorces to the Exchequer Court would be that divorce would be established "as a legal institution to which one has a right if he established certain legal conditions."

A Roman Catholic, the Prime Minister agreed with Anglican M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, that there are religious denominations that do not admit of divorce.

He added:

"The majority should not force upon the minority who do not believe in divorce the acceptance of divorce as a legal institution.

"On the other hand, the larger minority should not force upon a smaller minority the position that there would be no divorce at all."

Want Change For Better

He suggested there is no point in making a change unless the change is for the better, and reminded the members that it is "no more disagreeable" for them to deal with divorce than it is for judges.

Eventually, 29 of the 111 bills received second reading—approval in principle—and the other 71 were deferred until the evidence has been printed.

The procedural debate produced objections to Mr. Cleaver's proposals by Stanley Knowles (C.C.F.-Winnipeg North Centre), Gordon Graydon (P.C.-Peel), Victor Quelch (S.C.-Acadia) and other opposition members.

They agreed generally that there is room for improvement, but suggested Mr. Cleaver was too drastic.

Factories Have Some Steel

DETROIT, April 8 (AP). — United States auto plants have steel enough to carry on production for from three to four weeks, but any cut in their supply will mean an eventual cut in unit output.

Most of the car factory heads, anticipating a steel strike, have been stocking sheets and other forms of steel as heavily as possible. As a consequence most companies are said to have inventories on hand adequate for continued production through all of the current month.

Whether the suspension of steel shipments will result in revision of production schedules has not been disclosed. The car makers have scheduled the production of approximately 400,000 passenger cars for April, and have expressed the hope they could do as well in May and June for a second quarter output of 1,200,000 cars.

Some industry sources say this volume still can be achieved if steel supplies are not cut off for too long a time. Just how much loss can be sustained has not been outlined by the car builders. All are agreed, however, that any curtailment must eventually be reflected in interrupted car and truck assemblies.

Sask. Spending Most On Health

OTTAWA, April 8 — (CP) — Saskatchewan spends a higher percentage of its provincial revenues than any other province on health, while Nova Scotia spends the largest proportion on education, the Commons was informed Monday.

The information was given in a return tabled by the government for Jean Francois Poulio (L., Temiscouata).

Here are the percentage figures for 1951 by provinces:

	H'lth	Ed'tion
Newfoundland	27.7	22.5
Nova Scotia	11.8	25.8
New Brunswick	12.8	20.0
Prince Edward Island	16.6	19.1
Quebec	13.2	17.2
Ontario	15.3	24.8
Manitoba	13.5	16.4
Saskatchewan	32.0	15.8
Alberta	14.3	19.9
British Columbia	24.4	16.9

Citizens Enraged, Council Delays Action

PORTLAND, Me., April 8 (AP) —Protests from this city's enraged citizens caused the city council Monday to defer the trading of seven century-old elm trees for parking meters.

Several months ago council appropriated $11,000 to chop down the elms, narrow the sidewalk and install 43 parking metres on Federal Street.

The council on Monday reaffirmed its decision but later, as the protests mounted, decided to "hold off and see how serious the reaction is."

New Ship For Carlsen

MOBILE, Ala., April 8 (AP)— A new ship will be ready for Capt. Kurt Carlsen when the "stay-put" skipper arrives here late this week. The Ibrandtsen Co., Inc., is preparing the Flying Enterprise II., recently returned from military sea transportation service in Korea. Ibrandtsen purchased the 8,258-ton ship, formerly the Noonday, from Waterman Steamship Corp. here.

Open To Sightseers

WINCHESTER, England, April 8 — (Reuters). — Lord Montague of Beaulieu, 25-year-old bachelor, today opens his huge ancestral estate to sightseers because he can't otherwise afford to maintain it. He will charge visitors half a crown to tour his rambling palace house at the edge of Hampshire's New Forest.

Moved Booth Helped Tourists

COBOURG, April 8 — (ENS)— Tourist business was big business for the town of Cobourg last summer it was revealed by the report of the manager of the Cobourg Chamber of Commerce, H. A. Taylor, at the annual meeting.

Location of special tourist office in front of the town hall resulted in a large increase in the number of enquiriels from the travelling public as evident from the fact that 1,057 inquiriies at the office off Main street on Division street in 1950, increased to 9,279 when the office was moved to a temporary location for the summer months at the Town Hall the following year.

Plowing Match.

International Ploughing Match which will be held in Cobourg next year, drew 105,000 people last year at Woodstock and the Chambre of Commerce credited its former manager, the late Mayor Joe Smith of Cobourg, with the initial contacts which secured the ploughing match for Cobourg in 1953.

The Cobourg Chamber of Commerce drew attention to the fact that the new street lighting, now in effect, was badly needed by the town. It was announced at the meeting that a summer skating school again would be held this year at the Memorial Rink. It was first held through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mudholes Halt Traffic On Road To Dartford

ROSENEATH, April 8 (ENS)— Roads were at their worst in Alnwick township during the weekend, at least it is hoped so.

To drive eight miles from Roseneath to Dartford is impossible and it is necessary to go by Hastings, making a 20-mile trip one way.

On some of the back concessions farmers are practically isolated at their farm homes, some unable to get their cars out of their own lanes.

May Exchange Programs

PARIS, April 8 — (Reuters).— A plan for an exchange of television programs between Britain and the United States was announced here today by a BBC TV expert. Mrs. Mary Adams, head of the BBC's talks department, spoke at the opening session of a week-long conference of the U.N. Economic, Social and Cultural Organization. The conference was attended by TV experts from eight countries.

Youth Held On Charge Of Bowling Alley Theft

COBOURG, April 8 — (ENS)— Charged with the weekend robbery of a local bowling alley, Frank Beatty, age 18 of Cobourg pleaded guilty in police court on Monday and was remanded out of custody until called upon.

He was arrested Monday near Wooler by Constables Homer Seale and C. Cunningham of Cobourg police dept. Employed at one time as a pin boy by the bowling alley proprietor, he was familiar with the premies.

During the weekend the sum of $64 was stolen, entrance being gained via a back window. Police said that they recovered most of the money with the arrest of the accused.

Mayor Arrested

SHERBROOKE, Que., April 8— (CP)—J. Emile Levesque, recently elected mayor of Sherbrooke, was arrested Monday on a charge of illegal election practice. He was released on bail of $1 and ordered to appear before session court Thursday. The illegal practice contained in the charge was serving liquor on election day, forbidden by law.

Can't Buy Land

TORONTO, April 8 — (CP) — Suburban York township council Monday refused an application by the Mizrachi organization of Ontario to buy land in the township on the grounds that there are enough Jewish institutions there. Reeve Fred Hall said the township already "has its share of tax-free buildings and land owned by Jewry."

2 Killed In Mine

CARETTA, W. Va., April 8 — (AP)—Two men were killed and a third seriously hurt Monday night when the earth above a Caretta coal mine shifted slightly causing a "mountain bump." Ambulance drivers said the men were killed in a "mountain bump," described as a slight shifting of the earth which causes the mine walls, and sometimes the top, to push in on the workers.

Revenue Minister McCann Expects Dollar Premium To Remain For Months

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, April 8 — (CP). — The man who called the shot on the Canadian dollar months ago has gone out on the limb again—he predicts it will remain at a premium to United States currency for months to come.

He should know, for he is none other than Canada's Revenue Minister McCann. The 65-year-old white-haired veteran parliamentarian-physician in a Toronto speech last year forecast the jump in the Canadian dollar to the point where it now ranges around two cents above its American counterpart.

Dr. McCann confides that when he made that Toronto speech his colleagues in the Cabinet were sceptical and chided him for being "over-optimistic." But he had faith in the Canadian dollar, freed from government control last year.

"Well, the prediction has come true," he said. "And I believe that the dollar will continue to stay above par, though it may not go much higher than the current premium."

There were many reasons, said Canada's biggest money collector, why the Canadian dollar showed such great strength. One was the fact that Canada was investing money in actual economic development.

"You can't keep putting billions of dollars in munitions and expect your currency to remain strong. That's what the United States is doing. Munitions are not productive. They don't give you an economic return.

By that, Dr. McCann meant, of course, that money put into armament has no economic earning power if that armament is stored or distributed without payment.

Other Factors

He said there were other factors involved in Canada's dollar climb. Canada, in the last few months, had achieved surpluses in her foreign trade and there were huge inward movements of foreign capital invested in Canada's expanding economy.

All that means that there were big supplies of American dollars in Canada and a smaller demand for them on the exchange markets. Apparently, too, there was a big demand for Canadian dollars and smaller supplies available. As any other commodity, the market value of untethered currencies depends on the ancient laws of supply and demand.

Dr. McCann said the rapid fluctuation in the dollar was causing a lot of customs-division headaches. Appraisals for duty had to be changed as rapidly as the dollar changed.

And it was causing a lot of headaches to Canadian trade, especially some of the Canadian exporters to the U.S. who quoted their prices in American currency.

For example, Canada's newsprint industry sold newsprint at $116 a ton (U.S. currency), on deliveries to the U.S.

"That price may have been all right when the Canadian dollar was at a 10-per-cent discount, but now that it is above par, the returns to the exporters have declined. I wouldn't be too surprised to see the price of Canadian newsprint go up. But even so the Americans would be getting Canadian newsprint a lot cheaper than they would from such other suppliers as, say; Sweden.

"The price of Swedish newsprint is equivalent to about $200 a ton in American money."

Parakeets Popular

SOUTHAMPTON, England, April 8 — (Reuters). — Some 100 sailors trooped from the luxury liner Caronia Monday night, each carrying a parakeet in a new cage. They had bought the parakeets—favored now as pets among seamen—in Bombay the day after Britain relaxed restrictions on the import of the birds.

The Sex Of Peterborough

Canada maintains her historic gallantry. The 1951 census, whose figures on sex distribution have now been released, shows that more than half of the total population of 14,009,429 is male. The exact figures are 7,088,873 males and 6,920,556 females. Ever since Canadian population statistics have been compiled, Canada has had more men than women, but the margin is narrowing. In previous censuses the male percentage of the total population never dropped below 51%; the present figure is only 50.5%. But women may take assurance in even this small superfluity of men; compared with most western countries, females here are in steady demand. In England, for instance—according to its population figures—it is the women who must run after the men, there are so many of them to clamour for male attentions.

* * *

It is whimsical that Quebec is the only province in Canada where females outnumber males—by only ten thousand in a population of four million, it is true; but there it is, the traditional Canadian balance is upset in Quebec by les Canadiennes. Will this soften the male character there, and make the sought-after male slothful in love, careless in attentions, ungallant in disposition? Or—the reverse side of this situation—will the Quebec female, being in the majority, become more domineering and turn the province into a matriarchy? Ah! it's the city of Montreal itself which has upset the balance—699,968 females compared with 658,107 males.

* * *

According to the census, Ontario is a better province than the others for females desirous of suitors, for there are 30,798 more males than females in the province. If these supernumerary males were put into one town they would make a good-sized city, all by themselves. Whether this would be a male paradise or a female's vision of paradise, we leave our readers to judge. They should remember, however, that few of the 30,798 are of marriageable age.

* * *

Peterborough betrays the male majority of the Province and of Canada. The city had 18,426 males and 19,846 females when the census was taken. Considering the number of unattached men who come into the city to work in our chief industry, this is somewhat remarkable. The three villages in the county do no better—if it is desirable that there should be more males than females. Havelock had 567 females, 565 males; Lakefield, 873 females, 837 males; Norwood 487 males, 438 females. The county helped the situation. In every township except North Monaghan and Burleigh and Anstruther, there were a few more males than females. North Monaghan had 682 females, 652 males. In Burleigh and Anstruther the population of 746 was exactly divided. The Indian Reserves (total population 397) provided 205 males and 192 females.

* * *

Lest people unkindly rush to assert that Peterborough is female-ridden, we point out that in most southern Ontario cities and towns females outnumber males. The balance is adjusted in rural districts and in northern Ontario.

A World Of Vanished Charm

It is not too much to say that when Ferenc Molnar died in New York last week a charming world died with him. As a playwright he was world famous, but for the past thirty years he has been writing about a world which is as dead as the dodo—the world of pre-1914 Austrian and Hungarian gaiety. It was the world in which Molnar grew up, and in which he first achieved fame. If Molnar's plays are to be believed, it was a world in which everybody was either beautiful or witty, and in which love was the most important consideration in everybody's life. In his world the rich were very rich and used their money to seek pleasure; the poor never seemed to mind poverty very much, and sought pleasure also, and with success. It was an easy-going world, and a merry one.

The great success of Molnar's plays shows how powerfully many people long for just such a world. Nowadays we are perpetually having our noses rubbed in what is called "reality"—that is to say, the nastiest and most alarming side of life. For some reason we do not seem to think that pleasure, love and laughter are "real" in the sense that the atom bomb, starvation in India, war in Korea and the foot-and-mouth disease are "real." But we nourish a sneaking desire for a world in which love and pleasure are the important things, and Molnar made himself famous and rich by supplying just such a world.

Presumably a time will come when people will smile again, and seek pleasure without a sense of guilt. Presumably a day will dawn when a man will not feel obliged to sit on a dozen serious-minded committees, merely in order to justify his existence. But for the present the world of pleasure is in eclipse. We need such magicians as Ferenc Molnar to tell us that it was not always so, and to hint that happy days may come again.

Another Surplus

Tonight the Minister of Finance, the Honourable Douglas Abbott, brings down the Budget. It will show another large surplus, the sixth consecutive one since the war. There have been not as many Federal budgetary surpluses as Provincial (Ontario has had nine in a row) but they have been large. The surplus this year is more than 355 million dollars, according to reports tabled in the House of Commons yesterday. That figure may be whittled down in the actual Budget being presented this evening, as the Ontario surplus of $37,182,032 as reported to the Legislature was cut to $26,172,000 in Mr. Frost's budget.

It is an extraordinarily interesting fact that despite the vast size of the Federal surplus it is proportionately almost exactly the same size as the Frost Government's surplus this year. Each amounts to about nine percent. of the total revenues which the respective Governments took in through taxes. We reckon the Federal surplus of $355,000,000 on a revenue total of $4,000,000,000. The Ontario surplus of $27,172,000 is compared with revenues of $300,000,000.

We await with interest tonight's report of the surplus as Mr. Abbott sees fit to relate in the Budget. The danger of such surpluses, in both Toronto and Ottawa, is that they tempt departments, cabinets and politicians into lavish spending and last-minute special hand-outs. Ontario had a $37,182,032 reportable surplus a few days before the budget was brought down into the Legislature. But those few days were enough to provide for the spending of eleven millions of it. There must have been some pretty fancy last-minute spending in Ottawa already; the Federal surplus at the end of the first nine months of the fiscal year was $721,000,000. That has now become $355,000,000.

Trustee Es Cheats

We have been scanning the Directory to the Services of the Ontario Government and have been struck by some of the jobs people hold. They may seem ordinary, even humdrum to their occupants, but to us at this distance from the job, they have an intriguing sound. There is the man in Room 114 of Osgoode Hall who is the "Official Guardian." We wonder what he does? Perhaps we could find out, but that would interfere with the sense of wonder. The book says that he is guardian ad litem of the rights of infants. Not surely an exalted baby sitter?

Then there is the Public Trustee who hangs out—pardon, we mean, occupies a responsible, solemn position, in Room 151 of Osgoode Hall. Among his other duties, he deals with all property which passes to the Crown by way of escheat, so we read. Fancy that—trustee dealing with escheats. Well, it sounds reasonable.

There is a person who looks after swine. He heads a Branch of the Livestock Division of the Department of Agriculture which is responsible for administering the bacon hog club policy. Another policy fellow, presumably down the hall from the swine man, attends to the Bull Premium Policy. Then there is the chap in the same Department, who is responsible for "Commando Labour", despatching Farm Commando groups of day-to-day workers to help harvest tomatoes, etc., in the Toronto area.

There is a Natural Gas Commissioner, a Health Units Director, a Highway Sign and Building Permits Inspector, an Epidemiologist, a Registrar of Trade Schools, a Provincial Apiarist, a Supervisor of Racing, an Inspector of Farm Mutuals, a Chief Inspector of Wineries, a Queen's Printer (page 147) who seems to get along very well with the King's Printer (page 146) in the same office.

To get all these functionaries straightened out in our mind we should consult the Master of Titles, 90 Albert St., Toronto, Tel. EM.3-7171.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Economists say that we have all been jacked up to a higher economic level. We hadn't noticed any extra jack.

Visitors to the Pinza household, we read, ring a doorbell which chimes "Some Enchanted Evening." And when the caller happens to be the laundry man, wanting $2.37 that could be a very boring way of announcing his presence.

The days have gone when Canadian society was divided between Grit and Tory, management and labour, blonde and brunette, gum-chewing and plug-chewing. Now it is divided between those who meet Governor-General Massey and those who won't. At the head of the parade of cold-shoulderers we place Drum-Major Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa. Sergeant-Major Camillien Houde of Montreal brings up the rear.

Soviet Prisoner For Eleven Years

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

THE writing of a book is an act no less real than the drafting of a treaty and it may be more lasting in its effects than any treaty. Yet books are rarely treated as news.

A book which is, or should be, news is "Eleven Years in Soviet Prison Camps". The years began in 1937 when Elinor Lipper, a medical student in Berlin, fell in love with the ideal of Socialism and made the pilgrimage to Moscow where she expected to assist in building the foundations of a brave new world. Instead, she walked straight into the grave Stalin was digging for Socialism. After two months in a publishing office, and before she could speak a word of Russian, she was arrested in the great purge as a counter-revolutionary, completely uncomprehending, she had turned up to offer to the Great Experiment her youthful idealism at the precise moment when the Great Experiment was being finally written off, and all those individuals left in Russia, whether native or foreign, who still believed in the ideals of the revolution, were being deliberately exterminated. She was sentenced out of hand to five years. The five years dragged into eleven, and took her into some of the most unspeakable places in the Soviet Union, including the gold fields of Kolyma

THE reason why this book makes news is because Madam Lipper tells the terrible story of the Soviet prison camps for the first time in language intelligible to everybody; and it is a story which every free citizen of every free country should know. If, that is to say, everybody made the small effort required to read this book we should know where we all stand. For it is impossible to read it without coming to a personal decision. Either the Soviet regime has become so evil and hideous as to be beyond redemption—or else Madam Lipper is a wanton and consummate liar, and not only Madam Lipper, but with her, everybody who has ever passed through a Soviet prison camp and emerged into the outer world to tell the tale.

I THINK it will be clear to every reader that in fact Madam Lipper is telling nothing but the truth. Her narrative has the authentic ring. For me there can be no doubt at all. I have seen enough, without at the time really understanding what I saw, to recognize much of her picture in general and in detail and to know that the rest is true.

During the war, moving about that stricken Russian landscape, I saw many dreadful sights and heard many dreadful stories. It was plain that many large numbers of Russians, Polish prisoners and others were being treated with a brutality past all Western imaginings. In the far north gangs of wretched prisoners, scarcely recognisable as human beings, laboured inconceivably, watched by sentries with fixed bayonets, laying the foundations of new docks and wharves in ice and snow. They worked a twelve-hour shift. When they were marched away from work they were not allowed to look to right or left. Once when a prisoner broke ranks to pick up a frozen crust of bread he was shot, just like that, by the guards, and left dying in the snow. His body lay there for some days on the quayside until it was quite covered up by the snow

ONCE, flying in a blizzard, we had to make an emergency landing on a primitive airstrip still under construction in the forest. As we came in to land black figures ran madly in all directions. One of them was struck by the 'plane. Her body was dragged off the airstrip and left lying. The flying figures had been prisoners at forced labour who were not even allowed to leave off shovelling snow until the incoming 'plane was on top of them. They were mostly women.

Once in a railway siding just outside a great Russian city, I watched corpses being taken out of what I thought were cattle trucks. They were prisoners who had died during the night, and the cattle-trucks were prison vans. Their bodies, stripped, were flung onto a cart, which was to wait there until it was full, and then be driven away to a trench on the outskirts of the city.

Outside Russian towns there are nearly always prison camps, barbed wire enclosures with high wooden watchtowers at the corners, equipped with searchlights and machine-guns, and rows of huts inside. The figures one saw through the wire were sometimes recognisably human, sometimes not.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE trouble was that it was quite impossible to tell what this really added up to. Russia was a primitive land, in spite of the Five Year Plans. Russians had different views on the value of the individual. Russians were suffering from the war in a way past our imagining. Not simply the prisoners, but the free citizens too. In Vologda I have seen piles of corpses of those who had starved to death. It was said that in Leningrad during the siege five hundred thousand people had died of starvation (the figures in fact were even higher.) In the epic struggle with the Germans the differences between life and death was all that remained to the rest. I knew there were many prisoners in Russia, but I did not know how many. I hesitated without hard evidence to believe the figures that were whispered. Also in a land where the free were starving, because of the war, it is obvious the prisoners would be the first to starve. The times were so terrible, the gallantry of the Russians in their struggle so magnificent; that the sufferings of the prisoners were scarcely more than the sufferings of the free. I knew, too, from heresay, that some prison camps were comparatively mild, while others were wholly evil. There was no evidence to tell the proportions. There was no evidence to tell who the prisoners were or how many they were.

◇ ◇ ◇

BUT after the war the evidence began to accumulate. It came above all from those tens of thousands of Poles who had been amnestied after the Stalin-Sikorski pact and had made their way to Kuibyshev and Buzuluk from every corner of that fearful winter landscape, leaving tens of thousands more behind them and tens of thousands dead on the road. (Theirs were the corpses I saw in Vologda.) Then came confirming evidence from Russian deserters and D.Ps (Displaced Persons) who refused to go home; from German ex-Communists who had been handed over to Hitler by Stalin, exchanging the barbed wire of Russian prison camps for the barbed wire of Dachau and Buchenwald. More evidence was held at Geneva in the form of photostat copies of the Soviet Labour laws. And so on. So that by now all those interested in Russia had a very clear idea of the size of the evil, admitted by M.V.D. (secret police) officers themselves to embrace more than ten million prisoners.

IT became clear that the glimpses I had had of prison life in Russia were not exceptional, were not due to war, but were typical; that it had been like that before the war and was continuing after it. But still there was nothing one could give to the ordinary reader to say, "Here is the truth behind the figures and statistics so laboriously compiled. This is how millions of your fellow human beings from all over Eastern Europe are now living, prisoners and guards alike, in Stalin's paradise."

Madam Lipper has provided just that book. It is simply and terribly a factual report. Others have reported before, as I have said; some have written masterpieces about the effect of those things upon the human spirit; others have written interpretations of the machinery behind them, but nobody to my knowledge has written just this simple account of the all but unbelievable, an account, moreover, which brings the story of the Soviet labour camps to this very moment of time. For many of the individuals we meet in these pages, are still, at this moment I write, with millions of others, dragging out their wretched lives in the dreadful winter of Siberia.

Transit Troubles Are Widespread

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

STAFF reporters of that authoritative financial newspaper the Wall Street Journal, writing from Los Angeles but dealing with the whole of the United States, say the local-transit industry of buses and street cars "is riding into some of the roughest going it's ever had". Revenue on these public conveyances is down (in the U.S.A.) 30 per cent. since 1946 in a period when many industries have been revelling in boom-time conditions and the drop is exceeded only by ship-building.

The explanation is a double one—"the competition of the automobile" is put first by the Wall Street Journal. It says that at the beginning of this year there were 43,000,000 passenger cars on the roads of the United States, which was an increase of 40 percent. over 1946, and they carry millions of passengers who used to depend on trams and buses. In addition to this factor there have been sharp increases everywhere in the wages of transit workers, and in the cost of rolling stock and materials.

For the transit companies of the land this is a major crisis. The Wall Street Journal says "the battle against red ink . . . could mean a 25-cent minimum fare is on the way; already the upward fare march has reached the 20-cent level in Kansas City". But the problem can't be met simply by a succession of fare increases, because each one raises the number of those who walk and this branch of business is bad enough already—passengers carried by local transport systems in the United States have decreased by more than seven billions a year since 1946. Some companies, we are told, are trying to meet the situation by discontinuing service on some routes on Sundays and in the evenings—the periods when patronage is at the lowest ebb.

Last year the U.S.A. transit industry earned a net profit of 1.49 percent, on an investment of $4 billions. If present trends continue the Wall Street Journal feels "many of the 1,350 privately-owned transit companies will be swept up by public ownership"—a city as owner can keep down fares by subsidies out of taxes, though that is far from being a healthy expedient.

Canadian transit companies are in a less perilous plight, one imagines, but the factors present in the situation in the U.S.A. must apply here too if less sharply. No one should assume that a 10-cent fare automatically solves our transit problems for a long future.

GOOD MORNING

An American travelling in Italy stopped at a small inn for the night and instructed the native courier who accompanied him to enter his name in accordance with the local police regulations. Later in the evening he asked the servant if he had complied with his orders.

"Yes," was the reply.

"How did you write my name?" asked the American.

"Well, Signor, I can't pronounce it," was the reply, "but I copied it from your portmanteau."

The American could not remember having affixed his name to his luggage, but, being very tired, decided not to press the matter. The next morning he saw the light, whereupon coming downstairs he was greeted by the desk clerk with "Good morning, Signor Warranted Solid Leather."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Now therefore hearken, O Israel, unto the statutes and unto the judgements, which I teach you, for to do them, that ye may live, and go in and possess the land which the Lord God of your fathers giveth you . . . Did ever people hear the voice of God speaking out of the midst of the fire, as thou hast heard, and live? . . . Out of heaven he made thee to hear his voice, that he might instruct thee: and upon earth he shewed thee his great fire; and thou heardest his words out of the midst of the fire . . .

Know therefore this day, and consider it in thine heart, that the Lord he is God in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath: there is none else. (Deut. 4:1, 33, 36, 39.)

O thou that hearest prayer, unto thee shall all flesh come. Iniquities prevail against me: as for our transgressions, thou shalt purge them away.

Blessed is the man whom thou choosest, and causest to approach unto thee, that he may dwell in thy courts: we shall be satisfied with the goodness of thy house, even of thy holy temple. (Ps. 65: 1-4.)

Letter To The Editor

CLAIMS INJUSTICE TO HOSPITAL EMPLOYEES

Sir: In Examiner dated March 25th, 1952, and under Alderman Miller's report regarding tax levies of 1952, I noticed, that in reading his report, he blames, quoting his own words, "The organization, or employees union, was instrumental in causing this increase."

Much could be said about this but will leave it to Alderman Miller to tell taxpayers how this $97,000 is broken down, and how much, these come under union agreement, benefit by it.

About 45% of employees come under union agreement. Based on wage increase, as of Jan. 1st, 1952, union employees would receive this year approximately $18,000.00 of the $97,000.00.

His next statement contradicts this one: "In 1951 it was decided to attach cost-of-living bonus, to all basic salaries, at the rate of 1% increase (in salary) for each 1 point rise in cost of living index.

Cost of living has risen in past year 19 points or 19%."

It is doubtful, that Hospital Board would have paid 19% cost of living bonus for year 1951 as stated in Alderman Miller's report.

Unquote: Had Civic Hospital used the above method, to cope with cost of living, it would have cost taxpayers $105,000.00.

All we ask is a fair living wage depending upon our trade in other places.

So, let's be fair and just to working class of people. If it were not for them, where would industry be to-day, so why not use common sense and say, that due to rise in cost of living the hospital had to increase operation costs for year 1952.

Chinook Wheat

(Lethbridge Herald)

It was a happy thought which suggested the name "Chinook" for the new variety of wheat for the sawfly-infested areas of the southern Prairies which has been tailored as an improvement on Rescue.

The new wheat cross which maintains the solid stem factor which first came in Rescue was developed in the Prairie Chinook belt, with Swift Current and Lethbridge agricultural scientists leading in the research.

The name, therefore, is fitting for a wheat to be grown where the Chinook is a characteristic of the area. We do not see how a wheat so named can help but succeed in the job for which it was produced. May it have as long and as successful a career as did the famous Marquis.

Pay $826,397 Claims From Accident Fund

TORONTO, April 8 — (CP). — A total of $826,397 in damage claims was paid from the province's unsatisfied judgments fund in the 11 months from April 1, 1951, to February 29, 1952, the government reported on Monday night in a reply tabled in the Ontario Legislature. At February, 29, 1952, the fund's balance was $178,508.

Payments from the fund are made in automobile accident cases where the driver at fault cannot pay damages or cannot be found. The province's drivers each pay 50 cents a year into the fund.

A girl's quarette comprising the Misses and Shirley Bennett and Elaine and Joan Graham entertained with numbers during interludes in the program.

The candy was sold by the following girls under the direction of Mrs. F. McKay. Gail Sanderson, Anne Hubbel, Jean Kennedy, Dorothy Graham, Donna Johnson, and Marilyn Jack.

The president, Mrs. B. Johnson thanked the judges, those who provided musical selections during the interludes and the time of judging, the chairman, the contestants and all who had helped in any way to make the evening a success. Mrs. Gerald Whitney, program convener also expressed her appreciation and that of her committee which comprised Mrs. Harry Pollock, Mrs. James Wilde and Mrs. George Kennedy. Public school principal, H. Hunter and Gerald Whitney were in charge of the sale of tickets at the door.

Rob Warehouse Safe

PERTH, April 8—(CP)—An estimated $1,458 was stolen from the brewers warehouse here Monday by thieves who blew open the 1,400-pound safe.

NEW ATTORNEY GENERAL AND FAMILY—Federal Judge James P. McGranery sits at home with his family in Philadelphia, Pa., after accepting appointment as Attorney General to succeed J. Harold McGrath. The sons are Clark (left) 9, and James, 11. Mrs. McGranery and daughter Regina, complete the group.

SHAPING THEIR PLANS—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower (left) chats with Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, "Ike for President" campaign manager, during Lodge's visit to SHAPE headquarters near Paris. Lodge refused to disclose what he intended to discuss with Eisenhower, but it seemed certain that the two would talk about Ike's return to the U.S. and the timing of his resignation from his NATO command.

P.C.V.S. Concert Band Wins Praise In Ottawa

With a varied program the P.C.V.S. Concert Band, under the direction of Albert Croasdale, impressed Ottawa's Fisher Park High School students and teachers Friday with their musical talent.

This was the first time in the five-year history of the collegiate band that it has played a concert outside of Peterborough although its achievements are well known in other centres.

The concert at Fisher Park High School was by invitation and was part of an inter-collegiate exchange of bands which has been carried on recently by the Ottawa high schools.

Mr. Croasdale said today that after the hour-and-a-half program Friday afternoon the Fisher Park high teachers commented on the calibre of music played for the period the band has been organized.

Best Yet

"They said that our band was by far the best they've had," said Mr. Croasdale. "We're above the standard of most Ottawa bands and on a par at least with Ottawa Tech's band, possibly the city's best."

The collegiate band won the praise with a varied program, including hymns, marchs, classical and semi-classical numbers, and popular tunes.

Along the classical line the band played Chu Chin Chow by Frederick Norton, Part 2 (Westminster) and Part 3 (In Town Tonight) of the London Suite by Eric Coates and Finlandia by Jan Sibelius.

In the lighter line they played the Thunderer march by Sousa, Bless This House by May Brahe, the Shrine of St. Cecilia and the hymn, Abide With Me.

Liked Popular Numbers

The Fisher Park High students appreciated the popular numbers about the best of all, at least by applause. The band early in the program played Canadian Capers, then followed with zylophone solos by Murray Mander. His first selection, the characteristic, the Butterfly by Theo Bendix, resulted in the encore, Londonderry Air, a traditional Irish folk song.

But the students rocked the auditorium with their applause after the band finished Tiger Rag.

Met In Ottawa

Actually the trip to Ottawa was a two-day visit. It started Friday noon when the band was met at the parliament buildings by Peterborough's representative, Gordon K. Fraser. After pictures were taken, the band attended a luncheon as the guests of Mr. Fraser who spoke to the students in the school cafeteria, then billeted with Fisher Park High students. They formed small parties on Friday night.

Saturday morning was spent at the parliament buildings where they toured the buildings from one end to the other. In the afternoon the band went on a sightseeing tour throughout Ottawa and district.

Downeyville News

Messrs. Warner, Sherman, Jack and Kevin Perdue, of Toronto, spent the weekend as guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Perdue.

Miss Viola O'Neill has returned from a visit to Toronto with friends there.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Develin and family, of Peterborough, spent Sunday as guests of friends here.

The roads around here are in bad shape. Cars are having to be pulled out of the mud on nearly all the roads. People in the King's Wharf locality miss the road across the lake. It is a short way to Peterborough and heavy loads of logs were hauled to Peterborough across the ice.

Mrs. Margaret Morrissey accompanied by her two sons, Joseph and Frank Morrissey, of Downeyville, and two daughters, Mrs. Walter Herlihey, of Downeyville, and Mrs. Gerald Cavanagh, of Ennismore, have gone to Long Island, N.Y., having been called there owing to the serious illness of the former's daughter, Mrs. Al. Tetrault, of New York. Mrs. Morrissey is going to stay with her daughter for a few weeks but the other members of the family are returning home the last of the week.

Mr. Orville Perdue has gone to Lansing, Mich., where he will spend a few weeks as the guest of friends.

Births, Deaths Up During January

OTTAWA, April 8 (CP).—Registrations of births and deaths increased during January over the corresponding month a year ago, while marriages declined, the Bureau of Statistics reported on Monday.

Births during the month increased 1.4 per cent to 29,612 from 29,210 in January last year. Gains in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario more than offset declines in the other provinces. Ontario was mainly responsible for the over-all gain, increasing to 10,103 from 9,139.

Deaths were four per cent higher at 11,083 from 10,662, with Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan registering the only declines. Marriages totalled 5,054, down 18.2 per cent from the January, 1951 total of 6,176.

Insp. Stringer Speaks To Rotary

Inspector Allen Stringer, officer in charge of the Peterborough detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police was the guest speaker at the Rotary luncheon meeting on Monday.

The inspector, who has spent 17½ years as an active police constable came to Peterborough a year ago from the Sudbury area.

He was introduced by V. J. McElderry, Q.C., and thanked by E. A. Outram.

The following guests were introduced by the Rev. Ivan C. Morgan of Murray St. Baptist Church: George Armstrong and Floyd Algae, both of Toronto; Walter Dinsdale, Brandon, Manitoba; and Harold Jobbitt, Bradford, Pennsylvania.

DELIGHTFUL... SO MANY WAYS

In late September, the vineyards of Niagara are heavy with plump grapes that bear the bloom of perfection. Then comes the vintage.
The presses take the rich-flavored juices.
And from the juices come the varied products that have brought fame to our vineyards.
Enjoy them often—
they are delightful so many ways.

Frank Gnup, who coached the grid Orfuns here last fall, may pilot a senior O.R.F.U. squad in Brantford this year, according to the scribe of that city. Seems a group of football men in Hamilton are considering putting this club into Brantford to operate in the senior setup. The team may work a tie-up with Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four, as Lew Hayman would like a good farm club in Ontario football circles. Sarnia, Windsor and Balmy Beach are pretty sure senior starters again, too. Frank Gnup liked it here but naturally will take a senior or Big Four berth—at a heftier wage—if he can get one.

Eddie Hosking is president this year of the Toronto Viaduct Baseball League, where the Petes operated last summer. Looks like a six-team circuit this season, all Toronto teams. The champion Kingsway Lumbermen (Petes and Oshawa weren't allowed to playoff for the loop title or one of them would easily have won it) will return along with Stanton Fuels, Leaside Motors, Best Cleaners, Parliament Aces and Toppers. Loop wanted to pull out of the O.B.A. because that body wouldn't back 'em in September in their fight with Oshawa and Petes—but now they figure on a token affiliation in order to protect their players. Yes, indeedy, outlaw leagues get no protection.

Lacrosse In States

Many U.S.A. colleges go in for lacrosse of a field variety, using 10 or 11 players. Ted Reeve suggests that some of the better senior O.L.A. clubs should make a tour of maybe a week over across the line and play some of these teams this year. While the boxla boys would find the game somewhat different, their good passing and finish around a net should counteract the long running game as the Yanks play it. They'd have to play the same number of fellows, of course. Might be interesting for the Petes, for instance, but then how are you going to get time off work and the finances for such a tour? Perhaps 'twould be better to invite a U.S. college team to come up to Ontario during summer holidays for some exhibitions.

So, it's off to Stouffville again on the morrow for the sixth game of this sizzling senior "B" puck playoff series. Seventh, if necessary, will be here Friday—and Walt Smillie is wondering if he can get rubber sides put in the Arena. The walls were stretched last night as more than 2,600 jammed the place, 2,568 being paid fans. Several hundred were turned away, some got inside the door and then demanded a refund when they saw the jam. Dozens sat outside in their cars and had the game on the radio. Not since a playoff night in March in 1950, when more than 2,600 customers crowded into the rink to see Legion play, has there been such a turnout here, and they never got more than that into the old Brock.

A Wide-open Tussle

As for the game itself, 'twas another speedy and exciting fray. A wide-open joust with plenty of fast scoring, yet you couldn't say the goaltending was poor. Petes began to click and get some of their overdue breaks when in scoring position. Despite their hefty early lead they had to hustle right down to the finish as Clippers roared back twice to narrow their margin and threaten to overhaul the Ellis men. Penalties cost each side two goals and a misconduct sidelined Frank Stevenson—who aided on two goals—for 10 minutes. Some rugged checking, a couple of near fights, but play generally was clean. Petes drew five penalties and Clippers four. The fans ate up the hot action.

* * * * * *

Gus Leonard, Junior West and Freddy Garvey were in on three goals apiece for the victors, while Arn Dugan, Jake Wade and Red Peters figured in on two each. A solid team effort all the way. The Bangays, Watsons, Stark, Gibson, Rumney and Stevenson carried the mail for Stouffville. That leaves the Clippers still leading the best-of-seven sawoffs by three games to two, and Petes must win away on the morrow or they've had the course. Survivor hits into provincial semi-finals against Lyndhurst Motors of Toronto, comprising a number of former Markham players. Likely a lot of local fans wil make the trip Wednesday to root the Petes to victory to square the series.

Trenton Flyers Capture The T.V.L. Title

MARMORA, April 8 (ENS).—The Bata Cup, trophy of the Trent Valley Hockey League championship was won at Belleville on Monday evening by Trenton Flyers as they defeated Marmora Millionaires by the score of 7-1 as 2,500 spectators thronged the Belleville arena for the tussle. The R.C.A.F. band of Trenton played between periods. Thomas Bata presented his cup to the winning team.

Marmora found their opponents stiff opposition from the start and Attrill, who got two goals and two assists in the game, opened scoring for the Flyers within a minute and a half of the game's start. Beatch, who also scored twice and got three assists, registered before the period closed. Three goals were added by the Flyers in the second with Scott still unbeaten in the Flyers' nets, lady luck being largely on his side.

Early in the third, hopes of a shutout were shattered as Trumble took Lavender's pass to outwit the goalie. Marmora fought on stubbornly to reduce the lead but Faulkner got another counter for the winners and with about three minutes to play left, McDonald got the final goal, his second for the night. Killian in the Marmora goal turned in a good game and was beaten with difficult shots. Scott, the Flyers' goalie, was in his best form and made hair-raising saves as Marmora rallied in the third.

The teams:

Marmora — Goal, Killian; defence Maynes and Gray; centre, Forestell; wings, Lavender and Trumble; alternates, Stewart, Jones, Mantle, Kerr, Brown Doyle, Smith, Darrah; spare goalie, Drummond.

Flyers—Goal, Scott; defence, Faulkner and Pumple; centre, Parnell; wings McDonald and O'Meara; alternates, Beatch, Bowman, Attrill, McLean, Dickson, Roberge and Bruce.

Referees—Reason, Kingston; Casterton, Kingston.

First Period

Flyers—Attrill (Beatch)	1:30
Flyers—Beatch (McLean, Attrill)	19:32

Penalties—Pumple, Faulkner.

Second Period

Flyers—Beatch (Attrill, Bowman)	2:21
Flyers—McDonald	5:21
Flyers—Attrill (Beatch)	10:05

Penalties—Roberge, McLean.

Third Period

Marmora—Trumble (Lavender)	3:42
Flyers—Faulkner (Beatch)	12:00
Flyers—McDonald (McLean)	17:02

Penalties—McLean, Bowman, and Maynes 2.

LED THE SCORERS—Gus Leonard, left, and Freddy Garvey led the way for the Petes in their thrilling 10-7 playoff win over Stouffville here last night, each scoring two goals and aiding on one. But it was a team effort, with every player turning in a fine chore to keep the club in the O.H.A. race.

Petes Clip Clippers By 10-7 Before 2,568 Paid Fans To Stay In Senior "B" Hunt

An early drive paid off for the Petes here last night as they played on pretty even terms the last two periods with Stouffville Clippers and emerged winners by a 10-7 count before a season's record crowd of 2,568 paid fans. It kept the Ellis squad in the O.H.A. senior "B" quarter-finals as they faced elimination. The series stands at three games to two for the Clippers, with the sixth tilt tomorrow in Stouffville. The seventh, if necessary, will be played here Friday night.

Petes led 4-1 in the first frame, and they managed to outscore the fast Toronto team 5-4 in the second heat. The visitors had a 2-1 scoring margin in the third of a wide open and exciting playoff encounter that kept the big crowd roaring most of the route. Several hundred fans were turned away and many sat outside in cars and took in the game by radio. The Petes drew five of the nine penalties in a speedy, rather rugged but clean contest.

Argued Too Hard.

Frank Stevenson drew a misconduct in the second period for arguing over the Petes' goal which was allowed. Twice, fights threatened by heated players but no fisticuffs resulted. Each side scored two goals when the other squad was short a man in the penalty box. It was a well-handed struggle.

Gus Leonard and Freddy Garvey pitched in two goals for the Petes, as Arn Dugan, Jake Wade, Chum Fryia, Bill Stewart, Don Floyd and Junior West lit the lamp once each. West and Red Peters—who also stood out on defence—aided on a pair, as single assists went to G. Leonard, Dugan, Curly Mason, Wade and Garvey. Some fine work in net was served up again by Ray Harding. It was a team effort with the scoring well spread around, and the Petes finally getting some scoring breaks after outplaying the Clippers in two previous games.

Got Two Each.

Hal Gibson and George Stark counted a pair apiece for the visitors, singles going to Nick Bangay, Jack Rumney and Bud Watson. The latter and Frank Stevenson had two assists each, as Gibson, N. Bangay, Stark, Rumney and Rose were in on one each. Stunden turned aside a lot of hot rubbed in the Clippers' cage.

Gus Leonard started the Petes off early with a quick goal as he backhanded the disc from a sharp angle after the puck was cleared into Clippers' zone along the boards. Stunden was surprised at the shot. Dugan got back for an interference penalty and Nick Bangay put in time for high-sticking. Later, Bud Watson evened it from Stark and Rose on a sudden dart in close and a high shot to the net corner on the fly. Nick Bangay again served a high-sticking penalty but was back when Dugan bashed in Peter's forward pass in a close-in crease scramble. Wade made it 3-1 shortly from West and Peters on a hard screened shot from near the blue line on a passout after West had circled the net. Fryia stopped one with Harding down in hot going and Wade came close. Mason got back from a high-sticking penalty and Nick Bangay was robbed as Ray came well out. Fryia added one more from Gus Leonard on a short return pass going in fast, Chum flipping the puck into the hemp. A fight threatened by Clippers 'crease near the close.

Wide-Open Heat.

It was wide-open in the lively second. Gus Leonard got one first on a backhand angle drive in off the goalie's skate. It was in and out fast, and Clippers argued it was not in— Stevenson jawing himself into a misconduct. Stark scored on a slap shot on a corner passout from B. Watson and N. Bangay. Stark came back to add another from B. Watson on fast stepping around defence and a shot partly stopped by Harding. Stewart got one back from Dugan as he tipped in the pass on a lovely, speedy rush. West cuffed home Mason's rink-wide pass on the angle for another on a three-man rush. Floyd was over for hooking when Clippers struck hard for two. Gibson got the first on a passout from a play by Stevenson and Rumney. Then, Rumney whizzed around defence with Stevenson's pass to blaze it in from the side. Petch later was over for holding when Petes tallied twice. Garvey hit it from Wade in a crease pile-up, and then Floyd swept the rubber in from close range on a fine rush with Garvey and West.

It was slower in the third, and players were changed often, as action proved scarmbly for the first 10 minutes. Wade got back from a hooking penalty and Nick Bangay scored from Gibson with an angle backhander at defence. Mason sat it out for high-sticking and then play speeded up the last half. Clippers pressed, though Petes got in the odd hot thrust, too. Stevenson was robbed completely by Harding but Gibson's hot blast paid off after he checked, recovered and rolled right in close before shooting. Clippers kept pressing and it was 9-7 and had the fans worried, till Garvey scored the insurance marker. He did it with a back hand slider from defence and it was screened, the goalie not seeing the rubber in time to make his move toward the open side of the net. Fryia and Gus Leonard came close right after and Clippers kept fighting, with a fight almost breaking out between two players by the Stouffville goal as the gong sounded. Teams:

Stouffville: Goal, Stunden; defence, Baker and Petch; centre, B. Watson; wings, Stark and N. Bangay; alternates, R. Bangay, J. Watson, Bell, Rumney, Stevenson, Gibson, Rose and Machin.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Peters and Wade; centre, G. Leonard; wings, Steele and Fryia; alternates, Dugan, Mason, Stewart, Garvey, West, Floyd, Jopling and E. Leonard.

Referees: J. Crombie and M. Walsh.

Announce Dates For Cup Finals

OTTAWA, April 8 (CP).—W. B. George, vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, Monday announced the dates for the Allan and Memorial Cup eastern finals.

The first two games of the best-of-seven Allan Cup series between Pembroke Lumber Kings and Stratford will be played in Pembroke April 9 and 10. If the teams split in the first two games, the third will be played in Pembroke April 12 but if not, the third game will be played at Stratford that night.

The remaining games will be played at Stratford, with the fourth April 14, and the fifth, sixth and seventh, if necessary, April 16, 18 and 19.

In their best-of-seven Memorial Cup eastern final, Guelph Biltmores hold a 1-0 lead in games over Montreal Junior Canadiens. The second game will be played at Montreal April 9, third at Guelph April 11, fourth at Toronto April 12 and the fifth, sixth and seventh games, if necessary, will be played at Montreal April 15, Toronto April 18 and Montreal April 20.

Black Hawks Win Against Belleville

The local peewee Black Hawks beat Belleville 5-2 to take their hockey round 9-7, Belleville having earlier earned a 5-4 verdict, after putting out Kingston. Quite a few Quinte fans viewed the tilt here Saturday morning.

Early in the first period, Kimball tied up the round on a pass from Haig. Hendry and Kinlin then combined to put Hawks up but Boulter tied it again on a screened shot. Haig got two quickies in the second from Kimball and Hendry respectively. Kimball banged in Haig's pass to end Hawks' scoring. Bishop stickhandled through to get the last Belleville goal. Good goaltending and close checking kept the scorers out in the third. Each side drew three penalties. Bishop, Hall, Foster, Deacon and Barkley were best for Belleville; while Hendry, Haig and Patterson stood out for Hawks. Teams:

Belleville— Barkley, Foster, St. Louis, Hall, Bishop, Deacon, E. Alyea, M. Alyea, Keller, Boulter, Caddeck, Wright, Dies, Gill, Maher, Howard, Patterson, Doyle.

Hawks — Smillie, Hendry, Patterson, Haig, Brown, Kimball, Casey, Burns, Kinlin, Nicholls, Moffat, Copping, McFadden, Shaw and Wood.

Referees — R. Batley and J. Kimball.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

One of hockey's most dramatic scenes occurred 24 years ago tonight at Montreal when Lester Patrick, then 44 years old and managing the New York Rangers, went into the nets to replace goalie Lorne Chabot who had been badly injured by a flying puck. Patrick held the Montreal Maroons to one goal in 43 minutes, and Rangers won the game 2-1 and the Stanley Cup.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The Ontario Sports Writers and Sports Casters Association has turned over $10,820 for crippled children's work in the province.

The donation came from funds raised at the first annual sports celebrity dinner March 13 and went to the Ontario Society for Crippled Children.

The dinner featured old-time greats like Jim Thorpe, Lionel Conacher, Joe Malone, Newsy Lalonde, Alfie Dhrubb and Bobbie Rosenfeld. A group of Toronto men paid the out-of-pocket cost of the $25-a-plate dinner so that all proceeds would go for the work of cripples.

Next year the dinner will open the 1953 eastern seals campaign for crippled children and will be held March 5.

Entries for 42 days trotting races at Thorncliffe Raceway will close April 15, it was announced Monday night at Toronto. Featured will be Canada's richest harness racing event for the Canadian Cup. The meeting will open July 5 and close Aug. 23.

The Western Interprovincial Football Union announced at Regina Monday it has adopted a negotiation list system to prevent clubs from outbidding each other. Each team has agreed to send a list of the eight top players with which it is negotiating and will not approach any man who is on another team's list.

Cincinnati Reds Monday optioned catcher Hank Foiles to Ottawa of the International League.

Southpaw Chet Nichols of Boston Braves was sworn into the United States armed forces Monday shortly after he passed a draft physical. He had the best earned-run average in the National League last year.

Two top British soccer teams plan tours of Canada and the United States this year. They are Tottenham Hotspur and Manchester United. A schedule of games is being arranged, it was announced in New York.

The Illinois State Athletic Commission Monday demanded that the National Boxing Association disallow lightweight champion Jimmy Carter's bout with Laura Salas in Los Angeles as a title defence. Luther Rawlings of Chicago, No. 1 lightweight contender, claimed Carter was stalling Rawlings' bid for a title shot.

May Defer Mays From Being Drafted

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP). — The Daily News says today it has learned exclusively that Willie Mays, New York Giants' centre-fielder, may be deferred from the draft on the grounds of being a "hardship case."

The News says that Mays, last season's "rookie of the year," is scheduled for a special hearing Wednesday before the Alabama State Draft Board in Birmingham.

Since Mays is the main support of a family of nine, The News says, the Giants' outfielder may be deferred from service.

Mays is scheduled to be inducted into the armed forces May 16. His loss, plus the injury to Monte Irvin, who suffered a broken ankle last week, is a big blow to New York's pennant hopes.

Problem Child Wakefield Gets New Chance

HOUSTON, Tex., April 8 (AP). —The Dick Wakefield story enters a new chapter today, perhaps the last.

Wakefield, baseball's so-called "problem child" has received another opportunity to prove he belongs in the major leagues.

New York Giants, in dire straits due to the loss of outfielder Monte Irvin with a broken ankle and the impending induction of flychaser Willie Mays, will give Wakefield a try-out.

Manager Leo Durocher said today Wakefield "will play in the outfield some place. I don't know, I just want to look him over and see what he's got."

Al Lopez, manager of Cleveland Indians, said:

"He can help the Giants if he really wants to play."

Dick was the first of the big bonus babies. He received $55,000 and a new automobile when signed by Detroit Tigers in 1941 while attending the University of Michigan.

Wakefield started off in grand style. He led the Texas League in hitting with Beaumont in 1942 and batted .316 in his first season with Detroit in 1943.

The following season found Wakefield in the navy but he was released in mid-season and almost slugged Detroit to the 1944 pennant, belting .355 in 78 games.

Problem Ever Since

The potential star was called back into the navy in 1945 but returned to Detroit in 1946 and has been a problem ever since.

Detroit traded Wakefield to the Yanks. He held out in the spring and the Yanks traded him to Chicago White Sox shortly after the start of the season.

Chicago called the deal off when Wakefield demanded a $5,500 salary increase. Former Commissioner A. B. Chandler voided the deal and the stormy petrel returned to the Yanks.

The Yanks finally sold him to Oakland of the Pacific Coast League. He was released by Oakland in 1951 and since has been without a job.

Cleveland general manager Hank Greenberg gave the 29-year-old outfielder another chance this spring but he failed to stick.

Perhaps Durocher is the man that can light a fire under Wakefield and tap his potential power.

Canadiens Slight Favorites To Oust Boston Bruins

MONTREAL, April 8. (CP) — Montreal Canadiens are slightly favored to defeat Boston Bruins in the deciding game tonight of their best-of-seven, semi-final Stanley Cup hockey series. Word that Maurice (Rocket) Richard was romping in old-time form in the last meeting of the teams Sunday at Boston led Canadiens fans to believe the Montrealers can halt the Bruins. Richard reported a bruised knee after the game, but will be in uniform tonight.

In the last meeting of the two teams, Richard scored the tying goal, in the game won by Canadiens 3-2 in the second period of overtime. Observers were cheered by the fact he showed sustained bursts of speed, missing from his attack since he was sidelined with a groin injury during the regular season.

The Montrealers took the first two games of the series but coach Lynn Patrick had his team "up" for the next three which they took in fairly decisive fashion.

Coach Dick Irvin will count heavily on Eddie Mazur and Paul Masnick, who showed to good advantage in the last game. Irvin called the pair up from the American Hockey League to bolster his injury-ridden front lines. Mazur scored the first Canadien goal and Masnick fired the winner in the tilt that deadlocked the series 3-3.

May Turn Tide

Despite the fact that Canadien forwards Dickie Moore and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion are playing on wobbly knees, it is felt the injury Sunday night to Sugar Jim Henry, Bruin netminder, is the most costly, and one which might well turn the tide in favor of Montreal.

Henry's nose was broken by defenceman Doug Harvey's shot. After first aid, he returned to the goalkeeping chores but his eyes were badly inflamed and he was jittery and bobbled the winning Canadien marker.

Henry, with forward Fleming Mackell, has supplied the spark for the three Bruin wins.

Coach Lynn Patrick of the Bruins is expected to appear in an entirely different ensemble tonight.

The impeccably-dressed Patrick has worn the same suit, shoes, shirt, socks, tie and hat, since the Boston team won its first series game from Canadiens. He said he wouldn't change while his team was winning, and was even willing to "suffer it out, even through the finals with Detroit Red Wings" if his team took Canadiens.

Winnipeg Edges Livingstons 63-61

TILLSONBURG, April 8 (CP) —Don Leyden was in the right place at the right time Monday night to sink the winning basket in the 63-61 victory by Winnipeg Varsity Grads over Tillsonburg Livingstons.

The lanky centre's shot gave the Manitoba team a one-game lead in their best-of-five Canadian senior men's basketball final and sent 3,500 fans home limp. They'll be back tonight for the second game and again Wednesday for the third clash.

There was never more than four points' difference between the two clubs. Leyden's shot came with only 25 seconds left to play to break a 61-61 deadlock.

Carl Ridd, the Grads' highly-touted centre, pushed in 25 points for the winners. Always on top of the westerners' attack, he flashed into high gear in the final quarter to lead the Winnipeg victory drive.

The Grads held a 21-17 margin at the end of the opening quarter, but fell before a determined Tillsonburg second-period drive to trail 35-32 at the half. The Ontario squad managed to hold on with a 46-44 edge at the three-quarter mark before Winnipeg drove through for their slim victory.

Guard Bob Simpson paced the Tillsonburg scoring with 20 points while Harry Wade was next in line with 13. Roy Williams notched 18 for the westerners.

Hastings Cuts Assessment By $160,000

BELLEVILLE, April 8—Equalized assessment for Hastings county for 1953 was cut Friday by $160.00. County council set the new assessment at $18,122,800.

Councillors had to overcome dissatisfaction expressed by representatives of five townships — Madoc, Hungerford, Tyendenaga, Rawdon, and Elzevir—who were pressing for reduced assessment.

Report of the assessment committee reduced Madoc township assessment by $50,000; Hungerford by $100,000; and Elzevir by $10,000. Others remained as they were.

Ice Fishing

Among the other problems facing the council Friday was the question of ice fishing on lakes in the northern part of the county. Reeves from northern municipalities objected strenuously to the ban.

They declared they could not see the fairness in denying residents the right to fish through the ice. Most northern residents have little enough time to fish in summer, but would welcome the chance in winter, the reeves said.

On Thursday, Cecil Geen, Huntingdon township farmer, was named county assessor. He was chosen over eight others, and replaces Harry Harrison of Thurslow township.

Council passed a recommendation Friday urging that some form of compulsory insurance be instituted by the provincial government as protection for motorists.

Couple Observe Anniversary

BAILIEBORO, April 8 (ENS) — Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard Caldwell of Centreville celebrated their fifty-third wedding anniversary on Saturday.

In honor of the occasion, they entertained a number of friends Friday evening. Euchre was played, prizes going to Mrs. C. Barnard, Mrs. J. Bell, Mr. O. Younge and George Caldwell. Guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lowery and Lena Marie of Millbrook; Mrs. Jim Caldwell, Helen, George and Robert of Cobourg, Mr. and Mrs. H. Tate, Mr. and Mrs. C. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. D. Rutherford, Mr. and Mrs. G. Beebe, Mr. and Mrs. J. Whittington, Mr. and Mrs. K. Huggins, Mr. and Mrs. C. Barnard, Mr. and Mrs. O. Younge, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. S. McGill, Mr. and Mrs. A. Fallis, Mr. George and Miss Allie Berry, Mr. Stewart and Miss Evelyn Donaldson, Mr. O. B. Johnson, Mr. Ronald Isbister and Mrs. Grace Muspratt.

Need More Housing

TORONTO, April 8 — (CP) — One of the greatest needs in Canada today, "and especially in Ontario," is for more housing T. D. Thomas, C.C.F. member of the Legislature for Ontario riding, said Monday night in a CBC free-time broadcast. He said Ontario "must wade in and start a large-scale program of home building." The government's ability to borrow funds at low interest rates would provide homes "at much lower cost than any other method."

Dies From Injuries

BRAMPTON, April 8—(CP)—Mrs. Martha Potter, 62, zone representative for five branches of the Canadian Legion, died Monday night of injuries suffered March 29 when she was struck by a truck and hurled against the wall of a house. She was secretary of the Brampton Legion's Women's Auxiliary.

Face Hard Times

VANCOUVER, April 8—(CP)—Lumbermen said today British Columbia's timber industry is facing its hardest times in more than a decade. They reported practically no new business with the sterling-area countries and a rapid falling off of the North American market because of curbs on housing credits in Canada and a sharp reduction in new construction in the United States.

Bailieboro Boy Wins Scholarship

A P.C.V.S. graduate has been named as winner of the St. Andrew's Exchange scholarship at Queen's University. He is 21-year-old John Finlay Malcolm of Bailieboro.

The scholarship provides a year's tuition and board at St. Andrew's University in Scotland, and $200 travelling expenses.

John Malcolm is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Malcolm, who came to Bailieboro from Saskatchewan 15 years ago. He was born in Regina, and educated in Bailieboro, Port Hope, and Peterborough. He spent his last four years of high school at P.C.V.S.

This spring, he will conclude a three-year course in philosophy.

Mrs. Malcolm said today she had not heard of the scholarship before, but she expected her son would take advantage of it.

Canada Doubles Production In 23 Years

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor

Gilbert Jackson, Toronto economist says the "most exciting" book published in Canada this year is one by the Bureau of Statistics, called "National Accounts and Expenditures."

He says it is exciting because it tells Canadians how well they have been doing—that, in fact, they have created a record.

Even the book itself, he says, is a "world record", because no other country has as yet managed to get itself so well recorded in statistics.

The statistics may not sound impressive, unless you are told that no one has ever equalled them.

They boil down to this—that from 1927 to 1950 (and apparently the process continues) Canadians each year have produced three per cent more than they produced each preceding year; and that means that in 23 years they have about doubled their production.

It means, too, that each individual Canadian has increased his output per hour by two per cent.

Decide For Yourself

You can decide for yourself whether you have produced the extra two per cent by harder work, or whether you accomplished it through use of more efficient machinery or equipment.

Actually, the figures indicate you worked less hours for while you increased your production per hour by two per cent, you increased your production per year by only 1½ per cent.

As Mr. Jackson puts it, in effect: You can take a dividend out of your increased hourly production, either in the form of increased leisure, or in an increased amount of goods. Apparently we have taken it partly in leisure, partly in goods.

Now, if you increased your yearly production by 1½ per cent, and total production increased by three per cent, where did the other 1½ per cent increase come from? The answer is—increased population.

If that three per cent per year still doesn't sound impressive, Mr. Jackson has another set of figures. These indicate, so far as his research can find, that between the years 500 and 1800 A.D., was a period the average person did not increase his production, and did not improve his standard of living.

This means that all the betterment in the manner of living, since the declining days of the Roman empire to the present, has occurred in the last 150 years—in the era of the industrial revolution.

"It makes such a difference"

Mrs. Helen V.... was so pleased by the courteous treatment she received from a bank teller during a holiday trip that on her return home she wrote:

"It was really a pleasure to transact my modest banking affairs with you and I think the bank is very lucky to have such a charming and welcoming young woman with them. It makes such a difference when one is travelling to feel so at home."

At your own local branch, at any branch of any bank, you will find bank people going out of their way to look after you, efficiently and courteously. That is the way the chartered banks compete with each other for your business.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

FILM COUNCIL

N. J. Gainer of Queen Alexandra School will lead a discussion on the Cedar Lake Park project at a meeting of the Peterborough Film Council to be held at the Public Library tonight.

FUNERAL.

The funeral for Peter Stewart, 450 Rubidge Street, who died on Monday, will be held Thursday from the Comstock Funeral Home at 2 p.m. The Rev. A. A. Mathews of George Street United Church will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

OFFICIAL: 38,272.

The preliminary total of the population of the city of Peterborough made public last October was 38,166. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has now arrived at some permanent figures of the 1951 census taken last summer, and Peterborough's population in the decennial census is now given as 38,272.

MARKSMEN AT WHITBY

Major G. A. Woods, John Wolff, Johnny Noyes, Ed Byers and Kay Blakely of the Peterborough Pistol and Revolver Club took part in an invitation shoot on the Whitby golf range Monday. They report holding their own on the average with Whitby members, who will pay a return visit this spring to Peterborough. The local club shoots Monday nights in the armouries.

GRATEFUL FOR GRANT

Receipt of a second $500, amounting to $1,000, the city's grant to St. John Ambulance Association, was gratefully acknowledged by its chairman, Gordon H. Munro, in a letter to the council last night. "The civic assistance has indeed substantially aided the training of first aid volunteers, and has gone a long way to assist, I believe, the Civil Defence Committee."

AN INFANT "G.A."

Named after his grandfather, George Alexander Gillespie, M.B.E., is the infant son presented by his wife to Alderman James E. Gillespie, Monday morning. The glowing father, who also has the distinction of having received the award of Member of the British Empire, received the congratulations of the members of the council prior to their session Monday night. Parental happiness was indicated by the distribution of symbolic cigars.

PADRE McDONALD TROPHY

The Rev. William McDonald, padre of the Peterborough Curling Club, has donated a trophy for a men's and women's competition. It will be known as the Padre McDonald Trophy and will be competed for in March of each year by a scheduled rink of women playing against a scheduled rink of men. Padre McDonald told a group of 180 men curlers Monday night that the average women's rink plays a better quality game than the average men's. It will stimulate "quality curling," he said. The presentation was made on the eve of the Padre's 80th birthday and his 50th wedding anniversary. Rufus Payne accepted the trophy on behalf of the Club.

Would Cost City $6,000 To Re-assess Industrial, Commercial Properties

Re-assessment of industrial and commercial properties will cost $6,000 if the city council enters into an agreement with Charles Warnock Co., Ltd., Toronto, for that purpose.

In the report of the finance committee Monday night, by Ald. T. D. Miller, chairman, the clause referring to this proposal was: "It was agreed that the company should submit, at an early date, a draft contract with the city for the re-assessment services".

The project was recently discussed with the finance committee by a representative of the Warnock Company. Their staff includes men of special experience in the valuating of large and small industrial and manufacturing buildings.

Outside Experience

In the gradual re-assessment of the city it was propsed that the services of this company might be obtained for the assessing of such properties and also of selected commercial buildings, chiefly merchandising stores. Details of such appraising are outside the experience of assessment departments.

For that reason, Chas. Warnock Co. has been engaged by some other cities in the province for the re-assessing of manufacturing and industrial buildings.

City council has not committed itself to the proposal other than asking the company to submit a draft contract for consideration.

Wartime Houses Ordered Cleared, City Council Told

The block of wartime houses on the former Hatton property at the west end of Charlotte St. must be removed by June 30, 1953. Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation is informing its tenants by letter and advertisement that the city refuses to extend further than Dec. 31, 1952, the terms of the agreement with the Crown company by which the houses were to be removed six months after the end of World War II.

A copy of the circular letter to tenants was received by the council Monday night, with the further information that newspaper advertisements embodying the final notice would be published on Thursday.

The letter is signed by John W. Wocker, manager for Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Will Not Renew

"We must obtain possession of all buildings not later than Dec 31, 1952," Mr. Wocker informs the occupants, telling them that the city will not again renew the agreement which has been extended from time to time since the end of the war.

Leases are being terminated, but tenants are being offered preference in purchase of houses.

Prices quoted for the houses are: 4 room, small, $750; 4 room, large, $850; 6 room large, $950; and a one and a half storey farm house of six rooms, $950.

Unsold vacant houses that are not purchased by tenants will be offered for sale by tender.

Mr. Wocker reminds tenants that the city requires the houses to be moved beyond its borders. He suggests that purchasers should consult for permission other municipalities in which they wish to locate and erect the houses they buy.

$100 Deposit

The Corporation is notifying tenants that if they wish to purchase they must make a security deposit of $100, in addition to the purchase price. This money will be returned to each purchaser as soon as a building is removed from its present site, "and the premises left in tidy condition."

The Charlotte St. houses were built during the war for the accommodation of people moving into Peterborough to work in factories producing war materials.

Provision of the usual community services was made by the city in the scope of the agreement which also set a time limit on Crown's use of the property for its temporary occupation.

Incidentally five of the 126 houses in the west Charlotte St. block are vacant and have been offered for sale. The time for receiving tenders on them ended Monday. Bids were sent to the Toronto office of Central Mortgage and Housing Monday, from the local office.

Parcels Resigns Chief 11 Years

NORWOOD, April 8. (ENS)—Chief constable at Norwood for the past 11 years, William (Bill) Parcels handed in his resignation Monday night at a meeting of the village council.

Mr. Parcels, who is 60, gave poor health as the reason for his retirement, and asked that his resignation take effect April 30, or earlier if a replacement could be secured.

A veteran of the First World War, Mr. Parcels has been a resident of Norwood for the past 29 years, operating a service station for some years before becoming chief constable.

Village council passed a motion stating their "deep regret" at his resignation.

Council also decided to advertise for a new constable, and that applications for the job should be in by April 21.

City School Children Learn Of Conservation

William MacDonnell, secretary manager of the Canadian Forestry Association of Ontario, is spending several days this week visiting city schools.

He is lecturing school children on conservation as part of the activities of Wildlife week. Mr. MacDonnell was invited here by the Peterborough Fish and Game Association.

He shows a film on conservation to the children and he commented that he found the children very much aware of bush fire hazards and other threats to forests and wildlife.

He will also be talking to the Boy Scouts of Peterborough and the Sea Cadets of Lakefield.

The children are also being reminded of the wildlife essay contest being run by the Peterborough Fish and Game Association. Pupils of Grades 5, 6, 7, and 8 can take part and the essays must be in by the end of April.

Civic Union Protests Dep't Ruling

Parks Department Refuses To Promote Two Employees

Independent Civic Employees Union has submitted to the council a grievance in behalf of two employees of the parks department respecting their classification as tree-trimmers.

Parks Superintendent Armar W. Butcher did not rate George Kerr and J. H. Taylor as fully experienced trimmers, and as a result, they did not get the wage increase they sought.

Following grievance procedure, Henry O'Rourke, president of the Union, referred the appeal of the two employees to the council. In turn, the council, Monday night, asked the parks committee to look into the matter and report.

Charge Unfair

Mr. O'Rourke wrote that the Union regarded as unfair the action of Mr. Butcher in refusing to reclassify the two men from unskilled to skilled rating. The complaint, he informed the council, was presented in the regular way to the foreman, Leo R. O'Rourke. It was dealt with by Superintendent Butcher. The Union then adopted recourse to the council, "as the foreman and the Department Superintendent have been unable to adjust the grievance satisfactorily."

Council approved the motion of Aldermen T. D. Miller and Norman G. Graham referring the letter to the parks committee, over Ald. A. B. Burrows' proposal that it go to the legal committee.

Curlers Given City's Rings At Annual Dinner

Dr. Ralph Clark and his Ontario championship curling rink Monday night were presented with rings bearing the city coat-of-arms. It was the official gift from the city council for the rink's feat of winning the Ontario championship and representing the province last March in the Dominion playdowns in Winnipeg.

The presentation was made by Alderman Herbert Young, chairman of the legal and reception committee, at the annual curling banquet that winds up the season's activities.

Alderman Young also made the belated presentation of rings to the provincial "Colt" champions of 1951. Eligibility in this case is confined to those in Southern Ontario who have not curled seven years.

The 1952 Ontario champions were Dr. Ralph Clark, Burritt Harrison, Vic Brown and Ken Bissett.

The 1951 "Colts" champions were Burritt Harrison (on both winning rinks), Dick Whalen, W. (Wib) Westrum and Fred Allison.

180 Curlers

One hundred and eighty curlers attended the annual dinner and social evening, held in the Empress Hotel.

The Ontario representatives were congratulated by Ernest McMurtery, secretary of the Ontario Curling Association.

"If an Ontario rink goes out and keeps us in the first division I think we're doing a good job," he said. He said that over the years the standing of the provinces is Manitoba, first, followed by Alberta, British Columbia and Ontario.

Dr. Clark's rink improved on this Ontario average, coming third.

Guest speaker of the night was Dr. Clark, the championship skip. He was given an enthusiastic, standing ovation when he approached the microphone.

Biggest Game

Dr. Clark started off by saying that curling is Canada's biggest game. At present there are more than 100,000 registered curlers, including schoolboys, in Canada. As there are only an estimated 200,000 curlers in the world it means there are more curlers here than in any other country.

He quoted Senator Haig who said that curling was Canada's greatest game because everybody who plays is an amateur. And there are no imported stars.

"In a few short years curling has become Canada's leading participant sport," said Dr. Clark. "It is no longer an old man's game . . . it's a competitive game. We found out at Winnipeg that older people couldn't stand the tension."

"Scots call it the roarin' game; we call it the biggest game."

He said that curling is ideal for teaching sportsmanship. It is democratic because all professions and classes rub shoulders during a game.

He quoted a remark by John Fisher, nation radio commentator: "If Joe Stalin would only curl!"

More Competition

To improve the standard of curling in Peterborough, Dr. Clark had this suggestion: Set aside one night a week for serious competitive play. This would allow rinks who were shooting for the "Colts" championship, Ontario Tankard or other championships to play against each other. The brisk competition would stimulate the game.

That is one way of offering serious competition to Western Canada, Dr. Clark suggested. At the same time he warned players not to take the game too seriously. After all, it is just a game.

Prizes were presented to winning rinks.

"THAT'S MY BUNNY," exclaimed Ross Hamilton, age 2; not the big one pushing the barrow but the little cuddly one among the flowers, received his attention. Ross was intrigued by the fine window display in a George St. florist store that has proved to be a crowd-stopper for pre-Easter shoppers. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Hamilton of 215 Reid St.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Brush-Off

Pedestrians who walk north on George St. past the city hall no longer will have to cross to the east side of the street to avoid scuffling through piles of dusty gravel left when winter ice melted. Today a tractor sweeper gave the sidewalk and the walks in Confederation park the brush-off as the city began to spruce itself up for Easter.

100 Forced Out By Spring Floods

ST. LOUIS, Sask., April 8 — (CP)— More than 100 persons have been evacuated from their homes on the John Smith Indian Reserve near this community 80 miles northeast of Saskatoon.

Cordwood, stocks of flour and seed supplies for spring planting were lost as the families moved out of reach of the flooding south Saskatchewan river. Livestock and farm machinery was moved to high ground earlier.

Two schools in the reserve are partly awash, and a church is threatened.

Bridge Threatened.

A threat to the traffic bridge over the river here appeared over. Water levels are receding after ice chunks twisted the bridge steel.

Meanwhile, at other points the South Saskatchewan appeared to be flowing high but apparently clear of serious ice jams such as knocked out the $1,000,000 Saskatchewan Landing bridge north of Swift Current.

Other flood threats appeared at scattered points across the Prairies where smaller streams were unable to carry away run-off water.

At East Coulee, 12 miles south of Drumheller, Alta, the Red Deer river forced more than 50 families from their homes.

Resort Owner Sues Gov't For $100,000

SUDBURY, April 8 (CP). — Gene Rioux, resort owner on the French River at Noelville, has brought a $100,000 suit against the Federal Government for damage caused by floods and drought at his lodge.

He claims the damage was a result of government manipulation of the water level in Lake Nipissing.

Maintaining the lake level within narrow limits has meant the French River must absorb full effect of heavy rains or snow, as well as summer dry spells, he said.

Plan Assessment For Smith Area To Be Annexed

A detailed assessment of the 1,000 acres of Smith which the city proposes to annex will be made this year as the basis of the 1953 taxes, depending on the goodwill of the township.

That proposal was included in a letter which City Clerk Outram recently sent to Alex I. Edmison, clerk and treasurer of Smith, reviewing the position of the two municipalities since annexation came into consideration.

The letter was read to the city council last night.

So far in negotiations it has been understood that annexation of the northern suburb is to take effect Jan. 1, 1953.

400 Feet Beyond

The area shall include all lands which the city has optioned. Where there is a boundary road, the limit of annexation would be 400 feet beyond that road.

For example, annexation along the Chemong Road would extend to a depth of 400 feet on the west side of that road. Main area of annexation lies between that road and the Otonabee River.

Mr. Outram also commented that the eastern boundary of the annexed part will be the Otonabee River, and would include the Meiklejohn farm and the Utilities Commission filtration plant property.

Take Over Debentures

The city obligates itself to pay to Smith that part of debenture charges which would otherwise have been chargeable to the area being annexed. In other words the city assumes the debentures which have been incurred for the special benefit of the annexed area.

As a means of informing the suburban residents beforehand, Mr. Outram recommended that sample assessments of properties be prepared as a means of explaining to them the annexation's effect in taxes.

City also undertakes to acquire the fire fighting equipment and the fire station which the suburban residents have provided for their own protection.

$3 Million Contract Let To Construct Ordnance Depot In Cobourg

Work Due To Begin Early In May
Land Must Be Drained, Filled
Value of Depot Set At $15 Million

COBOURG, April 8. (ENS)—Building contract for the $15,000,000 ordnance depot now under way at Cobourg has been let to the Montreal construction firm of Richardson and Ryan. The announcement was made Monday in Ottawa by Defence Production officials. Value of the building contract is set at about $3,000,000. Already, six-foot culverts are being made at the side of the depot, at the northeast corner of Cobourg. These will be used to drain the water from the site. Now, the 300-acre plot is a sea of mud, and there are places where even bulldozers fear to put their treads.

Begin In May

Formal start of construction is expected to be early in May, with some kind of ceremony. But before that can be done, the land must be drained. When a hole is dug now, it fills with water immediately.

No actual construction work has started on the depot site, but for the past two months trucks have been hauling fill and stockpiling gravel in preparation for the summer's work.

Find Population In County Stays Constant

The population of Peterborough County has remained nearly constant within the last 10 years, 1951 decennial census figures reveal.

A comparison of the population in the city and county follows:

	1951	1941
City	38,272	25,350
County	22,517	22,042

While the city of Peterborough has increased by 12,922 the county population has only increased 475.

In four municipalities the number of residents has decreased. The biggest drop is in North Monaghan where expropriations by the city of township territory have cut the population by more than a third (4,206 to 1,334). Other townships that have lost population are Ennismore, Galway-Cavendish, and Chandos.

Smith Jumps

Smith township has had the greatest increase. In 1941 there were 2,824 people living in Smith, and, according to 1951 statistics, their number jumped to 4,112—the most of any municipality in the county. Otonabee is second with 3,349.

Lakefield continues to have the largest population among the three villages. Its population in the last 10 years has gone up from 1,349 to 1,710.

Following is a breakdown of the population figures for Peterborough county.

Douro	2,129	1,497
Ennismore	514	522
Galway-Cavendish	361	421
Harvey	945	934
North Mongahan	1,334	4,206
Otonabee	3,349	2,741
Smith	4,112	2,824
Lakefield	1,710	1,349
Havelock	1,132	1,113
Norwood	925	762

Milk Surplus Just Temporary

TORONTO, April 8 (CP). — Ontario's milk surplus was described today by Agriculture Minister Kennedy as "temporary." He said there will be "no lowering of the price of milk."

The question of surplus milk was raised at a meeting Monday of the Ontario Milk Distributors' Association.

The association executive decided to consider applying to the Ontario Milk Control Board for a decrease in milk prices because of a surplus estimated to reach 600,000,000 pounds this year.

"There is a surplus now and there will be another temporary surplus when the cows go out on grass," said Mr. Kennedy. "But these will be short lived—a few dry weeks will change the whole picture and milk will be scarce."

WOMEN IN PUBLIC LIFE—Four Ontario women mayors and a reeve were among special guests at the International Service Clubs' dinner, sponsored by five women's service clubs, and held in Toronto. Mayor Charlotte Whitton, of Ottawa, front row right, in an address, said that what this country needs is more women in Government to reduce its costs and cut taxes. Guests, left to right, are: front row—, Mayor Grace McFarland of Leamington and Miss Whitton; back row—Mayor Bernadette Smith, Woodstock; Reeve Helen McKenzie, Beaverton, and Mayor Marjorie Hamilton, Barrie.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Try Sunny Daffodil Cake For Your Easter Menu

On loan from a cooking buddy in Ottawa, for a year, I have a tome weighing six or seven pounds containing French recipes written in a kind of pidgin-English, and another one almost equally big from the Old Country. Just reading these strange cook books is an evening's entertainment for a simple soul like me. Last night I was chuckling over them when Pete said from his desk "What's so funny, Mum?"

I said "Listen to this." This is how to make an Egg Sponge. All of the bracketed comments are mine.

"Bring some water to the boil (which boil?) and stand bowl containing broken eggs (cracked?) over this using a whisk. (If you haven't a whisk shake the dust out of the broom and use it.) Beat the eggs with 2 oz. castor sugar if possible. (Does it mean if you have the strength or if you can dig up any castor sugar—I thought everything castor was oil anyway.) Beat until mixture is thick and dark cream in color. Keep eggs away from sides of bowl or they will set. (Hatch? Will we have little chicks for Easter?)

(Now comes the pay off—you will need three hands for this.) Thoroughly sieve the flour and baking powder then fold it into egg mixture. This operation is quite difficult at first (impossible first and last I think) as beating in flour would spoil texture of the sponge. Best way to learn the folding motion is to use a metal spoon or palette knife and while turning the flour in gently with the right hand hold your wrist with the left. This prevents your being too vigorous. (I'd be paralyzed.) Fold in melted margarine and hot water.

Before removing sponge from oven (it's in the oven now—no wonder it had to get in the oven by itself with me holding hands with myself) press it gently but firmly (when I'm firm I'm not gentle). If no impression remains the cake is cooked. Presto! It's a cake after all of those antics. I think the author must be a cousin to Vera Vague. . . and somebody once wrote to me complaining because I neglected to say that flour should be sifted first before measuring!

Another pipperino in the recipe is this: the amount of hot water was "1 good dessertspoon". None of your tin stuff—your best sterling silver spoon and pile the water up too!

Don't make that cake. Make this Sunny Daffodil Cake for Easter. Now that I've stuck my neck out you can blast me with both barrels if I make a misstep.

No whisks. No wrist-holds. No cakes left sitting on the table. No sterling silver. BUT exact measurements, dears, and times and temperatures.

Sunny Daffodil Cake

Sift together 2 cups sifted cake flour and 2 teaspoons baking powder. Put on to heat to nearly boiling point 1 cup milk. Beat 4 eggs in large bowl for 10 minutes with rotary or electric beater. Gradually add 2 cups sugar, ½ teaspoon salt. Add 1 or 2 teaspoons vanilla. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in the hot milk and stir it quickly into the egg mixture. Sift the flour mixture over and stir it in quickly. Turn into 2 buttered and paper-lined layer cake tins and bake about 20 or 25 minutes at 375 deg. Fahr. When cool spread with—

Clear Orange Filling

Between and on top: Mix together in suacepan 1 cup sugar, 4 tablespoons cornstarch, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup orange juice, 2 tablespoons grated orange rind, 1½ tablespoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons butter. Stir over heat until boiling and boil 1 minute stirring. Cool before spreading.

Frost sides of cake with pale yellow butter icing but make petal-like scallops at edge on top of cake to simulate daffodil petals.

British Women In Wartime Depicted In Huge Tapestry

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP) — A tapestry depicting British women at wartime tasks made its public debut at the Victoria and Albert Museum and may yet hang from the walls of Britain's House of Commons.

Parliament is considered one of the most suitable vantage points for a historic chronicle designed to show women's first big contribution to war work. The House of Commons, rebuilt after suffering heavy bomb damage in 1941, is open to the public Saturdays and holidays, if the House is not in session, and many overseas tourists are among the visitors.

"We want the tapestry to hang where overseas visitors can see it with ease," said a member of Women's Institute headquarters. "But the House of Commons is only possible if we give the tapestry to the nation."

No such decision has been made. The tapestry is to go on tour of Women's Institutes throughout Britain before its future is finally determined.

The 15-by-nine-foot tapestry, its 2,000,000 stitches worked in 35 pounds of moth-proof wool, has a quotation from John Buchan, one-time Governor-General of Canada: "It was a war won not by the genius of a few but by the faithfulness of the many."

The complete design is the work of an engraving and water-color artist, Sybil Blunt of Winchester, Hants. The centre panels depict women in the three services, on the land and in industry.

At Various Tasks

These are surrounded by smaller medallions illustrating such Second World War activities as the feeding of evacuees, looking after rest centres, women railway porters, bus conductresses, forestry and radar workers, nursing sisters, and many others.

All pictures are worked in the finest petit-point, surrounded by a heavier tapestry stitch that merely highlights the beauty of detail. One of the most poignant portrays a tired housewife standing at a bus stop with the wearied, the stiches and teach others. All worker, right down to the flat feet.

Painstaking efforts of 400 women in Institutes throughout Britain went into the tapestry. Many members went to school to learn he siches and teach others. All produced samples of their craftsmanship before being allowed to work the canvas.

It took four years to make the 15 panels that are carefully, but invisibly, joined.

A second quotation incorporated in the design, taken from Shakespeare's "Henry VIII," says: ". . . the madams too, not used to toil, did almost sweat to bear the pride spon them, that their very labour was to them as a painting.'

COLORED EASTER EGGS: "My whole family will be home for Easter and they love colored boiled eggs for Easter Sunday breakfast. How can I tint the eggs successfully without harming their food value?"

Tint the water in which the eggs are boiled with vegetable coloring. That means using three or four saucepans with pink, yellow, lavender and green colorings separately in each saucepan.

EASTER LILIES: "My husband sends me each year two or three pots of Easter lilies. After the lily has died how can I use the bulbs for future blooming?"

When the bloom has gone on your plant, leave the bulb in the pot, put it in the cellar and don't water it. About the 24th of May plant the bulb outdoors in the garden. The lily will bloom again in the fall, but it won't bloom another year.

EASTER HAM: "We are having a weekend house party over the Easter weekend. I thought a large sized ham would be a good investment for cold meals and snacks. How do I glaze the su face of it so that it looks really attractive?"

When your ham is cooked, remove it from the oven and take off the skin. Score the fat surface into squares or diamonds. Mix together ½ cup brown sugar and 1 tablespoon flour. Press that mixture into the fat; stick with whole cloves. Decorate the squares with half maraschino cherries cut in petals. Return the ham to a 400 deg. F. oven and glaze for 15 minutes.

Leaders' Course Stresses 'Method' Of Y.W.C.A. Work

An unusually large enrolment for the three-day leadership course at the Y.W.C.A. this week is evidence that the board, committees and leaders in the Peterborough Association have been well chosen. Miss Agnes Roy, assistant executive director of National Council, is directing the course.

Emphasis is being placed on "method", covering all phases of Y.W.C.A. work. Monday afternoon's discussion was on committees, and included an outline of a good committee's work methods. The evening course began with a statement of the functions of a board of directors. There followed a discussion of autocratic, laissez-faire and democratic leadership; how they differ in method and results and how they operate in club groups and in committees. This being of so great interest it was continued in this afternoon's session.

Democratic Policy

Miss Roy points out that the purpose of the Y.W.C.A. is to promote fellowship of women and girls. It is by their membership that the organization exists, so members should participate in the policy making. Thus the modern trend of democratic leadership is urged.

Peterborough Board of Directors is already a democratic governing body in thought and president Mrs. H. T. Rehill will probably find ways to make it more effectively so in this course. The autocratic governing under which Y.W.C.A. began has been gradually modified but the local organization has never allowed members the free hand of a laissez-faire government.

The democratic policy of electing board members is now urged also. A problem is: How to maintain the calibre of women when there is not the honor and dignity of being invited to serve. Electors in the Y.W.C.A. are members over 16 years of age.

Over-All Picture

At tonight's session Miss Roy will endeavour to have formed a picture of the entire organization and its working as she discusses relationships between the purpose of the Y.W.C.A. and the methods in use; between the purpose and the program; between the purpose and community relations.

In regard to the final topic, of Wednesday evening, deals with conferences, conventions and National Assembly, Miss Roy has remarked on the widespread changes in policy and method which have taken place between the conventions of 1945 and '49 and will be before the convention of '53. Foremost recommendations from the last will be discussed with regard to adapting them to present needs.

A similar leadership course given at the Peterborough Y several years ago was based on the Christian emphasis in the program.

MEETS GODMOTHER—Margaret Truman, right, daughter of the president of the United States, meets her godmother, Mrs. C. S. Calhoun, of Qualicum, B.C., for the first time in 22 years. The meeting occurred in Vancouver before a singing concert by Miss Truman, who is on tour.

Blood Donor Service Facts Given Civic Hospital Aux.

So that members of the Civic Hospital Women's Auxiliary may be well informed regarding the Peterborough Red Cross Blood Donor Service (on which their hospital depends entirely for blood transfusions for patients), Mrs. Charles Ray, convener of the service since it was organized in 1942, was invited to speak at the quarterly general meeting Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Ray asked the members' help in making the truth known about the service and promoting good feeling toward it. In this way it is hoped to gain donors.

Because of the understanding of the regular donors, the Red cross has so far been able to supply the need, said Mrs. Ray with corrobation from hospital superintendent Mr. John Hornal. However, since the large increase in the number of hospital beds in Peterborough and the greater facilities for surgery there has been an increasing demand for blood and similarly has increased the difficulty in getting sufficient donors.

Save Citizens $41,000.

Two thousand and fifty donations were required in 1951 by the two hospitals, Mrs. Ray advised They would have cost the patients $41,000 at the rate charged in Toronto hospitals. (She cited the case of a local person hospitalized in Toronto who receievd a bill of $400 for 14 transfusions). Some Peterborugh patfents last year required 30 donations the records showed but they were asked to pay only the cost to the hospital for tubes and bottles used for the blood, which is very small.

"No hospital patient in this city pays for blood." Mrs. Ray stated emphatically several times. She also stated "No donor loses financially," and said this was possible through the co-operation of the local industries.

"All blood is used in a few days and there is none wasted or unaccounted for.", Mrs. Ray displayed Red cross records which are completed with names of donors and receiver of each donation taken at either hospital. Again with verification from Mr. Hornal, she explained that blood is now considered indispensable for surgery. Also that having it on hand very often means saving the life of an accident victim.

Quarterly Reports.

Business of this general meeting was conducted by president, Mrs. W. E. Fanning. Reports presented covered the past three months.

Six chairs and two end tables were reported received in the nurses' residence recreation room, completing the Auxiliary's pledge to spend $1000 in furnishings. This furniture cost $384. Another oxygen tent for the hospital is now on order.

The occupational therapy committee; under Mrs. Charles Huffman, has been working on a new plan which it feels is more effective. The patients to be contacted are recommended for help by Mr. Hornal. There were 36 contacts in the quarter with 11 in March, and one in particualr had shown the need for this work.

It was reported that the total number of anuual members stands at 4,773 an increase of 142 over last year.

Visits for the three-month period totalled 1,136. The number of boottees issued to new babies was 172. More than 1,000 library books and magazines were circulated and a donation of good books was acknowledged.

Mrs. Walker Jones displayed the tray favours which are being made up for Easter by the flower and decorating committee.

Members were reminded of the Penny Sale, May 22 to June 7, and that the assistance of all members is anticipated.

Mrs. Huffman introduced the speaker, Mrs. Ray, and she was very suitably thanked by Mrs. Louis Zacks.

Youthful Countess Of Erroll High Constable Of Scotland

EDINBURGH (CP). — When Queen Elizabeth takes residence at Holyrood Palace here in June, another young matron of 26 will be responsible for law and order within four miles of the royal family.

This is just part of the duties falling to the young Countess of Erroll, hereditary lord high constable of Scotland, on annual royal visits to this age-old centre of Scottish monarchy. She succeeded to the title at 15, on the death of her father, the 22nd Earl of Erroll. The countess rates as the first subject in Scotland after the royal family, and is only the second woman to hold this rank since the title was conferred in 1314 by Robert the Bruce.

The countess, one-time ardent Scottish Nationalist, is married to Captain Iain Moncrieffe and has two sons, three-year-old Merlin, Lord Hay and one-year-old Peregrine.

Lord Hay has already caught royal limelight. Two years ago, as a shy one-year-old, he presented a bouquet to Queen Mother Elizabeth—but proved loath to part with the flowers. Coaxed by the Queen Mother to relinquish his charge, he later reclaimed it. This time the Queen Mother said: "Keep it, dear."

Home and School Association News

KING EDWARD SCHOOL

Dr. Louis Zachs, guest speaker Monday evening at the meeting of King Edward Home and School Association, gave an informative talk on cancer. A film entitled "A doctor speaks his mind" was shown preceding the address by Mr. J. Burns. Mrs. G. MacMillen introduced Dr. Zachs.

A presentation was made to Mr. H. Stenton, who has recently retired after 18 years' service as caretaker of the school, by Mr. F. Hitchins, representing the maintenance section of the Board of Education.

Mrs. H. Turner entertained with two readings. Her first, "Cottage Organ" included two vocal duets, "Christ of the Cross" and "Mother's Lullaby." Mrs. W. Hepburn sang these with Mrs. Turner and Mrs. G. Ritchie accompanied at the piano. The second reading was in humorous vein and titled "Why he wouldn't die."

Mrs. J. Crocker expressed appreciation of these contributions.

President Mrs. V. Reynolds announced the annual meeting will be May 12th. Mr. Burns' class won the attendance prize.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. N. Gilders and Mrs. A. Clark and their committees.

GROVE SCHOOL

Mr. Joe Mortimer and Mrs. W. Higgins receiving at the door on Monday evening welcomed a good crowd to the father's night meeting of Grove Home and School Association. Chairman for the program was the president's husband, Mr. Nels Foster.

The speaker was Mr. H. B. Plowman, chairman of zone five of the Ontario Anglers' and Hunters' Club, who was introduced by Mr. H. S. Calberry, a vice-president of the Fish and Game Protective Association of Peterborough.

Mr. Plowman spoke on conservation, giving figures of income derived from fishing, hunting and the lumber industry to show that these natural resources warrant being cared for. Newspaper clippings were read to verify his statements about damage being done, causing lakes to dry up and timber lots to be cut without reforestation plans. He also explained how young trees can be planted to conserve the water supply and keep the ground fertile.

Four films shown by members of the Department of Lands and Forests J. G. Bell and J. C. Weir, were called "Return of the Trees," "Pheasant Fever," "Great Northern Tacklebuster" and "Look to the Forest."

These visitors received a vote of thanks moved by principal Mr. J. Barnard and extended by chairman Foster.

Mrs. Foster presided for a business session, announcing the next executive meeting April 21st at Mrs. R. Clements, 543 Riverside Drive. A fun night was planned for April 25th at the school. Attandance prize was won by Miss M. Hollingsworth's class.

Dainty (?) refreshments were served by Jack Ainslie and his committee, N. Foster, E. Johnston and J. Mortimer, all properly "aproned." Dishwashers were R. Macphail, E. Partington and W. McNutt.

CENTRAL SCHOOL.

A capacity audience was in attendance at Central Home and School Association meeting Monday evening. Musical entertainment was provided by the school choir trained by Miss S. Palmer with Miss Carol Donald at the piano. The children sang three very enjoyable numbers "The Wedding of Jack and Jill," "Christopher Robin"; The Easter Parade," For their last number they all wore gaily decorated Easter hats.

President Mrs. L. Horning was in the chair for business. Announcement was made of the Home and School Convention in Toronto April 15 and 16.

Dr. T. E. Currier was the guest speaker. He based his remarks on a film from the Mental Mechanism's Series, called "Over Dependency. This film was shown by Mr. L. Bird who also introduced the speaker, Dr. Currier led the discussion that followed and gave much helpful advice on the problems portrayed in the film. Appreciation of the audience was expressed to him by Mr. Stan Hayman.

Attendance prizes were won by Miss M. Brock's and Mr. C. Crown's class rooms.

Refreshments were served at the close by Mrs. A. Barber and her social committee.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA SCHOOL

"Citizenship" was the theme of the meeting Monday evening of Queen Alexandra Home and School Association. Major J. D. Sharp of the Salvation Army gave an inspiring and fitting message, also suitable for Easter, as he led the devotions.

Guest Mr. John Londerville, speaking on "How to be a good citizen" said "Education is learning how to live co-operatively and kindly with your neighbors and friends, not a matter of excelling in any particular subject." He also pointed out, "Life should not be a competitive spirit but a striving to do the best to the best of one's ability without competing with others."

Five little school girls contributed to the devotional service by singing "It is no secret." They were Martha Bell, Joan Weaver, Gail Edwards, Donna Locker and Diane Lawless and the accompanist wast heir teacher Miss I. Connolly.

Pleasing solos, "Winter's Lullaby" and "Daisies" were contributed by Mrs. Al Spenceley and Mrs. V. Read accompanying at the piano.

President Mrs. Arthur Black voiced sincere appreciation to these participants in the program. Mr. Londerville was introduced by Mrs. George Coleman.

Members were reminded of a rummage sale being held this Wednesday afternoon. Further plans for the hobby fair on April 24th were made. Mrs. George Cheatle gave a favorable report on the daffodil tea held recently. Nomination forms were distributed by convener Mrs. George Gatfield.

Parents were welcomed at the door by Mrs. A. Beasley and Mrs. K. M. McFadgen. Mr. Munro's and Miss Dafoe's rooms tied for attendance prizes.

Refreshments were served by the parents of grades 1 and 2, convened by Mrs. G. Norris.

Legion Auxiliaries Donates $25 To Cancer Society

Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion regular meeting on Monday evening was addressed by Mrs. Maurice Holt, president of Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Cancer Society of Canada, who outlined the work of this organization.

Her sincerity in speaking conveyed a keen interest in the work which the ladies appreciated. They will begin meeting in groups for the purpose of making cancer dressings on May 6th.

Mrs. Holt stressed that knowledge and education of each individual is the first step in tramping out this dread disease. Early recognition of symptoms is proving that treatment is possible, she stated.

A cheque for $25 to help in the local work was presented to Mrs. Holt by president Mrs. A. Mason.

New project of the Auxiliary is sending parcels to men now on active service. In order to obtain names of Peterborough men, the citizens are asked to phone Mrs. Jack Gray, 5777, of Mrs. J. Buchan 5336.

An application for membership from Mrs. J. Glenn, 535 Aylmer St., was received and accepted at the meeting. Mrs. A. Wade was appointed press representative.

It was decided to purchase pictures of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip. Several letters acknowledging overseas parcels were received. Mrs. L. Stevens read a report on the Local Council of Women.

An Empire Day Tea will be held May 22 in the Legion Hall, convened by Mrs. M. Kernohan. A military euchre will be held on April 17th, also in the hall, with Mrs. H. Dodds and Mrs. L. Frape joint conveners.

The raffle prize was a lovely cup and saucer and it was won by Mrs. M. Shannon.

Refreshments were served by the social committee.

Growing Garment Industry In British Columbia

VANCQUVER —(CP)—British Columbia's growing garment industry is beginning to rely less on Paris and New York fashion designs and more on homemade patterns.

Some fashion experts here say that B.C. women may not always be as smartly dressed as women in eastern Canada, but they wear casuals—appropriate to the province's outdoor life.

B.C. women apparently believe that California styles are suitable for them and the province's garment industry does adopt and produce many of California's younger designs. New York and Paris designs are "toned down to fit the pace."

Though eastern manufacturers cater to this trend, B.C.'s own industry is specializing in the kind of clothing west coast women want.

Expansion of B.C.'s clothing industry is shown by the latest government statistics, which list 65 active factories in 1949 compared to 36 in 1946.

A total of $2,417,409 in salaries was paid out to 1,371 employees in 1949 compared to $1,118,672 to 900 employees in 1946. Gross value of production rose from $3,799,594 to $8,373,781 in the same period.

B.C. manufacturers were encouraged by local buyers who began placing orders at home before going to eastern markets.

Eastern Business Up

Officials of the Vancouver Board of Trade report that west-coast garment makers are also increasing their business in the east.

Most original of all B.C. fashion products is the Cowichan sweater and cap sets made by Indians on Vancouver Island. Fashion experts say these hand-carded, hand-knit wools are perhaps better known than any other Canadian-made clothing product.

One Vancouver Island fashion industry is operated by a company which produces hand-loomed woollen fabrics from raw yarns imported from Scotland.

American wool-hunting tourists have bought these fabrics since 1933. They now are made into suits and coats at Vancouver and sold in B.C. cities and down the coast as far as San Francisco.

One of the biggest success stories in Canadian fashions began here 16 years ago. A young housewife, Rose Marie Reid, started making a new kind of cotton bathing suit on a small manual sewing machine in her kitchen. After swimmers at a local pool began buying them, stores asked for them, too. Today there is a factory here, another in Los Angeles.

There are about a dozen more of these success stories in B.C.'s garment industry. Together, they add up to gradual recognition of B.C. as one of the fashion centres of Canada.

World Chief Guide Will Attend Canadian Meet

OSHAWA, April 8 (CP)—Lady Baden - Powell, World Chief Guide, will be in Toronto May 25 and attend the Canadian annual meeting of the Girl Guides Association, May 28 and 29.

Mrs. Bruce Wilson, of Toronto, provincial commissioner of the Ontario Council of Girl Guides, speaking Friday at the council's second meeting said Lady Baden-Powell will attend a church parade and march past at Varsity Stadium, May 25.

After a civic welcome by Mayor Michael Starr, of Oshawa, Mrs. Wilson said total membership in the province at the end of 1951 was 38,239 Girl Guides, an increase of 11,886 since 1941.

Certificates of merit were awarded to Mrs. N. L. MacLennan and Mrs. I. J. Simcox.

Following are the area comissioners appointed:

Mrs. I. J. Simcox, Algonquin; Mrs. N. L. MacLennan, Lakefield; Mrs. John McHale, Talbort; Mrs. E. C. Little, St. Lawrence; Mrs. D. B. Wilson, Quinte; Mrs. W. G. Cutler, Northland; Mrs. W. J. Deadman, Niagara; Mrs. Keith Clysdale, Huronia; Mrs. Harold Lount, Greater Toronto; and Mrs. H. R. Howden, Central Ontario.

Relief Organizer Re-Visits Europe

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, director of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, is leaving by air April 28 for Europe on her annual survey tour of the committee's projects abroad. The sprightly relief expert will visit France, Austria, Italy and Greece before returning to Ottawa July 13.

While in Greece, she will personally distribute part of the Canadian flour shipped by the Unitarian Service Committee to repatriated refugees under its "Bread For Greece" crusade.

She announced here that a collection depot for new and used clothing, to help refugees in Northern Greece, has been organized in Moose Jaw, Sask., under leadership of A. E. Peacock, superintendent of Moose Jaw schools, a group of high school teachers and students there obtained a workroom in Alexandra School to serve as the receiving and shipping centre for the province.

DOROTHY DIX

Widow Advised to Consider That Home Needs A Father

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a widow in my middle 30's with two fine teen-age children by my deceased husband. I have fallen in love with a man 14 years my senior, whom I have known for one year. He has always been exceedingly understanding, considerate and affectionate, and is the only man in whose company I find real contentment.

He has expressed a desire to meet the children, but I have consistently refused, feeling, perhaps unconsciously, that this might be construed as disrespect to my husband, whose memory I shall always hold in deep devotion.

Recently my friend asked to marry me, and provide the father's care which would be beneficial to my children. However, I felt that our affair had reached complicating proportions and voluntarily terminated our relationship, although we both remain deeply in love. He has objected vehemently, and my friends have questioned my attitude in the matter, so I turn to you for advice.—ALICE B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are in a very confused state, Alice. There's no reason why you, as a widow, should feel cut off from any possibility of future marriage and happiness, provided, of course, that your children's happiness is not endangered by a second wedding.

Let Youngsters Meet Him

You made a grave error in not letting your youngsters meet the man with whom you are in love. I should think they, too, would have felt a natural curiosity to meet him, as he did in wanting to become acquainted with them. If you detected any indication of antagonism on either side, that would have been your clue to end your friendship, but at least you should have given all parties concerned a chance to know each other.

If your children are normal teen-agers, and your suitor as fine as you depict him, they would have no objection to your remarriage. In fact they would welcome a considerate, understanding stepfather. If they had come to know him during the past year, they would have accepted him readily and naturally.

Now, in order to bring things to a logical conclusion, you will have to do some explaining to the youngsters as to why your friend wasn't brought home to meet them before.

You have a high sense of duty, but don't be overconscientious in your obligations to a memory. You owe something to the present, to the living—to yourself.

Tell your children that you have met this fine man and would like to have him visit your home. Let them meet him, then tell them, perhaps after a few more visits, or at once, depending upon their reactions, that you are mutually fond of each other. Don't worry from then on—the kids will do their own thinking.

Remember, your children will soon be old enough to marry and you'll face the world alone. If you have a chance to marry well, thank God for your good fortune and don't hesitate.

DEAR MISS DIX — My boy friend is in the Army, and before he was drafted, nothing mattered but me. We have been going together for two years, and though he used to speak of marriage, he doesn't anymore. When he's home, we never go anywhere as he always says he's too sleepy, but half the time he meets other fellows and girls and goes out for a while instead of going home to bed. I'm getting tired of this treatment.

ELSIE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER—Better get your status straight! Does your friend consider himself engaged, going steady, or just being friends? Find out and act accordingly. There's certainly no use in your staying home and going to bed with the birds if he's going out for fun. You might as well have some yourself. If he's a boy who hasn't much stamina, the tiredness could be understood, and it's possible that he just runs into these other people accidentally, but you're entitled to know if he's avoiding dates with you on purpose.

DEAR MISS DIX: For two years I went with Roy. We were to be engaged at Christmas but had a slight disagreement and split up. Now he has become engaged to a 16-year-old girl (I am 19), and he admits he did it for spite. I think he still loves me and I sure do want him back. Would it be proper for me to ask him to pick me up at work some night so we could talk it over?

MADELINE G.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: All's fair in love and war! And even fairer when it comes to breaking up a spite engagement. The young victim of your sweetheart's pique will ultimately appreciate the fact that you saved her from a very unhappy affair. By all means get in touch with your ex-beau, and patch things up.

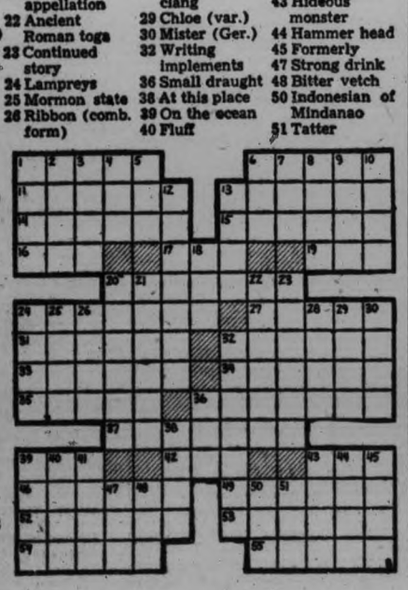
Answer to Previous Puzzle



Woman Is Editor Of Reports On Foreign Trade

OTTAWA (CP)— Canada has 91 trade commissioners—all men—stationed around the world, but it's a woman who sorts out and pieces together the mass of information they send back home.

The woman is Miss O. Mary Hill, 41-year-old Nova Scotia-born journalist and editor of the trade department's weekly magazine, Trade and Commerce. Her assistant also is a woman—Miss Margo Martin of Ottawa.

Editing a magazine is nothing new to Miss Hill, popularly known as "O Mary" among her friends. She took over the trade magazine last March after 11 years of editing Canadian Business the monthly publication of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Before that she taught in the English department of McGill University, and also was Girl's Work secretary of the Presbyterian Church of Canada.

The mass of information on trade conditions around the world flows across Miss Hill's desk in an office in one of Ottawa's government buildings. There the years of training come to good use as she selects what will be used and puts in into magazine shape. The magazine goes out weekly to manufacturers and to business houses interested in foreign trade.

Not Too Fussy

As a woman who has found success in higher journalism—her magazine is one of the snappiest of all government publications—Miss Hill has a little advice for members of her sex:

It's simply: "Don't be too particular."

She thinks that Canada's women college graduates are too particular. Most of them interested in journalism want to start "at the top."

"They should be willing to start in any position. As long as you're working for a newspaper or magazine, don't worry about the first job. Even begin as a secretary if you must and work your way into the writing side."

That's the word from a woman who knows.

6—In Memoriam

McINTOSH— In loving memory of my dad, Mr. W. R. McIntosh, who passed away, April 8th, 1950.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart hold dear,
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.
—Ever remembered, by his daughter.

MEEHAN— In loving memory of my dear brother, Normie Meehan who was drowned 12 years ago to-day, April 7, 1940.
Short and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all.
The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought his death so near
And only those who have parting can tell,
The pain of parting without farewell.
—Ever remembered by his sister Gladys, mother, brother-in-law Tommy Bass.

SMITH—In loving memory of Florence Irene Smith, who passed away April 8, 1949.
We know that she is happy
In our Saviour's home above
Growing fairer as she lingers
In the sunshine of His love.
—Ever remembered by Mother, Dad and brothers.

WATKINS— In loving memory of Joe Watkins who passed away, April 8, 1935.
We shall meet with many a loved one
That was torn from our embrace
We shall listen to their voices
And behold them face to face.
—Fondly remembered by wife and family.

WHITE— In loving memory of Joseph Percy White who passed away April 8th, 1946.
You're not forgotten father dear,
Nor ever shall you be
As long as life and memory last
We shall remember thee.
—Ever remembered by wife and family.

Graduation In Prison

SALEM, Ore., April 8—(AP)—The Oregon penitentiary will have its first commencement exercises in history next Friday, 11 convicts will get eighth grade diplomas. Warden Virgil O'Malley said some of the 11 could not read or write when they started courses two years ago.

Protests Use Of Ron Stewart

MONTREAL, April 8 — (CP)—Coach Sam Pollock of the junior Canadiens today announced he had filed a protest with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association over Guelph Biltmores use of defenceman Ron Stewart in the Eastern Canada Memorial cup finals.

Pollock said he protested the use of Stewart in the opening game of Canadiens best-of-seven series with the Guelph team which shaded Canadiens 4-3 in the opener Sunday night.

Stewart scored the tying goal after the Canadiens had blown a two-goal lead.

Pollock said Stewart was obtained by the Bilts when one of their players, Ray Ross, signed a professional contract. Ross never reported to the team which signed him and is under suspension.

The Canadiens coach said Ross was signed to a professional contract against his wish and that he had an agreement with Guelph that he would not have to turn professional until his junior playing days were over.

Pollock said he felt the Guelph team deliberately turned Ross professional to use Stewart during the series against his team.

Hockey Player Stoddart Dies

CHATHAM, April 8 — (CP) — Robert (Rosy) Stoddart, 39, owner of the Chatham Maroons of the International Hockey League and former professional player, died Monday night.

Stoddart played one season with Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League during the Second World War. He starred with Chatham before turning pro in 1943 and played with Indianapolis, Providence, Buffalo, Dallas and Toledo.

He obtained the Chatham franchise in 1949 and coached and managed the team to the I.H.L. championship and eastern United States amateur title that season.

Stoddart, suffering from leukemia, was forced to retire from the active management of the team in January.

A few weeks ago, at the instigation of Jack Adams and other friends, a "Rosy Stoddart Night" was held here. More than 3,000 persons attended.

Ex-Prisoner Of Reds Now On Opera Stages

SASKATOON (CP).—From Red prisons to opera in Saskatoon is the story of diminutive Mike Matich, Hungarian hypnastic expert. Mike, a member of Hungary's Olympic gymnastic team in 1948, will start as the acrobat in the opera "The Bartered Bride," to be produced here shortly.

His Olympic training was cut short in 1948 when he publicly praised Cardinal Mindzenty, the Primate of Hungary who was sentenced to life imprisonment on charges of offences against the state. Mike himself went to jail for three months.

After his release from prison, he escaped from Hungary, but wound up in a slave-labor coal mine in Yugoslavia for travelling without proper papers. Eight months later he escaped and again was nabbed at Trieste.

eH finally reached Switzerland and worked as a masseur there to earn his passage to Canada. Once here, he worked for a time in the sugar beet fields near Winnipeg.

When Mike came to Saskatoon he would have gone unnoticed if his love for gymnastics had not prompted him to show up at the Y.M.C.A. On the basis of his athletic record, the opera role was a "natural" for Mike.

Hastings W.A. Plans Easter Activities

HASTINGS, April 8—The W.A. of St. George's Anglican Church held their monthly meeting at the home of Miss Della Plant.

The president Mrs. Clifford Baker was in the chair. Arrangements were made regarding the play: "Have a Heart," which is being put on in Hastings Town Hall, on the Friday, of April 18, by a group from St. James Church, Peterborough.

Plans were also made for the usual St. Gorge's Day meeting, April 23, invitations to be extended to the local missionary auxiliaries. Morris Kominskey of the Nathaneal Institute Toronto, will be the speaker.

It was decided to send a delegate to the annual division meeting in Toronto, and Mrs. Robert Glass was chosen to represent the branch. The study book was given by Mrs. Clifford Baker.

Miss Plant served tea and a social hour was enjoyed by every one.

FALA, little black Scotty who was the late President F. D. Roosevelt's constant companion for five years, died Saturday at Val Kill Cottage on the Roosevelt estate at Hyde Park, N.Y. He died two days short of his 12th birthday, outliving his master by seven years, less a week. He was buried Sunday in the Rose Garden at Hyde Park, not far from the resting place of his master.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

By G. E. GROOMBRIDGE.

Over Ashburnham

Second Armour, the Pack—Glen Walker led the opening Grand Howl for the setting of the investiture ceremony at which Ken Starr became a full member of the World Brother of Scouting as a Wolf Cub. The main work of the meeting found Baloo giving detailed instruction on the Union Jack and Bagheera taking his second class in aeroplane building. Mr. Perry of the group committee explained the Highway Act in the terms of the club tests. During another short ceremony Glen Walker, Jim Wyatt and Bob MacDonald were invested as seconders and presented their badges of office by Mr. Ed MacDonald, father of Bab and also a member of the group committee. Group chaplain Rev. Walter Gilling presented the following proficiency badges: first aider, guide and toy-maker to Don Morrison; guide and observer to Gordon Sanderson; first aid went to Ray Baptie and Bob Simmons received the artist badge. A number of tests also were passed. Ray Baptie-Model. Wayne Ash, Roger Mesley-Grand Howl, Jack Steen-laws, Terrance Mulcahy-homecraft. Ken Starr officiated at the closing Grand Howl.

Another Scout was invested into the troop as Earnest Harding took his Scout Promise before scouter and the troop. Three good games, "Spin the Knife," "Chariot Race" and "Co-ordination" played a good part in the evening's program, but advancement was chalked up by the end of the evening as Bob Leggett passed lashing, hitches and bicycle; Pete Sanderson and Jim Fairs, flags; Stewart Laremo, law and promise; Carson Crowder, first aid, knots; Allen Roberts, Neil Cox, first aid; Wayne Ross, compass; Bob Long, Ralph Butcher, Dan Barclay, highway code. A court of honor meeting was held with the chief item "attendance."

Mark Street United

Sgt. W. Thirnbeck of the St. John Ambulance Corps was special guest of the Pack at the last meeting and gave the lads instruction of 2nd star first aid and also demonstrated the first aider badge requirements. All the boys were keenly interested in the work and promises of good first aiders resulted. The last six formed will now be known as the Blue Six. Peter Berardi, Paul DeNoble, Wally Casselman, Terry Mahoney, Ken Bucknell and Don Wilson were accepted into the Pack as new chums.

Bill Watters Reports

The regular meeting of St. Paul's this week missed several faces. Cause? It is reported from a swelling known as mumps. Sorry to learn this and hope you fellows will soon be back. Congratulations go to the sick committee for the grand job they are doing. Physical exercises had the boys busy in the Sunday school auditorium. This being the big work project of the evening mixed with a few games. Daird Minty is following his dad's footsteps in the swimming game and passed his tests for the swimmer's badge.

Movie Night at Trinity

The meeting this week was in the form of fun night, all training being set aside as 25 members of the troop were shown the film "The Sport of Orienteering" by Mr. Cooper of the Film Board. Games filled the other part of the evening's program. The Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon, the group padre, spoke to the boys briefly on the course he will be starting next week for the boys to take up work for the "Religion and Life Badge." It was announced that the Eagle Patrol had won the quarterly patrol competition and as a reward will be taken to a movie show by the scouter. Plans are also under way in which the troop will receive instruction on the handling of firearms by a qualified member of the Fish and Game Association. We were mighty pleased to welcome back Sonny Hutton after a prolonged absence from the troop through illness. The troop now have a full complement on its roll of 32 boys to keep Scouter and his two assistants busy.

At All Saints'

A good turnout of boys was enjoyed last week when Bob Pulford was promoted to the rank of Seconder of the Blue Six and witness David Fletcher, Ron Waters and Murray Wilson received their 2nd year service stars. During skipping tests Fred Carveth, Douglas Garner, Arthur Rose, Keith Richer, Norman Muffett and Bruce Jackson came through with Flying colors.

The Coocoo Reports

Tuesday night found St. Albans troop in the horse-shoe formation as they started out for inspection. The Wolf Patrol came through with points on the observation test which found A. C. M. Ron Hatton minus his shoulder knots and buttons undone. The Beaver Patrol were awarded ten points for their original patrol corners in the form of a teepee whilst the Owl Patrol garnered ten points for a well completed knot board the final record showing the Beavers and the Eagles tied for the honor pennant.

On Friday evening Ron Wood and Peter Gray were invested as leaders in their respective patrol in true scouting style under the pine trees in a nearby woods with the camp fire casting its shadows around. Ron became P. L. for the Beaver Patrol and Peter, second for the Eagles. A feed of hot dogs and marshmellows was provided by Scouter Wood and A. S. M. Hatton. Wrestling matches were arranged between Ron Hation and Larry Griffin, Bob Merritt, Art Little and Peter Gray versus Ron Hatton, Art Little and Roy Wood. The following were present at the investiture: S. A. Walter Wood, A. S. M. Ron Hatton, P.L.'s A. Little, L. Griffin, B. Whitehill, Bob Merritt, A.P.L. S. B. Reid.

At St. John's

Mr. E. Trueman was special visitor at the Pack meeting on Friday, as a surprise for it was reported he would be unable to attend until next week. Mr. Trueman spoke to the boys of the collectors' badge and also told the story of Broken Feather (an Indian story) and at the end of the evening he passed Ross Reid in his artist badge and Ross and Tommy Gunn for their collectors' badge. Other tests passed were skipping by Leslie Crump and Ken Druce.

Attention: St. John's Cubs. A hike will be held Saturday. The Pack will meet outside of the Sunday school at 2 p.m. sharp. We will start from that point for destination unknown? For fun and observation. Bring only chocolate milk and an apple. Dress warmly. If it is raining the hike will be cancelled.

There will be no meeting on Good Friday.

CATHERINE ANGUS

WARKWORTH, April 8 (ENS) —A resident of the Warkworth district all her life, Catherine Elizabeth (Cassie) Angus, 93, died Sunday at a Campbellford nursing home. She had been in poor health since breaking her hip five years ago.

Born in Percy township, she was a daughter of the late George Angus and Elizabeth Patterson. She was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Warkworth. She never married.

Surviving are a nephew and niece, Miss May Lord and Grant Potter, both of Toronto.

Funeral was held today in Warkworth at the Allen funeral home. The Rev. J. M. Ritchie officiated, and the body was placed in the vault at Warkworth cemetery.

Pallbearers were Charlie and Eldon Ewing, W. G. Allen, Wesley Weir, Oni Isaacs, and John Grant.

MRS. ELIZABETH ROWE.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 8 — Funeral services were held today for Mrs. Elizabeth Rowe who died Sunday at Peter's Convalescent Home. She was 83.

The funeral was held from Bennett's Funeral Home at 2 p.m. with the Rev. Dr. D. N. Smith of St. John's United church officiating.

Interment was in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

Five sons-in-law, William Macoun, Samuel Hutton, Alfred Brown, Ross Anderson, Chester Irwin and a grand son-in-law, Donald Deline, were the pallbearers.

Before her marriage to S. H. Rowe, who died about eight years ago, Mrs. Rowe was the former Elizabeth McKeown, daughter of the late Arthur McKeown and Clara Atkins.

She had been in failing health for two years.

Mrs. Rowe was born in Seymour township. For a number of years her family farmed at Healey Falls, north of Campbellford and she moved to Campbellford 22 years ago.

She is survived by four sons: G. G. Rowe, of Campbellford, presently in Florida and Fred, Ralph and William A. Rowe, also of Campbellford.

Also surviving are five daughters: Mrs. Donald Dalgleish (Hazel), and Mrs. William Macoun (Irene) of Campbellford; Mrs. Alfred Brown (Ida) and Mrs. Sam Hutton (Clara) of Peterborough and Mrs. Ross Anderson (Irene) of Hoard's Station.

Another daughter, Mrs. Chester Irwin (Ethel) predeceased Mrs. Rowe a few years ago.

She was a member of St. John's United Church, Campbellford.

MRS. JOSEPH QUIGLEY

Mrs. Joseph Quigley, 56, 535 Edison Ave., died Monday in St. Joseph's hospital following a lengthy illness.

The former Mary Elizabeth Jane Godfrey, Mrs. Quigley was born in Young's Point, daughter of the late David Godfrey and Ellen Phalen and has lived in Peterborough for the past 24 years coming here from Young's Point.

She was a member of St. Peter's Cathedral and a member of the Catholic Women's League.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. William Holt (Aileen) of Parry Sound and Mrs. Gordon Henry (Theresa) of Lakefield and one son David A., of Peterborough; and three sister, Mrs. Jack Rody (Anna) of Peterborough; Mrs. Leona Hetherton of Saskatchewan and Mrs. A. Kimmel of Ajax.

The funeral will be held Wednesday from the Nisbett funeral home to St. Peter's Cathedral for requiem mass at 9 a.m. Burial will be in St. Peter's cemetery.

MRS. WESLEY PETHERICK

Mrs. Wesley Petherick, a Belmont township resident most of her life, died Monday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Albert Elliott, R.R. 3, Hastings. She was 72 years old.

Mrs. Petherick was the former Mary Ann Gray, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Gray. She was born in Croydon, England, and came out to Canada when still a young girl.

For the last four months she has been living at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elliott. Her illness was lengthy.

Mrs. Petherick was a member of Rush Point United Church.

She leaves her husband, Wesley Spencer Petherick; four sons: Charles of Campbellford, Harry, Donald and Lyle of R.R. 4, Havelock; and three daughters: Mrs. Percy Buchanan (Pearl) of R.R. 2, Norwood, Mrs. Cecil McMillan (Beatrice) of R.R. 4, Havelock; and Mrs. Albert Elliott (Mabel) of R.R. 3, Hastings.

The funeral will be at 2:30 p.m. Thursday at the McConnell-Warner Funeral Home in Norwood. The Rev. R. G. Newman of Havelock United Church will officiate. Burial will be in Maple Grove Cemetery.

Sell Building Keep Land Alderman Says

Sale by tender of the old city hall buildings on Simcoe St., but only with lease of the property on which they stand, as recommended in the board of works report presented by Ald. J. E. Gillespie, was approved by the council Monday night.

Canada's Rich Resources, Good Government Heighten Value Of Dollar

By JOHN TRACY, Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, April 8. (CP)—Currency specialists here attribute the rise in Canada's dollar to the Dominion's "welcome stranger" policy towards imported capital and its ability to keep the country's economy shipshape. Last week the Canadian dollar rose to a 17-year high—$1.02 5/32 in terms of the U.S. dollar—accompanied by heavy buying of Canadian securities on the New York curb exchange.

Economists of the Federal Reserve Bank here said the rise was caused by a heavy flow of investment capital into Canada, but Franz Pick, currently specialist who calls the Canadian dollar "the most interesting currency in the world," says there are deeper reasons behind it.

Pick, publisher of the "1951 Black Market Year Book" and "Pick's world currency report," says good management, Canada's unlimited possibilities and its ability to support a population of millions more than it has are behind the rise.

In an article in U.S.A. — The Magazine of American Affairs Pick writers:

"Canada's financial leaders, many of them British-trained and Empire-conscious, have been far-sighted. They know that excessive taxation, inflation and rigid government controls had to be avoided in order to get foreign capital for the development of their country. They saw to it that the investor from abroad, who risked his money, received a return which made Canadian investments attractive . . . "

Gangster Money

Expanding on this in an interview, Pick said Canada's Finance Minister, Douglas C. Abbott, is one of "the only two good ones" he knows of. The other is Pakistan's Ghulam Mohammed.

Pick said that no other country has such interesting working conditions to offer capital—lower taxes than in the United States, excellent returns and growth possibilities, complete freedom to deposit, invest and withdraw to any spot on the globe."

One of the factors behind the flow of money to Canada, said Pick, is that Canada does not ask where the money comes from. Anyone wanting to change a $1,000 banknote in the U.S., for instance, would have to take a five-per-cent discount or take it to a bank and face subsequent questions as to how he got the big bill.

"I would venture to say 50 per cent of the U.S. gangster money is in Canada," Pick said.

The currency specialist looks upon the Canadian dollar as a possible rival to the U.S. dollar which has pretty well ruled the currency roost in recent years and "until the end of 1951 was king among hoarders."

Pick figures that if the Canadian dollar continues at $1.01 or $1.02, "the implications would create world-wide repercussions." He estimates that between $5,000,000,000 and $6,000,000,000 U.S. are hoarded abroad by people who want to protect their wealth.

"They will not hesitate to change their American money to any other which seems to promise better protection," he said.

The only cautionary note in the optimism over the Canadian dollar's rise has come from the other side of the Atlantic.

In an editorial last week "The Financial Times of London said that the flow of investment into Canada may partly be "hot" money—of a type designed to test the financial weather and retreat at the first sign of danger.

Senators Want Evidence Support Charge

WASHINGTON, April 8—(AP) — Newbold Morris' charge that James P. McGranery, Attorney-General designate, "is a real whitewasher" drew swift demands in Congress today that he tell under oath the basis for his words.

McGranery's hotly-disputed nomination is before the Senate Judiciary Committee, which has scheduled a full hearing in about two weeks.

Committee members said this would provide Morris an opportiuntiy to support the whitewasher accusation if he can. it was made in an interview Monday in New Yorwk, where he returned after being fired as the administration's corruption-investigator.

"I'd be very much interested to know what he has to back this up," said chairman Pat McCarran (Dem. Nev.). "I don't know, personally, that he always knows what he's talking about."

Senator Harley Kilgore of West Virginia, the ranking Democratic member under McCarran, told a reporter:

"If a man is willing to make such grave charges in the public press, he ought to be willing to say them before a responsible body which can subzmit his statements to a check. I imagine in all probability we will want his testimony whether he volunteers it or not."

Wrangled Bitterly.

Morris wrangled bitterly with Congress before Attorney-General Howard McGrath fired him last Thursday, four hours before McGrath himself was axed by President Truman. The dispute revolved around Morris' attempt to look into the private affairs of McGrath and other high administration officials .Morris, as clean-up man, was a special assistant to McGrath.

McGrath stepped out of his job officially Monday with a smiling farewell to a gathering of more than 2,000 justice department employees. He wound up by saying, "God Bless the Justice Department. God bless the President of the United States."

McGrath called his successor, McGranery, " a fine character, of high intellect." He did not mention Morris by name, but remarked "I have just undergone political surgery myself."

Visiting Canada

OTTAWA, April 8 — (CP) — Brig.-Gen. George de Chassey, assistant chief of staff, plans and policy, at headquarters of the Allied air forces, Central Europe, is on a brief visit to Canada. Today he will visit the flying school at Centralia and go to Trenton.

Alberta Studies Export Of Natural Gas

EDMONTON, April 8 (CP).—The Alberta Legislature today was to hear one of the most important issues of the current session—a resolution asking approval of the export of natural gas.

Premier E. C. Manning's notice of the resolution put the Alberta government's stamp of approval on gas export from the Peace River area to the Pacific coast.

Much controversy was expected over the Premier's resolution asking the House to approve issuance of a permit to Westcoast Transmission Company Limited to export gas from the Peace River area for 22 years, starting by the end of 1954.

The motion came a week after the conservation board's report found the only surplus gas in the province at present is 300,000,000,000 cubic feet in northwestern Alberta near Peace River. The board recommended that this gas be made available for export to Vancouver and the northwest United States.

Not Bound

The provincial government, which previously had made only one exception to the no export policy, was not bound by the board's recommendations. A five-year agreement several months ago allowed export of gas to Montana as an emergency defence measure.

The draft export permit, submitted to the government March 29 by the board, stipulates that during the first five years Westcoast cannot take out more than 210,000,000,000 cubic feet of gas, with the amount in any one year not to exceed 42,000,000,000 feet and not to exceed 165,000,000 cubic feet in any one day.

After the first five years of the 22-year permit, the amount of gas that may be exported will be fixed by the board.

The permit requires the company to build a pipeline in the Peace River area before Dec. 31, 1953, to service eight communities in the district.

The permit would be granted to two companies. Westcoast Transmission Company Limited with Alberta incorporation would purchase or otherwise acquire gas within the province. The same company with dominion incorporation would pipe the gas to the coast.

Westcoast plans a $100,000,000 pipeline to run from the Peace River area, through the interior of British Columbia and into Washington. A spur will serve Vancouver.

Plan Inoculations

TEL AVIV, April 8—(AP)—Health Minister Dr. Joseph Burg said Monday every resident of Israel between the ages of four and 60 will be inoculated against typhoid this spring. Dr. Burg said the typhoid rate during the last winter had reached a high point of 100 cases a month.

HUGE ICE JAM CRUSHES BRIDGE—An aerial view of the Saskatchewan Landing bridge shows the ice jam—70 miles long—grinding against the $1,000,000 structure which was smashed during the week-end. The 1,215-foot bridge, only completed last summer, linked Swift Current and the southwest corner of Saskatchewan with the province's west-central region.

Believes Education Better Than Generation Ago

PORT CREDIT, April 8 (CP)—Dr. C. C. Goldring, Toronto Director of Education, said Monday night that schools today are doing a better job than they did a generation ago.

He said in a speech that reading is a good example of the marked improvement. Today the average child in Grade I reads about 30 books a year compared to one or two books 30 years ago.

He noted 10 other specific improvements:

1. There is better teaching today because teachers know more about how to teach.
2. Educators know more about child growth, child behavior and development patterns.
3. They know more about human relations — how to get along with others—and the importance of teaching people to co-operate.
4. School progress can be measured more accurately, both the ability or capacity to learn and accomplishment.
5. There is a better learning environment in general. Newer school buildings are better than the old ones; lighting is improved; there are more and better books; teaching aids of various kinds such as radio, and health services are better.
6. Teachers continue to improve their knowledge and techniques by in-service courses.
7. Schools stress the building of character, development of personality, home living, and citizenship.
8. Schools influence more people than ever before and have become an integral part of the community, providing evening classes and co-operating with community organizations concerned with building up the neghborhood.
9. They are organized to meet the needs of all pupils, brilliant or backward. There are remedial and adjustment classes and clinics and other facilities for the study of children as individuals.
10. In many parts of the city, schools are havens of refuge and help for both children and adults. They assist in setting a pattern of life and in raising the tone of the community.

Not Perfect

Dr. Goldring admitted the schools are not perfect. He wondered if teachers of sufficient maturity were being found, or if others were still following old methods discarded years ago. He suggested some method might be found to utilize the good work of the outstanding teacher and spread his influence over many pupils, and not just one class a year.

He also asked if the school was trying to do too much—more and more is expected of it without any significant increase in time available.

Some critics think more time should be given to the three R's, he said. They should be taught well, but no one would want a course of study to be made up entirely of those subjects. For 100 years in Ontario, there have been many subjects taught in addition to them, such as history, geography, hygiene, drawing, spelling, composition and grammar.

Others think more time should be given to such subjects as music, art and literature. Others think the school should stress to a greater extent social qualities such as politeness and courtesy, although it is hard to replace the home in its responsibility of setting the pattern of a child's behavior regarding other people, he added.

New Illiteracy

Discussing some of the problems in the world which challenge educators, Dr. Goldring said there is a new type of illiteracy today—people who can read and write but who are unaware of the world as it is. Many of them have grown up in an age of conflict and some have been educated to emphasize the differences that keep people apart, rather than to recognize the basic similarities that bring people together.

"We need in the schools appropriate material for teaching world - mindedness in greater quantity and variety than are now available," he said. "These media should appeal to children both intellectually and emotionally. Music, art, drama, at proper grade levels, can be used to help promote world understanding.

"We are in conflict with another way of life which makes a strong appeal to the ignorant and underprivileged," Dr. Goldring said. "One of the greatest needs of the present is to teach people to think so that they may be able to make an intelligent choice between the two ways of life."

Think Body Dumped

NEW YORK, April 8—(AP)—A 17-year-old Brooklyn youth, taken to a hospital by passersby who thought he had fainted in the street, was pronounced dead Monday night of a bullet wound in the heart. The body of the youth, Salvatore Cetta, was found lying beside a parked car. Police, who earlier had received reports of shots six blocks away, speculated that young Cetta had been shot there and carried by the car and dumped where he was found.

Says Rings Missing

NEW YORK, April 8 —(AP)— The husband of a woman who died in a hospital after suffering a stroke at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel claimed Monday night that rings worth $8,700 were missing from her body, police said. Mrs. Ann Pakas was striken about noon while attending a meeting of the Harlem Philharmonic Society at the Waldorf.

Want Name Changed

TORONTO, April 8 — (CP) — What's the difference between a public house and a bawdy house? Many United States visitors don't know, Roy Corbett, executive secretary of the Ontario Hotel Association, said Monday. He said the entire hotel industry would be pleased if the government would change the term public house to some more satisfactory name.

Scientists Near North Pole Battered By 100 MPH Gales; Kerosene, Whiskey Freeze

By JACK RYAN

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, April 8. (AP)—A scientist who spent nearly two weeks near the North Pole today described the struggle against hurricane-force winds and bitter cold that froze kerosene solid. The Norwegian-born scientist, Dr. Kaare Rodahl, was a member of the original three-man air force party that landed on an ice island near the Pole to set up a semi - permanent weather observation station. He said that during the first week of their stay, the island was lashed by hundred mile winds.

An air force C-47 on March 19 landed the three scientists on the island along with a connsiderable load of supplies. Then the plane and its three C-54 escort craft returned to a base in Greenland.

The men set to work building a shelter of blocks carved from frozen snow. A canvas tarpaulin was used for a roof. The canvas was suported by fuel drums piled up inside the structure.

60 Below Zero

"We were hampered by temperatures which we estimated as being in the 60s below zero, or colder," Dr. Rodahl said. "We had no thermometer, but our kerosene froze solid when we tried to pour it into a frigid stove. A bottle of whisky the plane crew threw us also froze. That would make it colder than 60 below."

On the fourth day of the stay on the island, a sudden gale sprang up within a period of 30 minutes. The wind grew in velocity until it reached a force of 70 miles an hour with gusts up to 100. Powdery snow whipped up by the wind reduced visibility to zero.

The ice island is about five miles long, eight miles wide and 200 feet thick in places but it "jerked and twisted as the ice pack battered it from all sides," the scientist said.

"Above the roar of the gale, we could hear the pack grinding and roaring around our island. As pressure on the ice built up under the force of the wind, loud noises that sounded like cannon fire came from the ice floes."

The men could do nothing but crawl into their newly-built shelter and cling to the canvas roof to keep it from blowing away.

The storm subsided in about 24 hours and the men resumed work on their shelter. They now have completed four snow-block buildings roofed with canvas. Tunnels connect the four rooms.

3 Legislatures Racing Against Deadline

By The Canadian Press.

Three legislatures — Alberta, Ontario and Nova Scotia—were in session Monday, racing against an Easter deadline. No signs of prorogation were seen.

The Alberta house defeated an opposition motion calling for legislative authority to set election dates.

Attorney-General Lucien Maynard said the motion would be unconstitutional if adopted. It would take away from the Crown the prerogative to set election dates.

A provincial general election before the next session has been forecast.

Premier Macdonald told the Nova Scotia Legislature that lobster fishermen, hard-hit by storms this season, will be given finnancial assistance. He expressed the hope that the Federal Government will supply part of the aid.

G. I. Smith (P.C.-Colchester) criticized R.C.M.P. officers who, he said were reluctant to make details of accident investigations available to the parties concerned.

See Service Step Toward Church Union

TORONTO, April 8 — (CP) — Announcement of "confirmation services" by two United churches brought renewed speculation today of possible union between the United Church and the Church of England in Canada.

The Rev. E. S. Lautenslager of Howard Park Church and the Rev. A. H. Ferry of Olde Davenport announced the "confirmation services" and performed the ceremony themselves. The word "confirmation" used in the Church of England for the ceremony of joining the church. In the United Church a less elaborate ceremony is known as the reception of new members.

While senior United Church officials saw no great significance in the "adjustment," one clergyman said he deteced an "approach to union" with the Church of England in Canada.

In the ceremony Mr. Lautenslager laid hands upon the head of each new member in turn and said: "I confirm you into the Church of Jeusus Christ by the confirmation of your baptism; and may the Lord bless and make you a blessing."

Girls and women wear long white veils for confirmation in the Church of England. In the United Church they wear hats.

Mr. Lautenslager got around the difficulty by laying his hands on their temples.

Says Flood Damage Community Problem

OTTAWA, April 8 — (CP). — Prime Minister St. Laurent reiterated in the Commons Monday that flood damage in local communities is not a Federal responsibility unless it involves Federal works or becomes a national calamity. He made the statement in reply to a question by H. O. White (PC-Middlesex East) who asked what action was planned to hold down the level of Lake Erie to prevent Pelee Island from becoming flooded.

GOVERNMENT CHEMIST — Dr. Ira E. Puddington, 41, a native of Clifton, N.B., has been appointed director of the division of applied chemistry, succeeding the late Dr. Adrien Cambron. Dr. Puddington joined the National Research Council staff in 1938 to work on an industrial problem with greases in the colloids and plastics section. He became head of the section in 1944.

NAPANEE, Ont. —(CP)— John Mayhew, 16-year-old Boy Scout who attended the Caribbean Scout jamboree in Jamaica, said on return he was glad to leave the steady heat of the tropics and return to Canada's springtime weather. John said the Scouts had "a wonderful time" in Jamaica.

40 Years Late B.C. Railroad Now Has Head

By DAVE McINTOSH,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER, April 8 —(CP)— The Pacific Great Eastern Railway will chug into Prince George this summer—40 years behind schedule.

The P.G.E. was started in 1912 as a private concern but was taken over by the British Columbia government when it went bankrupt. Since then, it has run up a debt of $130,000,000 and still has no head nor tail.

The line extends from Squamish, 40 miles east of here, to a point now roughly 400 miles north of Vancouver in the B.C. interior. The "head", extending the railway to Prince George where it will connect with Canadian National Railways' transcontinental line, will be completed this summer at a cost of $13,000,000. The P.G.E. will at last reach the destination it started for 40 years ago.

But it still will have no tail. Barges move P.G.E. freight between Vancouver and Squamish, creating a bottleneck that many claim is pinching the economy of interior B.C.

The southern extension of the P.G.E. from Squamish to Vancouver has always been a choice political football in B.C. The year 1952 is no exception. In fact, with a provincial general election coming this summer, this football will probably be twice as large and twice as slippery.

Last year, the government said it would proceed with southern extension of the line, estimated to cost between $8,500,000 and $10,000,000.

At this year's legislature session, the government said it was scrapping its plan for the railway and instead would build a road from Squamish to Vancouver along the steep cliffs lining Howe Sound. It set aside $3,000,000 for start of construction.

The legislature's railway committee then suggested an alternate road route be found because if the road were built along the sound there wouldn't be any room for a railway.

An alternate route would be through the Capilano Canyon, but in this case it would pass through the Vancouver watershed, source of the city's water supply. The Vancouver water board is opposed to this.

The government finally said it till intends to build the road, but it named no definite route. The opposition and government members from the northern interior are both pressing for completion of the railway.

Premier Byron Johnson said that, in any case, no steel is available. Opposition Leader Herbert Anscomb said steel could be bought from Britain with no trouble at all. Premier Johnson said B.C. couldn't pay for the extension without injuring its provincial roads program. Mr. Anscomb said it could.

Last year, the P.G.E. operated in the black for the first time. It is replacing steam locomotives with diesel engines and business is increasing. There is little today to suggest railroaders' old crack about the P.G.E. — that the only thing that holds the tracks together is the frost in the winter and the weeds in the summer.

Still far in the future are frequently mentioned plans for extension of the P.G.E. north into the Peace River district and then on to Alaska. This 1,800-mile extension would cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000,000.

18 New Members Added To Church

LAKEFIELD, April 8—(ENS)—Eighteen new members were added to Lakefield United Church in a special service on Sunday morning 14 on profession of faith and four on transfer of membership. A number of the younger members who have been in a communicants' class for several months of preparation assisted in the service. Invocation prayer was said by John Milligan; the Ten Commandments, by Muretta Dunford; the books of the Bible by Patty Jakins, Ruth Fraser, Allan Bolton and Terry Doubt; "The Fruit of the Spirit" by Thomas Pratt; the beatitudes by Jim Fraser and Jeanette Staples and "A More Excellent Way" by Ken Darling, Patty Jakins, Louise Anderson and Jack McCracken.

Following the reception of new members the Sacrament of Holy Communion was administered by Rev. W. H. Tonge.

Those uniting with the church were Jack McCracken, John Milligan, Thomas Pratt, Jim Fraser, Louise Anderson, Kenneth Darling, Terry Doubt, Patty Jakins, Allan Bolton, Jeanette Staples, Mauretta Dunford, Ruth Fraser, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lichty, The Rev. J. A. Steed and Mrs. Steed, formerly of Woodgreen United Church, Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Harding, formerly of Brown's Corners United Church.

The evening service was especially for those who had joined in the morning, and the topic of Mr. Tonge's address was "Christ's Challenge to Youth."

Following the service a fellowship hour was held in which the new members were welcomed. A film was shown and refreshments served by members of the Young People's Union.

Replacing the regular Sunday School period a special missionary program was held and was in charge of Mrs. L. O. Bailey.

By the use of colored slides the audience was taken on a trip from Sturgeon Point, Ontario to Africa, b the Rev. J. A. Steed, who for many years served there as a missionary. Mr. Steed was thanked, at the conclusion of his travelogue by Sunday School superintendent Neil Wood, who also thanked Mrs. Bailey for her part in the interesting program.

The scripture was read by Edith Whetung and Margaret Richardson led in prayer. Gloria Carey, a member of the Mission Band, sang "The Missionary Penny," accompanied by Mrs. Theo. Down.

Sees Profit Sharing Eliminating Disputes

LONDON, Ont., April 8 (CP)—Profit sharing as a means of eliminating conflict between management and labor was suggested on Monday night by Malcolm Robb, Belleville lawyer.

In an address to a meeting of the Builders' Exchange, he said the plan already is used successfully.

Mr. Robb attributed most industrial strife to lack of recognition that the interests of management and labor are identical. It was in the interests of both when the produce was turned out at the lowest possible cost consistent with quality, when workers were well paid and when management had an adequate return on its investment.

He said the several hundred companies in Canada and the United States using the profit-sharing system have no labor troubles and produce with constantly increasing efficiency.

May Withdraw Motion Due To Technicality

OTTAWA, April 8 — (CP). — Prime Minister St. Laurent told the Commons Monday night that due to a technicality he may withdraw a motion he has proposed regarding redistribution of parliamentary seats and submit another. Mr. St. Laurent's motion, placed on the order paper Friday, suggested that the committee to study redistribution consider a proposal that there be no reduction of more than 15 per cent at any one time in the representation of any province.

Bolger Reveals Secret Of Good Dancing

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, April 8—(AP)—How do they do it—dancers like Fred Astaire, Gene Kelly and Ray Bolger?

Astaire still dances like a whirlwind at 52. Kelly reaches the 40 mark next August, yet he seems to float over the dance floor.

Bolger is back in Hollywood, doing some of his wonderful dances in "April in Paris." So I asked him for the secret on how he and his colleagues remain in such good form.

"The only thing I can suggest," he replied, "is that we learned to dance differently from the kids of today. When I started out, I first learned how to dance in wooden shoes. The clog taught me to dance on my toes. That was before the era of having metal taps on the soles of the shoes.

"Because of the taps, today's dancers learn to dance on the balls of their feet. That's a lot harder on them."

It's not the usual thing in show business to praise others in the same field, but Bolger expressed a high opinion of Astaire and Kelly.

High Praise

"Fred is simply the greatest," said Bolger. "His every motion denotes class. Kelly is great, too, but in a different way. He has a fine, athletic grace."

Bolger mourned the fact that newcomers do not have the training grounds that his generation did.

"Vaudeville is gone, and so is the repertory theatre," he remarked. "But the situation is not hopeless. There are still opportunities for young kids to get ahead. For instance, when I do a broadway show, I have rehearsals for the understudies. Many of them have gone on to featured roles because of it."

"We used to put on big musical productions for $75,000," he commented. "Nowadays, a straight play can cost that much. A musical runs from $200,000 to $300,000. Naturally, no single person can put up that much money.

"Since musicals are so expensive, they usually must run for two years or more before they pay off. It's too tough on an actor to play his heart out eight times a week for two years."

Science against pain

Science progresses: For 50 years we have used little white tablets—acetylsalicylic acid—for the relief of pain. Today this familiar painkiller is available in a new form without the disadvantage of insolubility, acidity and bitter taste. It is called DISPRIN.

Why take DISPRIN?

Because DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) it permits speedy absorption and gives quicker relief.

DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.

Science steps forward with DISPRIN ...FOR PAIN RELIEF

DISPRIN is now available at your druggist. Bottles of 26 tablets or Handy Pocket Folders of 8.

Steel Industry Fighting Truman Seizure

WASHINGTON, April 9. (AP)—The United States steel industry fought in the courts today against President Truman's order for government seizure of its plants. Most of the big mills were closed. Workers cried "Lockout." The immediate outlook for continued production of vital steel was confused and uncertain.

It was plain, however, that steel executives had their backs up. They were smarting under the tongue-lashing the President gave them in a radio broadcast Tuesday night and were disposed to fight for what they consider their rights.

Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer, designated to take over and operate the mills for the government, told reporters today he had received no achnowledgement from any of the presidents of 71 steel companies.

Sawyer sent each a telegram Tuesday night, advising of the seizure order Truman issued because of the deadlock in the wage dispute between the industry and the United Steel Workers' (C.I.O.). The union had called a strike for last midnight. Truman chose the seizure procedure as a move to head it off.

No Answers Yet

Sawyer asked that the company officials acknowledge "by return wire" receipt of their appointment as operating managers of their companies on behalf of the government.

Sawyer also said he had received no word that any steel companies had taken steps to resume operations.

Philip Murray, union president, announced Tuesday night that the steelworkers would work for the government.

Sawyer urged the industry to resume operations "pending a decision as to the legal rights involved, because of the vital need for steel for our national defence."

Sawyer was served with summonses in three suits brought by the Bethlehem Steel Co., Republic Steel Corp. and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., challenging the seizure order.

Deciding Factor

As to the suits, Sawyer said in his statement:

"If in these cases the courts should hold that the President has the power to take the action which he has taken, its legality will then be settled. If the courts should hold that he has not the power, further action will then be up to the President and Congress."

This was a suggestion that Truman would, in the latter case, ask Congress for specific seizure power.

John R. Steelman, President Truman's assistant and acting defence mobilizer, arranged mid-

Abbott Confuses Own Experts With Juggling

OTTAWA, April 9 (CP) —Finance Minister Abbott Tuesday night confused even his own experts.

He announced that he is incorporating the 20-per-cent defence surtax in a new income-tax schedule and cutting tax rates by an average of six per cent, effective July 1 next.

He mentioned in passing that the two-per-cent social-security tax becomes effective the same day.

The weekly tax deductions don't go down July 1 for the average taxpayer. They go up, and, except for high bracket persons, citizens will pay more taxes in 1952 than they did in 1951.

While that rosy, phantom six-per-cent reduction is on the amount of income tax you pay, the two per-cent social-security levy is on the entire taxable income, a tax of a different color, even though it has a $60-a-year ceiling.

In Basic Schedule

The 20-per-cent defence surtas has been incorporated into the basic tax schedule.

The surtax became effective July 1 last year and, when the taxpayer made out his 1951 return, that tax was levelled across the year so that he paid only 10 per cent more in taxes.

This year opened with the 20-per-cent surtax in full force and it continues that way up to July 1.

Then it is incorporated into the tax structure and the tax structure is reduced by six per cent. But that still leaves 14 per cent of the sur-tax in the tax structure.

Flood Strikes Second Time

EDMONTON, April 9 (CP)—An unexpected surge of water down Medicine Hat's Seven Persons creek Tuesday night again flooded the southeastern industrial flats area of the city which was hard hit by floods little over a week ago.

Six of the 25 blocks flooded previously were again under water and about 20 families were forced to flee only a few days after returning to their homes.

The creek, which had been running at a steady level for several days, rose 2½ feet starting about 7 p.m. All available city workers and machinery were put to work erecting sandbag dikes in an effort to contain the water. Dikes previously thrown up were washed out and water swirled down streets at a three-foot depth.

City engineer James Carswell said he could not predict any relief in the near future.

Ottawa Picks May 26 To Hold By-Elections

OTTAWA, April 9—(CP)—The government has picked May 26 as the date for by-elections for six Commons seats now vacant, it was learned today.

The ridings are Waterloo North and Ontario in Ontario; Brome-Missisquoi and Roberval in Quebec; and Gloucester and Victoria-Carleton in New Brunswick.

The Roberval riding became vacant Tuesday with the resignation of J. A. Dion, Liberal and deputy speaker of the Commons who, it is understood, will be appointed to a Quebec court judgeship.

No date was set for a by-election for a seventh vacant seat, that of Outremont-St. Jean, which had been held by former Postmaster-General Rinfret, who resigned and now is a Quebec judge.

Ask Combine Board Be Created

Recommend Cutting Powers Of Commissioner

OTTAWA, April 9. (CP) — The MacQuarrie Committee has recommended that the powers of the Federal Combines Commissioner be cut and that a new board be created to take over some authority.

Under the proposed anti-combines set-up, both the combines investigation commissioner and the alleged offender would bring argument before the special three-man board which would be the judge on what recommendations should be sent to the Justice Minister.

The Combines Commissioner, T. C. MacDonald, would still have power to make investigations into alleged breaches of anti-combines legislation, but would have no power to search an office or subpoena a witness without the board's authority.

A 60,000-word report of the committee was tabled today in the Commons by Justice Minister Garson. It represented 20 months' study into Canada's anti-combine laws.

The report also recommended that the Justice Department study the possibility of a Federal right to a court injunction to smash illegal combines once they have been proven a detriment to public interest.

Not Settled

The committee observed that currently "it is unsettled whether there are constitutional or other obstacles" preventing such a move. The doubt is whether the government has the right to prevent an industry from continuing in business even after a court conviction.

The report rejected legislative changes proposed by business interests, which the committee said would weaken legislation. Instead, it put forward a number of recommendations to enable stronger government action against those who break anti-combines laws.

Recommendations likely will lead to government legislation later this year. Last year's anti-price fixing recommendations now are law.

2 C.A.S. Wards Die In Fire

PERKINS, Que., April 9 (CP)—Two little girls, wards of the Hull Children's Aid Society, were burned to death early today when fire destroyed their foster-home at this village 20 miles north of Hull.

Trapped in a flaming frame farmhouse were Lise Gougeon, aged 5, and her three-year-old sister, Therese. Their guardians, Mr. and Mrs. Fernand Campeau, were doing chores in a barn a short distance away when the fire broke out.

Mr. Campeau said he and his wife were about 200 feet away from the house when his wife looked up and saw flames and smoke pouring from their home. They rushed to the house but it was impossible to get in.

Earthquake Shakes Desks In Buildings

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 9 — (AP)—An earthquake sharp enough to shake desks in office buildings today jolted Oklahoma and portions of Texas, Kansas, Iowa and Missouri.

There were no immediate roports of damage. The tremor occurred about 10:30 a.m. (11:30 a.m. EST).

Higher office buildings shook at Des Moines, Iowa, and light fixtures swayed. Radio stations were swamped with calls in Kansas City and Independence, Mo.

Moon Appears To Be Double Usual Size Look Over Shoulder With Mirror, Surprise

NEW YORK, April 9 (AP)—Today at sunset is the time to look at the full moon over your shoulder with a mirrow and get a surprise.

Then you will see the world's most famous optical illusion disappear. The illusion is the big size of the full moon close to the horizon. It is almost twice as large as when overhead, despite the fact that overhead the moon is 4,000 miles closer to you.

If you have no mirror, just turn your back, bend down and look at the moon between your legs. That will dispel the illusion as well as the mirror trick, says I. M. Levitt, of Fels Planetarium, Philadelphia, in the astronomy journal Sky and Telescope.

Or you can shrink this moon by pinching the moon's image between your thumb and forefinger.

Many explanations have been offered for the illusion but none that entirely satisfies science. You can't fool your camera. A photo makes the moon normal size.

A clear sky is forecast for Peterborough this evening.

Churchill Announces Plan To Denationalize Road Transport Industry

LONDON, April 9. (Reuters)—Prime Minister Churchill today announced in the House of Commons that his government will denationalize the road transport industry and turn it back to its former owners. His announcement came fast on the heels of pressure put on him by 48 Conservative members of parliament who had drafted a motion demanding the government fulfil its election promises on restoring private enterprise. The Tories are also committed on the denationalization of the steel industry. Both industries were taken over by the late Labor government.

Churchill gave no date for the transport action, but said it will be announced when parliament reconvenes after the Easter vacation. He reaffirmed government policy to hand back the steel industry.

The road bill applies only to medium- and long-distance truck transport.

Churchill's statement, greeted by Tory cheers, took the sting out of the party rebels. Their move is regarded as the most serious sign of internal discontent with the government since the October election.

Earlier this week there was another and smaller "revolt" in the form of a protest against the government's refusal to lift the sales tax on clothing to help the hard-pressed Lancashire textile industry.

The sales-tax motion originally was put forward by Ralph Assheton, former Conservative Party chairman, and four others. Now 16 Conservatives have signed it—and 16 Socialists, including Bevanite left-wingers, have added their names to it.

Purpose of the two motions is to pep up the government and underline party restlessness. It said Conservative losses in local government elections have shocked the Conservatives.

Many party members take the line that the government's prestige will suffer if it does not soon carry out denationalization promises and other changes proposed in its manifesto at the general election last October.

Labor members kept a weary House of Commons in session until 2:45 a.m. today in a filibuster designed to keep Britain's health service free to patients.

The Socialists jammed the parliamentary hopper with 130 amendments. A power failure put the lights out, too, but the narrow Conservative majority slowly edged its bill toward passage.

The Conservative measure would make patients pay part of the fees for some medical aids. It would cut £21,000,000 of the health service costs and put a ceiling of £400,000,000 on what the government spends for the service.

The bill, approved in principle on second reading, now is going through laborious line-by-line discussion in a committee of the whole House.

FINANCE MINISTER ABBOTT brought down what is described as a stand-pat budget Tuesday night. He made some tax cuts on luxury goods.

Labor Party Captures 4th Council Election

LONDON, April 9—(Reuters)—The Labor party today captured its fourth county council from the anti-socialists in the country-wide local elections, snatching eight seats from the independents in Northumberland.

The Socialists have also gained control in Essex, Lancashire and the west riding of Yorkshire and retained their majorities in London, Nottingham, Stafford, Carmarthen, Glamorgan and Monmouth.

They had lost Northumberland to the anti-socialists in 1949 after three years in power.

Results continued to show a strong swing to the left as the last county council voters went to the polls. In Bedfordshire, Labor gained nine seats Tuesday with 20 results to be declared. In Cambridgeshire Labor gained four seats, in Lincolnshire three.

The last three counties—Norfolk, Oxfordshire and the east riding of Yorkshire—got to the polls today. But voting will continue for about a month to elect the lesser councils in the urban, rural and parish areas.

Order Phone Strike

WASHINGTON, April 9—(AP)—The Communications Workers Union (C.I.O.) today ordered a country-wide strike against the Bell Telephone System in the United States.

Cut Electrical Appliance, Soft Drink Taxes; Defence, Pension Cost More

Small Tariff Wall Gives Industries Chance To Expand

OTTAWA, April 9. (CP) — Canada Tuesday night erected a midget-sized tariff wall to give her growing plastics and chemical industry room to expand.

At the same time she pared other walls, to cut the cost of products she needs, such as aircraft, widely-used plate and sheet glass, farm machinery and scientific equipment.

This give-and-take import-duty policy sparked about 200 tariff changes anounced by Finance Minister Abbott.

They included:

1. First major change in the antiquated plastics-and-chemicals tariff structure, imposing a range of government charges up to 20 per cent on items which formerly came in free. Raw materials which the industry needs from other countries still will enter free.

2. Tariff reductions on window glass, plate glass, some safety glass and mirrors.

3. Tariff cuts on a wide assortment of other items, including aircraft, farm machinery parts, scientific and electrical equipment and materials which enter into production in Canada's primary and manufacturing industries.

4. The limit on duty-free casual donations sent by persons in foreign lands to friends in Canada will be widened to $10 from $5.

Aircraft and engines—of a kind and size not made in Canada—will be allowed in duty free until July 1, 1955.

"This is designed to be of particular assistance to the considerable number of smaller air transport companies which are anxious to re-equip with more modern aircraft," Mr. Abbott said.

Biggest feature of the announcements was that the plastics and chemical tariff has been given its first major overhaul.

Leaves Liquor Tax Untouched, No Change In Credit

OTTAWA, April 9. (CP) — Tax cuts take effect today on a sizable range of luxury and semi-luxury goods as a result of a consumers' budget placed before the Commons and the country Tuesday night by Finance Minister Abbott.

He reduced special excise levies on cigarettes, motor cars, radios, television sets, washing machines, stoves, refrigerators, smokers' accessories, luggage and similar goods.

But, while he lightened the tax burden at the retail end, he performed a sleight-of-hand with the personal income-tax rates, announcing an apparent average six-per-cent reduction but actually leaving taxes higher than they were for 1951.

He incorporated the existing 20-per-cent defence surtax into the basic income-tax structure and then sliced tax payments by six per cent, effective July 1. But that still leaves the tax liability higher than in 1951, when the defence surtax worked out to 10 per cent over the entire year.

Pay For Pension

In addition, taxpayers will begin contributions July 1 to the new two-per-cent social-security tax, which goes to finance old-age pensions to Canadians 70 and over. This is based on taxable income and will more than offset the income-tax reduction, based on the amount of tax paid.

Here are the main tax cuts:

1. The cigarette tax is reduced by three cents on a package of 20, back to where it was a year

Revolt Deposes Bolivian Gov't

LA PAZ, Bolivia, April 9 (AP) An army, police and civilian revolt broke out in this tin-mining country today and the revolutionists announced they had deposed the military government.

Members of the military government, headed by Gen. Hugo Ballivian who seized power in a bloodless coup last May, were arrested and then liberated, the announcement said.

The revolt was led by army and police officers co-operating with the national revolutionary party of Victor Paz Estenssoro, who is in exile in Argentina.

Ilimani radio station in La Paz, owned by the government, began broadcasting that the revolution had succeeded soon after shooting broke out in the capital at dawn.

Almost simultaneously with the outbreak in the capital, uprisings took place in various parts of the country.

Allies Refuse Chinese Trade

MUNSAN, Korea, April 9 (AP) —A U.N. negotiator said today the Allies "absolutely would not" trade a ban on repairing military airfields for the "strictly phony issue" of Russia as a Korean truce supervisor.

Maj.-Gen. William K. Harrison made the statement after a Chinese negotiator hinted for the second successive day the Communists would like to make such a swap.

"They are trying to offer us something that should not be an issue at all for something really vital to an armistice," Harrison told newspapermen.

In Tokyo British General Sir Charles F. Keightley commented the "Chinese are playing a game at Panmunjom."

Nevertheless Keightley said he was "optimistic that within six months an easy peace will be worked out in Korea."

Keightley, commander of British Far East land forces, made the statement as his "personal opinion" after an inspection tour of Korea and a conference with Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, chief U.N. truce negotiator.

At Panmunjom Chinese Maj.-Gen. Hsieh Fang made the indirect bid to trade off two of the major stumbling blocks to a Korean truce. The Allies want a ban on building or repairing military airfields. The Communists want Soviet Russia named as one of the "neutral nations" who will police the armistice.

Predict Caterpillars Worse This Year

SAULT STE. MARIE, April 9 (CP)—Experts of the provincial forest insect laboratory today predicted a decrease this year in the number of tent caterpillars infesting this area.

But they warned that the infestaion of the province generally would be greater than last year, when it was described as "the greatest insect invasion in the history of the province."

The experts, speaking before the sixth annual pre-season forest protection meeting, based their predictions on the increased parasite rate and the disease rate locally among the caterpillars.

Taft Scores Big Win In Illinois

Stassen, Eisenhower Snowed Under In Primary Test

CHICAGO, April 9. (AP) — Senator Robert Taft of Ohio scored an overwhelming victory in Tuesday's Illinois Republican primary election. In the presidential popularity contest, Taft snowed under his two major opponents—Harold E. Stassen and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower—duplicating his primary victories last week in Nebraska and Wisconsin.

Taft apparently won control over 48 of the 50 delegates to the Republican national convention in July—which represents his greatest delegate victory in any primary to date this year. There was a possibility that two delegates who favored the candidacy of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower might win. The primary results are not binding upon the delegates.

With more than two-thirds of the precincts counted today, Taft led Stassen 6 to 1, and Eisenhower 7 to 1.

Placed Third

Eisenhower, who was not officially a candidate in the Presidential preference primary, placed third in the voting on the basis of a write-in campaign.

Running without opposition as the Democratic Presidential candidate, Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee piled up a huge vote.

There was a small total of write-ins for Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois in the Democratic column.

However, the State Democratic organization is expected to give the delegate vote to Stevenson in the event he enters the Presidential race. He was unopposed for renomination for Governor.

The chemicals and plastics field is proving to be one of the most sparkling of Canada's industrial stars. To keep the $100,000,000 industry growing, the tariff board recommended—and Mr. Abbott agreed—provision of some protective measures.

General Effect

Generally, the tariff wall shaped up this way:

On raw materials, little or no charge; on primary resins or primary cellulosic materials, rates of duty ranging from zero to 3½ per cent.

Resins and cellulosic materials in organic solvents—important ingredients in paints and protective coatings—12½ per cent if the item is made in Canada and 10 per cent if not.

In another stage of production, sheets and other primary forms, the tariff will range up to 20 per cent, for printed or decorated sheeting.

The United States will benefit by Canada's decision to cut charges on glass. The board felt that changes recommended will not "affect seriously" the "relatively-new domestic sheet glass industry" in Canada.

To reduce the cost of imports and possibly cut prices to Canadian users, the charge on window and heavy sheet glass is reduced to 7½ per cent from 10 per cent and 20 per cent of value. Imports from Commonwealth countries are admitted free as in the past.

On other items, milk evaporators, milk driers and parts for this equipment will be admitted free from Commonwealth countries and under a 7½-per-cent duty from the U.S. and other most-favored-nation countries. Formerly duties ranged from free to 22½ per cent.

Some Reduction

Certain self-propelled, Diesel-driven trucks, used in the mining and construction industries, and imported from M.F.N. countries will bear a charge of 7½ per cent, down from 17½.

Dredges and parts used in mining will enter free from Commonwealth and M.F.N. countries. Formerly, the tariff ranged from 15 to 25 per cent.

Ball bearings required for agricultural machinery will be allowed in free from all countries. Charges formerly ranged up to 35 per cent of value.

The farmer got another break—a reduction in charges on internal combustion tractors and parts. These also will come in free from all countries. Formerly the charge ranged from 15 per cent to 35 per cent.

Minister's Name Removed From Roll

HAMILTON, April 9 (CP)—The following announcement was made in Hamilton today at the Hamilton presytery, Presbyterian Church in Canada:

"At a special meeting of the Presbytery of Hamilton of the Presbyterian Church in Canada held in St. Paul's chapel on Tuesday, April 8, 1952 the Rev. H. Crawford Scott, minister of the Presbyterian Church in Canada until this date, received the church censure of admonition for the breaking of his ordination vows by receiving confirmation at the hands of the Bishop of Niagara without first obtaining release from the jurisdiction of the Presbytery of Hamilton."

Mr. Scott's name was ordered removed from the roll of the Presbytery of Hamilton, and the clerk was instructed to notify all the presbyteries of the Presbyterian Church in Canada of this action.

"A copy of this censure was ordered mailed to the Bishop of Niagara and the Primate of the Church of England in Canada."

The statement was issued on behalf of the Presbytery by the Rev. Charles Carnegie, minister of St. David's Church, president of the Presbyterial Ministerial Association, and the Rev. Robert A. Jackson, minister of St. Cuthbert's, secretary of the association.

At Full Meeting

They said the action had been taken at a full meeting of the court. Mr. Scott was not present.

On Sunday, March 9, Mr. Scott and his wife were confirmed into membership of the Anglican Communion by the Bishop of Niagara, The Rt. Rev. W. E. Bagnall.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Scott had been instructed in the Anglican faith by the Rev. Canon F. Allen Hill, rector of St. James Church, Dundas, in which church the confirmation took place.

Mr. Scott announced Jan. 28 that he had presented his resignation as minister of Central Presbyterian Church to the Presbytery of Hamilton. It had been requested that the resignation take effect on Feb. 29.

Mr. Scott, padre of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders of Canada, served for over four years in the last war as a padre in the R.C.A.F. He was the first Protestant padre of the R.C.A.F. or R.A.F. to land on Normandy after D-Day.

afternoon bargaining sessions with the industry and C.I.O. president Philip Murray, whose wage demands generated the crisis. Industry representatives predicted in advance the Steelman talks would be "absolutely unproductive."

Truman said it was his earnest hope the dispute would be settled promptly.

"I don't want to see the government running the steel plants a moment longer than is absolutely necessary to prevent a shutdown," he said.

Seizure followed collapse of wage negotiations in New York. The industry balked to the end at accepting government-suggested pay increases of 17½ cents an hour and other benefits for Murray's workers. Steel workers at present earn $2 an hour.

Truman disclosed his seizure decision Tuesday night in a broadcast over radio and television.

Fair Recommendations

He said Wage Stabilization Board recommendations for settling the pay dispute were "fair and equitable" and the industry could well afford them. He lashed out bitterly at steelmakers, calling their demands for a $12-a-ton price increase "about the most outrageous thing I ever heard of."

"The plain fact is—though most people don't realize it—the steel industry has never been so profitable as it is today—at least not since the 'profiteering' days of the First World War.

"The plain fact of the matter is that the steel companies are recklessly forcing a shutdown of the steel mills. They are trying to get special, preferred treatment, not available to any other industry. And they are apparently willing to stop steel production to get it."

Murray called off a midnight strike just one hour before it was set to start. He said the steelworkers would continue on the job for "their government."

ago. The tax on raw leaf tobacco also goes back to its former rate of three-quarters of a cent a pound. The revenue loss for a full year is $11,000,000.

2. The special excise tax is reduced to 15 per cent from 25 per cent on motor cars, tires and tubes, cameras and photo equipment, cigars, electrical appliances, firearms and ammunition, fishing rods and reels, fountain pens and pencils, furs, golf clubs and balls, jewelry and clocks, lighters, matches, motorcycles and motors, phonographs, radios and tubes, slot machines, smokers' accessories, toilet articles and trunks and luggage. Revenue loss: $64,000,000.

3. The special excise tax of 15 per cent on household washing machines, stoves and refrigerators is repealed. Revenue loss: $11,000,000.

4. The special excise tax is cut to 15 per cent from 30 per cent on soft drinks and to 25 cents a pound from 50 cents on carbonic acid. Officials said they think the manufacturers will absorb this reduction. Revenue loss: $11,000,000.

Signs of Repentance

The immediate reaction from J. M. Macdonnell (PC-Toronto Greenwood), Progressive Conservative financial critic, was that Mr. Abbott has made the people "tax-angry" and that his budget showed "certain signs of repentance."

Mr. Abbott announced that he is budgeting for a 1952-53 surplus of $9,000,000, against a surplus of $355,700,000 last year, on the basis of revenues of $4,279,000,000 and expenditures of $4,270,000,000.

Then he warned taxpayers not to look for too much in the way of lower taxes next year unless there is improvement in conditions both at home and abroad.

He left business taxes generally untouched, but hinted that their current high rate might be hauled down in the next two years. He was concerned about high business taxes, but felt they could "perhaps be endured for a year or two."

Drop Rates

He provided that firms basically engaged in generating and distributing electricity, gas and steam will have their maximum tax rate dropped to 43 per cent from the general corporate level of 50 per cent.

The sole cut in the general corporation tax is one of 1.2 per cent on profits over $10,000 to round it off to an even 50 per cent.

Tax deductions for petroleum, natural gas and mining companies for exploration expenses are being continued for another year while the three-year exemption granted to new mines is being extended to 1955.

While he halved the taxes on soft drinks, Mr. Abbott applied a 15-per-cent excise tax to dry-powder drinks which compete with the over-the-counter beverages.

He announced a series of tariff amendments which involve some reductions, some modifications and some additions.

He left liquor taxes and succession duties untouched and indicated the time is not yet ripe for a modification of restrictions on consumer credit, despite the declining cost of living.

Didn't Pay

In cutting the cigarette tax three cents, the amount it was raised in the last budget, he acknowledged that the tax appeared to have reached the point of "diminishing returns," but said he thought reports of large-scale smuggling or cheaper American cigarettes had been exaggerated.

He had forecast last year that the tax would produce $23,000,000 more revenue, but it actually yielded $1,000,000 less.

Mr. Abbott estimated that he will lose $40,000,000 in the current fiscal year and $65,000,000 in a full year from the social-security levy on incomes, plus additional revenue from a two-per-cent old-age tax on corporations and a similar share of the general sales tax.

The general sales tax, lifted to 10 per cent last year, remained largely unchanged, except for minor exemptions.

The man with medical bills that he can deduct from his income for tax purposes got a break. Mr. Abbott lifted the limits on such bills to $1,500 from $750 for single persons, to $2,000 from $1,000 for married people and to $500 from $250 for each dependent.

But he left the floor on medical bills untouched. Medical expenses still must exceed four per cent of the taxpayer's income to be deductible.

However, the requirement that medical expenses must be both incurred and paid within a 12-month period is rescinded. Medical expenses will be recognized in future no matter when they are incurred, so long as they are paid within a 12-month period.

MINOR OPERATION—This is how Patrolman Albert Krogstad handled the situation when he was called to a movie theatre in St. Paul, Minn., where three-year-old Jackie Janisch was choking on a piece of candy a chum had given him. The operation was successful.

Horse Racing Discussed By Legislature

TORONTO, April 9 — (CP). — Horse-racing and housing occupied the attention of the Ontario Legislature Tuesday. Thirty-one bills were put through the committee stage in a sitting that lasted until early today — the first after-midnight sitting of this session.

Albert Wren (Lib-Lab.-Kenora) charged that the government was managing Ontario forests in "an arbitrary manner." He criticized what he termed "a steady trend to ministerial control and a trend away from the Legislature."

He said the government promised to cut down on the export of wood, but in 1951 pulpwood export from Ontario reached a near-record of 930,730 tons. Lands Minister Scott took issue with the figures and said that the government's policy of ending all wood exports after 1958 has resulted in a steady drop in export figures.

Premier Frost tabled a file of letters which disclosed disagreement between the Ontario Racing Commission and Dr. George Cairns, the commission's chief veterinary surgeon in 1951.

Dr. Cairns, who has not been rehired this year, said in a letter that last year 69 horses were allowed to run by track stewards contrary to his recommendations "Everything was done to make a farce of the pre-race examination."

Outlines Difference

Magistrate S. Tupper Bigelow, chairman of the Racing Commission, said there is a difference between a horse being 100 per cent sound and "racing-sound."

He wrote that the racing stewards had permission to overrule the veterinary's advice on whether a horse should race. "Whereas the veterinary surgeon knew nothing of racing when he commenced his duties, the stewards were all knowledgeable horsemen of mature age . . . their integrity is unquestioned."

Race-track inspections this season will be carried out by two graduating students of the Ontario Veterinary College at Guelph.

Planning Minister Griesinger said that discussions are being carried on with Ottawa to extend provincial aid in rental housing plans to municipalities with less than 5,000 population. The Federal government is a 75-per-cent partner in most Ontario housing plans.

Set 31 Cents Pound For Cheddar Cheese

BELLEVILLE, April 9 (CP).—A 1952 price of 31 cents a pound for Ontario cheddar cheese was agreed on Tuesday when negotiating committees representing the cheese merchants and producers met here. The minimum price is 31 cents a pound for first grade cheese, f.o.b. factory.

Great Britain's announcement of her inability to buy cheddar cheese in 1952 because of their lack of dollars, coupled with the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease which prohibited sales of dairy cattle to the United States, has caused the drop in price, producers said.

Last year's price to the producer was 36 cents per pound.

Cheese exchanges which have been postponed will immediately resume for the sale of March cheese.

British Lift Malayan Curfew

SINGAPORE, April 9 (Reuters) —A curfew imposed by the British on the Central Malayan town of Tanjong Malin was lifted today after citizens turned in the names of some 30 Chinese accused of co-operating with Communist rebels.

Police swiftly rounded up the suspects, who were described by eye-witnesses as mostly "prosperous-looking" merchants.

Life in the Perak-Selangor border town and its environs had been virtually paralyzed since March 27. Townsfolk were confined to their homes 22 hours a day and placed on short rations after 12 security police had been killed nearby by guerrillas.

They were told last Saturday that the price of lifting the restrictions would be information leading to the arrest of acting Communists and their helpers. Questionnaires were circulated to every household.

Prices Irregular On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, April 9 — (CP) — Prices drifted irregularly today in early afternoon stock market dealings after a slow advance.

Industrials showed little reaction to the new federal budget as only a few selected issues showed changes.

Banks and constructions posted a scattered list of fractional advances to form industrials' strongest sections. Agricultures, foods, refining oils and retail stores also drew firm support but liquors and manufacturing companies slipped.

Western oil leaders eased but lower-priced issues pushed upward. Ajax Petroleum, Fargo, Model Oil, Okalta, Scurry, Selburn and Western Homestead traded higher.

Base metals were mixed as Cassiar, East Sullivan, Ontario Pyrites, International Nickel and United Keno Hill strengthened while Estella, New Calumet and Sherritt-Gordon weakened.

Senior golds were firm. Kerr Addison, Malartic, Sigma and Wright-Hargreaves climbed moderately. Secondary issues were mixed.

1st Intoxication At 18 Years Tests Reveal

TORONTO, April 9 — (CP)—A survey of 100 patients treated by the Ontario Alcoholism Research Foundation shows that the average age alcoholics start to drink is 17 years, it was reported today in the Foundation's first annual report tabled in the Ontario Legislature. The average age of first intoxication was 18 years.

The report said, however, that a larger number of patients must be studied before any valid conclusion can be drawn. The Foundation treated 442 patients last year in a period largely devoted to organizing the Foundation's work.

Of the 100 patients surveyed, 75 per cent were between 35 and 54 years of age. The study also showed alcoholism appears "proportionately among all social and occupational groups."

The report emphasized the need of a change in public attitudes toward alcoholism. "It is difficult to secure recognition that the alcoholic is a sick person."

Decentralization Needed

Decentralization of treatment, at present mainly confined to the Brookside Clinic and Hospital near Toronto, was needed. General hospitals should provide emergency service and clinics should be set up in selected centres.

A total of 42.3 per cent of patients with only one admission to Brookside had remained sober since their discharge.

Drugs had been used "sparingly" in treatment. Adrenalin hormone treatment had been used only for acute cases. Fifteen per cent of patients were given antabuse, the drug which brings about revulsion toward alcohol, and it was used only where the patient was unsuitable or unable to join an Alcoholics Anonymous group, where "serious emotional disturbances" were involved, or to tide the patient over until he could join Alcoholics Anonymous.

Ask Combine

Headed by Mr. Justice J. H. MacQuarrie of the Nova Scotia Supreme Court, the four-man committee described Canada's laws against illegal monopolies, trusts, mergers and combines as fundamentally sound. However, there was one "basic weakness"—the combines commissioner seemed "at one and the same time prosecutor and judge."

Three-Man Board

The committee agreed that the commissioner, placed in charge of an investigating agency, should be given powers necessary to pursue investigations into alleged illegal price-fixing and commodity-control practices in Canada. However, powers to search premises, subpoena witnesses and judge whether laws had been breached should rest with a special three-man board.

This board would have authority to receive the commissioner's evidence and at the same time hear argument from the industry under investigation. The board would forward its report to the Justice Minister, who would decide, as at present, whether prosecution should be launched.

Other recommendations:

1—Broadening of the government's powers to modify tariffs and knock out out patent rights to give it greater authority to deal with monopolies and combines.

2—No immediate action against loss leaders—the practice of cutting prices below cost to attract customers and eliminate competition. The practice should be a matter of study for the new board and a combines-investigation agency.

3—The courts should have power to demand that convicted parties continue to make periodic reports on their activities even after the court case is finished.

4—Lifting of the ceiling on maximum fines to give the courts complete freedom on levies. The maximum fines fixed by the statutes sometimes were "inadequate" in comparison with the heavy volume of business done by those found guilty. Under combines legislation, the maximum fine is $10,000 for an individual and $25,000 for a corporation.

5—Elimination of the legislative restriction which says that no court action can be brought against an industry two years or more after the offence was alleged to have been committed.

U.S. Dollar Down

MONTREAL, April 9 CP) — The American dollar today opened at a discount of 1 15/16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, down 1/32 from Tuesday's close. That is, it took $0.98 1/16 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.75⅜, up ⅛ from Tuesday.

This is the 28th picture in the Examiner's Baby Picture-Quote contest. For the first five days of each week the Examiner will publish a baby picture and quote from the collection of Constance Bannister and on Saturday will publish the winning local pictures. In the Examiner's contest readers are being asked to submit baby pictures and the trick is to write a suitable caption implying what could have been on the baby's mind to create such an expressive picture. Every home where here are children has an unusual baby picture, so look over your family album, pick out and write the caption and send picture to Baby Photo Editor, Examiner, Peterborough. Pictures must be of babies two years and less. Two prizes of five dollars a week are given and a grand prize of ten dollars at end of contest.

High Water Level Erodes Bluffs Along Lakeshore

COBOURG, April 9 (ENS). — High level of Lake Ontario here has cut away the bluffs until the shore line is within 20 feet of the south-west corner of the water pumping station. →→

Lake level of the intake-pipe-well inside the building is only 9 inches below the rim of the well, and although it was 6 inches in June of last year, the rate it has been rising to date indicates that it will be at a record height by next June.

The water works engineer can control the level in the intake well by shutting the intake valve and there is no danger of any interference with the town's water supply. However, at the south-west end there is also a well which has no control other than to pump it out. A large tree, a telephone pole and bushes are on the verge of toppling into the lake as the waves eat more and more of the bank away.

At times a drain from the building, which flows into the lake, is unable to function when the waves are coming inshore. The Public Utilities Commission is going to look over the situation this week, and it is felt that the only solution is construction of a 300-foot-long retaining wall to protect what little is left of the bank.

HIGH WATER LEVELS in Lake Ontario have cut away bluffs near the water pumping station for Cobourg. The Above photo shows a point at which there is a fairly wide gravel beach in normal times. High water has almost covered it, and has eroded the banks above it as well, threatening to topple a hydro pole and several trees only 20 feet from the southwest corner of the pumping station.—Murray Smith Photo.

Seymour Pledges $10,000 Grant

CAMPBELLFORD, April 9 — (ENS) — Seymour township assured the Campbellford Memorial Hospital Board another $10,000 on Monday when they decided to raise that amount through the sale of 4 per cent 10-year debentures. The money will be used for the building fund.

All members of the council were present with Reeve Jack Billen in the chair.

Two members of the community arena board, Wallace and Fred Rutherford, asked council for a grant of $150 for the arena. They pointed out that several Seymour hockey teams received benefit of free practice time at the rink. Council authorized the grant.

Messrs. W. F. Scott and R. F. Seymour asked for the use of the shed owned by the township, the former peroperty of the Presbyterian church. They made the request on behalf of the Seymour Agricultural Society. The matter was left in abeyance until council could inspect the building.

Cobourg School Levy Increases Two Mills

COBOURG, April 9—(ENS)—Public school estimates for 1952 are $15,421 more than last year or the equivalent of 2.7 mills. Contributing to the boost in the estimates is last year's deficit of $5,886.31. Teachers' salaries also play a part in the increase as salaries this year are $65,000 as compared with $58,600 last year.

Administration costs are $2,175 for this year, an increase of $475. Last year's fuel costs were $400 more than estimated so this year the estimate was increased by $600. Last year's government grant was $29,300 and this year it will be $25,325, based on last year's receipts.

Plans for the new east end school will be ready in about ten weeks. The ratepayers authorized construction of a school not to exceed $288,000. The board's latest estimate of the cost is $236,000.

Pact Ratified

LIMA, Peru, April 9 (AP). — Peru's Congress ratified the mutual assistance pact, with the United States Tuesday night. Reliable sources said the lawmakers acted at a closed session. The pact is similar to those the U.S. has concluded with Ecuador, Cuba and Brazil.

Wanted 3 Years On Fraud Charge

After evading arrest for more than three years, Arthur LaBelle was picked up by Toronto police Tuesday on a warrant for false pretences and is being held for Peterborough police.

Today, detective sergeant John Stevenson and patrol sergeant Harold Mesley left for Toronto to bring LaBelle here where he will face the charge.

He is alleged to have sold $100 worth of grass seed to the Western Clock Co., Ltd., which LaBelle claimed was Velvet Bent Grass Seed. The company charges the grass seed was not the type he said it was and LaBelle is charged with obtaining the money under false pretences with intent to defraud.

Commissioner Visits Curve Lake Scouts

CURVE LAKE, April 9 (ENS) — Field Commissioner Arthur Jackson of Trenton visited the Curve Lake Scout Troop last week. The troop, consisting of 10 scouts, also invited parents along for the night.

Commissioner Jackson told a number of scouting stories and instructed them on how to tie knots.

The meeting began with the saluting of the flag and silent prayer. The scouts were also taught a new campfire song.

Scoutmaster Earl Stanfield of Buckhorn brought his scout troop along. Mrs. Cecil Knott, the only scoutmistress in Ontario, served lunch, assisted by Mrs. Austin McCue.

G. H. Johnston

Pallbearers at the funeral on Tuesday afternoon of George Heasley Johnston, 839 Water St., were Osborne Smith, A. E. Rundle, H. E. Delahaye, O. R. Kidd, W. R. Williamson and Alfred Newton.

Mr. Johnston, a C.N.R. ticket agent and telegrapher in Peterborough for 20 years, died Sunday at his residence after a long illness. He was 62 years old.

The funeral was at the Kaye Funeral Home with the Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church officiating. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Russian Dove For Trade?

An international economic conference now taking place in Moscow suggests that the Russian overtures for peace may not be a bluff. Some four hundred representatives of forty countries are attending the conference, among them being western businessmen and economists including seven from Canada. Western diplomatic observers of the conference note that the Russians and Chinese attending seem intent not on propaganda but on doing business, even with western capitalism. The first requisite of a resumption of trade between the Communist east and the rest of the world is a removal of the political tensions which divide the world. Thus the Indian Ambassador to Moscow may be properly convinced that Stalin wants to confer with British and American heads of state, to settle the political problems. And so it is this week that the Communists in Korea and China are making further concessions at Pyongyang and that a Korean truce may be near.

* * *

Last Saturday the president of Russia's Chamber of Commerce, N. V. Nesterov, told the convention of changes in Russia's trade policies which seem remarkable to the West. Russia intends now to take payment in local currencies for goods which it delivers, to be spent in the country of origin. She is willing to channel credit arrangements through national banks. She has offered to sell equipment and to provide technical aid to underdeveloped countries. He said that Russia is prepared to increase her trade sharply with capitalist countries. The trade has almost ceased to exist; in 1948 it reached a post-war peak of five billion roubles. (A rouble is officially worth 25 cents.) Russia is prepared to double or triple this 1948 trade in the next two years.

* * *

Undoubtedly Russia's economy—and more particularly the economics of her European satellites and China—is crippled by the western world's trade blockade. This blockade has been increasingly severe as western countries have multiplied their restrictions on trade with Communist countries since 1948. It would be to the advantage of Russia and especially of China and European Communist countries if trade with the West was resumed. Any resumption of trade, as suggested by the president of the Russian Chamber of Commerce, must be preceded by a relaxation of the trade barriers which the West has put up. The Russians well know that these will not be lowered until there is proof of Russia's peaceful intentions. A truce in Korea, an easing of the tension in southeast Asia, and a general conference of the chief powers, might provide sufficient proof.

Teaching Peterborough Children Traffic Manners

We are glad to see that the local police force, through Constable Donald Mackay is going to give instruction to Peterborough school children in how to behave safely in traffic; the plan which will be used will be one which has already proved itself in Ottawa. We do not know how extensive the course of training is, but we hope that the local police will find time to say a few words to the children about the proper handling of bicycles in traffic; a majority of children are careful about this matter, but there are still many who create danger for themselves and for motorists because they do not obey traffic rules. Certainly Peterborough parents will be glad that such a plan of training has been set up, and will be grateful to Mrs. Rowell's committee of the Board of Education for beginning it.

Proper and safe behaviour in traffic is a form of good manners, as well as an important factor in preventing accidents. Causing inconvenience to others is bad manners, and like other Ontario cities, Peterborough has its share of people who transgress in this respect. The motorists who stop their cars on the pedestrian's crossing at intersections are bad mannered; they are contemptuous of the rights of others. Motorists who start across an intersection when the traffic light is yellow are bad mannered. There is a tendency for a man behind the wheel of a car to look upon a pedestrian as a lower form of life.

Nor are pedestrians without fault. The insolence of the pedestrian who strolls across a street when the light is against him is very annoying. We grieve to say that most offenders in this respect are among the older citizens; much is said about the impudence of the young, but not enough is said about the impudence of the old. Equally annoying are those elderly people who skip, dodge, prance and dither their way through traffic, courting death by heart failure at every leap. It is obvious from the look of most of these offenders that they have no business which calls for special speed; they are simply too ill-mannered to obey the rules of safety and of politeness.

Many causes are brought forward to account for accidents. Liquor, bad brakes, poor visibility—we have heard about them all. But we would be willing to bet that fully fifty per cent. of simple accidents in traffic are the result of bad manners—of the desire on somebody's part to have his own way, whatever inconvenience it may cause to others. If the police can train children to have good traffic manners, we may hope for some improvement in the future.

Tactless and Perhaps Worse

We are still thinking about those eight Canadians who were taken to Buffalo to be tested with a lie-detector. Most of our readers will have the circumstances fresh in their minds; the people involved were employees of American Airlines, working in the Toronto office; when $75 was missing from the cash drawer they were "asked" to take a lie-detector test and did so, going to Buffalo for that purpose; they passed the test, and apologies were tendered by the company. There are several things about this incident which we do not like.

In the first place we do not like Canadian citizens against whom no charge has been preferred to be taken to another country for examination; this is a little too much like the nineteenth century habit of stopping ships on the high seas, and removing sailors from them on the grounds of suspicion.

Next, we think that "asking" employees to submit to tests of this kind is unfair. If they refuse suspicion against them is deepened; they may be further investigated or they may lose their jobs. There must be some other way of meeting such a situation.

Third, we have never seen any report on lie-detectors which inspired admiration in us. We do not know much about them, but we believe that they record some increase in heartbeat, or blood pressure, when a lie is told. But is this infallible? We have never heard any such claim made for the machine, and we think its use is insulting when dealing with people against whom no charge has been made.

The action of the air line was tactless, to say the least. If it should establish a precedent for the behaviour of companies who think themselves wronged, something will have to be done to stop it.

Why Read Faster?

We are mildly depressed by news that a machine is being used at St. Francis Xavier university in Antigonish to teach the students to read faster. It is a gadget called a "reader rater"; an electric motor moves a piece of covering across the page of a book at varying speeds, and the student must hurry to read what is written before the covering obscures it. University officials report that it is helping their students to read faster.

But why does anybody want to read faster? We would be happier to hear that some university is persuading its students to read more slowly and reflectively, chewing the cud of what they have read between paragraphs. Any donkey can learn to read at a break-neck pace, but it takes a wise man to read, and to know what he has read and to weigh its worth.

During the Middle Ages, those people who could read at all read slowly, and they invariably read aloud, even when alone. There is a famous story of a learned bishop who complained that he was unable to amuse himself by reading, as he had a sore throat! That is the spirit which we should try to recapture. Slow reading, and reading aloud, are useful ways of testing the worth of a piece of writing; nonsense sounds twice as silly when uttered in a clear voice; wisdom gains in impressiveness by the same treatment.

We implore St. Francis Xavier university to throw away its "reader rater." In reading it is the quality of understanding, not the number of words per minute, which makes all the difference.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Scientists say that gold has a distinct odour. Nevertheless it is rude to say that anyone is stinking rich.

"In the early days of motoring," we read, "many cars were worm-driven." There are still quite a few worms behind wheels.

Elephants and horses can sleep while standing up. Parents also acquire this useful trick during the first three months of baby's life.

Once again Ohio authorities have seized a shipment of what they call "rotten Limburger." And once again we ask how they can tell when Limburger is rotten?

A radio report mentioned a Hull man who was fined $10 for "driving a horse under the influence of liquor"; was the poor animal given the breath-test? Perhaps it merely suffers from blind staggers.

"In Place of Fear"

Testament Of Mr. Bevan

By PHILIP VERNON

MR. ANEURIN BEVAN'S political testament "In Place of Fear" published last Friday, does not make it necessary to revise one's opinion of the man. But it does help towards understanding him, and placing the right emphasis on his many and sometimes conflicting characteristics. He is fundamentally an honest thinker and cannot write or speak without revealing much of himself.

The book is not an autobiography in the ordinary sense of the term. He does not follow his life through from year to year, but he can never get far away from the memory of his past experiences. The result is that even when he is discussing abstract political questions he throws light on his own methods of thinking and his own temperament.

IN PLACE OF FEAR opens with a passage which many people will have heard many times before: "A young miner in a South Wales colliery, my concern was with the one practical question, where does power lie in this particular State of Great Britain, and how can it be attained by the worker?" He has said this so often before, and apparently has such an obsession with power, that many people will be tempted to conclude that this is the whole explanation of his political ambitions. But in fact he is a good deal more complex.

He has, it is true, a burning hatred of those who in his youth held power—particularly those with whom he came in contact and under whose rule he suffered. The mine-owners and the newspaper owners are never far from his mind.

IT DOES not matter to him that the mine-owners no longer exist and that the newspaper owners, as election after election has proved, have very limited power. They are still the symbols of the society which inflicted on him such physical and mental hurts at the beginning of this century.

This hatred of the old rulers of society prevents him from analysing objectively the society in which he now exists, and which he is attempting to reform. It makes much of his economic argument seem old-fashioned. The criticisms of the price mechanism, of the competitive society and of the profits motive all have a rather stale flavour of the 'thirties about them. He says that "private property in the main sources of production and distribution endangers political liberty", but this takes no account of the changes in political power since 1939. He says that "when in office the Conservatives reduce Parliamentary intervention in economic processes to a minimum", although since the Conservatives have returned to power they have shown no disinclination to continue the same processes of economic control which were used by the Labour Government. He says that "the philosophy of a competitive society denies to the State any but the most rudimentary functions in domestic affairs", even though it must be fifty years since any politician, industrialist or economist ever seriously advocated such extreme laissez faire views.

❖ ❖ ❖

THIS is the most interesting new sidelight on Mr. Bevan which his book provides. Here is what he obviously imagines to be a serious political thesis. Yet it shows no awareness of the changes in British political and economic life since the beginning of the last war. Few politicians can ever have lived so clearly in the past. It is not the first time that one has suspected that Mr. Bevan is the most reactionary of British political thinkers.

THE REST of the book confirms what one had already known of the man, but it is none the less interesting for that. Page after page reveals his attachment to the Parliamentary system. It is not merely that he believes it to be morally right and politically expedient, but that he feels in his bones that it is the only way of solving the problems of government. He knows also that this attachment to Parliamentary institutions is shared by the ordinary people of Britain. When describing the failure of the General Strike of 1926—the failure of the workers and their leaders to use their coersive power when it was greater than that of the State—he says: "The explanation must be sought in the subjective attitude of the people to the existence of the franchise and all that flows from it. The opportunity for power is not enough if the will to seize it is absent, and that will is attendant upon the traditional attitude of the people towards the political institutions which form part of their historical heritage".

This, he believes, (and it is a most penetrating comment) is certainly more responsible than anything else for the failure of the Communists of Great Britain to win a substantial following among the workers.

ALONGSIDE this anxiety to use and strengthen Parliamentary institutions is his suspicion that they can be used to deprive working class representatives of their revolutionary zeal. "The first essential in the pioneer of a new social order is a big bump of irreverence"—otherwise "the atmosphere of Parliament, its physical arrangements, its procedure, its semi-ecclesiastic ritual" will prevent him from preserving "the keen edge of his critical judgement", and force him to adopt "an attitude of scepticism amounting almost to cynicism, for Parliamentary procedure neglects nothing which might soften the acerbities of his class feelings."

This is at least part of the explanation of why Mr. Bevan is unrestrained in his use of argument and invective. But it is not the whole explanation. He is at root a lonely man. Again and again—more often in private than in public—he reveals his hostility to the general mass of the Labour movement. It is the great rank and file of Labour supporters, who are more interested in their football pools than in politics, and who respond most quickly to national prejudices rather than to Socialist logic, who distress him. He cannot believe that a man so intelligent and so inspired as himself must be responsible to people as stupid as he believes them to be.

HE IS SO confident in his own intellectual powers that he never questions the motives of his own reasoning—but always suspects the motives of his opponents. In the present dispute in the Labour Party over rearmament he attributes the failure of other intellectuals such as Mr. Hugh Gaitskell and Mr. John Strachey to follow his lead to their social background and upbringing. In his book he cannot resist another thrust at the intellectuals who have deserted him.

"A political party which begins to pick its personnel from unrepresentative types", he says, "is in for trouble". The representative of the people must speak with the authentic accents of those who elected him; he must share their values and be in touch with their realities. In short, it is only someone of Mr. Bevan's social background who has a right to speak for the working class, and not those who, like Mr. Strachey, went to Eton, like Mr. Gaitskell to Winchester, or like Mr. Clement Attlee to Haileybury. He never seems to realise that most of his supporters in the Labour Party at the present moment are themselves the products of the same social background as these three.

THIS self-enforced isolation from others in the Party who should be his natural allies is the greatest danger to him at the moment. Because he does not trust them he will not confide in them. Surrounded only by a group of sycophants who are not his intellectual equal, he meets no one who can challenge his ideas or suggest to him where he may be wrong. His self-confidence grows and grows, and the willingness to imagine that he may be wrong diminishes correspondingly. Opposition to his own ideas must be the opposition of either fools or knaves.

The result is that he is divorced from all new thinking which is now going on in the party. "There is one big difference", he once said, "between the Russians and the English. We are slaves to the past, and they are slaves to the future". He might almost have said it of himself, for no Englishman (or rather Welshman) has ever more surely turned his back on the future, and made himself a slave—not merely to the past in general—but to his own past.

New Concepts For Teachers

(By FRASER H. HOGLE of Port Hope High School in The Bulletin)

EDUCATION in every age and country has its own peculiar characteristics. Some of these giving cause for concern, make one wonder if something is not the matter; others giving cause for optimism, make one rejoice because of hope for the future. Present-day education in Ontario is no exception; it has both its gloomy and its optimistic side.

On the former side there are two fears facing Ontario teachers: a fear of losing the fundamentals in education and a fear of becoming Americanized.

We hear students of our secondary schools criticized for being deficient in mathematics and English. It is said that they cannot perform accurately and speedily the four fundamental operations in arithmetic; that they are unable to express themselves precisely and logically in either oral or written work; in short, that they are lacking in the essential tools that should be part of the mental equipment of any students who has attended a secondary school, one of whose aims is, presumably, the equipping of the student for life in its social and economic setting.

The other fear seems to be closely related to this first. Many critics feel that a good deal of this deficiency is due to American influence. They maintain that we are leaning heavily on ideas expressed by American authors on education, that Ontario teachers attending workshops and short courses at American universities come back with new ideas that they are too ready to foist upon our native, superior system. These methods have already failed, they point out, in American schools. Why should we borrow that which has already proved second-rate? Why should we adopt the new when it is inferior to the old?

Whether these two fears are justified or not it is not the purpose of the present article to say: that is a task for the research student who has time and inclination to examine the facts and to show us graphically what he has found. In passing I might add, however, that if the first is true—that our students are lacking in English and mathematics—it is a serious criticism and one where direct action is needed; that if one harbours the second—that we are becoming too Americanized for our own good—he must be careful not to reject something simply because it is American and without taking the trouble to see what it is that he is rejecting and why. Surely we are justified in borrowing, no matter where we find our material, provided that material can make an important contribution to our system.

But I would be a very bad psychologist, indeed, if I were to look only at the gloomy side of the educational scene. That side must be studied to get a true picture and to diagnose our educational ills as a necessary preliminary to treatment, but one must not stop there. There is cause for optimism as well.

Here, likewise, there are two significant, and perhaps compensating, trends: the Department of Education is turning over more and more power in the making of courses of study to the local teacher; and secondly, teachers are taking part in study groups as a valuable form of in-service training and as a necessary step in fitting themselves for this new and bigger task—for what I have chosen to call the new concept of the teaching profession.

This giving of power by the Department to teacher-committees, with permission to go ahead on the local level with the drafting of courses of study, is a fine compliment to Ontario teachers. It is the equivalent of saying: "We at the Department have been watching you for a long time; we have been telling you what to teach. Now we feel that you have reached the stage where you are able to do that for yourselves." That, I think, is the proper attitude of a good administrator: he is there ready to help—a sympathetic listener, a keen observer, a source of inspiration and encouragement; but at the same time he feels one of his chief duties is to provide an environment in which those under him are free, unshackled from the chains of restraint, to grow to their true professional stature.

BEFORE a teacher, however, is able to go ahead with curriculum building there is much groundwork necessary. One teacher reports being asked to sit in with a group of teachers from grades VII to X who were meeting to draw up a grammar course. At the initial meeting they thought they would run over the topics in the traditional course and assign each to a particular grade. He asked a few cautious questions. Why were they going to teach grammar: as an aid to correct English, as a help to the Latin teached in grade X, or as a good exercise in mental gymnastics in the hope that there would be a carry-over to the other subjects? If they could first decide on the reasons for teaching the subject, then they would know what topics to include. When, he asked, was a student able to do deductive reasoning of the abstract type needed for formal grammar?

Here, I think, is the place our study-groups must begin. It does little good to begin work on the curriculum before we have come to grips with some of the basic, fundamental, and every-present problems of education. I refer to the philosophy or aims of education, and the psychology or mental equipment of our students.

This, as I see it, is the broader concept of the teaching profession—no narrow, dwarfish vignette of a teacher hemmed in by texts and courses, but an ample, panoramic view of one who has found where he is going (the philosophy), what he has to work with (the psychology), and the best lever to use in getting there (the curriculum he has helped to shape).

There is one problem—a big one too—that I have not touched. How is the teacher going to find the time and energy needed to fit into this new pattern? I realize this is no small difficulty. In the future I envisage an arrangement whereby the teacher—or at least a number of them—is relieved from classroom duty for sufficient time to do this work. In the meantime I have one suggestion to offer that has worked—gathering a few days before school opening in September or spending the last few days in June to lay plans for the future. Ontario teachers have accomplished much in the past. They cannot afford to reject the broader concept.

NEED SPEED

An old lady at the Zoo was sitting on a camel, while the keeper was trying in vain to make it move. At last the old lady got off and started to pet it, but still it would not budge. Suddenly, however, it got up and went running off. The keeper turned to the old lady. "Madame," he said, "what did you do to him?"

"I only tickled his back!" she replied.

"Well," said the keeper "you'd better tickle mine. I've got to catch him!"

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And, behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself. And when esus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her. Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity. And he laid his hands on her: and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God. And the ruler of the synagogue answered with indignation, because that Jesus had healed on the sabbath day, and said unto the people, There are six days in which men ought to work: in them therefore come and be healed, and not on the sabbath day.

The Lord then answered him, and said, Thou hypocrite, doth not each one of you on the sabbath loose his ox or his ass from the stall, and lead him away to watering? And ought not this woman, being a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan hath bound, lo, these eighteen years, be loosened from this bond on the sabbath day?

And when he had said these things, all his adversaries were ashamed: and all the people rejoiced for all the glorious things that were done by him. (Luke 13: 11-17.)

Letter To The Editor

OBJECTS TO HERALD' OPINION

Sir: I read in your columns some time ago, an article reprinted from the Calgary Herald, attacking the British Social Security Services on a number of grounds, none of which impressed me very much as I experienced many of its benefits at first hand.

In Saturday's paper we had "British Socialists Earn Pin Money" an article pretending surprise that Clement Attlee should write articles for "capitalist" papers, when any well-informed person knows that Attlee is well-known as a journalist and propagandist in Britain, and that only a fool would turn down the opportunity of doing the same.

In Monday's paper we get another chortle of glee that a court decision is further embarrassing the U.K. Medical Scheme under the heading "The Doctor Bill That Really Hurt". I could not in the space of a letter begin to reply to these articles, but I am interested that this obviously rabidly anti-Labour, anti-Socialist paper should be given so much "Examiner" space. I do suggest that, in fairness, some space might be given to presenting the other side of the picture.

Yours truly,
PETER McCOMBE

ED. NOTE: The Herald says humorously what many papers have said about the readiness of socialists of high rank to take money from the press they profess to despise. The newspaper is often quoted as representing a large body of Western opinion. The other side of the picture is shown at least once a week in our Third Column.

Displeased At Psycho-Analysis

VATICAN CITY, April 9 — (Reuters)—The official bulletin of the Roman Catholic clergy said today:

"It is difficult to excuse from mortal sin anyone who used psycho-analysis as a method of cure or who submits to such a cure. The psychoanalytic method easily becomes a school of corruption."

The bulletin said psychoanalysts' teaching about sublimation caused the gravest concern. According to these teachings, it said, man's noblest sentiments—religious feeling, charity, Christian mortification—are rooted in his basest instincts.

Though the bulletin is an authoritative organ, statements in its pages cannot be considered official pronouncements of the Roman Catrolic Church, a Vatican source said.

Plan To Make Movie At Niagara Falls

TORONTO, April 9—(CP)—A mystery film, "Niagara," will be filmed at Niagara Falls this year, starring Joseph Cotten and Anne Baxter.

Travel Minister Cecile announced in the Ontario Legislature Tuesday that 20th Century-Fox will film the movie in technicolor. Operations will begin in May.

Director of the play, to be a murder melodrama with a romantic sub-plot, will be Henry Hathaway.

Five-Year Contract

OTTAWA, April 9 — (CP). — A five-year $13,000,000 contract for dredging the St. Lawrence River ship channel below Montreal was announced Tuesday. Transport Minister Chevrier said the government had in mind "the ultimate completion of the St. Lawrence deep waterway and the future of the harbor of Montreal."

Increase Rejected

LONDON, April 9 — (Reuters) —London's newspapermen Tuesday lost a claim for a 16-guinea $47 minimum weekly wage. An arbitration court ruled against the request, which would have boosted the minimum by $7.80.

Touched By Ceremony

RUTHERGLEN, April 9 (CP)—A Royal letter edged in black told children at a school here that Queen Elizabeth was "most touched" to learn of their ceremony marking the death of the King. The children had no flag pole on which to fly the Union Jack at half-staff. Four boys cut down a tree and set it up as a flag pole. Then 25 pupils stood in 22-below-zero weather and sang "God Save the Queen." Rutherglen is 15 milts east of North Bay.

Famous Chef Dies In Toronto

TORONTO, April 9 — (CP) — Claude Boujard, 69, one of Canada's best-known chefs, died Tuesday.

He died without knowing that he had been created a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor by France in recognition of his service to the French community in Canada and his culinary achievements.

In April, 1951, he prepared the dinner given at Ottawa to President Vincent Auriol of France.

During the Duke of Windsor's tour of Canada as Prince of Wales Mr. Boujard travelled as chief chef on the royal train.

He had been chef-steward at the King Edward Hotel since 1918 and was supervising chef for the Sheraton chain of hotels in Canada.

His specialty in Toronto was onion soup.

Finding No End In Austria To Censorship

By HUBERT HARRISON

VIENNA, April 9—(Reuters) — Austria is a country where the censors censor the censors who censor the censors.

The repeat censorship is one of Russia's much-touted inventions.

The first censorship system was set up following the last war by the four occupying powers—Britain, the United States, France and Russia—"at Russia's suggestion and was dubbed "Austrian censorship."

The Austrians, after much complaining that it wasn't their censorship, got the name changed early this year to "Allied censorship."

The Austrians, however, continued to call it "Russian censorship," because it has been continued in recent years at Russian insistence even though the other Allies would like to abolish it.

But this censorship over mail, telephone calls and telegrams which the Austrians object to paying for even though they must include appropriations for it in their budget is not the real "Russian censorship."

That comes next.

Some 200 Austrian Communists working under Russian control are engaged in a private Russian censorship which censors the work of the "allied censorship."

There still is another and even more secret Russian organization which censors the Russian censorship which censors the Allied censorship.

The whole system of checks by means of dictaphones makes sure that the censors are doing their job correctly and keeps close watch over their conversations and correspondence.

Still another and more secret department checks on them. In fact one is reminded of the old jingle: "Big fleas have little fleas upon their backs to bite them. And little fleas have lesser fleas and so ad infinitum."

Even when someone in Bregenz, on the extreme western frontiers of Austria, wants to say "How do you do" to a friend just over the frontier at Lindua seven miles away the call has to be made via the censorship office in Vienna—which causes endless delays and makes trade relations difficult.

The special "Russian censorship" works on its own, and is supposed to be a great secret. But if you get a letter from abroad or from another province of Austria which bears a censorship stamp with a number over 1,000 then you know that it has been opened by the Russian censors.

In addition to censoring the mail, these Russian controlled censors have a special motorized service of telephone censors with special instruments which enable them to tour the Russian zone and listen in unknown to telephone conversations.

Every foreign embassy and legation is closely controlled in this way as well as all foreign correspondents and the leaders of the Austrian parties, including the Communist party.

B-A HEAVY DUTY Detergent MOTOR OIL washes your motor while you drive!

Here's more proof that Peerless Heavy Duty Detergent Motor Oil washes your motor while you drive. For example, examine the clean, varnish and sludge-free pistons and rings of a car that's been using Peerless Heavy Duty Motor Oil . . . and then compare them with the dirty, lacquered piston skirts and sludge-fouled rings of a car using a non-detergent oil. The detergents in Peerless Heavy Duty Oil keep all sludge, varnish, carbon and impurities in harmless suspension throughout the oil. These materials that are held in suspension are removed from the engine when the oil is changed. It can never cake and cause scoring, pitting or corrosion. It keeps a tight piston-seal at all times, giving you the greatest amount of power from your engine. And by keeping your high-compression motor clean Peerless Heavy Duty Oil cuts down maintenance costs, gives longer engine life. For more proof—try it yourself in your own car.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

The Petes of Peter's borough are off tonight for Stouffville and the sixth game of their senior "B" quarter-finals. They must win this one or hang 'em up for the season. If they take it, the deciding joust will be here Friday night. Series survivor goes against Toronto Lyndhurst in provincial semi-finals, with a Western Ontario team the ultimate goal for the Ontario title. No doubt, a raft of local puck fans will trek to Stouffville this e'en to see the continuation of a red hot series. It's an 8:30 game there, so don't arrive too late to grab a spot. The team pulls out at 5:30 and will have about an hour to change attire, rest a bit and have a pre-game warmup.

* * * * * *

They would have put at least 3,000 paid fans into Civic Arena on Monday p.m. if the place would hold that many. As it was, some 2,600 jammed in there, and many were turned away. One of the best hockey crowds ever in this city. You couldn't get that many into the old Brock, even in the titular senior days of Bailey, et al. But they tried hard and sardined some hefty crowds in at times. Used to be a pre-game lineup from the rink doors out Brock and down George as far as Hunter St. sometimes. And remember some of those train excursions for out-of-town games, boyoboyoboy! Yeah, puck-fever breaks out here in quite a rash during spring playoff time.

Open to Puck Racers

Red Creighton and his hockey-playing senior lacrossers will strut their stuff against No. 18 Div. provincial police in a hockey game in the arena at 8:30 this Thursday night. Not Saturday. Between periods, Dit Clapper will start the hockeyists' annual open race for the Max Swanston Trophy and a money prize. Also a 15-minute exhibition of lacrosse on skates by members of the Mann Cup champs, the Petes' Timbermen. It's the P.M.H.A. night, proceeds going to aid minor hockey here. The police have a potent pack from all around Central Ontario. The Timbermen have such aces as Moon Wootton, Nit O'Hearn, Bob Thorpe, Ike Hildebrand, Don Ashbee, Curly Mason, Ross Powless, Arn Dugan, Dootch Vitarelli, Creighton, Mick Magee, Russ Slater, Gary Robinson, Rock Batley, Joe Whitnell and others. Should be a large evening for the fans.

* * * * * *

Speaking of lacrosse, most of the puck-playing wanderers are back here again. Fred Hildebrand, Ike's brother—with New Westminster last season—wants to come here to play. All of last year's champs, with the possible exception of Jerry Fitzgerald, will be back. Also four ex-juniors will try-out with Timbermen, so the locals will be plenty strong again. Fitz may be here, too, though he has signed to play football for the Ti-Cats of Hamilton, and they start drilling the middle of July. Looks like an eight-team senior setup, with Owen Sound in again, and the schedule will be drawn up shortly. Annual O.L.A. meeting is in Toronto on April 19.

Hi Lee Gets the Bench

It's getting to be a habit for mat fans at the Brock Arena to pick up furniture and toss it at the villains when the latter win the main bout in tag team bouts. Anyway, Hi Lee and Hans Hermann had to run for it last p.m. after getting a doubtful decision o'er Lu Kimm and Zorra. They teamed up illegally on Kimm while Ref Bert Maxwell was jawing at Zorra in the other corner, and that's what burned up the customers. They rammed Lee with a bench, while Hans broke a stool and toted it hurriedly upstairs for protection en route. A wild finish again, something like the previous week here. Bockwinkle and Brazil drew in the semi-final, while Aztec beat Mayslack in the opener.

Montreal Canadiens came through before a hefty home crowd last evening with their 3-1 win o'er Bruins to qualify for Stanley Cup finals. Pre-series dope figured the Habs to win but the scrappy Bostons forced them right to the wire in the seventh game ere bowing out. Canadiens are liable to be pretty tired as they move in against the powerful and rested Red Wings of Detroit in the cup series. Maurice Richard scored the winning goal last night to send those excitable French-Canadian fans home happy, the last goal being anti-climatic as well as anti-empty net. We like Wings for the silver mug, but it might be a keen series.

Provincial Police Ice Strong Squad

Provincial police of this district have been icing a strong squad for exhibition hockey games whenever permission is received to play. Such permission has been granted for the O.P.P. to perform here Thursday night against the local lacrossers to raise funds for the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association.

Those police from Peterborough include: Jim Healey, Roy Feeley, Bert Howden, and Emmett Crough. Lindsay's contributions are Bob Lamb and Wally Gregg. Ray Lawson hails from Reaboro. From Colborne comes Stan Judson, while George Louth is from Georgetown. Ray Pope is a Tranta native, Wallace Mohns calls Petawawa home, Tom Armitage is from Maple, Harold Armstrong from London, and Arch Eady comes from Cobden.

Several of them have played first-class organized hockey, and all have puck experience in various degrees. Big Bert Howden recently led Apsley Aces to their northern rural league championship over Young's Point.

LONG CAREER

Edwin Forrest, the American tragedian who was also famous in England, was on the stage for 51 years before his death in 1872.

Fort William Defeats Pats 3-1

FORT WILLIAM, April 9 (CP) — Way back last winter, Spud Russell, chief scout for Montreal Canadiens in the National Hockey League, picked Regina Pats to take the Western Canada Memorial Cup final.

The underrated Fort William Hurricanes, the other half of the final, are out to prove that he's wrong.

The heros trounced Pats 3 - 1 Tuesday night in the first game of their best-of-seven series before 5,600 roaring fans.

It's been 27 years since Fort William has had an entry in the Western Canada final and they intend to make the most of it.

Don Poile was big man for Hurricanes, scoring two goals and assisting on another by Alex Irving.

Eddie Litzenberger notched the lone Regina marker on a blue-line pass from Gordie Cowan.

All three Fort William goals were scored when Pats were shorthanded.

Weston Downs Hawks 5-2 To Take Lead

BELLEVILLE, April 9 (CP):— Weston Dukes scored a 5-2 victory over Belleville Hawks here on Tuesday night to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Junior B semi-finals.

The teams meet again Thursday night in Weston with the series survivors moving against either Waterloo Hurricanes or Hamilton Acrovox.

The Dukes were the better team over the three periods of play, and although tied 1-1 at the end of the first stanza, took a 2-1 lead in the middle session before going on to their 5-2 final.

Hold Hockey Dinner

YOUNG'S POINT, April 9 — (ENS) — Young's Point men's hockey team held their annual banquet Saturday night at Thelgar Lodge with about 45 in attendance.

At the close of the meal, short speeches given by the players, coach and manager summed up the season's activities. Mr. Charles Russelle, on behalf of the hockey team, presented gifts to Mr. and Mrs. Jones in appreciation for the use of their home for the evening, and their efforts to help the team throughout the season. Mr. Jones was manager of the team.

MAKING COME-BACK — Irene Strong, of Vancouver, one of Canada's top swimmers, has announced that her year-long retirement is at an end and she will try for a place on Canada's 1952 Olympic swimming team.

THE MAN AND HIS SHADOWS—Stan Musial's celebrated batting stance, left, which reminds rivals of a man looking over his shoulder, is being widely copied by other major league hitters. Yankee Outfielder Gene Woodling, centre, strikingly resembles The Man. Bobby Thomson of the Giants is a right-hand batter trying it the Cardinal star's way, feet close together, knees bent and shoulders hunched.

C.G.E. Lasses and Y-Knots Capture Cage Crowns To Conclude Hoop Season

City championships fell to the C.G.E. lasses in the Y.W.C.A. league Tuesday and to the Y-Knots in the boys' league at the Y.M.C.A. as basketball for the district came to a close for the season in Peterborough. The factory girls ground out another decisive win, 25-10, over the Normal School in the Y.W.C.A. gym to easily capture the girls' city junior championship. C.G.E. won the first game on Friday night doubling the score on the Normal quintette 32-16. Therefore they won the championship round, 57-26.

The C.G.E. cagers wrapped up the title in the first half of the cleanly-played contest. Barbara Luther, Dot Jackson, J. Luther, Pat Nixon, M. Waye and Marg Batley all jumped into the first half scoring as C.G.E. went ahead 19-6.

In a low-scoring second half C.G.E. still held a slim two-point lead, 6-4, on the strength of baskets by Barb Luther and Dot Jackson.

The game's scoring honors were divided three ways as the C.G.E.'s Barb Luther, Dot Jackson and the Normals' Betty Orsborn scored eight points each.

Second Crown

For Y-Knots the city title is their second in two years, both easy conquests, ending in undefeated strings.

The Knots' undefeated row came close to a sudden-death ending in the final championship game Tuesday at the Y.M.C.A. gym. The Penguins surpassed all previous season's efforts and made the Knots work up to the final whistle.

In fact the Knots had to come from behind to take the win and the title.

Canning led the birds in the first quarter with a seven-point scoring effort as they jumped ahead 10-7 on the Knots. This tall player continued to hit the basket regularly in the second quarter with the result that the birds were still ahead at the half 23-19.

At this point Jamieson came to life for Y-Knots and before he cooled had scored nine points of the Y-Knots' 12 in the third quarter. That spree helped Knots take a one-point 31-30 score at the three-quarter.

Up to this time only two players, Motta of the Penguins and Stewart of the Y-Knots, had been banned from the game with five personal fouls.

But the players started to leave quickly with fouls in the fourth, resulting in each team finishing with four players on the floor and the Y-Knots squeezing the victory.

Bogue cut the Penguins' staff to four early in the fourth when the birds were leading 41-37. Then the Y-Knots went ahead 43-41 when they lost Corner with five fouls. Jamieson left shortly to cut the Y-Knots' player strength to four.

During the last two minutes, each team playing four players, play see-sawed back and forth until Batchelor finally sank the winning basket with seconds to go.

Canning easily held the Penguins in the game with one of the season's best scoring marks, 30 points, all evenly distributed throughout the game. The closest marksmen were Y-Knots, Jamieson with 11, Batchelor with nine. Butcher, Stewart and Harwood with seven each.

Summary:

Y.M.C.A. City Final

Y-Knots (47) — Batchelor 9, Butcher 7, Stewart 7, Jamieson 11, Harwood 7, Fowler 2, Corner 4.

Penguins (44)—Motta 2, Bogue 4, Canning 30, Hurle 2, Outram 5, English 1.

Y.W.C.A. Junior Girls' Final

C.G.E. (25)—B. Luther 8, D. Jackson 8, J. Luther 2, Nixon 2, Waye 2, Jones, Batley 3.

Normals (10)—Orsborn 8, Merrett, Faircloth, Todd 1, Scollard 1, McCullough, Jeremey.

Montreal Maroons defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 4-1 at Montreal 17 years ago tonight, winning the Stanley Cup in three straight. The Montrealers had previously scored 3-2 and 3-1 victories. The Maroons retired from National Hockey League competition after the 1937-38 season.

Hornets Clip Providence 4-2

PITTSBURGH, April 9 (AP)— Pittsburgh Hornets exploded for three goals in the final period Tuesday night to beat Providence Reds 4-2 in the opening game of their best-of-seven series for the American Hockey League's Calder Cup.

The game was a tight defensive battle all the way until the third period. Only seven penalties were called.

Rudy Migay scored the first goal for Pittsburgh after seven minutes and 48 seconds of the first period and the teams battled until 3:13 of the third stanza before Ray Hannigan made it 2-0 for Pittsburgh.

Paul Gladu scored the Providence goal at 8:19 of the third period.

That goal only served to fire the Hornets, Andy Barbe and Bill Ezinicki tallying two insurance goals quickly.

J. Castle Rolls High

J. Castle rolled high three of 761 this week in the Girls' City Bowling League and she tied with M. Knights with 293 for the best single. Cardinals topped teams in pinnage with 3279, including high game of 1202. Betty Castle's 487 took the blind score of 496. Arcos blanked Dickson's, while 2-1 victories went to Marines over Bassel's, Collis over Sevenaires, Cardinals against Black's, and Curtin's over Aces.

Good singles included: J. Snape 290, A. Dixon 288, B. Morrow 272 and 255, J. Pope 254, A. Anderson 254, M. Cunningham 253, L. Vincent 253 and R. Pearse 252. Neat triples were: M. Knights 721, L. Vincent 705, A. Anderson 701, J. Snape 698, B. Morrow 681, M. Hawthorne 669, and M. Cunningham 649.

Lee and Hermann Get Win Over Zorra and Lu As Fans Chase the Villains

Once again, angry wrestling fans at the Brock Arena last night chased the villainous pair after the main bout to their dressing room as police and other grapplers tried to save Hi Lee and Hans Hermann. Lee was crashed with a bench by a flock of irate customers, while Hans escaped flourishing a broken stool for protection.

The crowd was burned up at illegal tactics used by Lee and Hans in their corner on Lu Kimm just before Kimm was pinned for the deciding fall in seven minutes. Referee Bert Maxwell was too busy at the time keeping Zorra from coming to Kimm's aid to see what was going on.

Hermann used his "Prussian Squeeze" to down Kimm, but he and the shaggy-maned Lee had given Lu the works in their corner with chokes, punches and knees to the stomach, as Zorra kept trying to come to his aid and Maxwell kept arguing with the angry Frenchman over in the other corner. After the fall, Zorra tore into the ring and bashed the villains about plenty and then chased them into the crowd. The fans took up the pursuit as police tried to keep order, and several prelim wrestlers rushed in to restore peace, too. A bench smashed into Lee and he and Hans finally got upstairs, but Zorra and Kimm pursued them there, and it took several other wrestlers to halt a free-for-all at the door of their dressing room.

Zorra Took It

Zorra had taken the second fall in six minutes with a violent airplane spin on Lee, after the Frenchman and the Manchurian in turn had worked on Hi in quick turn on their side of the ring. Hans didn't get into the action this time at all. Zorra used his speed and feet to advantage, while Lu worked his "Manchurian Clutch"—a full nelson with head pressed into shoulders for added leverage. Lee did plenty of growling and tossing of his mane but was well beaten, and the fans were happy over it. With Kimm scaling 281 and Zorra 232, the other pair were Lee 292 and Hans 276, and Maxwell goes 280, to make nearly half a ton of beef in the ring at once.

Lee downed Kimm in 19 minutes for the first fall with several tosses into the ring turnbuckles after he and the big German in turn had roughed the strong but slow Manchurian up. They teamed up in their corner on him and earlier on Zorra as Referee Maxwell was slow in breaking them and missed a lot as well. There was plenty of wide-open action and rough stuff, but not much scientific wrestling shown, and the fans booed the pair of Lee and Hans plenty from the start.

Goes To Draw

Bobo Brazil, weighing 247, and the 246-pound Warren Bockwinkle went to a draw in the semi-final. It was a remarkably clean bout, only rough for about a minute near the close. They showed much mat work with the odd bit of open stuff like tackles off the ropes. Both were speedy and ring-wise, with Bobo a little more popular, but both drew a good hand at the clean finish. Warren sounded like a boiling kettle as he snorted his way loudly through the tussle, at times making more noise than the customers.

Charro Aztec, a newcomer from New Mexico, and scaling 224, won the prelim in 22 minutes over the 243-pound and rough Stan Mayslack with a spread after a series of flying tackles. Mayslack used all sorts of illegal stuff once again and talked loudly throughout as he argued with referee and fans. Aztec specialized in leverage grips and he was fast. Stan escaped several times under the ropes but was pulled back twice over the top strand in lively going. The fans were happy when the New Mexican took the fall.

Puckists To Race For Swanston Cup

The annual skating race for local and district hockey players will be staged after the first period of the exhibition hockey game in Civic Arena tomorrow night. The game is between the provincial police and the lacrossers, proceeds going to aid minor hockey in Peterborough. The game starts at 8:30, so the skating race should get underway by nine. It is open to city and district players of O.H.A., T.V.L. and E.P.H.L. calibre, with a cash prize for the winner as well as the Max Swanston Trophy. It was won last year by Drake Jopling and the previous winter by Bill McMaster.

Every hockey season finds a lot of arguments developing among followers of junior and senior puck squads as the fastest skating players around here. Many argue Keith Montgomery, Toodie Greenlaw or Bill Crowley are the fastest with the Eagles. Petes' fans point to Arn Dugan, Jake Wade and a few more. The Oddfellows have their backers, also, and so have many of the speedier puckists in district circuits. A number of these fast steppers—and others not mentioned here—will flash their speed in this annual trophy race Thursday night in the arena.

Montreal-Detroit In Finals As Canadiens Edge Bruins 3-1 In Colorful Duel

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL, April 9. (CP)—The incomparable Maurice (Rocket) Richard, his face blood-smeared from a six-stitch smash over his eye, came up with a spectacular goal Tuesday night and sent Montreal Canadiens into the Stanley Cup hockey final. Canadiens now meet Detroit Red Wings in the best-of-seven Cup final with the first two games in Montreal Thursday and Saturday nights. The record books will tell only that Canadiens beat Boston Bruins 3-1 in the seventh and deciding game of the Cup semi-final; that Eddie Mazur of Canadiens and Ed Sandford of the Bruins scored in the first period; that Richard broke the tie at 16:19 of the last period and Billy Reay fired into the open net, with the Boston goalie out of the game, 34 seconds from the end.

The record books lose all the drama that was packed into 60 minutes of a desperately-fought, bruising, solid body-checking game.

The crowd of 14,598 jammed in the Montreal forum waited tensely as the minutes dragged on for the one big goal.

Supplies Break

And Richard supplied the break with all the color and flair that has marked his 10-year hockey career.

Earlier in the game—in the second period—Richard and Leo Labine of the Bruins met head on. Labine's stick caught Richard in the face and Richard sailed into the air and fell to the ice, out cold.

When he revived he was helped to the Forum clinic, blood running from the deep cup over his left eye and from a sharp scrape across his cheek bone.

The cut was sewed up and Richard returned to the Montreal bench shortly before the second period ended. He was still groggy and bewildered. He asked what the score was—with the scoreboard still flashing 1-1.

The break was a long time coming, but Richard, ever an opportunist, snatched at it.

Teams Shorthanded

Both teams were shorthanded. Billy Reay of Canadiens and Hal Laycoe of Bruins were sitting out major penalties, each bleeding from a sudden high-sticking duel. Deep in the Montreal zone, Woody Dumart, Bruin veteran winger, was stopped on a rush. Defenceman Butch Bouchard sent a short pass to Richard.

The Rocket was off in a flash. Ed Sandford cut over sharply from left wing but couldn't intercept him.

Richard headed straight for the Boston defence of Bill Quackenbush and Bob Armstrong. He took Quackenbush's side, swung to the right and cut back sharply. Before Quackenbush could reach him, Richard whirled and rifled a low shot. The puck whistled into the corner of the net, barely clipping goalie Jim Henry's leg pad.

New Attacks

The goal sent the Bruins into a new frenzy of attacks, but the Canadiens threw up a solid defence, with help from goalie Gerry McNeil.

In the last minute, coach Lynn Patrick pulled Henry from the net and had six Bruins driving ahead in a last gamble for a goal. From a mass of players the puck came to Billy Reay, who took his time with a shot from the blue line.

After the game Patrick had no alibis. He said it was a well-played game, gave full credit to Richard for the Rocket's sensational goal and then shook the hands of his players for their work in the series.

Coach Dick Irvin said "Only Richard could score a goal like that."

Livingstons Trip Grads In 70-56 Win

TILLSONBURG, April 9 (CP)—A small-town basketball team set its sights on the Dominion title today.

Tillsonburg Livingstons, their hometown arena packed with more than half the 5,000 population of this western Ontario town looked like champions Tuesday night as they drubbed Winnipeg Varsity Grads 70-56.

That wiped out a Monday night defeat and evened off the best-of-five series for the Dominion men's senior crown at a game apiece, with another capacity crowd expected for tonight's third game.

The Ontario squad didn't look back after taking a 20-16 lead in the opening quarter. They led 34-31 at the half and opened the margin to 51-43 by three-quarter time. A continued drive through the closing minutes game them their handy victory.

Plagued by the loss of fouls, the Livingstons had but one spare on the bench at the final whistle. They lost Red Curran, Tommy Gibbons, Bob Phibbs and Paul Thomas in the hectic closing half, but had ace-in-the-hole Bill Coulthard to fill the gap. He potted seven points for them in the closing quarter.

Referees Barry Lowes of Toronto and Kitch McPherson of Hamilton called everything over the whole 60 minutes. Tillsonburg drew 27 fouls and Winnipeg 26. Most of the winners' personals came in the final period.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The light shone again today on New York Giants' pennant hopes.

Slugger Bob Elliott, Boston Braves' holdout third baseman who once played outfield for Toronto Maple Leafs, was acquired Tuesday in a deal involving cash and Giants' pitcher Sheldon Jones.

The Braves had wanted Elliott who helped them to their 1948 pennant, to take a salary cut from his estimated $30,000. He refused.

So Tuesday the Giants announced at New York they had picked up Elliott to replace the injured Monte Irvin for Jones and an estimated $50,000. Big Bob probably will play left field, a position he once played for Pittsburgh Pirates.

Elliott batted .285 for Boston last year while Jones was a big disappointment to the Giants, winning six and losing 11 games.

Wilmer The Great Fields, a star with Brantford Red Sox of the Intercounty Baseball League last year, has officially come to terms with Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League, owner Jack Kent Cooke announced in Toronto Tuesday. Fields had failed to report after his acceptance of terms several times.

The Edmonton Boxing Commission has imposed an indefinite suspension on Billy Haines of Toronto, manager of lightweight boxer, Solly Cantor. Haines is barred from managing fighters or engaging in promotion at Edmonton until he makes satisfactory settlement of commitments there.

Johnny Bright, outstanding Drake University halfback, who has signed for a reported $14,000 to play next fall with Calgary Stampeders in the Western Interprovincial Football Conference, dislocated his shoulder Tuesday during spring practice at Des Moines, Iowa. Bright holds the all-time U.S. college offence record—5,903 yards in three years.

Decide Not To Bar US Jockeys In Ontario

TORONTO, April 9 (CP). — The Ontario Racing Commission ruled today that United States jockeys will not be barred from Ontario tracks unless there is a heavy influx of riders from south of the border.

The Commission recently received protests from Canadian jockeys, through their Guild, against riders coming here and riding for other than Canadian owners who contract them to ride for their stables. However, the O.R.C. felt all riders have a right to appear on Ontario tracks as long as they are in good standing in the United States.

Favorable Mention For Bethany Girls' Club

BETHANY, April 9—(ENS)—At the Durham County Achievement Day for Junior Homemaking Clubs held in Orono on Saturday, the entry of the Bethany "Glad I Canners," which is sponsored by the local branch of the Women's Institute, received favorable comment. Their exhibit, "Seven ways to serve Canadian apples," was most attractive.

Miss Janet Bigelow represented the club and gave a brief talk on their work of learning to make nutritional supper dishes and explained their exhibit. Each girl had to make on entry of tea biscuits, which were judged for appearance and texture; also to make out a balanced menu for breakfast, dinner and supper, according to proper nutritional standards.

Their exhibit was chosen to represent the county clubs and will be displayed at the district annual meeting to be held in Elizabethville in May. Members of the club who attended the Achievement Day were Misses Marie Finney, Alva Bidgood, Janet Bigelow, Eleanor Rowan and Grace Bigelow. They were accompanied by two of the club instructors, Mrs. Clarence Page and Mrs. H. L. Challice, also Mrs. Frank Bigelow and Mrs. Arnold Bidgood.

Norwood Council Trade Board Seeking Industry

NORWOOD, April 9 (ENS). — The municipal council of the village of Norwood met on April 7 with Reeve Rork S. Ferguson in the chair and all members present.

It was moved that the accounts be paid except that for rink insurance which is to be investigated for possibility of obtaining a lower rate.

A request was received for council and the Board of Trade to hold a joint meeting, open to the public, to consider making some special effort to obtain some type of industry for the village. It was moved by Councillor Webb and seconded by Councillor Begg that the matter of arranging a more satisfactory date be left in the hands of Councillors Nixon and Parker.

The clerk reported that W. E. Pakenham had tendered his resignation from the cemetery board. It was then moved that Mr. Fred Patterson be appointed to that board.

William B. Parcels who has been village constable since 1941 then tendered his resignation, due to poor health, the same to take effect not later than April 30.

It was moved by Councillor Parker, seconded by Councillor Webb, that Mr. Parcel's resignation be accepted with deep regret and that the clerk be instructed to advertise at once for applications to fill the vacancy.

Council expressed the hope that Mr. Parcel's health would improve until recovery was complete.

It was moved that the clerk be authorized to advertise in one or two foreign papers for prospective industries seeking suitable locations in this section of Ontario.

Reeve To Give Clean-up Prize

CAMPBELLFORD, April 9 — (ENS)—Campbellford is going to have a clean-up week this year, and it's going to be the week of May 4 to 10. The town is putting on a drive to try to clean up a number of rather dingy-looking properties within the corporation.

To give residents an incentive to do this, Reeve Ralph J. Locke is donating a prize to the property owner who does the best job. The property committee of the council will be the judge.

A suggestion from Councillor Douglas Maybee that in view of the fact Reeve Locke was donating the prize, he thought the amount should be $500 to give the citizens the necessary incentive. Reeve Locke, however, said he did not think local individuals needed that much incentive to clean up their property and said he would announce the prize later.

Campbellford's lady councillor, Mrs. Isobel Tatham, went into an explanation of the astronomical aspects of the weather, and said that according to the phases of the moon, she thought clean-up week should be held a little later in the month, but as council wanted to get the job rolling, they decided to hold the week May 4 to 10.

ABBOTT OFFERS HOPE OF TAX IMPROVEMENT AFTER NEXT 2 YEARS

Heavy Defence Spending Must Continue For Some Time

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, April 9 (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott last night predicted in his budget speech that within a couple of years it may be possible to reduce heavy defence expenditures.

Describing 1951 as a year of "solid achievement," Mr. Abbott said:

"We have passed through one critical period, but equally serious dangers still lie ahead. Although we and our friends of the free world now are somewhat better prepared to meet them, there is no room for complacency. We will have the more costly part of our defence program immediately ahead of us.

"However, if we are equally resolute, energetic and fortunate during this year and the next, there is good prospect of achieving in the not too distant future, perhaps not a world of genuine peace and goodwill, but at least a position of reasonable confidence and security that can be maintained at a somewhat lower cost than we now are compelled to carry."

The Canadian government initiated a $5,000,000,000-three-year defence program last year. It spent $1,401,000,000 on defence in the fiscal year ended March 31 last and estimates it will spend $2,106,000,000 in the current fiscal year.

Earlier Statement

In the fiscal portion of his speech—a portion preceding another covering tax changes—Mr. Abbott dealt mainly with points covered in an economic white paper, tabled Monday in the commons.

Ordinarily the white paper, which disclosed a surpuls of $355,737,000 for 1951-52, is tabled during the budget speech. Mr. Abbott had forecast a surplus of $30,000,000 for the fiscal year ended March 31. The surplus in 1950-51 was $211,294,000.

Referring to the steps taken by the government to control inflation, Mr. Abbott said consumer credit restrictions have played an "important part" in reducing pressures and in improving savings.

"These regulations were admittedly severe, but the inflationary pressures were such that strong measures were needed," he said. "As these pressures eased we were able to relax the regulations to some extent."

Then indicating that no immediate relaxation is in prospect, he added:

"I keep these matters under frequent review, and as soon as it seems sensible to do so we shall relax them again."

Deferred depreciation regulations contained in the last budget restrained a good deal of non-esssential capital investment. The regulations delayed for four years the write-off of depreciation on non-essential capital investments.

No Changes In Principle

"No changes in the principle of these regulations are presently contemplated," he said, "but I can assure the house that we do not like regulations of this sort and that we shall be most happy to modify or withdraw them when the proper time comes."

He appealed to Canadians to keep up in 1952 the good record of personal savings they made in 1951. The savings climbed to approximately $1,400,000,000 in 1951 from $700,000,000 in 1950.

Official holdings of gold and United States dollars had shown little change in the last three months.

At March 31 they totalled $1,787,000,000, or $8,000,000 more than at Dec. 31, and $134,000,000 more than a year ago. Between January and August last year the reserves dropped by approximately $180,000,000. In the remaining four months of the year they went up approximately $200,000,000 and since then they have shown little variation from week to week.

High Levels To Continue

Present prospects for 1952 are for continued high levels of employment and business activity, but with some uneveness in their distribution."

Some lines and some regions "may experience demands that will fully or more than fully tax" their available resources. Other lines and other regions may find their resources less fully employed.

Prices in 1952 probably will be unchanged to two per cent higher than last year. The value of gross national production may reach $22,500,000,000 compared with $21,200,000,000.

Turning to government accounts, Mr. Abbott said Progressive-Conservative members have charged him with bad budgetting. He had forecast a surplus of only $30,000,000 for the year and ended it with one of approximately $356,000,000.

"Let me say quite plainly that so long as we have such years of rising prosperity as we have experienced while I have been minister of finance I am not going to apologize for having a surplus and making some reductions in the dead-weight of our huge national debt."

"No minister of finance, provincial treasurer or any head of national treasury with anything like comparable tasks has made as consistently good a record of forecasting of revenue and expenditures as has the Canadian minister of finance in the past five years."

Comparison Of Tax Rates

Complete Income Tax Resolution Text

OTTAWA, April 9 (CP)—Text of income-tax resolution contained in Finance Minister Abbott's budget:

Resolved that it is expedient to introduce a measure to amend the Income Tax Act and to provide, among other things:

1. That for the 1953 and subsequent taxation years there be substituted for the graduated rates of tax and the defense surtax that are at present applicable to the income of individuals, the following rates of tax:

A. 17 per cent of the amount taxable if the amount taxable does not exceed $1,000.

B. $170 plus 19 per cent of the amount by which the amount taxable exceeds $1,000 if the amount exceeds $1,000 and does not exceed $2,000.

C. $360 plus 22 per cent of the amount by which the amount taxable exceeds $2,000 if the amount taxable exceeds $2,000 and does not exceed $4,000.

D. $800 plus 25 per cent of the amount by which the amount taxable exceeds $4,000 if the amount taxable exceeds $4,000 and does not exceed $6,000.

E. $1,300 plus 30 per cent of the amount by which the amount taxable exceeds $6,000 if the amount taxable exceeds $6,000 and does not exceed $8,000.

F. $1,900 plus 35 per cent of the amount by which the amount taxable exceeds $8,000 if the amount taxable exceeds $8,000 and does not exceed $10,000.

G. $2,600 plus 40 per cent of the amount by which the amount taxable exceeds $10,000 if the amount taxable exceeds $10,000 and does not exceed $12,000.

H. $3,400 plus 45 per cent of the amount by which the amount taxable exceeds $12,000 if the amount taxable exceeds $12,000 and does not exceed $15,000.

I. $4,750 plus 50 per cent of the amount by which the amount taxable exceeds $15,000 if the amount taxable exceeds $15,000 and does not exceed $25,000.

J. $9,750 plus 55 per cent of the amount by which the amount taxable exceeds $25,000 if the amount taxable exceeds $25,000 and does not exceed $35,000.

K. $15,250 plus 60 per cent of the amount by which the amount taxable exceeds $35,000 if the amount taxable exceeds $35,000 and does not exceed $50,000.

L. $24,250 plus 65 per cent of the amount by which the amount taxable exceeds $50,000 if the amount taxable exceeds $50,000 and does not exceed $75,000.

M. $40,000 plus 70 per cent of the amount by which the amount taxable exceeds $75,000 if the amount taxable exceeds $75,000 and does not exceed $100,000.

N. $58,000 plus 75 per cent of the amount by which the amount taxable exceeds $100,000 if the amount taxablye exceeds $100,000 and does not exceed $150,000.

O. $95,000 plus 80 per cent of the amount by which the amount taxable exceeds $150,000 if the amount taxable exceeds $150,000 and does not exceed $250,000.

P. $175,500 plus 86 per cent of the amount by which the amount taxable exceeds $250,000 if the amount taxable exceeds $250,000.

2. That for the 1952 taxation year the graduate rates of tax applicable to income of individuals be the average of the present rates including defence surtax and the rates set out in paragraph 1.

3. That with respect to income of corporations earned on and after Jan. 1, 1952, the present rate of tax shall be increased from 15 per cent to 20 per cent on the first $10,000 of taxable income and from 38 per cent to 50 per cent on taxable income in excess of $10,000, and that the defence surtax be repealed.

4. That there may be deducted from the amount of income tax otherwise payable by a corporation for a taxation year in respect of income earned on and after Jan. 1, 1952.

A. The amount of income tax payable to the government of a province for that taxation year in respect of income earned on and after Jan. 1, 1952, as a result of its operations in that province, or

B. Five per cent of the taxable income of the corporatfon of that taxation year under the Income Tax Act that is earned on and after Jan. 1, 1952 as a result of its operations in that province, whichever is less.

5. That for the 1952 and subsequent taxation years the maximum amount in respect of medical expenses that may be deducted in computing taxable income be increased

A. to $2,000 in the case of a person who may at present deduct a maximum of $1,000,

B. To $1,500 in the case of a person who may at present deduct a maximum of $750, and

C. To $500 for each dependent in respect of whom a maximum of $250 may at present be deducted,

Subject to a maximum deduction of $2,000 by a husband and wife between them or by a person in respect of all his dependents; and that there be included in the medical expenses that may be deducted in computing taxable income those medical expenses that at present are not included by reason only that they were not incurred in the appropriate 12-month period in which they were paid.

6. That crown corporations that are classed as proprietary corporations in the Financial Administration Act shall pay tax on income earned on and after Jan. 1, 1952.

7. That the special deduction from income to a taxpayer whose principal business is the production, refining or marketing of petroleum or petroleum products or the exploring or drilling for oil or natural gas or mining or exploring for minerals, be allowed for expenses incurred in the 1955 operations on the same basis as for the expenses incurred in the operations in the years 1951 to 1954.

8. That the special deduction from income and taxes of a taxpayer whose principal business is production, refining or marketing of petroleum or drilling for petroleum be allowed for expenses incurred in respect of deep-test oil wells in 1953 operations on the same basis as for similar expenses in operations of the years 1950 to 1952.

9. That the exemption of the income from a metalliferous or industrial mineral mine for the first three years of production now applicable to mines coming into production during the years 1946 to 1954 be extended to mines coming into production during the year 1955.

10. That a corporation resident in Canada whose gross revenue for a taxation year ending on or after Jan. 1, 1952, derived from the distribution to or generation for distribution to the public of electrical energy, gas or steam is more than one-half its total gross revenue for the same period shall be entitled to deduction from the tax otherwise payable by it under the Income Tax Act to the extent necessary to reduce to 43 per cent the rate of tax payable by the corporation under that Act on that part of its taxable income for that taxation year that is derived on and after Jan. 1, 1952 from such distribution or generation.

Cigarette Tax Eased Slightly

OTTAWA, April 9 (CP). — Finance Minister Abbott, surprising nobody, Tuesday night cut off last year's excise tax increase on packaged cigarettes.

Cigar-smokers also got a minor break—a reduction to 15 from 25 per cent in special excise tax — but there was nothing in the budget for roll-your-own addicts or pipe-smokers.

Likewise, liquor drinkers got scant attention from Mr. Abbott. Small adjustments were made only in excise taxes on spirits used to fortify wines and on beer not made from malt.

In back-tracking from his 1951 cigarette tax increase. the Minister told the Commons that, instead of the forecast $21,000,000 in new revenue, there actually had been a drop of $1,000,000 in intake from his tax.

Excise Tax Text Reported During Budget

OTTAWA, April 9—(CP)—Text of excise-tax resolution contained in Finance Minister Abbott's budget:

Resolved that it is expedient to introduce a measure to amend the Excise Tax Act and to provide:

1. That the excise tax on goods enumerated in Schedule 1 or the act that are at present subject to the rate of 25 per cent be reduced to 15 per cent.

The schedule includes automobiles; tires and tubes; cameras and photo equipment; cigars; electrical appliances; firearms and ammunition; fishing rods and reels; fountain pens, pencils, etc.; golf clubs and balls; jewelry, clocks, etc.; lighters; matches; motorcycles and motors; phonographs, radios and tubes; slot machines; smokers' accessories; toilet articles; and trunks, luggage, etc.

2. That the excise tax on furs and articles manufactured of fur be reduced from 25 per cent to 15 per cent.

3. That the excise tax on soft drinks be reduced from 30 per cent to 15 per cent and that there be assessed, levied and collected an excise tax of 15 per cent on preparations for household use in making soft drinks.

4. That the excise tax 15 per cent on stoves, washing machines and refrigerators be repealed.

5. That the excise tax on carbonic acid gas be reduced from 50 cents to 25 cents per pound.

6. That the excise tax on cigarettes be reduced from 2¼ to two cents for each five or fraction of five cigarettes contained in each package.

7. That the excise tax on manufactured tobacco be changed from five cents per ounce or fraction of an ounce to 80 cents per pound.

8. That the excise tax on Canadian raw leaf tobacco be reduced from 1¼ cents per ounce or fraction of an ounce to eight cents per pound.

9. That the sales tax on the following goods be repealed: drinks prepared from milk or eggs; preserved fruits; cooking oils and salad oils but not including mayonaise or salad dressing; baling farm produce; steel pens for farm animals; preservatives for use exclusively in treating nets, ropes and lines used in the fishing industry; clays and earth for use exclusively as filtering materials in the refining of petroleum oils; goods enumerated in customs tariff items 411A, 437, 476B.

10. That any enactment founded upon this resolution be deemed to have come into force on April 9, 1952.

Consumers Get Biggest Break

OTTAWA, April 9 (CP). — Consumers with money to spend got the biggest break in the budget with reduction or elimination of some excise taxes.

Officials think that the tax cuts will be passed on to the buying public.

The sagging consumer market is expected to gain new life in the next few months

On a $500 refrigerator, the saving to the consumer could be as much as $75 with the 15-per-cent tax eliminated.

On a $2,500 automobile the saving through the slicing of the 25-per-cent tax to 15 per cent could be as much as $250.

Crown Companies Will Pay Taxes

OTTAWA, April 9 (CP). — Crown companies competing with private business are going to start paying taxes.

Corporation taxes will be imposed on such government concerns—exempt from taxes up to now—as the Canadian National Railways, the C.B.C., Trans-Canada Air Lines and Polymer Corporation which produces rubber.

The main effect will be to provide a basis for comparing the operations of private and public enterprise.

For some companies, the tax question will be largely academic. For instance, the C.N.R. because of its heavy debt burden has shown a net profit only in seven of the last 30 years.

All But Two Provinces Sign Taxation Pacts

OTTAWA, April 9 (CP)—Finance Minister Abobtt said Tuesday night it now appears "probable" that all provinces except Ontario and Quebec will sign new taxation agreements with the federal government.

The two provinces also declined to enter 1947 agreements which expired March 31.

Under the agreements, the provinces give the federal government almost exclusive use of the personal income, corporation and inheritance tax fields.

In return, they receive annual payments based on population and the value of gross national production.

Mr. Abbott has estimated that Ontario would receive $137,391,000 in the first year of the new agreements compared with $105,850,000 in the last year of the former agreements. Quebec would receive $114,488,000 compared with $89,761,000.

Mingled Regret And Pleasure Seen In Citizens' Reaction To Budget

By The Canadian Press

Satisfaction at tax cuts in luxury and other goods but disappointment that government deductions from pay cheques won't be reduced—that today seemed to sum up the popular reaction to Finance Minister Abbott's budget.

On the brighter side were the immediate benefits of cheaper cigarettes, automobiles, radios and other items. But there was no cheering over the fact that the net effect of present income taxes will continue, even though some of it goes for old age pensions after July 1.

An indication that the three-cent reduction on a package of 20 cigarettes will be passed on to the public came Tuesday night from President E. C. Wood of the Imperial Tobacco Company. He said at Montreal his company will reduce its price to retailers by $1.50 a thousand, corresponding to three cents a package.

Cigarette prices vary across Canada. He said that in Quebec province a pack of 20 formerly selling for 46 cents now will retail at 43.

Sharp Reductions

Sharp reductions in the prices of automobiles were forecast in the wake of the decrease of the special 25 per cent excise tax to 15 per cent. While Ford, Chrysler and General Motors took time to study the tax change, Studebaker Corporation of Canada announced price drops of from $150 to $250 on some models.

D. C. Gaskin, Studebaker General Manager, who announced the changes at Hamilton, predicted a "sudden burst of sales."

"When the price of new cars goes down, the price of used cars also decreases," he said. "People have been holding off waiting for this."

Decreases of $100 to $150 in low and medium-priced English cars and perhaps more on expensive models were predicted by one Toronto dealer. Another said some English-car dealers, overstocked before the last tax increase came into effect, hadn't been charging it and therefore wouldn't make any reduction.

One reaction to the decreased taxes on luxury goods and household appliances was given by Toronto's two largest department stores, Eaton's and Simpson's. Each took full-page newspaper advertisements to announce that tax decreases will be passed on to customers. Eaton's said the reduction will apply to present stock on which the tax has been paid.

Many other retailers, including jewellers, furriers, sporting goods, electrical appliance and camera dealers fell in line.

Jewellers and furriers hailed the 10-per-cent decrease in the tax on luxury goods. Toronto sporting goods stores said they will pass the tax reductions on to their customers immediately, though it means slimmer profits on firearms, ammunition, fishing rods, reels, golf clubs and balls.

The tax reduction on cameras will emerge at the retail level, said an official of the Canadian Kodac Company at Weston, Ont.

Most soft drink manufacturers confirmed predictions that the slice of taxes on soft drinks won't reach into the public's pocketbook. The reason was increasing costs of production.

"At least the price won't go up now for some time," said Royal H. MacDonell, vice-president and general manager of Canada Dry Company, Ltd.

However, in Montreal one company, Allen's Beverages Limited, dealing in 30-ounce bottles, announced a reduction of one cent a bottle. Beer drinkers may find a light brew for sale shortly because brewers now could use unlimited amounts of corn, said J. R. Short, president of the Short Canadian Mills, Ltd., Leaside. He said the reduction of duty on beer made from rice or corn grits meant a possible lighter beer that will stay fresh longer.

Advisers Declare Abbott Gives Stand-Pat Budget

OTTAWA, April 9 (CP) — To Finance Minister Abbott, it was an I-would-if-I-could-but-I-can't budget.

As one of the minister's top advisers put it: "It's a stand-pat budget."

Taxes aren't going up. With the important exception of commodity taxes, they aren't going down either.

For the family that wants a car or a washing machine or an electric stove or refrigerator or something along that line, there is some sunshine. For the man who smokes cigarettes there is the prospect of a three-cent cut on a package of 20. Otherwise, there is little excitement or financial relief.

Income taxes are coming down an average of six per cent. But the new two-per-cent social-security tax will wreck the benefit of that.

The big news for the average Canadian family lay in commodity taxes. Last year the special excise tax on cars, tires, tubes, cameras, firearms, fishing rods, furs, jewelry, clocks, lighters, matches, radios, trunks and a wide variety of other commodities went up to 25 per cent.

Mr. Abbott, aware that those high levies were teaming up with credit restrictions to cut business, cut it back to 15 per cent.

Elimination of a special 15-per-cent excise tax on household washing machines, stoves and refrigerators, holds out the hope of even higher cuts in those prices.

As for income tax, the constant drain on the average man's wallet, Mr. Abbott was implacable. He said things are such in the world today that he can't even hold out much hope for next year either.

Tax Change Dates

OTTAWA, April 9 — (CP).— Effective dates of tax changes in Finance Minister Abbott's budget:

Personal income tax reductions, averaging 6 per cent, to coincide with and be largely eliminated by collection of social security tax—July 1, 1952.

Corporation income tax readjusted and reduced fractionally in some cases—retroactive to January 1, 1952.

Tax on package of 20 cigarettes reduced to 20 from 23 cents immediately.

Special excise tax of 25 per cent on motor cars, jewellery, furs, and other luxuries reduced to 15 per cent—immediately.

Special 15 per cent excise tax on household washing machines stoves, and refrigerators repealed—immediately.

The 30 per cent excise tax on soft drinks reduced to 15 per cent—immediately.

A 15 per cent excise tax to be levied on dry-powder drinks competitive with soft drinks—immediately.

Tariff amendments, covering more than 150 items and providing for some reductions, some modifications and some additions to the tariff schedule —immediately.

Business Gets Little Relief On Taxes

OTTAWA, April 9 (CP). — Business generally got no tax relief in the budget but it did get a hint that the high rates of corporate taxation will be reduced in the next two years.

The main change is that firms basically engaged in generating and distributing electricity, gas and steam will have their maximum tax rate dropped to 43 per cent from the general corporate level of the 50 per cent.

For corporations generally, taxation will stay virtually unchanged. However, the tax basis is being shifted to give the federal government the corporation taxes now paid to those provinces with which it has tax agreements. The government will repay the provinces.

The only reduction in the general corporation tax will be one of 1.2 per cent on profits over $10,000, to round it off to an even 50 per cent.

Expressed Concern

Finance Minister Abbott in his budget speech expressed "concern" over this "high" level of rates on business profits.

"My main concern," he added, "is not with the current year or even possibly with next year. The ill-effects of too-high taxes can perhaps be endured for a year or two.

"But . . . excessive rates of tax on corporate incomes, if long maintained, can do grave damage to the economy as a whole. . ."

Other corporation tax proposals will:

1. Continue for another year tax reductions granted petroleum, natural gas and mining companies for exploration expenses. These now cover about the full amount of exploration costs.

2. Continue until 1955 a three-year tax exemption on new mines.

Ask Approval To Export Gas

By The Canadian Press

The Alberta Legislature Tuesday was asked to approve a government decision to export natural gas from the Peace River area.

Premier E. C. Manning outlined a draft permit which would allow West-Coast Transmission Company Limited to pipe Peace River gas to Vancouver and the Northwestern United States under a 22-year agreement.

Mr. Manning said the government's policy is that as soon as surplus gas reserves are proven they are placed on the export market. The Conservation Board now had found that a surplus exists in the Peace River area.

Slash Estimates

In the Nova Scotia Legislature Premier Macdonald tabled capital estimates totalling $11,811,000, a slash of about 50 per cent from last year. Approximately $5,000,000 will be used to retire debentures maturing this year and the remainder on capital expenditure.

The House cleared up routine business in preparation for prorogation either today or Thursday.

Premier J. Walter Jones announced that the Prince Edward Island Legislature will prorogue today.

Mrs. H. Pollock W.I. President For Second Term

HAVELOCK, April 9 (ENS).—Mrs. Harry Pollock was re-elected president of the Havelock Women's Institute for the second term at a meeting of that organization in the Council Chamber on Monday afternoon. Mrs. J. Hoffman conducted the election.

Other officers are: First vice-president, Mrs. Robert Melville; second vice-president Mrs. George Rigby, Sr.; secretary, Mrs. Fred McKenzie; treasurer, Mrs. William Woodbeck; district director, Mrs. Robert Melville; alternate, Mrs. William Rice; branch directors, Mrs. A. Holland, Mrs. H. W. Roche, Mrs. W. Bullied; sick committee, Mrs. S. Barlow, Mrs. W. Bullied; property convener, Mrs. W. Rice; pianist, Mrs. J. Beatty.

Two dollars was voted to the sick committee for cards and postage. Mrs. H. W. Roche moved a vote of thanks to last year's officers, especially stressing the increase in the membership during the year, and Mrs. Pollock expressed her thanks for her re-election as president.

The report of the auditors, Mrs. G. Hubbel and Mrs. R. Melville, read by the latter, showed that the society had enjoyed a successful year. After expenditures amounting to $204.48 had been deducted, there was a balance of $70.91 on hand.

Mrs. W. Rice reported that during the year the sick committee had sent out 18 Christmas cards (donated by Mrs. H. Hoard), 17 sick cards, one sympathy card, three bouquets, two plants, three boxes of fruit, one anniversary card, one baby congratulation card, one gift for baby card, and 10 Christmas cheer boxes.

The matter of caring for the flowers in the grounds around the Town Hall which the organization planted last year was discussed. As some of the bulbs are beginning to come through the ground, Mrs. R. Melville and Mrs. A. Buckland were appointed a committee with power to engage W. Bullied to care for the flowers.

The secretary was authorized to arrange for a salvage drive on April 22 or April 24, to have the handbills printed and engage three boys to distribute them.

A feature of the meeting was a display of house dresses made by the members. The dress made by the president Mrs. Pollock, was judged the best, by Mrs. M. Morrow and Mrs. Robert Wrightly of Belmont Township, and Mrs. Harry Revoy of Havelock. This garment will now be entered in the handicraft competition at the district annual meeting to be held on May 29 in Norwood. Mrs. Wrightly pointed out where improvements could be made in the various garments.

During the social half-hour at the close of the meeting, the ladies who had dresses on display modelled their garments.

Mrs. L. Colquhoun read a newspaper clipping regarding the gift of a tablecloth received by the Women's Institute in her home town of Unionville from an institute in Hampshire, England, as a token of appreciation for food parcels sent to them by the Unionville ladies. A poem was read by Mrs. G. Rigby, Sr., "Supper Dishes," was chosen for the short course under the section of food and nutrition, with "Safe At Home," under health education, as second choice. These courses are provided under the home economics service of the W.I. Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Tea hour hostesses were Mesdames H. Pollock, R. Melville, G. W. Chiles, and R. Jones.

Cheshire Heads C.C.F. Of Durham

At the annual meeting of Durham C.C.F. Assocition, held in the Orange Hall, Port Hope, Spencer Cheshire of Fraserville, was re-elected president; Ernest Dent, Orono, vice-president, and Lucas Nicholls assumed office of secretary-treasurer. District representatives were appointed as follows: Port Hope, A. Bond; Bowmanville, Don Kemp; Cavan township, Chester Hall; Hope, Stan. Mead; Clarke, E. Dent; Manvers, Roy Armstrong; Darlington, O. Bragg; Cartwright, nominee to be approved. Mr. Frank Armstrong of Grafton was added as member-at-large for Northumberland. Mr. Cheshire was retained as Durham member on the C.C.F. Provincial Council.

Speaker for the evening was Fred Young, provincial organizer. He quoted the treasuer's report that the Durham paid-up membership now stood at the highest point since 1946, and said that while Ontario, the key to Canada politically had voted for and was getting unlimited private enterprise, both unions and farmers were now finding conditions unfavorable to them and their organizations. He said a tremendous amount of educational work was necessary to change political thinking, but pointed to the things that are accepted now which were considered rank communism 20 years ago. 'In order to win votes the Liberals and Tories had to talk our language—in spite of defeats in elections the C.C.F. had moved people to a position about dead centre. The big jobs the old parties can do have been done; they are unwilling to do any more, except for petty improvements; the social services that have been won will be insecure until a proper economic base has been established for them — see how the device of inflation has been used to cut the value of them. Just as Churchill, though he cuts imports as any party would have to do, whittles away at social services within the country."

"Our old parties," he said, "are counting on defence industry to provide full employment, but unless there's a 'shooting war' to consume war equipment, production will inevitably go too far and then must collapse. The big boys will try to keep it bumping along, but at what a level!"

2 Chinese Among 20 Joining United Church

HASTINGS, April 9 (ENS).—Twenty persons were admitted Sunday to full membership on the communion roll at Trinity United Church. Several of these were by letters of transfer from other congregations but the larger number were by profession of faith.

The pastor welcomed new Canadians and several of them were received in membership, among them two Chinese, who a Sunday ago received Christian baptism.

Miss Marjorie Scriver presided at the organ in the absence of Mrs. J. M. Baker, who was unable to attend.

The announcements for Holy week included the notice of Good Friday service at Trinity United Church at 10:30 a.m. at which service the Rev. J. M. Ritchie of Warkworth will be guest speaker.

Service on Easter Day will be conducted by the Rev. N. Cole. Mr. Cole will give an interpretation of Da Vinci's great picture, "The Last Supper."

Poppy Fund Clothes Vets

TORONTO, April 9 (CP).—Mrs. Wm. Hilton, honorary organizer of the poppy day campaign, said Monday night that the fund will assist in clothing veterans of the Korean war if the government allowance for clothing is inadequate at the time of their demobilization.

She told the society's annual meeting: "We have helped seven Korean vetrans and their families already this year. Only last week we provided suitable work clothes for a veteran of the Korean war. This man had a job to go to but no clothes for the job. We helped him become self-supporting."

The secretary and general-manager of the fund, E. G. Lidstone, reported the number of ex-service personnel applying for assistance has steadily increased during the last year. "We outfitted 231 vetrans in 1951 and prepared them to take jobs. Already this year, we have supplied the necessary clothing requirements to 82 men."

The income for the welfare division of the Poppy Fund, largely derived from the November tag day, was $41,013 last year. The industrial division, a group which collects paper, rags and scrap metal, showed an income of $388,300 last year.

James A. Nickle Former Warden Hastings County Died Suddenly

MARMORA, April 9—(ENS)—James A. Nickle, former warden of Hastings county and well-known agriculturist of Madoc township, died suddenly at his home on Monday afternoon, in his 65th year. He had been in ill health for some time but on the afternoon of his death went out to repair fences and then suffered the heart attack which proved fatal. He was found by his son, William, who was home on a visit and had gone to the field to look for him.

He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John D. Nickle, and had lived all his life in the district. He was one who took the greatest interest in his own community and in the affairs of Hastings County. He served as reeve of Madoc township for 12 years and had the honor of being warden of the county in 1946. While county councillor, he was chairman of the roads and bridges committee, member of the county home management committee and member of the finance committee.

A director of the County Cheese Producers' Association, he was also president of the Eldorado Cheese and Butter Co-operated Association. It was largely through his influence and persistence that the Cheese and Butter Co-operative came into existence. He was a faithful attendant at the services of Zion United Church, North Marmora, being a member of its church board. He was a member of Nickle L.O.L. 285 and past county master of Centre Hastings Orange Association besides belonging to Eldorado Royal Black Preceptory No. 1055.

He is survived by his widow, the former Della Bateman, of Rawdon township; three daughters, Mrs. Burton Johnston (Jeanna), Madoc, Mrs. Harry Cotton (Alma), Eldorado, and Mrs. Grant Wallace (Laura), St. Catharines; and one son, William, of Bancroft. He is also survived by three sisters, Mrs. J. Waite (Juney), Toronto, Mrs. George Johns (Maude), Nestleton; and Mrs. Fred Stuckey (Annie), Frankford; and one brother, Albert, Madoc township.

The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon from his late residence to St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, for service at 2.30 p.m. Burial will take place in Zion cemetery, North Marmora.

Penniless Refugees Have $10,000,000 Business

NEW YORK, April 9 (AP) — Leon Jolson, 38, who came to the United States as a penniless refugee in 1947, but now heads a $10,000,000 business in Canada and the United States, Tuesday took the oath of citizenship together with his wife, Anne, 31.

Jolson and his wife, natives of Poland, were once interned by the Nazis. He still bears the concentration camp identification serial number tattooed on his forearm.

The couple at first got along here on a monthly allowance of $90 supplied by the United Service for New Americans and eventually persuaded the agency to lend them $2,000. Jolson founded the U.S. and Canadian divisions of the Necchi Sewing Machines Co., whom he at one time represented in Poland. Last year Jolson's business totalled $10,000,000, he said.

One of the first acts of gratitude Jolson performed after taking his citizenship oath Tuesday was to present a $10,000 cheque to Dr. Ralph Spence, executive officer of advanced education, Teachers College, Columbia University, to establish a graduate Fellowship for displaced men and women and refugees.

Modern Manners

KRUGERSDORP, S.A. —(CP)— "The courtesy aspect of education has been neglected," says M. G. Stoker, chairman of the West Rand School Board. He told a meeting that "the children of today have no courteous behaviour towards anyone." The meeting heard reports of damage to street lights, traffic signals and taps left flowing by children.

Will Combine Two Planes To Produce Faster Aircraft

OTTAWA, April 9 — (CP) — A Canadian jet engine will be cross-bred with an American-designed, Canadian-built plane next year to produce an aircraft faster than today's fastest, Defence Minister Claxton says.

But, he told the Commons Tuesday as it completed the first defence debate of this sesssion, early hopes for exceptionally-quick production of the engine and of the first all-Canadian plane have died.

The engine is the Orenda jet. The plane it will team up with to produce a plane faster than today's fastest is the F86E Sabre, the U.S.-designed aircraft being produced by the Canadair factory in Montreal. The Sabre holds today's speed record.

The Orenda is being built by the A. V. Roe firm at Malton, Ont., along with Canada's first home-grown jet, the CF100 Canuck.

There was a time, the Minister said, when both the R.C.A.F. and the Roe firm held high hopes that both the Orenda and Canuck would be in production in unusually quick time. (The Sabre is already in production.) These hopes were gone now but both engine and plane would be in production in time any country would consider normal for such brand-new equipment. They were started in 1947.

Ready For Delivery

Several Canucks were ready for delivery and assembly-line production of Orenda would begin in June and hit full capacity next year.

The Minister gave that picture as he made a point-by-point reply to opposition statements about the defence picture, including some that the Orenda-Canuck program is not doing so well despite early fanfare.

One of the toughest attacks came as the debate neared an end when Mapj. E. D. Fulton (P.C., Kamloops) argued that Canadian defence is in a "desperate" situation when one compares the billions of dollars spent with what Canada has to show for it.

After Finance Minister Abbott's budget, the House swung to discussion of the Japanese peace treaty. Both External Affairs Minister Pearson and Gordon Graydon (P.C., Peel) expressed approval of its "generous" terms.

Encouraging Evidence

Mr. Pearson expressed the opinion that the Jajanese people will resist any leaders who try to lead them down the path of aggression again and said there is enocuraging evidence that Japan intends to live up to her promises to deal fairly in such international fields as trade and fisheries.

He noted one "very important" provision which will enable American forces to remain in and near Japan. Mr. Graydon, on the same theme, drew attention to Japan's "uneasy" position under the shadow of Communism and said Canada must do all she can to enable Japan to remain outside the Reds' economic orbit.

Maj. Fulton's blast included a charge that Mr. Claxton is using security to cover up "glaring defence deficiencies." Nothing else but inefficiency could explain why Canada has so little in the way of defence forces and equipment.

The navy had one obsolescent aircraft carrier available for its primary Atlantic role. The air force had a mixture of old planes and the Sabre which was using out-dated arms. The Canuck was nowhere near production. The army had no modern tanks.

Mr. Claxton said Canada has ordered more than 200 Centurion tanks from Britain after cancelling earlier orders for U.S. armor. She was getting Centurions as fast as possible and had 40 now. It would be unwise for Canada to make her own tanks.

The aircraft carrier Magnificent would be modernized when her turn came in British shipyards. The Sabre's guns had been under study but the plane still was capable of licking its main rival, the Russian MIG15.

Report Net Profit

MONTREAL, April 9 (CP) — Southam Company Limited Tuesday reported net profit of $1,455,512 for the fiscal year ended December 31, 1951, compared with $1,296,533 the preceding year. Net profit per share was $1.94 against $1.73 last year.

Justice Bowlby Dies In Toronto

TORONTO, April 9—Justice of the court of appeal of Ontario since May, 1949, Hon. Charles William Reid Bowlby, 60, died Tuesday in Toronto General Hospital.

Widely known for his court work in civil and criminal cases, Mr. Bowlby was the first Hamilton lawyer to be appointed justice of the court of appeal. He specialized in litigation and his work often took him into the court of appeal and the Supreme Court of Canada.

Born at Tapleytown, he was the son of the late Rev. Charles L. Bowlby, a Methodist minister. He received his education in public and high schools in Ontario and graduated from Osgoode Hall. Mr. Bowlby served in the First World War with the 26th Battery in England and France and was invalided home in December, 1917.

He read law with Nesbitt, Gould and Langs and was called to the bar in 1919. He was made a K.C. in 1923. From 1919 to 1922 he was assistant crown attorney for Wentworth County. He was a partner in the firm of Washington, Martin and Bowlby from 1922 to 1932; with Bowlby and Turville, 1932 to 1945 and Bowlby and Parker, Hamilton, 1946 to 1949.

THANKS FROM QUEEN

Shirley Liscombe, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney C. Liscombe of 367 Dobbin Ave., has received a thank-you note from Queen Elizabeth II. Shirley who is a Grade V pupil at Queen Elizabeth school expressed her sympathy to the new Queen as soon as she heard of the death of King George. When Shirley's mother saw the letter of sympathy she was doubtful whether her daughter should mail it. The Queen would be too busy, she reasoned. But Shirley was insistent. A few days ago a reply was received from the Queen's household. It said, in part: "Her majesty was deeply touched by your thought for her in her sorrow."

Brave Showing

Enthusiastic gardeners are eagerly swapping stories about early blooms in their still almost barren gardens. One north-end gardener reports that a Japonica bush is showing a pink blossom. Last week a bunch of pansies were brought in. Soon the blooms will cease to be a rarity and lush spring will make everyone forget all about winter.

Army Asks RCMP To Investigate Theft Of Pistols

The R.C.M.P. detachment at Cobourg has been asked by Major G. A. Woods, adjutant of the 50th H.A.A. Regiment here to investigate the theft of three pistols from the armouries over the weekend.

Major Woods discovered the pistols missing from a steel cabinet in the adjutant's office, Sunday afternoon.

Missing are: a .22 calibre Colt Woodsman automatic; and a nine millimetre Belgian Browning; a .177 air pistol.

The Belgian pistol is owned by F/O Bud Longley, stationed at the armouries with an R.C.A.F. detachment, while the other pistols are owned by Major Woods.

Report Theft

The theft was reported to the desk sergeant and a constable at the city police station by Major Woods and F/O Longley.

"We were told there had been quite a few breakins on the weekend and that police were quite busy," said Major Woods. "But we assumed that someone would be sent over. After all, it's only a short distance to the armouries." They waited a couple of hours at the armouries after reporting the matter to police, then finally went home.

Monday morning, Major Woods went to the police station and asked Identification Sergeant William Aggas to fingerprint a fourth pistol which had not been taken from the cabinet. However, Major Woods believed the nine millimetre Canadian Browning automatic pistol had been moved. "I never leave a pistol like that," he explained, "It's slide was back."

Major Woods said that Sergeant Aggas explained that they were busy and were going to Lindsay to fingerprint a breakin there. Later, Sgt. Aggas called to say that there were only smudges on the pistol.

Still, no one from the police station had gone to the armouries to investigate the reported thefts. Major Woods then called Police Chief John Thompson and asked that someone be sent over.

Met Downtown

After a lengthy wait, Major Woods left the armouries. Meanwhile Det. Sgt. John Stevenson had been sent to the armouries, but Major Woods had left by the time Det. Stevenson arrived.

Major Woods and Det. Stevenson met later downtown and the story was told for a third time.

As far as Major Woods is aware, the city police have made no investigation whatever at the armouries yet.

Since the armouries is a government building, Major Woods today phoned the Cobourg R.C.M.P. detachment asking them to investigate.

"It's not the question of the theft so much, it's that I want the pistols picked up before they can be used in some crime," said Maj. Woods.

He recalled an incident in Toronto where a pistol was stolen from a Toronto pistol club member and later was used in the killing of a policeman.

Budget Benefits Slight Despite Tax Cuts Merchants In City Believe

Tax Reductions Will Make Little Change For Instalment Buyers; Predict Eventual Drop In Used Car Prices

Despite tax cuts and outright removal of the excise tax on electrical appliances, John Q. Consumer will reap few benefits from Finance Minister Abbott's budget for 1952-53. Wholesalers and retailers interviewed in a survey today gave these opinions: Cigarettes may sell for 40 cents and 50 cents for packs of 20 and 25; car prices will be reduced from $135 to $200, depending on the make and model; electrical appliances will probably show decreases of 5½ to 7 per cent; the consumer who buys on time will benefit very slightly by these tax reductions, and the consumer who buys for cash will be only slightly better off; there will be eventually a drop in used car prices.

Cigarette prices, a topic dear to the hearts of the many smokers in the city, may be lopped by the full three cents. Wholesalers have received no price changes from the manufacturers, and are sending fags to retailers on a "no charge" basis. No charge, that is, until prices are known.

"We should hear tomorrow morning," said one. "And I wouldn't be surprised if cigarettes are selling at 40 and 50 cents."

Kick About Pennies

One retailer said people were complaining more about the three-cent cut than they would about a two-cent reduction. His customers, at least, were getting sick of receiving pennies in change.

Most retailers are selling smokes at 48 and 39 cents.

The 15 per cent excise tax on electrical appliances has been removed, but this tax is not levied at the consumer level. It is a tax on the manufacturer's costs.

Therefore, said one retailer, "I don't know what to say about what change the decrease will make in the price to the consumer.

"The manufacturer may well turn around and say that his costs have gone up, and instead of increasing the price of his product, he is going to absorb the 15 per cent tax cut, and keep the price the same.

'Gyp' Deals

"You've got to remember there is no fixed list price these days. That's what makes these 'gyp' deals possible, where they allow you $100 on the price of a broom. They just jack the list price up to compensate for that allowance."

Said another appliance retailer: "It's a move in the right direction for the consumer."

He expected the tax cut would mean a decrease of 5½ to 7 per cent from present retail prices.

Two Brothers, Sister Past 80 Still Keep Active

Buckhorn village can boast of three members of one family—all 80 years old or more. They are believed to be the oldest three living members of any family in Peterborough county.

Mrs. Elizabeth Smith at 93 is the oldest survivor of five boys and two girls, born to the late Archibald Fulton, Sr., and Mary McKellar of Otonabee township.

She has two brothers—Archie, age 83, and Thomas, age 80.

The combined years of the trio is 256—sufficient for three lifetimes, according to the biblical computation, and with 46 years to spare.

All three were born in Keene, Otonabee township, but now claim Harvey township as their home.

Mrs. Smith is alert and cheerful and, to a casual stranger would appear 20 years younger than her real age. But her movements are restricted because she now has cataracts over both eyes.

Brothers Out

Age doesn't seem to bother her two brothers. An Examiner reporter who dropped in for a chat Tuesday afternoon found only Mrs. Smith still in the village.

Eighty-three-year-old Archie was away in the woods cutting some wood for his stove. And 80-year-old Thomas was also "out around somewhere." The reporter had expected to find the two men close to their firesides on such a chilly April day.

Both brothers are now retired. They are both skilled woodworkers and did all the carpentry work on their spacious, wooden-frame houses in the village.

Mrs. Smith has lived most of her life in Wisconsin and on the prairies. Her first husband, Dr. Thomas Miller who came from Keene, was a general practitioner in small prairie towns. After his death she married George Smith and they farmed at Elrose, Saskatchewan. Mr. Smith died in 1918.

Hear Evidence Again In Suit For Damages

Chief Justice J. C. McRuer has ordered a re-hearing of the evidence in the county court damage action in which Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peters of Belmont-Methuen township are suing Motorways Ltd. of Toronto.

The chief justice made this order because Judge S. L. Smoke, Peterborough County judge, had not given judgment on the case before he died suddenly last December. All the evidence had been heard.

A transcript is being made of this evidence and it will be studied by a judge. He will also hear arguments by W. J. Arthur Fair, QC, counsel for the plaintiffs, and Gordon H. T. Farquharson, counsel for the defendant. The re-hearing has been set for May 29.

There are no reports of a similar situation arising before in Peterborough County.

The civil action is the aftermath of a two-truck collision Jan. 25, 1951, on Highway 7, a mile east of Havelock. A truck owned by Motorways Ltd. collided with the rear of Peters' truck which was being driven by an employee, Charles McLean. Mrs. Peters was a passenger.

As a result of the accident both vehicles were damaged and Mrs. Peters was injured.

Peters is asking for $600 covering damage to the truck and general damages. His wife is asking for $500 in compensation for her injuries, mainly to her back.

Motorways are counterclaiming for $1,879 covering damage to their truck, and another $240 for loss of use.

1952 City Paving To Cost $219,049 Engineer Reports

Cost of the City Council's paving program for this season, as estimated by City Engineer Chalmers, is $219,049.30, of which $143,256.05 is charged to property frontage under the Local Improvement Act. The remainder is to be paid out of the city's general account. To that total is to be added the estimated cost of repairing George St., from King St. south to the C.P.R. That work is to be charged entirely to the general account.

City Council Monday night gave two readings to the paving bylaw introduced by Ald. J. E. Gillespie, chairman of the board of works.

Third reading is suspended until approval of the program has been received from the Ontario Municipal Board.

According to the notice published recently in The Examiner by City Clerk Outram, on the authority of the council, "any property owner on these streets may within twenty-one days after the first publication of this notice file with the Municipal Board his objection to the said work being undertaken."

The program as originally drafted and presented by City Engineer Chalmers included the paving of McDonnel St. from Park St. to Monaghan Road.

Left Out

That stretch of street was deleted as a result of objections to the council by the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club and Dominion Woollens and Worsteds, whose properties have extensive frontage on McDonnel St., part of the Jackson Park bus route.

The streets on which frontage charges are to be applied are: Romaine St., from Park St. to Monaghan Road.

Monaghan Road from Braidwood Ave. to Riverside Drive.

Monaghan Road from McDonnel St. to Hopkins Ave.

Albert St. from Monaghan Road to Park St.

Charlotte St. from Monaghan Road to Clonsilla Ave., and continuing westerly on Clonsilla Ave to the west limit of lot 7 registered plan 42Q.

Property rates on all but Charlotte St. are $5.34 per lineal foot, and on Charlotte St. $3.37 per foot.

Romaine St., Monaghan Road and Charlotte St. strips are all part of present bus routes.

Radio Equipment Bought At $2,840

Equipment for communication between the fire station and two mobile units, chief's car and truck, is being bought by the council from the C.G.E. for $2,840. It was recommended to the finance committee by the fire, water and light committee.

Another purchase authorized by the Council Monday night: a truck for the parks department costing $3,073.56, after trade-in allowance. The tender of Irwin-Godson Ltd. was chosen from those received.

Operation of the tax accounting machines at the city hall were placed under the supervision of City Clerk Outram.

Mayor Waddell is preparing a brief to the Ontario government through Hon. Harold Scott requesting that government grants be made on a population basis, not on a per capita assessment basis.

Council contends that the present method is unfair, especially to municipalities which have recently made or are planning to make re-assessments of their properties.

Vimy Ridge 35 Years Ago

To Old Sweats in Peterborough and in many other communities throughout Canada, today, April 9, is more than a mere calendar date.

Thirty-five years ago this morning in the churned mud and pouring rain of Flanders fields, troops of the Canadian Corps, assisted by the 13th Brigade of the 5th British Division, stormed and captured Vimy Ridge, one of the strongest fortresses on the German western front. It was claimed by all military observers of that time the greatest triumph scored by Canadian troops in the First World War.

Nor did they rest on their hard-won victory. They went on to wipe up the front—the city of Lens, Douai, Willerval, Arleux and Fresnoy. The grim continuous fighting went on until May 3.

They will also remember too well Easter Sunday of that year in the great battle for Arras that fell to them.

Even the German General Count Von Ludendorff saw that the jig was up when his lines were confronted with the tough Canadian Corps. His battle dispatch made excuse for his troops to stem the victors by saying:

"Counter attacking divisions were not there to throw the enemy back."

Smith Work Bee Clears Out Old Drive Shed

Farm work in parts of north Smith township was cut to a minimum Tuesday while the men ripped down a driving shed at Wesley United Church and the women had a quilting bee.

The day saw plenty of hard work done, but there was fun and relaxation too. And, in a way, it was a social occasion.

For some time now there have been plans to tear down the old wooden driving shed. For some older residents it must have signified the passing of an era: the horse and buggy replaced by the shiny new automobile.

50 Years Old

The shed was more than 50 years old and, besides being no longer useful, was unsightly. Moreover, the land it occupied was needed for an extension to the nearby lodge building of L.O.L. 419, Smith.

Fifteen men started Tuesday morning and had the shed torn down by the end of the day. At noon they trooped into Orange Hall and had a "pot-luck" dinner prepared by the women who were working on a quilt.

After dinner the men went on with their work of demolition and the women resumed their quilting bee.

The next job will be to raise the level of the Orange Hall to that of the church land, immediately to the south. When that is completed, a kitchen will be built on the Orange Hall.

The 13 women working on the quilt were members of the Wesley United Church Women's Association. They make one quilt a year, that is auctioned off or sold, and the money is turned over to the Lakefield Red Cross. Mrs. Rufus Bullock is the 1952 president of the W.A.

Mr. Kenneth Stewart is pastor of the church.

Women Just Drive Cars Who Knows How They Work

The heart, lungs and liver of the automobile — the engine — seem destined to remain a dark and unexplored secret as far as women are concerned.

A recent survey shows that only about half know very much at all about the gizzard of the machine they drive.

Looking baffled in their prettiest way, they gave some dandy answers. A car engine runs by centrifugal force; a battery has water inside and spark plugs on top; the radiator is to boil water.

All I Do Is Drive

It went on and on like that. One woman stopped learning about her car when she learned to drive. She said: "All I do is drive the old crate."

On some items, the ladies pleaded not guilty of knowledge almost altogether. Most baffling to them were the distributor and the crankshaft.

Asked what a crankshaft was, a woman responded indignantly: "I don't have to crank my car." Another said it was an old-fashioned device found on the Model T.

Valves were something husbands were always grinding. The transmission was something you put the key in. Spark plugs regulate the flow of gas. The distributor had something to do with the windshield.

Holds Grill

The radiator was not only to boils water; it was there to hold the grill in place, and it was "that thing up front that leaks".

Sure, the ladies were baffled, but they are also shrewd enough to know that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing.

If they know too much, their husbands will want them to fix the ears.

PILES OF DEBRIS today marked the spot in Queen's section of New York City where a two-engined cargo plane crashed into homes at a busy traffic intersection. Five persons, including the pilot and co-pilot of the craft, died. Another was a high police official whose car was struck by the plane. 24 others were injured. The crash brought renewed public protests against big airports operating near city areas. Most of the wreckage in the wirephoto above is that of the homes. A piece of the plane is visible to the left of the shell of one of the houses.

Hard To Get Good Picture With Skinny Stars-Jones

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, April 9— (AP) —Ray Jones, dean of Hollywood's portrait photographers, disclosed some tricks of his trade today and took a rap at "skinny" movie queens.

Jones has served longer than any other glamor photographer now practising in the studios. He started photographing Mack Sennett bathing beauties in 1923 and has shot almost every film queen since then. It's his job to make the gals look sensational, and he said that diets are often against him.

"These actresses think they have to be thin as a rail in order to stay popular," he said. "I think that's a lot of nonsense. Audiences have shown that they like to see their favorites looking healthy and filled out, not skinny.

"The skinny ones make my job difficult. It's bad enough with the young ones, but it's even worse with those approaching 40 or after. They get bags under their eyes, their cheeks get hollow and they get that sagging, crepe neck that is a giveaway for age. It takes a lot of retouching and diffusion to cover those things up."

A traditional method of being kind to stars' faces has been to shoot the picture through a layer of gauze.

"When I see one of those gals coming with 23 layers of makeup to cover the wrinkles, I know something's got to crack," said Jones. "The standing gag around here is "let's shoot her through the Navapo blanket!' "

Jones' favorite among the hundreds of female forms he has recorded is Danielle Darrieux.

"She had the most perfect face and body I have ever photo graphed. Another favorite of mine was Lupe Velez. I could shoot her from any angle and the picture would be good. The only trouble was getting her to stay still long enough.

"Of the current crop, Ann Blyth has the most perfect face to photograph. She also has one of the best figures, but she won't let me do cheesecake of her. As far as leg art, the best of the new gals is Kathleen Hughes." (Starlet and daughter of writer F. Hugh Herbert.)

Nearly all of the actresses have certain traits concerning their portraits, Jones remarked. Claudette Colbert can be photographed on her left side only. Shelley Winters does not take a good picture with her mouth closed. (It's hard to imagine her without it open.)

Veterans like Marlene Dietrich and Loretta Young, who know all their best poses, do not take directions from photographers. They have a large mirror handy and pose themselves.

Lowly Spud Near-Luxury Food In Potato-Growing Province

By JOHN MOSHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

SAINT JOHN, N.B. — (CP).—The lowly spud has become a near-luxury food in this potato-producing province, where consumers are paying $1 to $1.10 a peck. Dealers have been offering the highest prices in 30 years—up to $8.50 for a 175-pound barrel.

The buoyant market, a result of strong demand and declining supply, has created a black market problem in the neighboring State of Maine — another big potato-growing area.

Milton G. Wheeler, enforcement chief for the Maine Office of Price Stabilization, claimed recently that the situation was threatening to disrupt the United States potato market. He said the situation could have resulted from an increasing demand by Canadian buyers willing to pay above U.S. ceiling prices.

Growers in Aroostook County, Maine, are under ceiling prices at the producer level and also under an export regulation allowing certain added costs. Mr. Wheeler said there were indications that both of these had been exceeded. He had reports of carload lots sold at $300 to $400 above ceilings.

He also said that buyers and shippers in the United States were complaining they can't buy Maine potatoes unless thay meet Canadian price offers.

N.B. Dealers Cashing In

Extent of New Brunswick participation in the black market is uncertain. Some major New Brunswick dealers, while claiming they had no hand in "'under the table" deals, said it was well known that other dealers in the province were cashing in on the situation.

A New Brunswick official said the problem was Maine's, "'not ours."

Because of the record prices, no acurate estimate has been obtained of the New Brunswick supplies still unshipped. Some points reported instances of producers having carload lots although they previously said they were sold out.

Persons close to the industry agreed, however, that potato holdings are at their lowest ebb in years for this period of the spring season.

Harold E. Day, Hartland, manager of the New Brunswick Potato Marketing Board, said that while he had no complete figures he knew potato stocks were getting low and many major dealers expected shipments of present holdings to be completed by mid-April —much earlier than average.

Future prices will depend largely on the size of the southern crop. Florida potatoes are expected to enter the province before many more weeks.

If the southern crop is exceptionally good, no great change may occur in the retail price when these potatoes go on the New Brunswick market. But if the southern crop has been poor, or if good markets prevail in the Southern States, potatoes in New Brunswick and elsewhere may become even more expensive.

Won't Waste Time

GLASGOW, April 9 — (CP).—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said here Tuesday night that Britain will not allow Russia to draw her into "time wasting" talks aimed at stalling western defence. Speaking bluntly, he declared: "Serious negotiations on any occasion—yes. Time-wasting contortions on every occasion—no."

Sold For Scrap

MONTREAL, April 9 (CP). — The Empress of Australia, once the pride of the Canadian Pacific Steamships fleet, has been sold for scrap, it was annonuced on Tuesday. The 21,833-ton liner built in 1914 by Germany and surrendered to the Allies in 1919 spent her declining years as a troopship.

Dorcas Bale Prepared, Secretary Tells W.A.

MARMORA, April 9 (ENS).—The monthly meeting of St. Paul's W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. R. G. Winters who took the chair and opened it with prayer. Due to removal of Mrs. F. Leal Mrs. H. Price was elected to fill her place as secretary. Mrs. Percy Gray was appointed as delegate to the Diocesan annual in Kingston May 7 and 8 with Mrs. George Kerr as alternate.

Mrs. Roy Frost gave the Dorcas report and mentioned the articles for the bale had all been received with the exception of the quilt. This will be quilted at the next meeting which will be featured by a pot luck lunch. Mrs. W. Lavender accepted the appointment of the extra cent a day fund for the Ontario Diocesan W. A. Board.

The meeting was closed with prayer and benediction by Canon J. M. Brownlie.

Briton Maps Moon Awaits Space Ship

LONDON (CP)—Percy Wilkins a British civil student, has completed what he believes to be the first complete map of the moon.

Every mountain range, crater and rock structure sighted by telescopes are recorded on the map, which shows the moon, with a diameter of 100 inches, and now Wilkins is just waiting for the first space ship to take off.

He thinks that could be within the next 10 years if "governments really made an effort."

Wilkins, director of the Lunar section of the British Astronomical Association, spends clear nights looking at the moon and cloudy nights working on his maps.

His wife Hilda doesn't mind him using the parlor floor for maps of the moon but she says wistfully: "My husband never gets time to take me to the pictures."

ROSENEATH, April 9 (ENS).—Mrs. Harold Taylor was re-elected president of Roseneath Women's Institute at their annual meeting. Mrs. Taylor is beginning her fourth year as president. Following are the other officers elected: first vice-president, Mrs. Fred Murphy; second vice-president, Mrs. Ernest Burrison; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Bart Thackeray; assistant, Mrs. Cephas Robins; district director, Mrs. Frank Brown; honorary branch directors, Mrs. J. W. Pacey, Mrs. Frank Nichol, Mrs. E. J. Milne, Mrs. A. Halsted, Mrs. Thomas Sandercock, Mrs. Alfred Braithwaite; branch directors, Mrs. George Mouncey, Mrs. Harold George, and Mrs. Clarke Sandercock; good cheer, Mrs. Alfred Pringle; pianist, Mrs. Edgar Carew; assistant, Mrs. Oscar Adams; auditors, Mrs. Charles Sandercock, Mrs. Alfred Pringle.

Conveners of standing committees are: agriculture and Canadian industries, Mrs. Frank Adams; citizenship and education, Mrs. Ernest Burrison; community activities and pubic relations, Mrs. Alfred Pringle; historical research and current events, Mrs. C. Grigg; home economics and health, Mrs. Charles Sandercock; resolutions, Mrs. J. Lovelace. Program committee consists of the executive and conveners of the standing committees.

The election of officers was conducted by Mrs. R. C. White. The scrutineers were: Mrs. James Brown and Mrs. Fred Norris.

The meeting was held in the township hall, with Mrs. Alfred Pringle as hostess. The president, Mrs. Harold Taylor, presided, with Mrs. Edgar Carew as pianist.

The annual financial statement presented by the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Bart Thackeray, showed total receipts were $477.10, total expenditures $246.13, balance $230.97.

An invitation was received from the Alderville Homemakers to attend their meeting in Alderville Church on May 14, and to contribute four numbers toward the program. On motion the invitation was accepted.

The district conference, "We Call It Human Nature," will be held in Roseneath township hall on April 29. Miss Irene McBride, home economist from the W.I. Department, Toronto, will be the guest speaker. Invitations were extended to the members of Baltimore and Fenella Women's Institutes and Alderville Homemakers to be present.

Mrs. Charles Sandercock was appointed to purchase extra cups and plates for the Women's Institute cupboard.

Mrs. Thomas Sandercock made a donation of extra plates to the society. On motion it was decided to make a donation of $30 to the Northumberland T.B. Association.

The following delegates were appointed to attend the district annual meeting in Grafton on June 3. Mrs. Harold Taylor, Mrs. Frank Brown, Mrs. Fred Murphy and Mrs. Bart Thackeray.

Mrs. Bart Thackeray will attend the provincial conference in Guelph on May 1 and 2. A one-act play, "Henry's Mail Order Wife," was presented at the conclusion of the business period. This play will be presented by the members at Baltimore on April 17 when the W.I. Drama Competition will be held.

EDITS OLD PAPER — Dr. Harry Bernard is editor of the weekly newspaper Courrier of St. Hyacinthe, which is in its 100th year of publication, the oldest French-Canadian newspaper in Canada. It was founded in March, 1853, by P. J. Guitte and A. Degrandpre. Honore Mercier, former premier of Quebec, was a one-time editor.

Rollicking Nursery Rhymes Undergo Drastic Literary Purge; Throw Out Cruel References

LONDON —(CP)—Those rollicking nursery rhymes that parents for many generations have recited and explained to their young offspring, are undergoing a drastic literary purge.

More than 1,000 of the rhymes known to exist are being closely scrutinized and replaced by revised versions where the original gives the slightest suggestion of blood and thunder, cruelty or dishonesty.

The man undertaking the task is 35-year-old Arthur Thompson, Secretary of the Humane Education Society, with the financial backing of an anonymous Manchester businessman.

It all started when Mr. Thompson's young daughter tossed aside her book of rhymes and sobbed bitterly when she heard of the plight of the three fairy-story mice who lost their tails to a knife-wielding farmer's wife.

Thompson and his assistants have re-edited and revised more than 300 rhymes which among many changes involved restoration of the sight and tails of the three blind mice. Among other characters subjected to severe reform are the knave of hearts; Tom, the Piper's Son, and The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe.

The Rhyme that frightened Thompson's daughter has been cleansed and re-dressed as follows:

Three kind mice, three kind mice;
See how they run, see how they run;
They all ran after the farmer's wife,
She cut them some cheese with a carving knife;
Did you ever see such a thing in your life,
As three kind mice?

Reformed Knave

Out goes dishonesty with a reformed knave of hearts. The new edition is not a bad fellow, for when:

The king of hearts
Called for the tarts,
And wished there were some more,
The knave of hearts
Brought in the tarts,
And each of them had four.

Away, too, goes poverty in the refurbished version of the old woman who lived in a shoe. But still retaining a taint of austerity, Thompson's rewrite says:

She had so many children
And loved them all too;
She gave them good broth
And pieces of bread,
Then kissed them all soundly
And put them to bed.

There was no need to alter the nursery rhyme ingredients of what little girls are made of, but Grandma would never recognize the new potion for the mixture that produced little boys in her day. It's no longer such things as snails and puppy dogs' tails. The young man today will be made of 'strength and line and all that's fine," when he calls on his "sugar and spice and all that's nice."

Believes Aid Too One-Sided

OTTAWA, April 9 (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader said Tuesday night that Canada is defeating her own objectives in Europe by sending all military and no economic aid to her allies.

He devoted a free-time C.B.C. political broadcast to the Atlantic Pact because, he said, of the attempts "to misrepresent and misconstrue" his party's position.

Mr. Coldwell said the C.C.F. has been contending ever since the Atlantic Pact was born three years ago that economic co-operation must be its primary aim.

Therefore he saw nothing surprising in the party's recent stand in favor of the pact itself but in opposition to the fact that the $324,000,000 Canada will spend on aid to Europe this fiscal year "is to be spent entirely on military preparedness."

". . . To place all our reliance, as Canada has been doing, in defence of Western Europe on military aid will defeat our objective . . . Soviet leaders believe they can win the struggle for men's minds without firing a shot . . ."

"If we can spend $324,00,000 in military aid, we could either apportion part of this to economic aid or even if the situation demands increase the amount in the form of essential raw materials."

WESTERN CANADA OIL BOOM—The Alberta oil boom, now in its fifth year, and the fast-growing oil industry in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia made Canada the British Commonwealth's leading oil producer in 1951 for the first time. Canada replaced British Borneo as the top producer. The Petroleum Information Bureau in London, Eng., reported Canada's ouput last year totalled 6,500,000 tons compared with Borneo's 5,000,000 tons. This map shows the oil-producing areas in Canada's four western provinces.

Claims Canada's Pacific Door Open To Reds

VANCOUVER, April 9 (CP) — The Vancouver Daily Province said in a newspage story Tuesday that Canada's Pacific door is practically wide open to any subversive agents or organizers who care to enter this country."

The story adds:

"(Some) persons have the opinion that Communist organizers, and probably trained agents, must have entered Canada from the Pacific in the past six months.

"Between 100 and 200 Russians, the majority carrying valid USSR passports reached Canada through Vancouver (and a few through Edmonton) during the past winter.

"No security officers interviewed these Russians in Shanghai, Hong Kong or Canada despite the fact that highly trained R.C.M.P. security officers are stationed at Canadian immigration posts in Europe to screen all potential Canadian immigrants.

"Possibly 3,000 Chinese subjects have been admitted to Canada through Vancouver in the past 12 months.

"There are persons in Vancouver's Chinatown who insist some of those arrivals now are doing Communist organization work in Canadian Chinese communities."

New Designed Spectograph Combines Photo To Aid Research

VICTORIA, B. C. (CP) — A specially - designed spectograph, built locally for the most part, will go into operation soon at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory here. It is the only one of its kind in the world.

The device, by which a thread of light from a star is broken into components and then photographed, is expected to do work that up to now has required several machines in combination.

Photographing the light rays from heavenly bodies is of vital importance in astronomy. Experts with these photographs can study such things as chemical composition, temperature, motions and distances of the stars. Double stars, invisible in the telescope, can be discovered by use of the spectograph.

Officials here explained the machine is not a new development in optics, but is an advance in mechanical operation. Up to now it has been necessary to have a camera for each spectograph, but the new machine has positions for seven cameras, making possible at least 12 different camera combinations including two that photograph ultra-violet light.

Another feature is the fact that the huge optical plate to which the cameras, prisms and diffraction gratings are fixed is mounted on levers and counterweights. It has support without bending or distortion, so that its cameras record exactly what is seen by the telescope to which they are attached.

Astronomers from many parts of the continent are believed interested in the machine, designed and planned by Dr. R. M. Petrie, observatory director; Dr. Andrew McKeller, assistant and Dr. C. S. Beal.

Actual construction was directed by Sidney Girling, an instrument maker and precision machinist who learned his trade at the Woolwich Arsenal in England. Girling has been working part-time on the project for the last three years, and now is putting the finishing touches on the job.

Conservative Party Leaders Face Cross-Fire Of Criticism

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 9 (CP)—Leaders of the Conservative party are under a cross-fire of criticism from the Labor party opposition, the general public and their own rank and file.

Winston Churchill's six-month-old administration confronts this three-fold catalogue of complaint:

1. Political opponents claim the Conservatives are allowing the cost of living to rise, thus breaking pledges made in last October's general election.

2. Socialist successes in recent local elections appear to reflect the average man's view that the Conservatives have in fact broken some pledges, particularly in regard to such issues as the food subsidies.

3. Conservative back-benchers, restive for a variety of reasons, contend the results of the local elections were partly caused by poor public relations work by government ministers. If the rise in living costs really is necessary, runs one typical argument, some influential spokesmen should have come forward to explain why.

Only One Road

Amid such a chorus of recrimination, the Conservative leadership can hardly derive much comfort from the fact that many detached observers feel the government policy is the right one, or at least headed in the right direction.

The leadership's reply to criticism is that there is only one important task at the moment—to save Britain from bankruptcy. As long as departmental bosses are pre-ocupied holding the monster at arm's length, there can be no thought of courting popularity or worrying over any rash statements made in the heat of election battles.

Labor voices are already heard calling for a new election on the ground that the government no longer has the confidence of the people, but such appeals are likely to fall on deaf ears. A far stronger probability is that the Conservatives will hang on grimly for their full five years, and they can probably do it despite their present slim majority in parliament.

The drop in Conservative esteem seems to have coincided with the March 11 "incentive" budget. By clipping food subsidies and providing some tax reliefs, the government broke sharply with the past and gave the divided Labor party a rallying point.

Resent Subsidy Cuts

Judging by the local election results of the last two weeks, the public seems to have resented the reduction of the subsidies. This has an immediate effect on the family food bill while the tax reliefs will not be felt for two months.

All these trends confirm the forebodings of the political prophets, who said it would take great courage to attack the subsidies. Apparently there is a gap between the thinking of the ordinary man, who merely sees that certain things cost more than they used to, and the orthodox economist who says Britain will never recover until she starts paying world prices for food.

Curlers Looking Forward To Busier '53 Season With Tankard Finals Here

Curling season is fun and the annual meeting too — the way Peterborough lady curlers do it. Their closing banquet and cocktail party was held Tuesday night at the Empress Hotel with 80 of the membership enjoying it, though President Mrs. T. F. Doughty was among others who were absent because of illness. The club has been hampered all winter by members being ill or holidaying in Florida.

Vice-president Mrs. Jack Fanning presided throughout the evening, and at the close was elected president for the '52-'53 season. She takes the office knowing well there will be extra work, for the 1953 semi-finals and finals of the Ontario Tankard will be played on the Peterborough rink. Tankard is the outstanding event of the Ladies' Curling Association each year, and the ladies have been looking forward to their turn as hostesses by setting aside a sum each year to a "Tankard fund."

As curling has gained favor by leaps and bounds in the past several years, membership in the L.O.C.A. is increased by more than 100 per cent. Forty clubs are now affiliated, but a new system of group finals for the Tankard is to be held this year so that only the finalists will come to Peterborough.

Gibson Trophy, emblematic of the club championship, was presented Tuesday night, and Mrs. Doughty's rink was the winner. Vice-skip Mrs. Len Bearne received the trophy and was spokesman for Mrs. D. E. Bell and Mrs. Alf. Hill. Their prizes were modern fiesta ware dishes, each with an attractive flower arrangement in place. These presentations were made by the bonspiel convener, Mrs. Gerald Wood.

Runner-up to the championship was Mrs. Jack Watts' rink, and she received the Waddell Trophy, presented by Mrs. R. H. Turner. Prizes in this case were divided since some members of the rink had not played a full season. Mrs. Watts and Mrs. David Charlton received leather purses and Mrs. R. E. Pow and Mrs. K. W. Milne received pottery pieces.

Next is the Vice-skips' Trophy, which went to Mrs. Fanning, and the prize for her was a coffee warmer. Mrs. Bell, a member of the rink, received a one-cup coffeemaker. These presentations were made by Mrs. Watts and Miss Florence Gladman presented prizes to the runners-up, Mrs. Bearne and Mrs. Ian MacGillivery. Mrs. A. Leach and Mrs. Doughty were the others on this rink. Consolation winner was Mrs. Harold Scott with Mrs. Maurice Holt, Mrs. Robert Bastable and Mrs. Clayton Selkirk.

Leads and seconds championship went to Mrs. H. Woodcox' rink, with Mrs. Edna Renwick, Mrs. R. R. Faryon and Mrs. C. Campbell. Runner-up was Mrs. R. Green, with Mrs. Reg. Perks, Mrs. R. Dixon and Mrs. Harry Northrop, and the consolation was won by Mrs. S. A. Lowe, with Mrs. Dave Wilson, Mrs. Graham Ferguson and Mrs. Robert Maybee. Prizes for the latter were donated by Mrs. Harry Baptie and were hand-crochet trimmed doilies.

An all-star bonspiel was held at the club near close of the season, and it was won by Mrs. Erle Welbourn's rink, with Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs. Lionel Browne. Mrs. J. C. Green's rink came second, with Mrs. Northrop and Mrs. Hy Wood, her regular players.

Something to look forward to next March is a new trophy and an all-new form of competition at the Peterborough Club. Padre Wm. McDonald has instituted the first duel between the ladies' club and the men's club for his handsome trophy. He presented the competition to the ladies on his 80th birthday, April 8, which would also have been his 50th wedding anniversary.

Home and School Association News

PARKHILL SCHOOL

Father's Night of the Parkhill Home and School Association on Tuesday opened with a short business session with president Mrs. V. Ferguson presiding. Plans were discussed for a spring tea on May 1st.

Miss Coral Bailey, principal, then explained the principle of the accelerated classes now in the school and cleared up misunderstandings among the parents.

The program was presented by the fathers with Mr. Bernard Holloway as the chairman.

"Kawartha Four," members of the S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A., delighted with three selections. Messrs. Ron Wilson, Phil Shevalin, George McKay and Harold Coulson sang with such enjoyment it was quite contagious among the audience.

Main feature was a debate regarding the pros and cons of extra curricular activities and return of the three R's. Messrs. Ray Parnell, Otto Mackey, Christopher Gledhill and Frank Howard proved forceful and able speakers and they had prepared arguments that were enlightening, entertaining and certainly unusual. Attention, laughter and applause for each speaker showed the debate was a definite success.

An instrumental trio of Alex. Ingram on flute, clarinet and saxophone, Bernard Holloway on violin and cello and Max Clark on piano played two groups of well known popular tunes. This versatile trio was very well received.

Mrs. Otto Mackey thanked all those taking part in this very entertaining evening.

It was closed by Mr. Bill Anderson and his committee serving the refreshments.

OMEMEE SCHOOL

OMEMEE, April 9 (ENS). — Omemee Home and School Association meeting Tuesday evening was featured by the presentation of a film, "Family Circles," which was introduced by Mrs. Lloyd Raper, Parent Education convener for Home and School Council, Peterborough.

Four different home aspects were dealt with showing different attitudes of parent to child and child to parent, also the place of the father in the home of a couple generations ago was contrasted with that of the modern home. A very interesting discussion ensued, led by Mrs. Raper. The consensus of opinion seemed to be that while the old fashioned father was too domineering the modern father was too indifferent and while the value of parental discipline should not be underestimated, there should go with it under standing and encouragement. They also agreed that home influence is the strongest factor in setting the standards of a child—what he learns in school he tests against the background of what he has learned at home.

Mrs. H. Hill as spokesman for a delegation from the Omemee and District Horticultural Society acquainted Home and School with the society's intention to have three classes in which high school students could compete in the August flower show, and asked if Home and School would be interested in contributing toward prizes. Five dollars was voted, to be distributed as the society saw fit among the three classes. The classes, as explained by Mrs. Hill, are to be miniature home and garden, woodland scene, and floral mat of certain size. Mr. Wesley Wilson, horticultural president, also spoke.

Rev. C. Richmond read a poem called "A Boy's Song."

Business included the appointing of two delegates to the spring convention at the Royal York Hotel. Mrs. R. Kenny and Mrs. D. Hicks were chosen. Thirty dollars was voted them for expenses. Mrs. Kenney reported that $25 had been realized from the recent tea and bakesale. Miss Lamb's room won the shield for parent attendance.

Hostesses for the social half hour were Mrs. Isabella Whetung, Mrs. McGill, Mrs. A. Whetung, and Mrs. Wilfred Wilson.

HAVELOCK

HAVELOCK, April 9—(ENS)—"Rheumatic Fever, Childhood's Greatest Enemy," was the subject of the health talk given by Mrs. James Wilde at a meeting of the Havelock Home and School Association held in the school Monday night.

Rheumatic fever, Mrs. Wilde said, cost more deaths among school age children than any other disease and left a million young people with damaged hearts. It is usually preceded by strep infection and in whatever cloak the disease appears, heart damage may result. About two out of five who have had this disease have some type of heart condition. She listed the following symptoms: failure to gain; frequent colds and sore throat; unexplained nose-bleeds; pains in arms, legs and joints; restlessness and twitching; sudden behavior and personality changes.

The strange thing about the disease is that it recurs and among the ways to protect children from it, Mrs. Wilde said, was to put them under a doctor's care immediately there were any signs of ear, nose or throat trouble.

The Rev. R. D. Duncanson showed both educational and comic pictures. Other items on the program for which Mrs. F. McKay was the convener, were community singing with Mrs. D. Kirk at the piano, a piano solo by Miss Helen Anderson and a vocal solo by Mrs. W. Goadsby.

The attendance shield and prize of $1 was won by Mrs. Linden's room. The president, Mrs. B. Johnson presided and thanked the society for appointing her as the delegate to the H. and S. convention in Toronto. Mrs. G. Whitney will also attend. Mrs. W. Corneil spoke briefly on the publications and sold some books on display. Mrs. Whitney reported on the amateur night sponsored recently by the H. & S. Association in the town hall. H. Hunter, public school principal, tendered a vote of thanks to Mr. Duncanson for showing the films. Donnie Wilde and Omar Corneil took up the collection.

QUEEN MARY SCHOOL

Queen Mary Home and School Association met Monday evening in the auditorium. Mr. William Ovens, president, was in the chair for a short business session.

Devotional period was conducted by Mrs. G. Reader.

On behalf of the Association, Mr. Ovens extended a vote of thanks to Mrs. J. Nichols and her committee for the highly successful St. Patrick's Tea.

Conveners were asked to have their reports ready for the annual meeting in May.

Miss Chalk's class won the attendance prize.

The speaker, Mr. William MacDonnell, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Forestry Association of Ontario, was introduced by Mr. D. Vaisey. As this is National Wildlife Week, Mr. MacDonnell presented a talk on this subject. He stressed the danger of losing natural resources through the destruction of trees which are servants to mankind, in that they hold precipitation, temper climates, protect the topsoil, and combine with electricity for our benefits.

Mr. MacDonnell pointed out the dangers of stream pollution by soil through incorrect plowing of fields and removing of shrubbery and tree covering. He remarked that the trend is an alarming one, although not imminent, not on our doorstep will be felt in the next three or four generations. Contributions made by wild life to natural reforestation were mentioned, the squirrel as an example, of a great tree planter. Forest fires create a tremendous amount of suffering, and 83 per cent of fires are due to carelessness. So many depend on the forest for their living and the speaker stressed that everyone is fundamentally responsible to pass on what they have inherited.

A film titled "Your Forest Heritage" was shown following Mr. Mac Donnell's speech.

Another film "The Sport Parade" was presented, followed by refreshments.

FUNNY BUSINESS - By Hershberger

"It rings the bell whenever you write anything that may be grounds for a breach of promise suit!"

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Fried Chicken Offered On Special Menu

"More chicken stuff later." I see that I said that last week.

I left you with the chicken all cut up—so where do we go from there? I'll bet I'll rate high with plenty of husbands if you try this menu, including Fried Chicken with Crunchy Crust.

Fried Chicken with Crunchy Crust
Duchess Potatoes
Combined Frozen Limas and Canned Kernel Corn
Emem's Salad with Homemade French Dressing
(that does not separate)
Deep Rhubarb Pie
Coffee

Directions

The chicken is clean and cut up in serving pieces. (If boiling fowl is used time of steaming must be lengthened to nearly 3 hours—or until it is tender.) Place on trivet in large kettle with tight-fitting cover. One cup water is sufficient but does not provide enough liquid for gravy. If you want gravy add up to 3 cups hot water. Add 1 cup outer stalk celery, 1 bay leaf, 2 slices onion. Cover and steam until chicken is tender. As this comes to boiling point reduce heat so that water only simmers. Add 1½ teaspoons salt during last 10 minutes of cooking, and turn chicken pieces over about 3 times during cooking period. Test with sharp knife tip or fork to see if it is tender. Drain very well. Thighs may require longer cooking. Roll pieces of chicken in salted and peppered flour. Dip each piece in a mixture of 1 tablespoon cream beaten with 1 egg. Then roll in finely crushed corn flakes, being sure to cover entire surface, pressing flakes onto chicken. Let stand 30 minutes, turning once. Deep fry at 350 deg. Fahr. until golden brown. This type of crust browns quickly—so keep your eye on it, and skim out the pieces onto glazed paper as soon as they are brown. Keep Hot.

Duchess Potatoes

Make your best fluffy mashed potatoes, using twice as much milk as usual, making them almost sloppy. Add butter and 1 well-beaten egg. Turn into a buttered casserole, brush top with melted butter, sprinkle with paprika and bake until heated through and top is crusty and golden.

Homemade French Dressing (That does not separate).

In a bowl combine ½ cup vinegar, 1 tablespoon paprika, 1½ teaspoons salt, dash of red pepper, 1 finely cut clove garlic or ½ teaspoon garlic salt, 3 tablespoons sugar, and 1 egg. Beat with rotary or electric beater until well mixed — about 2 minutes. Now very slowly drip in 1 cup cold salad oil. If you do not add the oil slowly, especially at first, it will not emulsify. It must be beaten hard all of the time. Keep in covered jar in refrigerator. This keeps well and is excellent with

Emem's Salad

One-half medium-sized head Iceberg lettuce, 1½ to 2 cups well-packed shredded new cabbage (shred this in hair-like shreds with very sharp knife), 1 firm tomato cut into wafer thin slices, about ¼ cup either fine slivers of cucumber or green pepper, ½ teasopon finely chopped green onion (or tips from sprouted cooking onion), and about ¼ to ½ cup homemade French dressing. Toss lightly with fork and serve at once. Salads should be prepared at the last minute, just before announcing "dinner is served" to retain their full vitamin content.

If you want to know how to make the deep rhubarb pie, write to me.

Murray St. Baby Band Mothers' meeting Tuesday evening in the church parlour was presided over by president Mrs. J. Wishart. Mrs. Ron Bishop read minutes and Mrs. Frank Ephgrave reported on finances. Mrs. C. Gillespie's group had charge of the program and Mrs. R. Faulkner read the scripture selection. Mrs. D. T. Diplock gave the mothers an outline of the work of the Children's Aid Society and was thanked by Mrs. M. Curtis. Mrs. Ivan Morgan said the closing prayer and refreshments were then enjoyed.

George St. Y.P.U. held their weekly meeting Monday evening in the Sunday School auditorium. Worship service was conducted by George Bedford, stewardship and training convener. The theme was "Easter", and he also read the scripture and offered prayer. President Marion Brown led a lively sing song, with Shirley Starke at the piano, and also conducted the business. Recreation was conducted by Coburn MacLaggan and refreshments were served by the group in charge.

Miss Jean Ingram, 44 Rose Ave., has just returned from Pasadena where she attended the marriage of her niece, Miss Molly Service, daughter of the late Molly Ingram and Mr. William Service of Detroit, to Mr. Jack Dougherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilson Dougherty of Arcadia, California.

Originates Curling Songs

Entertainment at the Ladies' Curling Club banquet on Tuesday evening was arranged by the convener Mrs. Harvie Wilson and was entirely provided by club members. Mrs. Wilson put original words to some popular tunes to make up a larger selection of curling songs and they were sung with zest during intermissions in the dinner hour. Mrs. Maurice Holt provided the piano accompaniment. Feature of the floor show was a duet which began as the favorite old song "Two Little Maids" and ended as "Two Little Curlers," through adjustment by Mrs. Wilson who sang with Mrs. Dick Miller. The "Russian Quartette" was composed of Mrs. Russell Morgan, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Clare Clark and Mrs. Wilson with Mrs. Harry Northrop the director, and is illustrative of Russian temperament.

Tea Proceeds To Permit

Kinette Club monthly meeting was at the home of Mrs. Clarence Boorman Tuesday evening. Treasurer's report given by Mrs. Bob Hamilton, was interesting because of the Fashion Tea financial summary. It was deemed a successful event to use the money in sending a number of diabetic children to Ilahee Camp, Cobourg, during this summer. This is one of the club's projects and while two children were cared for during the summer of 1951 it is hoped to be able to send more children this year. President Mrs. Howard Powell extended personal thanks to Kinettes for each doing a fine job and helping to make a sucessful affair. It was decided to hold a "clothing exchange" similar to one held a year ago some time in early May. Details of this will be announced later. Lunch was served under direction of Mrs. Harley Weir, Social Convenor, assisted by members.

Meet At Leader's Home

Group 8 of the W.M.S. of George St. United Church met at the home of Mrs. Roy Morrison, 544 Aylmer St., Tuesday evening. Mrs. Morrison, group leader, opened the meeting with an Easter thought and a poem "Let Christ Come In" and conducted the business. There were seven hospital and 10 home calls reported. Devotional period was in charge of Mrs. E. R. Rosborough who read a poem in keeping with Easter. Scripture reading was given by Miss Isla Sayers and prayer offered by Mrs. Ella Bradford. A poem "The Risen Christ" was read by Mrs. Rosborough. Mrs. Adam Sands Jr., rendered two lovely vocal solos "The Old Rugged Cross" and "Take Me Back to Gethsemane." A chapter of the study book, "French Canadian Evangelism," was reviewed by Mrs. Arnold Mathews who gave a very thoughtful message on four Easter words "Kod Knows, God Cares." Lunch was served by Mrs. J. Stenton and her committee and a social half hour enjoyed. Mrs. W. R. Young moved a vote of thanks to those who took part during the evening and to the hostesses.

Fete Bride-to-Be

HAVELOCK, April 9 (ENS)—Mrs. Glenn Fairman and Mrs. Roy Emery were joint hostesses for a miscellaneous shower at the home of the latter, in honor of Miss Hazel King whose marriage to Carl Nobes of Havelock will take place April 19.

Following the playing of the wedding march, the guest of honor was seated under a cluster of balloons from which she was given a shower of confetti. She was then presented with a bride's book by Mrs. Fairman. The many gifts, presented by Miss Wilma Emery, were arranged under an evergreen tree trimmed with pink and white streamers. White bells and streamers were used for to decorate the living room. Mrs. Joseph Cosgrove was the winner of the lucky draw and the contest was won by Mrs. W. Nobes, Sr.

Those present were, Mrs. T. Menzies, Miss Birdie Menzies, Miss Violet Bound, Miss Marian Vanvolkenburg, Mrs. J. Cosgrove, Mrs. E. Henderson, Mrs. W. Nobes, Jr. Miss Wilma Emery, Mrs. D. Leard, Mrs. W. Nobes, Sr.

Elect New Slate At Curling Club Annual Meeting

Mrs. Jack Fanning, elected president of Peterborough Ladies' Curling Club at the annual meeting Tuesday night, succeeds Mrs. T. F. Doughty. The new vice president of the club is Mrs. V. A. Selkirk.

Mrs. Fanning will call a meeting of the executive shortly to plan for next season. An amendment to the constitution will be in effect by which skips may be appointed by the executive council at any time during the term of that council. The by-law previously allowed skips to be appointed at the close of the preceding season only, and considerable difficulty arose this past season through skips having to drop out because of illness.

Mrs. M. G. McCartney will again be the club secretary and her assistant will be Mrs. E. O'Toole. Treasurer will again be Mrs. J. V. Elliott with Mrs. J. C. Green to assist her. New games convener is Mrs. Ed. Riley and the bonspiel conveners will be Mrs. Jack Watts and Mrs. Gerald Wood.

Club social activities will function next season under Mrs. Wm. Archibald. Mrs. R. Morgan and Mrs. R. H. Turner will again be conveners of the house committee. Mrs. Harvie Wilson is taking over the membership and Mrs. Harry Northrop will be entertainment convener. The Saturday night convener will be Mrs. H. Baptie and Mrs. H. Woodcox will be convener of leads and seconds.

Record Past Year

Mrs. McCartney's complete resume of the past year reminded members of many good times and some incidents of their bonspiels. The outstanding event was the 11th annual Warne bonspiel with 32 rinks competing at the club over three days.

Renovation of the club lounge—walls repainted, floors refinished, slip covers washed, etc.—with most of the labour supplied by the lady members, won the hearty approval and some help from the men.

There were 72 active curlers, 12 of them new members who received expert instruction at beginning of the season. Total membership was 112. Eighteen rinks commenced the club schedule on November 2nd last. The Saturday night committee reported a total of 649 curlers using the rink.

Meals served on the third floor by the ladies for the men's bonspiels of the season brought in more than $300, profit which has been deposited to the Tankard fund until the expenses of this event are known. Mrs. J. Fanning, representative to the men's committee, was in charge of this work. Social events which included the opening tea, bonspiel teas and the closing bonquet were in charge of Mrs. Len Bearne.

DEBBIE RECTOR, 9, of Nashville, Tenn., plants a kiss on the cheek of her cousin, Cub Scout Billy Steber, 10, for saving her life. Debbie, who cannot swim, fell from a raft into 10 feet of water. Billy heard her screm. He jumped into the water and pulled her to safety the way he had been taught at the Y.M.C.A. pool. Billy's comment: "I want you to learn to swim, Debbie."

Elect Mrs. Collis Second Term C.J.L. President

Nominating committee chairman for the Catholic Junior League, Miss Mary Clancy, announced Monday evening the re-election of Mrs. E. Collis as president for a second term. She was reporting at the annual meeting held in the social centre.

Also, the following executive members will remain in office a second term: first vice-president, Miss L. Sullivan; second vice-president, Miss V. O'Leary; third vice-president, Mrs. B. Baldwin; corresponding secretary, Miss A. Krom; recording secretary, Mrs. W. Gannon; treasurer, Mrs. J. Condon; telephone, Miss M. Sullivan; publicity, Miss M. Garvey; citizenship, Miss E. Collins; social convener, Mrs. J. O'Brien; refreshments, Mrs. L. Kearney.

Miss A. Krom read the annual report for the past year: chaplain was Monsignor P. P. Butler. The national per capita tax, diocesan per capita and national budget have been paid; also reports as follows: Mrs. J. Condon, treasurer, credit balance $87.57; Miss A. Krom, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. Gannon, recording secretary; Miss M. Garvey, publicity convener, 13 local newspaper reports and 11 reports to each of Canadian Register, National Convener of Juniors and Canadian League. Miss L. Sullivan, membership and entertainment convener, 60 paid up members; films shown at two meetings, clergy guest speakers at three meetings.

Miss R. Baldwin, social service convener; three rummage sales; one boy from St. Vincent's Orphanage sent to summer camp for health; picnic held for Orphanage boys at Chemong Park; four bottles cod liver oil donated to Orphanage; two boxes of toys, clothing, Catholic papers and magazines sent to Kearney and Britt parishes; three packages used Christmas cards sent to Crippled Children's Hospital in England; two complete dinners and six baskets for shut-ins delivered at Christmas as well as donations to Orphanage, St. Joseph's Hospital and House of Providence; congratulations and get well cards sent to members in hospital.

Miss M. Sullivan, telephone convener; Mrs. J. O'Brien, social convener, membership tea, would have made her curtsy at one of the royal presentation parties in June.

Now her father, L. Dana Wilgress, is returning from his high commissioner's post here to become under-secretary for external affairs at Ottawa.

"Perhaps Diana will be able to come over to be presented next year," said Mrs. Wilgress, Diana's Russian-born mother.

Miss Wilgress, a fashion-conscious teen-ager, hopes to become a professional model in Canada. First, she will complete her schooling at Macdonald College, Ste. Anne De Bellevue, Que., and take a domestic science course.

She made her modelling debut at an export show in Eastbourne, Sussex, in March, 1951, and later appeared at a third-dimensional exhibit at the Festival of Britain.

To Miss Chance Of Presentation

LONDON (CP) — Diplomat's daughter Diana Wilgress will miss a chance to be presented to the Queen because her father has been recalled to Canada.

Ordinarily 17-year-old Diana Christmas dinner, euchre and bridge party and communion breakfast. Miss L. Kearney, refreshment convener, light lunches served after each monthly meeting, except during Lent. Miss V. O'Leary, study clubs and education, $5.00 donated to the best all-round girl of St. Peter's High School; two study clubs under the direction of Fathers Garvey and Weis held each week.

Mrs. J. O'Brien announced that the annual communion breakfast will be held on April 20 after 9 o'clock mass. Guest speaker will be Dr. Edward Sherry of Toronto.

Unveil Plaque Honoring Msgnr. P. P. Butler

Unveiling of a plaque to honor Rt. Rev. Monsignor P. P. Butler, former rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, took place at the meeting of the St. Peter's Parent-Teacher Association Monday evening in the K. of C. Hall. President Mr. J. J. Legris was in the chair.

The plaque which will be placed in the new grade school for boys now under construction at corner of Reid and Brock Sts., is a tribute to Monsignor Butler's outstanding interest and zeal in the erection of the new school.

Speakers of the evening were Dr. W. S. Fitzpatrick who gave a talk on anaesthesia, and the Rev. J. F. Houlihan who spoke on separate schools. Mr. J. G. McCarney, chairman of the Separate School Board, outlined the value of a Parent-Teacher Association to the school.

Mr. Anthony DeNoble entertained with vocal solos and was accompanied by pianist Mrs. R. G. Aman.

George St. W.M.S. Enjoys Easter Program

Easter meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Gorge Street United Church took place in the board room Tuesday afternoon. Miss I. Shaffer, president, opened with an Easter poem and prayer. Mrs. Roy Powell acted as Secretary in the absence of Mrs. I. P. Bickle.

Group three was in charge of the Easter program. Leader Mrs. I. Beatty presided and after some lovely thoughts on Easter called Mrs. H. Woods to read the scripture lesson which was followed with prayer by Mrs. Agnes White.

Two lovely solos, "I Walked Where Jesus Walked," and "The Holy City" by Mrs. R. K. Tedford, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. W. L. McNeil, were much appreciated.

Mrs. E. S. Kingdon gave an inspirational talk taking as her topic "Fairth In Everyday Living." Mrs. Kingdon said we are so busy living that we forget to go to the source of our faith. Lives are like books full of chapters, some interesting, some full of trouble until we come to the last chapter where everything turns out right. As Christians we must believe this life is only temporary and that the life hereafter is going to be happy and everlasting. Easter is a time for renewing our faith," she said.

Mrs. Beatty thanked those who helped make the meeting so enjoyable and closed with prayer.

Siamese Woman Studies Banking

OTTAWA—(CP)—A young Siamese woman is setting a precedent at the staid Bank of Canada.

Foreign visitors frequently come to the bank, but Miss Krongthong Chutima is the first woman ever to attempt to take the bank apart to see how it works.

Miss Chutima, 34-year-old chief of the international section of the research division of the Bank of Thailand, is here under sponsorship of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, better known as the World Bank.

She is learning something of the policies and practices of Canada's central bank. After a six-week term here, she will return to Washington where she has been doing similar work at the United States treasury department. Later she will return to Bangkok where her knowledge may be put to use by the Bank of Thailand.

Daughter of a banker, Miss Chutima decided early on a business career. She is one of a family of five boys and two girls. In 1938, Miss Chutima went to England where she took a Bachelor of Commerce degree at the University of Bristol.

During the war she was studying for her Doctorate in Commerce in the United States when she joined the office of war information as a language technician. She made regular broadcasts for the O.W.I. to her homeland.

After a course at the University of Pennsylvania on international finance, Miss Chutima returned home in 1947 and joined the Bank of Thailand a 10-year-old institution patterned on the Bank of England.

Thailand is facing two allied problems, inflation and how to mobilize personal savings for use in development work.

Miss Chutima says careers for women are no novelty in her country. Women have been elected to the House of Representatives and they have been active in business for years.

DOROTHY DIX

Education Need Not Mean Student's Loss Of Faith

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a first-year honor student at a university, taking such subjects as philosophy, psychology and comparative religions. As our philosophy professor himself says, the purpose of an arts education is to jolt the student into thinking for himself. My parents, who have not had a university education, call me a cynic, skeptic and a generally doubting, heartless person. I think the fact that I am going through for social work indicates I do have some regard for the feelings of others.

I was once a very religious person—now I don't know. Surely there would be no progress if we all accepted what we were told as gospel truth. It is evidence enough that so much of what was once accepted as true has been disproved. The motto of our college is "The Truth Shall Make You Free"—or is ignorance bliss?

Surely my present confused state of mind will not last but is only a phase necessary to realize how little I know. Surely my education will fill the void it has created with other worthwhile things. Or must I always wander with nothing to cling to?

CAROLINE M. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since you are in a quoting mood, may I also remind you that "A little learning is a dangerous thing," and you, who are embarking on the great experience of a university education, have acquired very little as yet. The enormous fund of the world's knowledge is at your feet; but you will walk a long way before you do much more than wade about its edges.

Try The Bible

Now let me recommend a little reading. Your university's motto is taken from the eighth chapter of the Gospel according to St. John. Read it, and you will see that truth in this instance, as in all others, is God! Knowing that God is the Truth will free your mind of all doubts as to your ultimate destiny and your immediate aims. To allay the confusion that has crept into your soul through a sudden overdose of higher education, why not make an appointment for some good discussions with your pastor?

While it is true that knowledge has disproved many facts once held to be true, there are certain immutable verities that have held since the beginning of time, despite countless efforts to prove them worthless. The fundamentals of your church, the integrity of your country, the love and devotion of your family, are things you live with day in and day out, accepting them unquestioningly.

I know something of the university you attend, and nothing you will learn there will make you waver from these essential truths. As you progress in your quest for knowledge, you'll learn that education only emphasizes the necessity for faith in these basic things of life.

Knowledge should be constructive, not destructive; use it to build your intellectual resources, not destroy them!

Since you have chosen social work as your calling, you will have more than an average need for faith, a humane heart, and complete selflessness. Don't let a wrong conception of the word "truth" throw you off balance into an abyss of disbelief and apathy.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 18 years old, two years younger than my fiance. He expects to be drafted and we'd like to get married before he goes into the Army. My parents are willing to sign for the marriage license but his people aren't. We've known each other for two years. UNDECIDED

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your fiance is too young to be married, and in view of the uncertainty of his immediate future, is in no position to assume the responsibility of a wife. Abide by the decision of his parents; postpone the wedding until he's back in civilian clothes.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My sister and I disagree on this case. A few weeks ago, on a party, a friend of mine of long standing had a few too many cocktails. She was, to be brief, making a fool of herself. People were staring and talking. I like the girl and didn't want to see her belittle herself, so I talked to her and tried to make her come to her senses. I thought I was being a friend. My sister said I should have minded my own business. D. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: There are times to mind one's own business, and times to interfere. This was one of the latter. I don't see how a friend could stand by quietly and watch someone she liked make a public show of herself. You were perfectly right to make an effort to set the girl straight. I hope you succeeded.

"Hot Flashes" Stopped or strikingly relieved in tests by doctors!

• If you're miserable from the "hot flashes," and accompanying irritable, restless feelings of "change of life"—you may be suffering unnecessarily!

For, in tests by doctors, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought relief from such functionally-caused suffering—in case after case! Complete or striking relief.

Yes! Research has proved Lydia Pinkham's thoroughly modern in action . . . has shown you where to look for relief from those distressing, nervous, "out of sorts" feelings of mid-life "change"!

So get Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, or new, improved Tablets. Both are grand, too, for functional pains and "weak" feelings of monthly periods.

It acts through a woman's sympathetic nervous system to relieve distress of those awful "heat waves"!

You will make no mistake (if you want a type of job that offers you big wages from the start, with a secure future) if you investigate what a course in Radio and Television Servicing from Radio College of Canada can do for you. You've seen training course offered before! This one is proven up to the hilt by the success of many other men like you, who knew nothing about radio when they started, but now have interesting, highly paid jobs. Have no doubts—we can train you! An excellent kit of radio parts goes with your course, and helps you learn by actual practice work in your home. This is a home-study course, learn at home in spare time, with no interruption in your present earning. Free 40-page book shows you the facts. Write to-day, stating age and education to: Radio College of Canada, 86 Bathurst Street, Toronto 2B.

The first retailer said: "If the government had insisted on a cash down payment, instead of allowing trade-ins as part of the down payment, there wouldn't be the But he didn't think it would be a chaotic conditions we have in the appliance field."

One car dealer said of the lower excise tax on cars: "We love it." He thought sales would jump in spite of the fact that credit restrictions remain the same (one-half down and 18 months to pay the balance.)

Another dealer, breaking down the tax on cars, said that the industry was still carrying a "terrific load." On cars there is a sales tax of 10 per cent and a luxury tax of 15 per cent. The luxury tax was 25 per cent.

Car Sales Down

This dealer pointed out that car sales are down 40 per cent from last year, and he expected the industry would find it an almost impossible task to close the gap. The supply of cars is only fair; most dealers are on a hand-to-mouth basis.

Although new car dealers are pleased with the lower tax, they feel that the man who buys on time will find himself very little benefitted by the price cuts. There wouldn't be much difference when $160 was spread over 18 months, they felt.

One dealer predicted that the reduced prices would eventually affect used car prices as well. "They're pretty low now because sales have been slow, and there will be no immediate change in their prices. But the new taxes are bound to have their effect eventually."

Siamese Woman

Besides what she learns of high finance, Miss Chutima will take back to her country a love of the music of the west. She didn't like it at first but once her ear became accustomed to our scale, her enjoyment grew.

"I like Haydn and Mozart best. They are not too emotional. Liking Beethoven and Brahms just followed naturally."

Poisoned Foxes, Fined

An Apsley man, Joseph Lean was fined $10 and $2.50 costs today for using poison to kill three foxes. Lean entered a written plea of guilty on the charge in police court today which was laid by Conservation Officer Robert Trotter of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.

Loss-Leader Selling Needs Studying

OTTAWA, April 9 (CP)—The McQuarrie committee, in a report tabled today in the commons, said loss-leader selling is a complex problem which should be thoroughly studied. However, it recommended no immediate legislation to combat the idea.

The practice by some merchants of selling below cost to attract trade and eliminate competition was criticized in the commons last year when the government's anti-price-fixing bill was considered.

The committee, which has recommended elimination of price fixing in its initial report, reiterated its belief that the practice of using standard-brand goods as loss leaders was not in the public interest.

Complex Matter

"The matter is one which is complex, particularly when dealt with in legislation which is based chiefly on criminal law," the committee said.

"The pracitce requires a careful definition. Mere prohibition of selling below invoice cost would affect a very limited proportion of cases. Leeway must be given in some cases at least for the disposal or surplus stock."

Extreme use of the device could be prosecuted under the criminal code, the committee added.

Meanwhile, it proposed that the practice be referred to the government's anti-combines officials for "thorough study" by a suggested dual - functioning anti-combines agency and board.

City Council Allows Gas Tanks

Shell Oil Co. has received from the city council permission to place three 2,000 gallon tanks at these locations: Monaghan Road and Albert Street; 747 Park Street and the corner of Reid and Dublin Streets.

Permission has also been granted to E. L. Ruddy Co. to set up poster panels on the west side of Louis St., subject to removal on 30 days' notice.

Warden R. R. Stewart, Reeve James Gifford and Reeve Willard Waterman have been appointed by county council as committee to confer with a similar group from the city council on matters of interest to both municipalities.

Gospel Hall, McDonnel St., has been given permission by the council to hold services on Confederation Square Sunday evenings from 8:15 to 9:15 p.m.

Hopes With Surplus To Balance Budget

OTTAWA, April 9 — (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott, forecasting a budgetary surplus of $9,000,000 for 1952-63, said he is really aiming at a balanced budget.

In his budget speech, he estimated revenues for the current year at $4,279,000,000 and expenditures at $4,270,000,000.

In the last fiscal year revenues totalled $4,003,111,000— an all-time high—and expenditures $3,647,374,000.

Men Teachers Plan To Meet In Toronto

LONDON, April 8 — (CP). — Representatives of more than 4,000 Ontario Public School men teachers will meet here for the first time next week for the provincial assembly of the Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation.

Guest speakers during the sessions will include Dr. George P. Gilmour, president of McMaster University, and Alex. Fleming, Kitchener, representative of men teachers on the Superannuation Commission.

Suggest Court Injunction Used To Quash Illegal Monopolies

OTTAWA, April 9—(CP)—Use of the court injunction to quash illegal combines and monopolies was proposed to the Federal government by the MacQuarrie committee today.

But the committee in a 60,000-word report, left open the question of whether the government has the constitutional or legal right to get such a court order to prevent industries suspected of having breached anti-Combines laws from continuing in business.

Until the matter is cleared up, the committee suggested the Federal Combines legislation be amended to give the courts power to force convicted parties to make periodic reports on activities.

An injunction is a court directive ordering a person from committing an act considered wrongful.

Unsettled In Canada

The United States makes use of the court injunction. In Canada "it is unsettled whether constitutional and other legal obstacles stand in the way of the use of a remedy of this kind," the committee said.

It is urged that the Justice Department give early consideration to provide greater flexibility in Canada's anti-Combines legislation.

"Already the courts have certain procedures of a preventive kind in the field of criminal law. Their power to bind over persons to keep the peace and to release persons on condition of future good behavior approximate an injunctive process. There is, as well, a growing demand that the courts have jurisdiction to issue orders preventing the commission of public wrongs.

" . . . Constitutionally, a strong case can be made that Federal jurisdiction over criminal law includes steps essential to the prevention of crime and that the authorities should not have to stand idly by until wrong has been done if the situation lends itself to preventive measures.

Broader Base

"The trade and commerce head of section 91 of the British North America Act would provide still a broader base and would allow injunctive relief to apply to many more situations."

But there were questions outside the committee's field and until it was settled it could only indicate lines of development for consideration of the proper officers.

"It may be," it added, "that express statutory power, as in the United States, will be found necessary before the courts can take action of this kind; but until the question is clarified by competent opinion it would be premature to propose such a change."

Mrs. Joseph Quigley

The funeral for Mrs. Joseph Quigley, the former Mary Elizabeth Godfrey, 535 Edison Ave., who died Monday, was held today at St. Peter's Cathedral.

Requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. G. J. Weiss.

Pallbearers were Gordon Henry, William Holt, John Rody, Arthur Kinnel, James O'Brien, Allan Robinson. Graveside prayers in St. Peter's cemetery were said by the Rev. R. K. Garvey.

Sales Manager H. J. White Dies In Wyoming

Former General Sales Manager of the Outboard Marine Company Henry James White, 66, 628 Homewood Ave., died suddenly of a heart attack in Lusk, Wyoming, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. White had spent the winter in Arizona and were motoring to Winnipeg to visit friends in that district before returning to Peterborough, when Mr. White suffered the heart attack.

One of the original members of the executive of the Outboard Marine Company, Mr. White joined the company in 1929 as a sales manager. In 1945 he became General Sales Manager until his retirement in October 1951.

Was Bank Manager

Before coming to Peterborough in 1929, he served several years as a bank manager with the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Moncton, New Brunswick; Port Perry, Drumheller, Alberta; Wilcox and Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan; Grimsby and Ingersoll, Ont.

Mr. White became a bank manager when he was 21 years old and during the first development of the west opened a branch of the bank in a railway box car.

Ardent Curler

A member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, he was a former member of the Kiwanis Club. He was an ardent curler and skipped at the Peterborough Curling Club for several years. He was also a boating and fishing enthusiast.

Mr. White was born in Ottawa, son of the late Mrs. John White and Mr. White.

He leaves his wife, the former Olive Mowat; three daughters, Mrs. Grant Gillespie (Mary), Mrs. J. E. Gillespie (Betty), and Mrs. Allan Revie (Peggy) and one son John Robert White, all of Peterborough; and one sister. Miss Edythe M. White of Toronto. One son, Donald, was killed in action while serving with the Royal Canadian Navy in 1945.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

OBITUARY

LEONARD BROWN HUTCHISON

Leonard Brown Hutchison, 64, 603 Weller Street, died suddenly in Hamilton Tuesday.

Mr. Hutchison was born in Kitchener, son of Mrs. John Hutchison, the former Sarah Brown of Toronto, and the late John Hutchison, and has lived in Peterborough for the past 10 years. Formerly he lived in Toronto and Orillia.

He was a representative of the Acoustical Department of the Dominion Sound Equipment Co. of Toronto. A member of All Saints' Anglican Church, Mr. Hutchison was also a life member of Grand River Masonic Lodge, A.F. and A.M., Kitchener, and a member of the Rameses Temple, Toronto.

He leaves his wife, the former Marguerite Mary Fanning, two daughters Mrs. W. G. Whittaker (Mary Joan) of Smithers, British Columbia, and Miss Lenore Maysie Hutchison of Peterborough; four sisters, Miss Maisie L. Hutchison of Toronto, Miss Elizabeth G. Hutchison of Galt, Mrs. W. D. Miller (Olove) of Montreal, and Mrs. Oliver Master (Ethel) of Weston, and one brother Ernie E. Hutchison of Montreal.

The funeral will be held Friday from the residence, 603 Weller Street, to All Saints' Anglican Church. The Rev. M. P. Poole of All Saints' Anglican Church will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

Pointed Rifle At Brother-In-Law, Man Fined $25

Lyle Elmer Whitney, Havelock, pleaded guilty to pointing a loaded firearm at his brother-in-law and was fined $25 and $19.90 costs in police court today.

No evidence was introduced but crown attorney John A. Bradshaw gave a summary of the incident which occurred in a Havelock hotel March 19.

A week ago, Whitney was arraigned on a similar charge, covering the same incident but Magistrate W. R. Philp pointed out that a new section of the Criminal Code had been substituted and the matter was adjourned until today.

After Whitney pleaded guilty to pointing a 30-30 rifle at John Fitzpatrick without lawful excuse, Mr. Bradshaw said he would offer no evidence on the charge Whitney was first arraigned on and also offered no evidence on a third charge against Whitney of having possession of a weapon for a purpose dangerous to the public peace.

Mr. Bradshaw stated that the accused's sister who is estranged from her husband John Fitzpatrick lives at the same hotel as Whitney. On March 19, Mr. Bradshaw said Fitzpatrick "endeavoured to see his wife, although he had been warned to stay away from her.

"The accused had been drinking but Fitzpatrick did not heed the warning to stay away from Mrs. Fitzpatrick," Mr. Bradshaw said. Whitney was apprehended outside the room Fitzpatrick was in, with a loaded Winchester rifle.

"The rifle was wrested from him," said Mr. Bradshaw and I think he has learned his lesson. I would suggest a fine of $25.

Trevor Clarke appeared for Whitney and said he would go along with Mr. Bradshaw's suggestion.

Magistrate W. R. Philp told Whitney the penalty for such an offence is not less than a $10 fine or more than $100 or 30 days in jail.

No Explanation Driver Fined $50

Wilbert R. Wood, 506 Murray St., was convicted of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol and was fined $50 and $6.75 costs in police court today.

Wood was not represented by counsel and in conducting his own defence, he admitted having six glasses of beer Saturday afternoon before he was involved in an accident.

Robert Watkins, 411 Dublin St., said he was going south on Park St., when a car made a wide right hand turn off Brock St., to go north on Park St. The two cars collided and Watkins said about $200 damage resulted to his car.

Walked Cautiously

Constable Wilfred Perry said that Wood's breath smelled strongly of alcohol but he did not notice anything unusual in his manner of walking. Constable Arthur Beardsmore said that Wood appearaed to be walking cautiously as if to make sure he did not stagger. Constable Beardsmore's description of how Wood walked after the accident was similar to that of the other driver Watkins who said that Wood did not stagger but appeared to be taking extreme care so that he would not appear to stagger.

Wood pointed out the difference in the testimony of the two officers and explained that his manner of walking was due to his having sore feet which he said he had had X-rayed that day.

He admitted making a wide turn on to Park St., but said he stopped for the through street before making the turn.

In convicting Wood, Magistrate W. R. Philp told him that the amount of beer consumed and the lack of satisfactory explanation for the accident brought him within the meaning of the charge.

Three Trapped In Sawmill Flood

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., April 9 (CP)—The flooding Saskatchewan river Tuesday swamped a sawmill with 20 feet of ice and water and took the lives of three men.

Drowned near Codette, about 80 miles northeast of here, were Henry Wiebe, 35, Abe Jansen, 20, and Peter Hendricks, 20. They died in attempting to save personal effects from their living quarters.

George Brown, operator of the sawmill, said he was awakened by the sound of grinding ice early Tuesday morning and found his shack floor covered with water. He sounded an alarm and men working in the mill were evacuated.

Second Offender

Thomas Steele, Lakefied highway, pleaded guilty in police court toda yto a drunk charge. Steele admitted being convicted of drunkenness in January this year and was fined $50 and $2.50 costs or one month in jail.

Vagrancy Charge

Harold Brady, 50, no fixed address, pleaded guilty to a vagrancy charge in polic ecourt today and was fined $10 and $2.50 costs or ten days in jail.

1,846 Petition Asks Vote On Bus Subsidy

LINDSAY, April 9—Citizens of Lindsay are trying hard to keep a bus service operating in the town.

Monday night a delegation headed by William Parkin presented a petition signed by 1,846 residents asking that the council; if it felt the bus line should be subsidized, put the question to a public vote.

A few weeks ago the bus line company informed the council that financial losses demanded that the company close down.

Mr. Parkin suggested that the council might be able to meet with officials of this line or some other line and arrange for a continued service. He also suggested that an hourly service and a 10 cent fare might help the company considerably.

Need More Passengers

Mayor Lamb said that all the members of the council were anxious to keep the Lindsay bus line operating. He also said that he had talked to the local manager, who had explained that the only thing that could make the venture a success was to have a larger number of passengers.

W. R. Allely read a letter from the head office of the firm operating the bus line and the firm believed than an increased fare wasn't the answer as this would tend to lower the number of passengers. He added that a meeting was being arranged between members of the council and members of the bus company to take place next week.

Cavan Council Lauds Twp. Hockey Teams

MILLBROOK, April 9 (ENS)—Letters of congratulation to two successful hockey teams of the township were sent by Cavan township council at their April meeting.

The congratulatory letters went to the Scott's Corners team, midget champions, and the Fourth Line team, winner of the township championship.

Accounts totalling about $3,053 were ordered paid, the largest item being $2,332.30 for road vouchers.

Clerk P. I. Bentley was instructed to prepare a list of all registered taxes, three years and over, for a tax sale to be advertised later.

Seeks Alimony

LOS ANGELES, April 9 (AP).—Actress Barbara Payton, who estimated Franchot Tone is worth more than $1,000,000, says she plans to seek alimony of at least $1,000 a month in a claim to be filed soon. Tone's petition for an uncontested divorce was postponed indefinitely yesterday in view of Miss Payton's recent decision to contest it. She has filed a cross complaint charging cruelty.

Plans Libel Suit

LOS ANGELES, April 9 (AP).—Charging its publishers and writers falsely labelled him a former Communist, stage and screen director Garson Kanin has filed suit for $2,025,000 libel damages against the Hollywood reporter, Film Trade Daily. Kanin, who also writes and produces movies and plays, is best known for his production, "Born Yesterday."

INTERVIEWS CHIANG KAI-SHEK—Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer with the Canadian forces in Korea, obtained an exclusive interview with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, head of the Chinese Nationalist government. Boss, left, is the first Canadian to visit Chiang since the Nationalists withdrew from the mainland to Formosa. The Generalissimo, centre, speaking through the interpreter, Shen Chang-huan, government spokesman, made striking comment on the possible effects of any Korean truce and forecast that the Nationalists can win all the mainland from the Reds within three years of a military landing.

Tax Rate Raised To 65 Mills For Campbellford Taxpayers

CAMPBELLFORD, April 9 —(ENS)—A bylaw for the collection of taxes at the rate of 65 mills for public school supporters, and 61 mills for separate school supporters, was passed at the regular monthly meeting of the Campbellford town council, held in the council chambers on Monday evening. All members were present, with Mayor W. A. Kingston in the chair.

Last year's tax rate was 58 for public school supporters, 56 for separate school supporters.

A delegation from the community arena board addressed council, asking for $300 to help the arena make up an operating deficit. The two gentlemen stated that at the request of council, they had allowed free skating for the children and free practice time to twelve hockey teams.

If they had been able to charge for this, they contended the arena could have operated at a profit. They further pointed out that there structural repairs necessary to the building, and they had no idea how much this would involve. There was also a $275 insurance premium due. Mr. Putman pointed out that the town was not responsible for debts of the arena and did not have to give the money but in so far as the arena was an asset to the town and that it had so far cost the town nothing, they felt the grant was justified.

F. M. Rutherford said that the arena would some day belong to the town, when it was eventually paid for, and Councillor Ness said that in reality, the board this year was asking council to take only $700 toward the purchase of the arena instead of $1000.

Councillor Mrs. I. Tatham said she felt the expenditure should be made in view of the recreation it afforded the children of the town, who had no other means of recreation such as parks or playgrounds. Councillor Maybee added that the Midget hockey team could not have won the Ontario Championship without the arena, and he felt that was well worth the $300.

The grant was passed by council and the two gentlemen left the meeting after thanking council for the grant. They did not, however, mention the $150 grant they had asked for and received from the Seymour township council earlier in the day.

Councillor Maybee, chairman of the relief committee said relief was at the lowest figure it had been in some years, with only about $280 a month going out for this item.

Hector MacMillan, who operates a business establishment on Doxsee Ave., asked for and received a permit to build an addition to his present building.

Mr. Townsend asked council to do something to put teeth into the building by-law, stating that many persons were building and repairing without bothering to obtain a permit. A motion was made to see that this by-law was more strictly enforced.

An offer of $400 from T. E. Hall was accepted for lot 17 on Doxsee Avenue.

A motion on the books since April, 1946, accepting the amount of $500 offered by former mayor J. E. Ayhart for a lot near the town dump was looked into, and as the money has not been paid, the motion was rescined. This lot may soon become more valuable as an industrial site.

Councillor MacMillan suggested that Clayton Hennessy, a war veteran, be named the new caretaker of the cenotaph, and that the salary for this job be increased from $150 to $250. Council adopted his suggestion and sanctioned the appointment.

Councillor A. F. Collette, chairof the police committee said that in view of the fact parking in the town was a problem, especially on open nights, he had tried to locate a spot suitable for a parking lot. Council discussed his suggestion that the town level and fill a lot on Doxsee avenue for this purpose.

The clerk and the treasurer retired while council discussed a salary increase in the form of a cost of living bonus to these two officials. After much discussion, it was decided to grant an increase of $200 each to clerk J. F. McGregor and treasurer Eldon M. Ibey.

Claims World Record

NASSAU, Bahamas, April 9 (AP).—A world record for a blue marlin taken on a 50-pound line was claimed today by Chester J. Maxson, Jr., of Buffalo, N.Y. Maxson's marlin, hooked off Andros Island, weighed 478½ pounds and measures 11 feet, five inches in length. It was boated in 22 minutes. The Bahamas Development Board said the biggest marlin previously taken on a 50-pound-test line weighed 400 pounds even.

Canadian Car Import Banned

AUCKLAND, N. Z., April 9 —(CP)—The New Zealand Government announced today it will not permit automobiles to be imported from Canada and the United States this year.

In addition, after April 30, imports of fully-assembled cars from Britain will be banned.

The decision to refuse licences for North American imports is part of Commonwealth sterling area measures to check the loss of dollar reserves. New Zealand imported about 3,000 cars from Canada and the U.S. last year.

The announcement that only parts will be accepted for import from Britain after the end of this month was prompted by what was described as phenomenal orders placed by importers here for British automobiles. The government said that if these orders were fulfilled, New Zealand's currency balances in London would be seriously depleted.

As a result of the curbs, New Zealand will import only about 28,000 cars this year compared with 26,700 in 1951. Some 43,000 cars were on order before today's reductions.

Envoy To Vatican

ANKARA, Turkey, April 9 (AP).—The foreign office said today Turkey for the first time is establishing diplomatic relations with the Vatican. An envoy of minister rank will be named soon. Turkey's people are almost all Moslem, but the church and state are separate.

Dispute Costs U.S. Million Tons Of Steel

NEW YORK, April 9—(AP)—The steel wage dispute will cost the United States nearly 1,000,000 tons of steel this week even if production is resumed before the week is out, the Iron Age estimated today.

Prior to the strike preparations this week, the industry had been turning out more than 2,000,000 a week.

The metalworking trade weekly predicted that the dispute eventually would be settled on the basis of a wage increase of about 15 cents an hour, plus five to seven cents in fringe benefits. (The Wage Stabilization Board had recommended an increase of 17½ cents and the union had accepted.)

"There will be no giving in on the union shop by steel firms," the publication predicted. "If Mr. Murray gets a good economic package he may eventually give up—for the time being—the union shop."

The Iron Age said the companies expect the steel price problem to be settled as soon as ground work for a contract is reached.

"The amount will not be so much as steel companies had asked for publicly," it said. "It will range around $5 a ton or perhaps slightly more."

Express Derailed

MILAN, Italy, April 9 (AP).—An automatic switch suddenly failed under the speeding wheels of the Orient Express Tuesday night and derailed the passenger train north of Milan. One man was killed and eight persons were injured. The accident occurred at Rho, about 15 miles north of Milan, as the train headed for Paris.

Protest Increases

CORK, Ireland, April 9—(Reuters)—Irish tavern keepers meeting here Tuesday were urged to close for a day, draw their blinds and hang mourning crepe on their doors as a protest against new tax increases on beer and liquor. The landlords decided to ask the National Council of their trade to call a protest closing of pubs throughout Ireland.

Ratify Peace Treaty

LIMA, Peru, April 9—(AP)—Peru's Congress ratified the peace treaty with Japan Tuesday night.

Two Plead Guilty To Theft Charges

Two men pleaded guilty to theft charges in police court today and both were remanded in custody one week for sentence.

Frank W. Booth, 22, Crawford's Grove pleaded guilty to stealing a quantity of gasoline and a car radio valued at more than $25 from Richard Condon April 3.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw asked for the week's remand after Booth elected summary trial and pleaded guilty.

"I am not prepared to give evidence, and there are warrants out for two others involved," Mr. Bradshaw explained.

O.P.P. Constable Thomas Fitzpatrick is carrying out the investigation which lead to Booth's arrest.

Wednesday, city police arrested Claude Ruttan, 33, 1013 High St., on a charge of shoplifting. Today, Ruttan pleaded guilty to stealing a billfold from the T. Eaton Co.

He, too, was remanded until April 16 for sentence.

Die On Pilgrimage

VERA CRUZ, Mex., April 9—(AP)—A truck loaded with farmers on a religious pilgrimage veered off the highway and overturned Tuesday killing and injuring 25. The accident took place near Catemaco, 110 miles southeast of here. The pilgrims were going from Minatitlan to Catemaco.

Try To Oust Nationalists

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., April 9—(AP)—The Russians tried in vain again Tuesday to oust Nationalist China from a U.N. agency. This time it was the seven-member committee of non-governmental organizations. The committee voted 6 to 1 at its closed meeting that the Soviet move was out of order.

Good Health THE CANADIAN WAY

FIRST STEP
Left foot moves forward slowly. Hold ball with two hands until right arm starts back in a pendulum swing.

SECOND STEP
As right foot comes forward, arm swings straight back to a point slightly above waistline. Body leans forward.

THIRD STEP
Left foot slides forward, body lowers, straight arm comes down, close to body. Eyes on point of aim.

BEFORE RELEASE
Ball about 6" above floor. Arm swings through until ball is slightly ahead of bowler's left foot before being released.

AFTER RELEASE
Release ball smoothly, without jerking the body off balance. Straight right arm follows through in full, easy sweep.

FOLLOW THROUGH
You get better speed and direction if your follow-through is done in perfect balance, both feet on floor, eyes focused on point of aim.

Order Charges Of Fraud Against Ayrhart Withdrawn

Steel Firms Lose Court Battle To Get Injunction

WASHINGTON, April 10. (CP)—The United States steel industry, preparing anew to fight government seizure in the courts, began heating up furnaces today for full-scale production. Less than 24 hours after President Truman's dramatic seizure in the face of a threatened strike by 650,000 workers, heads of the $8,000,000,000 industry assured Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer Wednesday night he could count on return to normal production as soon as possible.

But while steel production was gradually resumed, there was no letup in attacks by the steel industry on Truman's seizure order.

In an angry attack on Truman and C.I.O. President Philip Murray, a top industry official said seizure "discharges a political debt to the C.I.O."

Clarence B. Randall, president of the Inland Steel Company, told a national radio and television audience that "if any man now threatens safety for lack of steel, that man's name is Phil Murray."

Officials of the United Steelworkers of America, of which Murray is also president, said the attack was "so extreme and unwarranted as not to deserve a reply."

Randall carried the same angry tone into a telegram he sent to Sawyer, government - appointed boss of the industry, saying his company intends to "seek protection from the courts of rights guaranteed to it by the constitution and laws of the United States."

His telegram promised a bitter legal battle between the steel companies and the government which might be fought right up to the Supreme Court.

The industry lost the first round Wednesday when a federal judge here refused to issue an immediate order nullifying the seizure.

The three companies which lost Wednesday's preliminary court fight also have filed a petition for an injunction — a legal move which asks the court to find the President's order unconstitutional. A hearing may be scheduled within four or five days.

Although the country's four biggest steel producers started calling their men back to work, full-scale re-employment of some 150,000 furloughed workers was expected to take as long as 10 days to two weeks.

Queen Performs Colorful Alms Ceremony

LONDON, April 10 (AP) — The Queen today performed the colorful Easter ceremony of distributing the Royal Maundy alms in Westminster Abbey.

Symbolically, she washed and dried the feet of 13 old men and 13 old women, chosen from among the poorest of her subjects.

Symbolically, she measured out linen cloth so that each of the old men might make a shirt, woollen cloth so the old women might make new garments. Symbolically, she distributed red herring and sprats, portions of salted salmon, and gave each four six-penny loaves of bread.

In the sunny Abbey there were no fish nor loaves, and while high ecclesiastical authorities carried golden basins, there was no water in them and the Queen actually washed no feet.

Twenty-six men and women benefitted from the Royal bounty, as many as the Sovereign is years of age. But there was even symbolism about the number. In the Abbey there were only six neatly-brushed old men and six tidy old women. They represented the others, who will receive their alms from the Queen's messengers. Some were too feeble to come.

Instead of cloth, bread and assorted fish, those who received the Royal Maundy got little green, white and red leather bags.

The women first got a green bag in which there was £1 15 shillings. Each man got a white bag in which there was £2 five shillings. This money was in lieu of the actual cloth the paupers used to get.

The second time around red bags were distributed, each contained £2 10 shillings in place of the fish and bread. Still another bag, a white one, contained the specially-minted Maundy money, as many pence as the Queen is years of age.

The Queen entered the Abbey with her frock-coated, top-hatted husband, the Duke of Edinburgh. Both carried bouquets of spring flowers. The Queen wore a small black hat, black frock under a three-quarter-length black coat, and black shoes with open toes. Around her neck were three strands of pearls.

Timmins Blanketed By Heavy Snowfall

TIMMINS, April 10 — (CP). — While people elsewhere are preparing their Easter finery for the weekend parade, district residents here are digging out from under the worst snowfall to hit during the 1951-1952 winter season.

Six inches of wet, soggy snow came in the wake of bright sunshine and light rain Wednesday to put an end to spring weather which hit here earlier this week.

Temperatures, which soared to 54 degrees Wednesday, plunged to 16 degrees at 3 a.m. today after the minor blizzard.

Highways from Kirkland Lake to Hearst were drifted over and motor traffic was slowed to a crawl as cars and trucks buffeted their way through.

Two Boyd Brothers Remanded For Week

TORONTO, April 10 — (CP)— Remands to April 17 were granted today in the case of Edwin Boyd, 37, and his brother, Norman, 30, charged with armed robbery, and Joseph Lesso, 47, accused of harboring a criminal.

Lesso is the father of Steve Suchan, 23, who faces a charge of murder in the shooting last month of Sergeant of Detectives Edmund Tong.

Frank McMahon, Boyd's lawyer, objected to what he described as the "daily questioning" of Boyd.

He said "Boyd is being held in the Don jail under circumstances in what I would consider solitary confinement. He is being subjected to daily questioning by the police and he has told the police he doesn't wish to say anything."

Canada Makes Big Strides In Development Of Arms

OTTAWA, April 10 (CP) — The defence department said today Canada made "major strides" in development of arms and explosives since the war.

The statement was made in announcing that the scientist mainly responsible is going back to his university job.

He is Prof. Charleton Craig, 42, of Montreal, one of Canada's outstanding weapons experts, who has been superintendent of the armament research and development establishment at Valcartier, Que., for three years.

He is going back to McGill University and will be succeeded by Dr. Hugh Massey Barrett, chief superintendent of another important establishment of the Defence Research Board — the chemical warfare experimental station at Suffield, Alta.

Dr. Barrett, 43, and a native of Moose Jaw, Sask., is an internationally-known chemist. He returned last fall after heading Britain's chemical warfare station for two years.

It has already been announced that Canada is working on both defensive and offensive aspects of chemical and bacterial warfare.

Prof. Craig departed from the research board amid a shower of eulogies. A statement said he combined his ability as a specialist in civil engineering and applied mechanics with "unusual organizational abilities to weld C.A.R.D.E. into a unified team with an outstanding record of scientific and engineering accomplishment."

He is credited with directing the development of Canada's Sabot anti-tank shot recently adopted both by the United Kingdom and the U.S. He also initiated Canada's first guided missile development project, "now progressing satisfactorily at the Valcartier centre."

Prof. Craig served with the department of munitions and supply during the war. He was connected with the design and development of heavy ordnance equipments, gun mounting and control and problem concerning armored fighting vehicles. He also made a notable contribution to the joint air training plan at the Windsor Mills, Que., flying school.

Auto Rams Truck, Man Killed

St. Mary's Car Hits Moving Van At Port Hope Limits

PORT HOPE, April 10 (ENS) —A St. Mary's man was instantly killed on Wednesday night and his companion was seriously injured when their car crashed into the rear of a large truck on the easterly limits of Port Hope. Dead is Charles F. McKay, 35, of St. Mary's. Seriously injured and in Toronto General Hospital is Cardiff Cline, 34.

Cline today was on the "seriously ill" list, but officials described his condition as "fair."

The eastbound car, driven by Cline, ran into the rear of a large moving van, driven by Lucien Daoust of Montreal.

Daoust, also eastbound, slowed down the moving van and is believed to have stopped just inside the city limits. He intended to check his clearance lights before proceeding further along Highway 2.

Swerved To Left

It is believed that Cline failed to see the truck until too late. At the last moment he swerved to the left but ran into the left rear end of the moving van which was reported to be partly on the highway and partly on the shoulder of the highway.

McKay, sitting in the right front seat was instantly killed. And Cline was so badly injured that he was taken to hospital. He was semi-conscious and was unable to give Port Hope police an account of what happened.

The car was badly damaged but the moving van received only slight damage to the rear end.

Constable Vern Leese of Port Hope investigated.

Strangled Bride Jailed 15 Years

HULL, Que., April 10—(CP)— Gerald Ryan, 22, convicted of manslaughter in the strangulation death of his 17-year-old bride at South Temiskaming, Que., last September, was sentenced today to 15 years in penitentiary.

Tried for murder before the late Mr. Justice Valmore Bienvenue and a jury, Ryan was found guilty of manslaughter last February. He was awaiting sentence when Mr. Justice Bienvenue died suddenly while presiding at another murder hearing.

Ryan today was sentenced by Mr. Justice J. Albert Sevigny in the court of Queen's Bench. His mother, Mrs. James Ryan of Cobden, Ont., sat in tears in the courtroom as defence counsel Joseph Ste. Marie made a plea for clemency.

Mrs. Rose Cote Ryan, a bride of only three months, was strangled to death at a South Temiskaming lumber camp where Ryan was cook last Sept. 15.

Suspect Arson At RCEME Bldg.

KINGSTON, April 10 (CP). — A suspected attempt to set fire to an army administration building at nearby Barriefield camp has launched a full-scale police investigation.

An army spokesman said today police are investigating what appears to have been an attempt on Tuesday to set fire to the administration building of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers.

A hot-plate was found early Wednesday burning under a desk in the centre of the oblong building. Two pistols were taken from a cabinet in the paymaster's office at one end of the building.

First phase of the Provost investigation was to parade the R.C.E.M.E. school in the parade square where each man was individually examined for cuts to hands and arms. Police said blood on the window glass indicated persons who broke into the building suffered cuts.

EASTER FLOWERS FROM VANCOUVER were picked on Tuesday morning by Gordon Smith in his garden and received today at 6:30 a.m. by his mother, Mrs. Eva Smith of 46 Morrow St. She was delighted with the daffodils that arrived in perfect condition. Her son, in mantel photo, was a member of the City of Peterborough police force following the Second World War and is now in business for himself at the coast.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

1,600 Homeless As Streets Become Canals

PIERRE, S.D., April 10—(AP)— Waters of the muddy Missouri River, on its worst spring rampage here in 71 years, raced four feet deep through the main street of this capital city of South Dakota today.

Flood waters hit 25 feet and continued to climb. The water was driven 1,600 of Pierre's 5,700 persons from their homes.

Heavy damage to the main business section was certain. The daily Capital-Journal suspended publication and the Pierre Associated Press Bureau, housed in the same building, moved to higher ground in the telephone exchange.

The last of Pierre's four municipal water-pumping stations was knocked out early today. A 1,300,000-gallon reservoir supply was believed enough to last several days.

Touch-And-Go Battle

A touch-and-go battle to save the city power plant continued after an upsurge of water inside the sandbagged building area threatened to leave the city without light and power.

In Fort Pierre, a smaller community just across the river from Pierre, some homes were submerged.

Army engineers issued flood warnings for downstream cities along the rampaging stream. The crest was expected to hit Sioux City, Ia., Monday or Tuesday, and swirl into Omaha, Neb., April 17-18.

Proclaims Emergency

Mayor Ralph Henderson of Sioux City proclaimed an emergency calling for evacuation of 200 homes, the stockyards and a packing plant on Friday.

The weather bureau at Omaha forecast a crest two feet above the 26.6 foot levees erected to protect that city and neighboring Council Bluffs, Ia.

Water was up to three feet deep in the Pierre business section. Basement walls and foundations of two business places caved in.

Army "ducks" and coast guard boats hauled stocks from flooded stores and evacuated residents of flood swept homes. A coast guard

Tempers Frayed In House As Labor Pushes Filibuster

LONDON, April 10. (CP)—The House of Commons met today to adjourn for the Easter recess with tempers still frayed on both sides of the chamber. A skirmish involving the words "obscene" and "snooty aristocracy", marking the opening of today's debate, carried recent displays of parliamentary rudeness a step further.

The debate Wednesday night and early today revolved around the Conservative government's decision to impose certain charges for some health services. Labor rebel Aneurin Bevan warned that if this legislation were forced through the Labor opposition would reserve the right to hold up other government measures of a usually-bipartisan nature.

In one of the fiery scenes that followed, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, supported by two Conservative colleagues, accused the Socialists of filibustering.

Eden said that in three days of debating, the House dealt with only nine lines of the Health Bill —and the first four lines were merely descriptive.

Turn Tables

Labor members greeted each sally by howling "Harry them!" This referred to a phrase used by Conservative member Robert Boothby last year when his party was harassing the Labor government in repeated night sessions.

Referring to the slow progress of government business in the present session, Labor member Wedgwood Benn said Prime Minister Churchill would be 101 years old before bills introduced in this session were passed, unless something were done to speed up business.

He said that outstanding bills numbered 24, with a total of 575 clauses. At the rate of progress so far, it would take 25 years to

BULLETIN

WALKERTON, Ont.—(CP)— James G. White, 47-year-old timber merchant and former Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for Kenora, will be brought here to face charges of fraud involving $126,620. He was arrested today at Dryden.

Niagara Feeling Huffy About Movie Doesn't Want To Be Coupled With Murder

TORONTO, April 10—(CP)— Niagara Falls would rather not be advertised in a Hollywood movie if the film is to depict murder and bloodshed, William L. Houck (L., Niagara Falls) told the Ontario Legislature Wednesday.

Travel Minister Cecile announced Tuesday that Niagara Falls will be the location of a major technicolor movie to be filmed this year.

The movie will apparently depict a murder, Mr. Houck said. "There are plenty of beautiful sights to film at the Falls without picturing a murder," he said.

While some honeymooners might return to the world's foremost honeymoon spot after their marriage, it wasn't proper to show to movie audiences someone jumping over the falls from the Cave of the Winds.

Premier Frost said other areas in Ontario would be pleased to have the publicity— murder or not.

"If the Falls doesn't want the film, I'll try to have the location moved to Buttermilk Falls in my riding," he said.

Carlsen Gets New Vessel

MOBILE, Ala., April 10. (AP) —Capt. Kurt (Stay-Put) Carlsen today gets a new ship with an old name, the Flying Enterprise II.

The doughty skipper, who thrilled the world with his stand against the hurricane-whipped North Atlantic last January, is eager to get to sea again.

He takes command of the Flying Enterprise II today with some of his old crew. Carlsen's employer, the Isbrandtsen Line, recently bought the 10,660-ton freighter Noonday from Waterman Steamship Corp. and re-christened her.

Asked if he'd rested up since being plucked from the Atlantic Jan. 9 when the original Flying Enterprise broke up and sank, after a two-week battle, Carlsen laughed.

"I have answered 11,000 letters from persons who read of my activities," he said, "and I still have 1,000 to go."

Bolivian Revolt Takes 18 Lives

LA PAZ, Bolivia, April 10 (AP) —Bolivia's army-officer government rushed troops from 155 miles away as fighting continued all through the night in a revolt trying to overthrow the Junta regime which seized power 11 months ago.

The rebels are backers of Victor Pas Esertssoro, exiled leader of the National Revolutionary party who won the most votes among six candidates in last year's presidential elections but never gained office.

Brig.-Gen. Antonio Seleme, Interior minister in the military Junta, turned against his fellow officers and helped lead the revolt which began at dawn Wednesday. At least 18 persons were killed and 60 injured during the first day's fighting.

Most of the army remained loyal to the military regime. Its forces gathered strength at the El Alto airport garrison, on a plateau 2,000 feet above La Paz, and launched a night attack by bright moonlight on the rebels in the capital city.

Gen. Hugo Ballivian, head of the government, took refuge with his garrison at the airport. The army also held Miraflores garrison in La Paz, denying the rebels stocks of guns and ammunition there.

The rebels, who included some army and police officers, still held the Ilimani radio station in La Paz and the suburban workers' district of Villa Victoria Wednesday night, but the army appeared to be gaining the upper hand.

Complainant Says No Proof To Offer In Surprise Visit

MONTREAL, April 10. (CP)—Charges of fraud involving a total of $66,750 in mining transactions, lodged by a private complainant recently against J. E. Ayrhart, wealthy mine operator, and former mayor of Campbellford, were ordered withdrawn today by Judge Rene Lagarde when the complainant declared he had no proof to offer. Ayrhart, well known in Montreal and Ontario, had been slated to appear for preliminary hearing April 18.

Today Jean-Phillipe Toupin, a merchant of L'Acadie in the Iberville, Que., district, the complainant, made a surprise visit to criminal court. He announced he had no evidence to offer.

As a result, Judge Lagarde indicated there was no alternative but to order the charge withdrawn.

Ottawa Deports Boy To Britain

LONDON, April 10. (CP) — Canadian immigration officials said today they have cabled to Ottawa for information on Peter Kung, a five-year-old London boy deported from Canada.

Meanwhile, the officials said they had no explanation for the deportation order. Peter arrived at Montreal by air Tuesday and was sent back the same day, arriving at London airport Wednesday.

His mother, Mrs. Ruth Kung, is described here as the German wife of an Indian. Mrs. Kung, who lives in Nightingale Lane, Batterset, told reporters she had been advised everything was in order for Peter to spend a holiday with friends in Windsor.

The deportation order said Peter was not a Canadian citizen nor a person having Canadian domicile and did not comply with immigration regulations.

In Windsor, Ont., Mrs. Shirley Waxman said today that the immigration officer who turned back the child "was certainly a callous creature."

She said she had gone to Toronto's Malton airport Tuesday to meet a plane on which the child was scheduled to arrive.

When she learned that Montreal officials had issued a deportation order against the boy, she put through a call to the "chief immigration inspector, Montreal," she said.

A man who said he knew about the case answered the phone but he was 'close-mouthed and angry.' He kept repeating over and over again that "nothing could be done."

Fights Lion With Fists

BURGDORF, Germany, April 10. (Reuters)—A 23-year-old lion tamer fought one of his lions with his bare fists Wednesday night and beat the animal into stunned submission. The lion jumped with bared fangs at trainer "Tarzan" Baumann. The man dodged and then drove both fists into the animal's face. Baumann, with one hand mauled and bleeding, carried on with the circus act—with his five other lions.

House Ratifies Japanese Peace Treaties

OTTAWA, April 19 (CP).—Its eye on Easter holidays, the Commons in desultory style Wednesday closed off Canada's state of war with Japan by approving ratification of the Japanese peace treaty.

Perhaps one-fifth of the House was on hand as it gave unanimous approval to the treaty—after qualified support from opposition spokesmen—to wind up for all practical purposes the war between Canad and Japan.

Shortly afterwards, the House recessed until Monday, April 21, for the annual Easter vacation. Members had been trickling away homeward earlier, and at times in the treaty debate there were few more on hand than the quorum needed for doing parliamentary business.

Winds Up War

The abbreviated Japanese-treaty debate, which began Tuesday, finished up parliament's share of the war with Japan. Canada as a whole will have concluded the hostilities formally when the embassy at Washington "deposits" the ratifying documents at Washington in the next few days.

The treaty, supported generally but criticized on specific points by the opposition parties, was defended Wednesday by External Affairs Minister Pearson, who at the same time renewed the government's opposition to a Pacific security pact at this time.

A long-time proposal of the Progressive Conservatives, the pact was described by Mr. Pearson as a long-range possibility but not a project for the present.

Russia Rejects Election Plan

PARIS, April 10 — (AP). — Russia, in its reply to the big-three Western powers, has rejected the idea of a United Nations commission to investigate the possibility of free German elections and has proposed instead creation of a big-four commission.

The Soviet answer, made public by the French Foreign Office this afternoon, reaffirms the Soviet point of view as set forth in its original March 10 note calling for a unified Germany and big-four talks for a German peace treaty.

The March 10 note proposed an immediate fig-four conference to write a peace treaty for all of Germany. The Russians promised to agree to a German army, navy and air force, but ruled out any contribution of German military might to the European army or the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Man Claims He Swindled One Million From Banks

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 10.— (AP)—A dapper 62-year-old man who claims to have swindled more than $1,000,000 from banks in a 30-year career as a confidence man, was arrested here Wednesday.

Police identified him as Gabriel F. Rosenthal of New York City. No charges have been filed.

Rosenthal, who talked freely of his purported escapades, was picked up while preparing to take two local banks for $30,000, Detective Earl Moore said.

Moore stated that Rosenthal had deposited two $15,000 cheques on Tuesday, one in each of the banks, and that later investigation had shown they were drawn on banks where he had no account.

Rosenthal said he had set up the accounts and established credit at a local hotel as part of the usual front he built up before a killing.

To add to the atmosphere he was lavish with $1 tips at the hotel, lived in a $30-a-day suite, posed as the nephew of the late Julius Rosenwald, former chairman of the board of Sears Roebuck and Co., and spent most of Wednesday looking over a $75,000 home in the exclusive Camelback Mountain area.

Rosenthal wasn't tripped up until he attempted to cash a $1,500 cheque today and deposited another $3,500. A cashier at the bank became suspicious and called police. Moore arrested the man as he was leaving the bank.

Rosenthal told officers he was on parole from New York where he had been convicted as a habitual criminal and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Demand Free Hand In Marketing In Return For Aid

OTTAWA, April 10. (CP)—The Federal government Wednesday slipped a floor under beef prices to help the shaky livestock industry but added a condition. Price support of 25 cents a pound for good quality steers at Toronto was contingent on the provinces giving the Federal government a free hand in marketing. The program was aimed at stabilizing the industry, knocked off balance when foot-and-mouth disease in Southern Saskatchewan brought provincial embargoes on livestock movements.

Although the plan was meant to bring a quick end to the marketing restrictions, British Columbia's ban on Southern Alberta meat and livestock will stay on until next week.

At Victoria, Harry Bowman, B.C.'s Agriculture Minister, said the ban won't be changed until after a meeting here next Tuesday on federal-provincial market handling.

Special Committee

The federal move was announced in the Commons by Robert McCubbin, parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner. He said a special committee to manage marketing will be set up with the provinces as advisors.

The idea will be to channel surplus meats to markets where there may be a shortage.

The government will agree to buy whatever beef the packers can't sell at the fixed price. Little or no surplus is expected if farmers hold back their stock from market. But in case one develops, the government is looking for foreign outlets.

The support price will continue until July 1 when it will go on a month-to-month basis. Some form of support will continue until the United States re-opens its market to Canadian livestock, or another market is found.

To Give Help

The special federal committee will help the agricultural prices support board and federal marketing officers. Its personnel will be announced later.

Besides B.C.'s embargo, Manitoba and Quebec still keep some form of control over livestock and meats entering their borders. Manitoba bars cattle but not swine and sheep from western provinces. Quebec issues permits for meat and livestock certified free of foot-and-mouth disease.

The effect of the various restrictions has been to lower cattle prices in Alberta stockyards and cause unemployment in the packing industry on the west coast and prairies.

W. Graff Heads Local UN Branch

Librarian William L. Graff was elected president of the Peterborough branch of the United Nations Association at the association's annual meeting Wednesday night.

Other officers elected were: first vice-president, the Rev. Dr. Bruce Gordon; second vice-president, Mrs. Arnold Mathews; third vice-president, Norman Crook; fourth vice-president, Dr. Louis Zacks; fifth vice-president, Tom Allen. Educational vice-president is Leo Copp, and secretary Mrs. May Thompson, and recording secretary Miss Margaret Stevenson.

Robert B. Arnold was named treasurer. Librarian was Mrs. Ann Donaghue.

The members of the council are: Alderman John Dewart, G. R. Ald. John Dewart, G. R. Milton, R. J. Bolton, E. S. Humphrey, or a Labor Council representative, Manley Powell, Miss Lillian Esplen, Blake Bell and Dr. T. E. Currier.

The nominating committee who presented the slate of 1952-53 officers consisted of Miss Margaret McCullough, Alderman Dewart and Leo Copp.

complete them. By that time Churchill would be 101.

A government motion to extend time for discussing the Health Bill was finally passed, 285 to 253.

Bevan said the same delaying tactics will be used against every Conservative bill, including the routine appropriation for ordinary administrative functions, if the government "insists upon forcing this legislation through the House."

He specifically demanded the government also drop its bills to turn the steel industry and long distance truck lines back to private owners. Churchill earlier had quelled impatience among his Conservative followers by promising quick action on these measures.

Both Sides Stalling On Truce Negotiations

MUNSAN, Korea, April 10—(AP)—For the fifth straight day truce negotiators made no move toward ending the fighting in Korea.

They met and adjourned. That was all. Today's session lasted six minutes. That brought the grand total for five meetings this week to 30 minutes and 30 seconds.

Chinese Maj.-Gen. Hsieh Fang said today the Communists had no objection to moving truce supervision negotiations back from the sub-delegation level to the staff officer level if the Allies want to do it. Wednesday Maj.-Gen. William K. Harrison said the Allies have no objection to such a move if the Reds want to do it.

But neither side said it wanted to do that—or anything else. Each side appeared to be waiting for the other to take the initiative.

U.S. Dollar Unchanged

MONTREAL, April 10 (CP) — The United States dollar today opened at a discount of 1⅞ per cent in terms of Canadian funds, unchanged from Wednesday's close.

The pound sterling was $2.75⅜, down 1/16 from Wednesday.

FLOOD CREATES GHOST TOWN—Trees and deserted buildings are reflected in the still flood waters of the Missouri River at Bismarck, N.D., where more than 1,000 people were forced to flee their homes. The river receded from this city and poured southward to Pierre, S.D., where it left 1,600 homeless.

Jet Crashes In Flames Blast Catapult Frees Pilot

OTTAWA, April 10 (CP).—FO Harry Hrischenko, 21, of Windsor, pushed two buttons in his crashing Sabre jet plane and made Canadian aviation history Wednesday. The plane was wrecked, but Hrischenko was literally exploded into the air and landed safely. He dropped by parachute into a plowed field on the southern edge of the city.

He said he pushed the buttons controlling the ejection device when he saw the plane was out of control. The first button shot off the plastic cockpit covering the plane. The second catapulted the pilot and seat clear of the fuselage. It was the first time the device has been used to bail out of a jet in Canada.

"It all happened so fast it is hard to describe," he said. "I don't know how far I had cleared the plane before I pulled my parachute rip cord, but it seemed a long time."

He said he hesitated a bit about using the ejection device on the F-86 because he wasn't sure exactly what would happen.

The plane crashed and burned in a field on the farm of Meredith Tompkins near Manotick Station. It was one of the first jets assigned to 416 Fighter Squadron, which is converting from piston-driven Mustangs. Cause of the crash was not immediately learned.

Woman Admits Smuggling

SYRACUSE, N.Y., April 10 — A Brooklyn housewife pleaded guilty Wednesday to charges of smuggling $250,000 worth of diamonds into the United States from Canada and will be a government witness in the trial of an alleged companion.

The diamonds were found in a toilet in a hotel at Rouses Point, near the Canadian border, last November.

Mrs. Adele Meppen, scheduled to go on trial with Abram Winnik of Brussels, Belgium, pleaded guilty at the start of the proceedings. One of her lawyers told the court she will be a witness for the government.

Winnik then went on trial on the same charges.

Sculling Champion Killed In Crash

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, April 10 (Reuters)—Erik Larsen, European sculling champion, was killed in an auto crash today on his way back from Olympic training.

His trainer was driving Larsen, a Dane, back to Copenhagen from Soroe Lake. Their car hit a tree.

He was one of Denmark's principal hopes for the July Olympics.

Larsen, 24-year-old blacksmith, edged out Toronto's Jack Guest, Jr., last July 4 in the Royal Regatta's Diamond Sculls competition.

British Tea Drinkers Toast Food Chief As Ration Up

LONDON, April 10 (Reuters).—Britons lifted their teacups on Wednesday night and gratefully toasted Food Minister Gwilym Lloyd George.

In the House of Commons Wednesday he announced that he hopes to deration tea by the end of the year. And as a step in the right direction, he said the present two-ounce weekly ration will be boosted to 2½ ounces per person beginning Aug. 10.

That news sent a cheer ringing throughout Britain—still the biggest tea-drinking country in the western world. The beverage has been rationed for almost 12 years.

Lloyd George quelled the rejoicing somewhat when he added that though Britons will likely have all the tea they can drink in 10 months time, they are soon going to have to pay more for what they get.

He said the withdrawal of the government subsidy on tea as forecast in the recent budget will be effective June 15. That means the price of blended quality tea will jump to three shillings eight pence a pound—threepence more than now.

Tea rationing was introduced in Britain in July, 1940 at two ounces per person. For a week in December, 1940, it was raised to four ounces—highest it has ever been—and then dropped back to two. It went up again in December, 1949, to 2½ ounces, but was cut again in the summer of 1950.

Before the Second World War Britain imported 490,000,000 pounds of tea a year. Last year's imports—mostly from India, Ceylon and British Africa—totalled 410,000,000 pounds.

A British tea industry spokesman said the trade isn't expecting an orgy of tea-drinking when tea is taken off the ration.

George C. Green New Manager National Grocers

Roy S. Magee, manager of the National Grocers Co. Ltd., here since 1948 has been appointed manager of the company's Hamilton branch.

He is being succeeded here by George C. Green, assistant manager of the Windsor branch since 1939.

The changes are the result of the retirement of W. Palmenter, manager of the Hamilton branch who has retired due to ill health.

The promotions of both Mr. Magee and Mr. Green became effective April 1. Mr. Green arrived April 2 and is familiarizing himself with the business here, before Mr. Magee leaves for Hamilton next Monday.

Mr. Magee came here as manager in September 1948, succeeding Robert Ross who retired at that time. Mr. Magee was with Medland Bros. Ltd., in Toronto, one of the firms which formed National Grocers in 1925 and he has been with the company ever since. Before coming to Peterborough, he served as manager of the Lindsay branch from 1935 until 1948.

Mr. Green joined National Grocers in Toronto in 1929 and was with the Brantford branch of the company before being moved to Windsor in 1939.

Convict Indians On Fish Charge

COBOURG, April 10 (ENS). — Willis Smoke and Louis Grey of Alderville were found guilty of catching fish illegally in a judgment handed down by Magistrate R. B. Baxter this week. The case was heard in February of this year and the defence was based to a large extent on the Shotgun Treaty, an old treaty between the Indians and the Crown, drawn up at the time of George III.

Magistrate Baxter found that the ancient treaty lost its effect through subsequent legislation of the Indian Act and the provincial fish and game regulations. He fined each of the accused $25.00, and costs.

Under the Shotgun Treaty the Indians were given special fishing privileges, but the Magistrate ruled that these privileges were automatically abolished by the fish and game regulations of more modern times.

Holstein Club To Hold Dinner

Vern Campbell, president of Peterborough Holstein Breeders' Club, expects for their dinner next Thursday night at Club Aragon as big an attendance as last year when the Rev. Dr. Coady of Antigonish was the speaker.

"That is what the sale of tickets looks like now," Mr. Campbell said. "Directors decided not to have a speaker for this annual affair, but to feature entertainment for a change."

The program will include numbers by seven local girls who won the first prize last year in the double trio vocal singing at the Toronto Kiwanis Musical Festival. They were second this year. George Murray, of Toronto, singer and impersonator, and his accompanist, Miss Ruby Ramsey Rouse, and Miss Ethel Frey, of Brampton, in harpsicord numbers have been engaged.

Kinsmen's orchestra will play for modern and square dancing. Dinner is at 7 p.m.

George W. Henry, of Todmorden, president of the Canadian Holstein Breeders, and George Clemons, secretary, of Brantford, have sent word that they will be here. Hon. Harold Scott and Mrs. Scott, Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., and Mrs. Fraser, also district directors of the association, and friends from Victoria, Durham and Northumberland are also expected.

Stock Prices Ease On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, April 10—(CP)—Stock market prices eased from moderate mid-session gains today in early afternoon dealings.

Volume for the first three hours was 2,636,000 shares.

Manufacturing companies, refining oils and retail stores posted a scattered list of advances to form industrials' strongest sections. Banks and textiles also edged upward but papers, liquors, foods, utilities and constructions slipped.

Refining oils showed a majority of gains. Ajax Petroleum, Anson, Calvan Consolidated, Canadian Atlantic, Central-Leduc, Home Oil, Pacific Petroleum, Okalta and General Petroleum pushed upward. Britalta dipped sharply.

Base metals were mixed as Eureka, MacDonald, Opemiska and Cassiar strengthened while International Nickel, Noranda and Ascot weakened.

Senior golds made little headway. Hoyle, East Malartic, Conwest and Akaitcho were strong in a firm secondary list.

Defiant Muskrat

ST. MARYS, Ont.—(CP)—A lone muskrat greeted the opening of the muskrat season here by nonchalantly strolling down the main street before disappearing from view of the only observer, a Provincial Constable. The muskrat paraded at 2 a.m. before hunters were awake.

House Told Apology Made Over Lie Tests

OTTAWA, April 10 (CP) — Justice Minister Garson said Wednesday that American Air Lines has apologized to eight employees in Toronto for submitting them to a lie detector test in Buffalo.

Replying in the Commons to a question by Mrs. Ellen Fairclough (PC-Hamilton West), Mr. Garson said the airlines had a shortage in the cash drawer of its Toronto office. Toronto police and company detectives were unable to find those responsible.

The employees were then asked to submit to lie detector tests in Buffalo. All passed the tests. The manager of the Toronto office then wrote a letter of apology to the employees.

Mr. Garson said the incident was one which came under provincial jurisdiction and Mrs. Fairclough's question might have been asked in the Ontario Legislature.

At this point, George Drew, P.C. Leader, started to speak. Mr. Garson interrupted and asked if he was being asked a question. "It is time we took the muzzle off this parliament," said Mr. Drew heatedly.

Called To Order

Prime Minister St. Laurent flushed and indicated that he was about to make a reply when Speaker Ross Macdonald called Mr. Drew to order.

Mr. Drew said it should be possible to question Mr. Garson on his statement, which touched on something that could have serious results.

Mrs. Fairclough said the airline employees, when agreeing to the tests, understood they would be made in Toronto. Mr. Garson said he understood the employees had voluntarily submitted to the tests.

Mr. Drew suggested the federal government had some control over the actions of the airlines company since the company operated in Canada under a federal licence.

Mr. Garson said he had not thought Mr. Drew would suggest interference with the company's licence because of actions not connected with the issue of that licence.

Mr. Drew then asked if the lie detector tests could be admitted in Canadian courts. Mr. Garson said he understood the tests have no value in either Canadian or U.S. courts.

Farmer, Son Killed In Blast

PETROLIA, April 10 — (CP)—A farmer and his youngest son helping a neighbor blast stumps were killed Wednesday when three sticks of dynamite exploded prematurely.

William Leys Gauld, 52, and his son Joseph 15, were hurled more than 30 feet in opposite directions by the blast. The farm is in Enniskillen Township near this town 15 miles southeast of Sarnia.

The neighbor, Jack Lennan, said: "Bill and the boy were packing the dynamite into a stump and I was drilling a hole under another stump 40 feet away. I saw them light the fuse, but we generally figure on a three to five minute delay, so I thought I would have time to finish the hole before the blast.

"It couldn't have been more than half a minute later, the dynamite let go."

Phone Workers Refuse To Pass Picket Lines

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP). —Telephone workers throughout most of the United States stayed away from work today, refusing to pass picket lines thrown up by striking Western Electric Company equipment workers.

Actually only 16,000 Western Electric men in 43 states, plus 61,000 telephone operators and other employees in Michigan, Ohio, New Jersey and Northern California, were out on strike. Their walkout began four days ago.

But other Bell Telephone System employees became idle after the Western Electric strikers began picketing Wednesday on orders of Joseph A. Beirne, president of the Communications Workers of America (C.I.C.).

It was reported that the union planned to strike at three North Carolina Western Electric plants engaged in producing United States Air Force equipment.

Two Flareups

On the whole the strike was orderly. Only two flareups were reported, and one of these was not directly related to the country-wide walkout.

At Traverse City, Mich., a young woman supervisor was knocked down when she tried to enter a strike-bound office picketed by about 25 C.W.A. members. The company said she was not hurt, and that the union "took care of the matter immediately."

More serious was a disturbance in Fairmount, W. Va., Wednesday night. The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. reported that a "riotous mob, completely out of control," peppered the telephone building with rocks, stones and eggs.

C. H. Johnson, vice-president and general manager, said a supervisory employee named Jack Miller was hit by a rock and suffered a concussion.

Obituary

MRS. HENRY COMEGO

ROSENEATH, April 10 (ENS) —A life-long resident of Alderville, Mrs. Henry Comego passed away at her home on the western part of the reserve, on Wednesday, following a lengthy illness.

She was born in Alderville 64 years ago, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Eliza Chubb and her entire life has been spent here. She was twice married. Her first husband, George Blaker, predeceased her some years ago, and later she married Henry Comego who survives. There are no other immediate relatives.

Death came to Mrs. Comego as a release from pain as she had been confined to her home for many years from arthritis and the last two years she had been blind.

Funeral service will be held on Saturday at 2.30 p.m. at her late residence. Burial will be in Alderville Cemetery.

Don't Want To Start Pari-Mutuel Offices

TORONTO, April 10 — (CP)— Race tracks may legally operate pari-mutuel branch offices, but they do not want to start the practice because they fear the Federal Government might prohibit the practice once it started, Magistrate S. Tupper Bigelow, chairman of the Ontario Racing Commission, told the Legislature's Committee on Government Commissions Wednesday.

He said Ontario's racing picture this year will be brighter after the cleanup last year of "fixed" races as a result of which 10 jockeys and a trainer were suspended for life.

Magistrate Bigelow agreed with W. L. Houck (L-Niagara Falls) that a jockey who accepts a bribe is a "screwball," since a good jockey can earn $1,000 a week and the average bribe revealed last year was $300.

This is the 29th picture in the Examiner's Baby Picture-Quote contest. For the first five days of each week the Examiner will publish a baby picture and quote from the collection of Constance Bannister and on Saturday will publish the winning local pictures. In the Examiner's contest readers are being asked to submit baby pictures and the trick is to write a suitable caption implying what could have been on the baby's mind to create such an expressive picture. Every home where here are children has an unusual baby picture, so look over your family album, pick out and write the caption and send picture to Baby Photo Editor, Examiner, Peterborough. Pictures must be of babies two years and less. Two prizes of five dollars a week are given and a grand prize of ten dollars at end of contest.

Cadet To Make Trip To Banff

CAMPBELLFORD, April 10 — (ENS)—A grade 12 student at the Campbellford High School, Cadet Lieutenant Paul Ibey has been chosen on his merits to attend camp at Banff this summer. Paul became eligible for the trip west when he qualified as a master cadet, attending the camp at Ipperwash last summer and passed the necessary tests in connection with cadet training.

About 150 boys from the Secondary School Cadet Corps from all over Canada are selected for the Banff Camp with all expenses paid. This is the first time a Campbellford cadet has been so honored, and it is a tribute to his efficiency and knowledge of cadet training.

The cadets selected will spend a week in preparation at camp Ipperwash on the shores of Lake Huron at the close of the school term, following which they will go to the famous Alberta mountain resort. Here they will camp and undergo special outdoor training for a period of seven weeks.

ROSENEATH, April 10 (ENS) —"Easter Gave Us the Bible" was the topic of the Easter program presented by Mrs. Delbert Brisbin at the April meeting of the United Church W.M.S. Other members assisting with the program were: Mrs. J. N. Lovelace, Mrs. R. C. White, Mrs. Andrew Brown, Mrs. Howard Macklin and Mrs. George Mouncey.

Mrs. Wilbert Smith was hostess, the president, Mrs. J. N. Lovelace, presiding, with Mrs. George Mouncey as secretary, owing to the absence of Mrs. Fred Lewis.

The treasurer, Mrs. J. A. Nichol, reported having sent $54 toward the allocation to the presbyterial treasurer.

The community friendship report was presented. Mrs. Howard Macklin is secretary of this department.

Final plans were made to entertain the members of Cobourg presbytery at a dinner in the township hall on May 7. The committee in charge of arranging the tables are: Mrs. R. C. White, Mrs. Isabel Brown, Mrs. C. W. Varcoe, Mrs. A. J. Campbell.

The meeting closed with prayer by the Rev. J. N. Lovelace.

W.A. Sponsors Play In Roseneath Hall

ROSENEATH, April 10 (ENS) —Despite bad roads on Tuesday evening, Roseneath L.O.L. Hall drew a capacity audience when a group from Petherick's Corners presented their three-act play "Aunt Bessie Beats the Band." The play was sponsored by Group I of the United Church W. A. with Mrs. Clarke Sandercock as leader and Mrs. Bart Thackeray as secretary.

The Rev. R. C. White was chairman and introduced the director of the play, Mrs. Lindsay Anderson, who introduced the cast of characters. Mrs. Edgar Carew and Miss Yvonne Adams contributed piano numbers between acts.

The cast were late in arriving having been bogged down in mud on the road.

Upwards of $80 was realized from door receipts an dcandy sales.

Women Teachers Get Increases In Salary

COBOURG, April 10 (ENS) — While the men's salary scale remains unchanged, women teachers in Cobourg's public schools will receive wage boosts of $100 over the present maximum, it was revealed by the school board.

Effective Sept. 1, maximum salary for lady teachers will be $2,900 and for the men the maximum will remain at $3,300. The board has asked the teachers to take summer refresher courses and an allowance of $75 for each course will be paid to each teacher participating.

Teachers who have not taken refresher courses in the past five years will be asked to advise the board if they intend to take these summer courses in the future, before their contracts are renewed in May.

Due to the fact that there is no provision in the estimates of this year for wage increases for the male teachers, it will be impossible to consider any more salary boosts this year.

Cutting Out Frills To Keep Costs Down

MONTREAL, April 10—The Canadian National Railways is experimenting with the use of plastic table tops and the substitution of paper place mats and serviettes for linen table cloths and napkins in an effort to halt spiralling costs H. B. Parr, general manager of the company's sleeping, dining and parlor car departments, said here today.

At the moment, the test is being conducted on a cafe car in Montreal-Ottawa service, Mr. Parr said. If successful it will be extended to all cafe and buffet cars and eventually to all company dining cars.

The use of the plastic table tops and paper place mats is one of the concentrated efforts being made by the department to halt rising costs and further increases in meal prices. Extensive savings in laundry bills and replacement costs are expected to be obtained by substituting the paper for linen items.

Spring Film Show Postponed To Fall

The international film series sponsored by the Peterborough Film Council, which were to be shown this spring, have been postponed until the fall.

This decision was made at the Film Council meeting, due to the great number of activities in the city that are taking place during the next two months.

It was reported that there were 111 showings of films in the city during March to a total audience of 10,283.

Plans were made for the Council's annual meeting to take place May 13. The following were appointed as a nominating committee: Ron Ward, Cliff Bryan, Sister St. Kevin, Miss June Fraser and William Graff.

Two films, String of Beads and Beautiful New Zealand, were also shown at Tuesday's meeting.

Mrs. Joseph Valois

The funeral for Mrs. Joseph Valois, the former Ida Emma Mander, 252 Woodbine Ave., who died Sunday was held Wednesday from the Comstock funeral home.

The Rev. J. A. Purser of St. John's Anglican Church conducted the service.

Pallbearers were: Sandford Harding, Bruce Harding, Donald Hamblin, Jack Gough, George Fettes, William Laidley. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

MORE THAN A 'PRUDENT ADMINISTRATOR'

'EN BON PERE DE FAMILLE' (as a good father of the family) is a phrase often used in the Civil Law of the Province of Quebec. It means a 'Prudent Administrator' and, as applied to Executors and Trustees, requires them to act with care and skill.

In addition it suggests that an Executor and Trustee must feel a deep sense of responsibility for the personal welfare and comfort of dependants.

It is the aim of the Officers of The Royal Trust Company to live up to this high ideal with sympathy and understanding, and to ensure efficient and economical administration of every Estate entrusted to our care.

P.L. QUIP OF THE WEEK

During a flood in a little Ohio town, a neighbor girl was perched on top of a house with a small boy.

As they sat watching articles float along with the water, they noticed a derby hat float by. Presently the hat turned and came back, then again turned and went downstream. After it went a ways down it again turned and came back.

The little girl said, "Do you see that derby. First it goes downstream and then turns and comes back."

The boy replied, "Oh, that's my father. He said, Come hell or high water, he was going to cut the grass today."

Biggest Budget

The remarkable thing about the Budget which the Minister of Finance brought down in the House of Commons Tuesday evening was that it was the biggest in Canada's history. The estimates of government spending for the year 1952-53 was $4,270,000,000, and of income from taxation $4,279,000,000. The size of the Budget is another indication of how much Canada has swollen in the last decade. The estimated revenue is greater than the net National Debt ten years ago. It is almost exactly the same as the total net national income in 1939: that is, the total amount of money earned in that year by all Canadians, business, industries and the like. In this year of 1952-53, the same amount of money is to be taken from the earnings of these businesses, industries and persons.

* * *

The Budget offered few changes in taxation. Three minor reliefs were provided individuals. Personal income taxes were reduced an average of six per cent., beginning on July 1st. The size of the exemptions which persons can claim for medical expenses was doubled. For instance, a married person may claim up to $2,000 actually spent on doctors' and hospital bills, if these expenses totalled more than four per cent. of the taxpayer's income. Formerly the deductible limit was $1,000. The third small personal relief, for smokers only, was a reduction in the cigarette tax, of three cents a package. This returns the tax to the rate of last year, and should immediately lower cigarette prices in this province to 39 cents, if the full reduction is passed on to the consumers.

* * *

This tax reduction is probably as much a sop to the industry as to the smokers, for the tobacco industry saw its sales decline when the last tax increase was imposed. (Likewise, the government revenue from the cigarette tax declined.) Many of the Budget changes were, like the cigarette tax reduction, in favour of industry or business. For instance, the special excise tax on soft drinks is cut from 30 to 15 per cent, and on carbonic acid from 50 to 25 per cent. As announced yesterday in our Ottawa despatch on the Budget, officials said that they think the manufacturers will "absorb" this reduction; in other words, not pass it along to consumers of soft drinks. This one tax reduction alone will cause the national treasury a revenue loss of eleven million dollars. Likewise in the category of boons to business and industry are the tax reductions on cars, radios, washing machines, other household appliances, luggage and the like. Sales in these had slumped in recent months. The lessening of the excise taxes on them may encourage greater buying.

* * *

These seem special favours to industry and business, but, as with other parts of the Budget, the Government is giving with one hand and taking with the other. Business and industry will have to pay, as announced months ago, and beginning on July 1st, a two per cent. tax on corporation profits, for the old age pensions bill. So also will individuals. Beginning on July 1st, on the same day that the income tax reductions come into force, there is two per cent. income tax for old age pensions, imposed at the last session of parliament, which will be added to the income tax bill. This will reduce the real reduction in personal income tax to the vanishing point, since also the defence income tax, collected this year as a surtax, is being incorporated into the regular tax.

Mr. Abbott has budgeted for an even balance between expenditure and revenue. The small surplus, estimated at nine million dollars, is less than a quarter of one per cent. of revenues, and, as he said, less than the normal mathematical margin of error in the estimates themselves. Therefore Mr. Abbott has not budgeted for a surplus at all. It will be a disappointment to his critics, as well as a sobering indication of lessened economic buoyancy in the country, if there is not, as in the last six years, a big surplus next April. After six years of plenty, Canadians would be shocked if there were a budgetary deficit next year.

"What's become of the old fashioned fiction that was suitable for reading aloud to an aunt?" asks a contemporary. Gone, we presume, with the type of aunt who would be content with that kind of entertainment.

Official Canadian Help For Asia

As our Third Column today tells, there is starvation and squalor in India. Canada is not unmindful of the poverty and misery and is officially doing something about it, through the Colombo plan of the Commonwealth countries, and through the technical Assistance Program of the United Nations.

As Mr. L. B. Pearson said last month, the basic problem in India and other parts of Asia is not to raise the standard of living, but how to maintain life itself. "Never have so many subsisted on so little."

"Nearly a thousand million Asians are trying to exist on a diet amounting to only 80 per cent. of the pre-war level—the level of the 'hungry East.' The daily ration in rice in some urban areas has shrunk to five or six ounces per person as compared with the normal pre-war daily consumption of sixteen to eighteen ounces. Since 1945 India's food production has deteriorated. In spite of 165 million people being engaged in agriculture on 170 million acres of land devoted to food crops, the people are living from 'ship to mouth'."

The real hope of saving the millions of Asians from hunger and hardship depends not upon importing food from abroad but upon increasing the productivity of their own countries. Canadian wheat is being sent to India; but fundamental agrarian reform is needed.

It is sometimes asserted that the Indians would not starve if the birth rate were reduced. The evidence of history and social fact is that undernourishment and near-starvation do not reduce population. The humane solution is not to let the Indians starve. Hungry people are the most prolific. China, India, Egypt and the Latin American countries, with the lowest nutritional levels in the world, have the highest rates of population growth. Paradoxially, if we were able to feed the hungry in India and other places, the birth rate in those nations would begin to drop.

Canada is intent on helping to feed the Indians, by helping them produce more food. Canada has contributed $850,000 to the first eighteen months' operation of the U.N. Technical Assistance program, and has offered to contribute three-quarters of a million more towards the twenty million dollar objective if other U.N. countries give proportionately. Canada has given $25 million to the Colombo Plan for Economic Development for 1951-52 and has promised a like sum for 1952-53. In addition, Canadian technicians from universities and government bureaus have gone out to the Far East to help plan agricultural and health schemes, and we are taking into this country, so that they may learn our processes in industry and farming, scores of nationals from Asian countries.

The problems in Asia are enormous; but the first one to be faced is how its people can be fed.

Business Seeks Glamour

During the past month we have received a great many annual reports of Canadian business and financial firms, and we have been struck by the elaborate manner in which these reports are presented. One does not have to be a Methusaleh to recall the time when a bank or a business firm sent out its annual report in a few mimeographed sheets, enclosed in a neat but by no means interesting folder; the reports were not enthralling reading to anyone who was not an investor. But that is all changed. We often mistake the reports which we receive now for luxury magazines. They have the most elaborate covers, printed in many colours and often embossed; inside there are pictures on every page, and the economics of the firm in question are presented in beautiful graphs, or in those pictographs in which little men, and little stooks of wheat, and little dynamos and other tiny objects are marshalled to show precisely what the business is doing.

We cannot quite make up our mind whether we like this new trend. We have always been afraid of big business, and particularly of banks; we have accepted without rancour the belief that the things which big business and banks do are too complex for our rudimentary intellect; we have not sought to know what they do with their money. But here they are, exerting themselves to make their business not merely clear, but also loveable. They obviously want us to think of them as delightful fellows, who will gladly whip up a pie-chart any time we want to know how their business is doing. Hence these beautiful pieces of printing.

Upon the whole we think that the new style in annual reports is better than the old one. But it will take us a few years to become accustomed to the new geniality of big business. We still feel a little like a backward pupil who has begun to receive Valentines from the teacher.

NOTES AND COMMENT

A parson at Keremeos, B.C., refused to marry a couple because the bridegroom was a bartender. Onward and upward with Christian charity!

It is a craze in the U.S.A. to wear Confederate insignia, and now a military band from the South wants permission to wear the Confederate uniform on parade. The world is full of people who want to reverse the decisions of history.

The Years Of Famine

By RAWLE KNOX
(in Chittoor, India)

THE village was huddled under a vast single rock on top of which an enterprising Muslim invader some five hundred years ago had perched a tiny fort. How many thirsty garrisons must have surrendered, crying out for water? Water was the only thing that seemed to matter on that red and rocky plain.

The villagers who were gathered round their ancient well were by profession—of all fantastic ironies—fishermen. The ponds from which two years ago they had hauled respectable catches were now dusty hollows; at the bottom of the well, from which the oldest man there had drawn his water for as long as he could remember, there was only a small patch of liquid mud.

✧ ✧ ✧

SLOWLY the men moved away to the village school, which was empty for no one any longer had the stomach to teach or learn, and began to debate there whether they should ask for a free gruel kitchen. The road construction work which the Government had charitably provided for them had come to an end three days before, and since then no money had come into the village and no one had seen a square meal. They were eating roots of cactus, which hereabouts is grown as hedging between the fields—for the long-uncultivated fields have lost their need of hedges. The drought has lasted for five years.

Was there not a free gruel centre at the neighbouring village of Tirukottam, only one mile away? "There is," an old man answered reluctantly, "but we have always been proud people and we don't want to show ourselves before Tirukottam as beggars."

✧ ✧ ✧

WE HAD just been in Tirukottam, where the village committee was standing round three earthenware jars filled with a sticky purplish mixture which, when diluted with water, would be the gruel to receive which men, women, and children with empty pots in their hands were already tramping in from all over the dusty, cruel countryside. And when we had asked how the committee could be certain that only the really needy were getting the small ration which was all that could be spared, the reply of startling dignity came from those scarecrow men: "We are not by nature beggars."

If not by nature, then by necessity, beggary is on a pitiful increase. In this district and in the four even more harshly afflicted districts to the north, Bellary, Anantapur, Cuddapah and Kurnool, at least 10,000,000 persons are affected by famine. Whole villages are vanishing daily as the drift to non-existent work in the towns becomes a rush.

It was a Communist leader in Madras who first pointed out to me the number of new beggars in that city who were women and children without the practised whine or flaunted deformity of the professionals. He knew well enough, for they were from the stricken districts where the Communists have had their best electoral successes.

CREEPING famine is a terrifying thing, as relentless in its approach as a wind-blown fire. And this famine has been advancing for five year, five years in which the monsoon has regularly failed. The next monsoon is not due until September, and already the villagers are prophesying that it will pass them by. Each year the people move a little more slowly, with their eyes slightly duller, with the skin a little more tightly stretched over their thin ribs. Yet though what famine does to their bodies is horrible enough, what it does to their hopeless thoughts is worse.

Men who have long had no faith in government begin to lose trust in God. They watch the landlords, fearful of being deprived of their titles to the land, by either Congress or Communist Governments, cutting down the great forest areas to cash in on what timber they have got. And the peasants know that trees bring rain—or if they do not already know the Communists tell them. They see those who have fertile land change their crops from good grains, like rice and millet, to sugar cane or cotton, for which they can get a better price, and they wonder where food will ever come from. They note that the Government official who, in this country as in any other, always gets the blame for disaster, has classified himself as "essential," and thus gets a bigger rice ration than anyone else.

THE Government, of course, for all the kicks it takes, is struggling as hard as it can against inexorable nature. It is creating tasks, such as road building, deepening wells that have failed, and cleaning out tanks in expectation of the monsoon, tasks which spread a few earnings among the destitute peasantry; it provides free kitchens and increases its medical precautions.

Mr. S. K. Chettur, the Revenue Secretary of Madras, who is in command of this battle against disaster, is a man of energy and intellectual grasp. But he did not create the machinery which he has to work, nor train the junior officials to their terror of taking responsibility. At a time like this one appreciates all too forcefully Indian criticisms of British rule in India—that it was devised only to facilitate police control and the collection of revenue.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE will be no spectacular horror of tens of thousands of deaths; the Indian Government, which has had less than five years of independence, will see to that. But there will be an appalling waste of India's scanty income, as there was in Bihar last year, in merely keeping men alive. What could be done should have been done long ago (after all there were ten separate famines in this area in the last century), and it will take more than the one irrigation scheme now planned, which will relieve only two of these five barren districts. There is much water easily available in this district if only pumping sets and pipe systems had been gradually introduced.

In Orissa State, immediately north of Madras, there is fertile land which reverted to jungle centuries ago because malaria defeated the tillers; neither malaria nor jungle clearing is a problem to-day, and much of this starving population could with profit be resettled in Orissa.

WITH TIME and fortune the Indian Government will undoubtedly fill in these deeper abysses of poverty, but while it is prevented by lack of finance, of elasticity of practice, and of boldness, men will continue to live in conditions of which I will give one final instance.

On our way back to Chittoor we stopped at a little settlement of four houses occupied by two families of Harijans ("men of God," as Gandhi rechristened the Untouchables). They lived by cutting the sparse scrub that occasionally crops up in this stony land, and selling it as firewood. Their nearest well, though four miles away, held water—they could be sure of that because one of their small children had been drowned in it a few days back. We asked them for how much they sold their firewood.

"Three annas for what one can carry on one's head."

"And how many head-loads do you sell daily?"

"Oh, perhaps two."

They earned sixpence a day for two families, and they had water. The point of the story is that in most parts of Chittoor they would be considered the lucky ones.

Fun With Exchange Rates

(CALGARY HERALD)

IT IS no doubt very wrong to go around disturbing the peace, and throwing sugar containers at waitresses; and to that extent Mr. Billy De Wolfe, the comedian, must be censured, since it seems that he did both in Detroit during the weekend. Under the circumstances, however, we feel that there are extenuating circumstances.

Mr. De Wolfe tried to pay a restaurant check in Detroit with Canadian dollars; the waitress demanded a two-cents-on-the-dollar premium to cover exchange; Mr. De Wolfe contended that the Canadian dollar and the American dollar are equal in value; then they had words. It was when Mr. De Wolfe endeavoured to reinforce his theory of international exchange by heaving the sugar bowl that the police were called to the scene.

The fact is, of course, that Mr. De Wolfe was quite right. The Canadian dollar is not only at par with the American dollar, but the last we heard was that it stood at a slight premium, thus enabling a Vancouver storekeeper the other day to erect a large sign in his window proudly and patronizingly announcing that he would be pleased to accept American money at par. Those of us who have spent some years enduring the arbitrary and varied decisions of American storekeepers on what a Canadian dollar is worth may be forgiven a smug smile at this point.

It is a long time since the Canadian dollar was worth more than the American dollar—so long that few of us can remember what it felt like. We have been used to discounts of ten per cent upwards, and the idea of going into a bank and buying 100 U.S. dollars for something less than 100 Canadian dollars has a startling originality about it. We do not have to know the full extent of the complex influences of the international money market to get the full enjoyment out of the exchange rate.

Nobody can tell how long the present situation will last. Paradoxically, it has come about because American investors are pouring their capital into Canada in quantities so vast that they more than compensate for the heavy excess of imports over exports in our trade in material goods with the U.S. Later on, as these investors begin to collect dividends on their investments, we may well feel the pinch; we shall then, somehow, have to finance not only our normal adverse balance of visible trade but provide funds for the invisible outflow of capital earnings as well.

If the market operates normally, the value of the Canadian dollar will rise until American investment is somewhat discouraged, but where the critical point is, it is impossible to say. Meanwhile, we might as well take all the innocent enjoyment we can get out of the high value of our dollars.

Calendars In March

(Financial Post)

Recently a Canadian business paper received six copies of a most elaborate and costly calendar put out by the Department of National Defense. Each was separately wrapped, addressed and mailed.

The calendar is especially directed to vehicle drivers in the armed forces and on each monthly page there are two cartoons showing the safe and the unsafe way to meet various traffic situations.

No one will quarrel with accident prevention programs. Drivers of all vehicles, military and otherwise, need to be constantly on the alert.

But surely this calendar operation needs review.

Most recipients would have been content with a single copy and all would certainly have been much more interested had they received it at the beginning of the year. Coming at the end of March the first two pages at least with their warnings will go directly into the wastepaper basket and the calendar's chances of being hung at all are very poor. Most people have by now all the calendars they want.

The cost of this publicity is only a small fraction of the $1.6 billions the Department of National Defence is spending this year. But it is such items that make up a large proportion of the total. In public as well as private spending, the old advice of looking after the pence still holds.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

In thee, O Lord, do I put my trust; let me never be ashamed: deliver me in thy righteousness . . . I was a reproach among all mine enemies, but especially among my neighbours, and a fear to mine acquaintance: they that did see me without fled from me . . . For I have heard the slander of many: fear was on every side . . .

But I trusted in thee, O Lord: I said, Thou are my God. (Ps. 31: 1, 11, 13, 14.)

For in thee, O Lord, do I hope: thou wilt hear, O Lord my God. (Ps. 38: 15.)

Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen . . . Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things which do appear. Heb. 11: 1, 3.)

Letter To The Editor

IN EXTREME NEED OF HOUSING.

Sir: Will someone tell me what is the matter with our Council? Here they are, tearing down houses right and left when they should be building them. Where are all the families in the Hatton War-time Housing district going to go? Most of the tenants there have children, and where will they go in this anti-child Canada of ours? Our government seems to prefer immigrants (all well and good at the proper time, but this is not the time for immigrants) to native born Canadians. Instead of encouraging couples to have children everything is allowed to be done to discourage them. If a young married couple rent a few rooms they are told in a lot of cases that if they have a child they will have to move! What is the population of Canada going to be in the next generation? There will be quite a decrease! Who is going to fight for these property owners if a war comes up in the next few years? Our Council isn't doing a thing to ease the housing situation. They all own their own houses and don't know the worry and distraction parents go through trying to find a house. The Turner house on Water street we were told is going to be torn down sometime. Now why couldn't that be rented. That big pile of stone called the new city hall surely could have waited for a while. I know the money was a bequest but the citizens are paying plenty besides. And look at the houses that had to be torn down! We ourselves are desperately in need of a house large enough for eight. The owner wants to move in and we just can't find anything. All six or seven roomed houses are occupied by two couples or small families, one up and one downstairs, sharing a high rent between them. One man supporting a large family can't pay anywhere from $75 to $90 a month! We are outbid everytime. The small families by sharing the house then only pay from $35 or so on up. We have advertised in the Examiner twice, three nights each time, without results. We were to have moved the first of April and will probably have to go to court over it. It is an unpleasantness that both parties want to avoid, but where can we go if we can't find a house? This rent control business is a farce. Large houses that have been occupied for years by the same family are renting for as low as $25.00 because they are still under control. The people are usually an older couple whose families are grown and gone, and who have only themselves to support, while the man with a family of children to support would have to pay $75, $85 or $90 to get a house large enough. Either all controls should be off or all on. The older people won't move out of a six or seven roomed house at that low rent, and if they do the rent jumps to $75 or more. It's a case of choosing between a roof over our heads or the necessities of life. It seems we can't have both. It's the penalty of having children in this anti-child country of ours. We come from good, respected families, are not "dirty trash," can give references, but the Almighty Dollar speaks louder in this country than the voice of conscience.

Fifty dollars would be a rent that we could afford to pay, but it seems that isn't enough these days.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for you valuable space. We remain,

"TWO DISTRACTED PARENTS."

"We could, tell the young gentleman the winner for Saturday if we wasn't so dry, couldn't we, Sidney?"

Spring Break-Up Halts Transfer Of Mine Town

LYNN LAKE, Man., April 10—(CP)—Day and night, throughout the long winter months, Manitoba's northland was punctured by the roar of great tractors hauling a complete mining town north in the largest single freighting move in Canadian history.

Homes popped up overnight in this town—more than 500 miles north of Winnipeg—and site of one of the world's richest finds of scarce copper-nickel ore.

A total of 72 houses were picked up one by one from the town of Sherridon and its now defunct copper mine, 164 miles south of Lynn Lake. They came on sleighs hauled by "cats" over twisting trails and treacherous muskeg.

Now with spring break-up, the trek has stopped until next winter when freezing weather will permit the work to continue. The airplane is the only contact with the lake in other seasons.

Freight of all kinds and sizes was transported this winter: steel for the power plant at Laurie River and new bridges; poles for a 44-mile electric line; material and equipment dismantled from Sherridon; ties for a 155-mile railroad.

But the houses were the most important. Without them there could be no Lynn Lake.

And with each arrival, another blind was drawn on the 24-year history of Sherridon, once a proud mining centre and now approaching the status of a ghost town.

Big Undertaking

Nearly 100 freight swings moved from Sherridon this year. Earlier creeks and rivers were corduroyed with logs and flooded when thin ice was found. Lighter tractors and snowmobiles broke trail.

The swings, comprising three "cats" each hauling four sleighs, came slowly. Crews worked round-the-clock in two shifts during the three-day trip, stopping only to refuel barring an accident. Most buildings came through unscathed.

Lynn Lake is situated just under the 57th parallel. Herds of migrating caribou have been known to pass through camp. There are no neighboring towns.

Six years ago Lynn had only three log shacks. Now there are 300 persons here and conservative figures indicate the population should grow to between 1,500 and 2,000 when production at the mine starts late in 1953. By that time close to 300 homes will have been hauled from Sherridon.

One of Lynn Lake's oldest residents is J. L. (Scotty) Tait, former surface foreman at Sherridon. It took 43 days for a tractor train he was in charge of to reach the lake. The temperature was 50 below zero and "you could throw rabbits through the cracks between the logs in the bunkhouse."

AS FAR A STHE EYE CAN SEE, ice and water stretch across the Black River near Montreal and jam against the home shown above. The home was evacuated recently as the river kept on rising.

Budget Time Just Bill Collector Time

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor.

Budget time is always a reminder that the bill is being presented for the things we buy.

The bill is for things for which we have asked, of which we have approved, in which we have at least acquiesced; or for things which, the government believes, we will ultimately approve.

Further, budget time is a reminder that the government has no money of its own, that the money must come from you. You have paid it, are paying it, or will pay it.

It is true that government money may seem to come from various sources? But who supplies the money to these sources? Look in the mirror.

The personal income tax is, of course, a direct collection from each taxpayer. The sales tax, the special tax, the excise tax may not be so easily seen, but they are with you every day in the price tags on the things you buy.

Steel Pay

Money from customs duties may seem a but further removed; but the average person still pays for them when he buys the things on which the duties were levied.

How about taxes on corporations? Well, corporations, taxed more than half of what they make, certainly feel they are paying plenty. But who, in the end, pays these taxes? Look in the mirror again—you can't escape by saying, "let the corporations pay."

Corporations are in much the same position as the government in regard to money. Except in the sense of an existing plant which must be maintained, and enough money in pocket to conduct operations, they in effect, have't any money either.

They would soon go out of existence, the companies and their payrolls, if they didn't collect their expenses, including taxes, in the prices of things they sell.

Just possibly we get some "free" money into the economy in the payments for goods we sell to other countries. But we currently are buying from other countries about as much as we are selling to them. That works out close to an exchange — some of the money of taxpayers of other countries comes to us, and some of ours goes to them.

No Other Major Source

So it goes down the list. Taxes may bear heavier on this citizen or that, but the average citizen, multiplied by his millions, is the main source of revenue. There isn't any other major source.

Some day, in a better-informed democracy than we have yet achieverd, the average citizen may have a clearer idea than he now has of the things he wants to buy and pay for. From there on, then as now, it will be up to him to take an informed interest in how efficiently his money is being spent.

Governments are not always frank. Sometimes, for political or even better reasons, it may be difficult for them to be frank.

Sometimes, for instance, people may favor an expenditure for idealistic, good-citizenship or humane reasons and be right in doing so. But if each person's individual share were rendered to him each pay-day as a separate bill, instead of in various forms of taxes, his idealism or humanity might falter under the visible drag on his pocketbook.

So perhaps we are not yet ready for absolute frankness.

Quebec City Folk Watch Dance Bylaw

QUEBEC, April 10 — (CP) — Quebecers sat up and took notice today when they heard that a draft bylaw to be studied soon by city council would allow opening of public dance halls and night clubs, taboo here. Authorities denied they intended going that far.

In Quebec City, dancing is restricted to private clubs and private parties in public halls.

Pressure from Roman Catholic church authorities, as far back as 1911, has resulted in the present strict dancing regulations.

Boom Sparks Deficit

OTTAWA, April 10 — (CP)—The big Canadian development boom has sparked the second deficit in Canada's balance as payments in more than a decade—a peak $524,000,000 in 1951—the Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday. Officials feel the deficit reflects the pace of Canadian development, requiring huge amounts of imported goods to keep the boom going full speed.

Announce Decreases

TORONTO, April 10 — (CP) — Rootes Motors Canada Ltd Wednesday announced decreases ranging from $92 to $200 on its lines of British cars, following decreased taxes announced in the budget. Rootes cars include the Hillman, Rover, Humber Hawk and Sunbeam-Talbot.

Suggest 41-Mill Rate

TORONTO, April 10 — (CP) — Board of Control Wednesday recommended a tax rate of 41.8 mills for 1952. City council will consider the rate Tuesday. The rate is based on a total budget of $71,614,560. Last year's rate was 39.3 mills.

Ban Hypnotism

QUEBEC, April 10—(CP)—The Chancellery of Quebec Roman Catholic Archdiocese published a statement Wednesday banning hypnotism as a form of entertainment. The statement asked parish priests to "carefully keep the faithful away from such practices . . ."

Steal Funeral Money

TORONTO, April 10 — (CP) — Walter Goldstein, 65, knew for six months he was going to die. He saved $1,129 for funeral expenses. Sunday, he died. Tuesday, while his family was out making funeral arrangements, thieves broke into his home and took the money.

Ban On Canadian Cars Won't Slow Production

WINDSOR, April 10 — (CP) — A New Zealand government ban on the import of automobiles from Canada and the United States will necessitate no change in Ford or Chrysler of Canada production schedules, officials here said Wednesday.

They said that since the Second World War, New Zealand credit restrictions had permitted the import of "only a few" U.S. and Canadian cars.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Nobody appears to be getting unduly excited over a motion by a Quebec Liberal member to abolish what he terms the National Hockey League's "slave market in young hockey players". Hockey-wise folks know what he's getting at—he wants to keep Jean Beliveau with Quebec Aces, that young star being a gold mine in Quebec City puck circles. Jean is on Canadiens' list and, unless he steps up next year, the last-place team can claim him under the draft. Meaning Chicago Hawks. Beliveau is supposed to be drawing something like $12,000 a year now as a so-called amateur, and of course would be well paid in higher ranks. If this be slavery, bring on the yoke.

A tasty hockey tidbit is presented ere Easter at Civic Arena this p.m. at 8:30 when the provincial police of No. 8 Div. tangle with the hockey-playing Petes' senior lacrossers. Proceeds to promote minor hockey here. Both squads have some good pucksters of senior calibre and there are a number of rugged individuals in the two lineups, so it should be an interesting ice duel. Also a 15-minute exhibition of lacrosse on skates by many of the Timbermen, who are Canadian champs. A number of the lacrosse chaps are pro hockeyists during the winter months across the border.

Speedy Skaters Compete

After the first period, the annual puckists' skating race will be staged, with Dit Clapper the starter. It's for the Max Swanston Trophy (a smaller replica to keep) and a first prize of $40. Second one of $10. Open to city and district players. Drake Jopling won it last year, and big Bill McMaster took it the previous race. Such speedsters as Bill Crowley, Keith Montgomery, Jake Wade, Arn Dugan, Bill Stewart, Don Ashbee, Ike Hildebrand, and a raft more, are expected to compete for cash, cup and glory. Mayhap Joe Blewett will come in from Lakefield to show folks he can still flash those blades in oldtime form. Drop around and see the fun, folks, and help the P.M.H.A.

Trail's end was reached by the Petes in Stouffville last night as they went down under a withering third period and overtime attack before the Clippers. It was 4-3 on the game with the Stouffville speedsters from up Toronto way taking the puck series four games to two. Had a little too much drive in the late stages and were real opportunists as the Petes slipped a bit on covering up in front of the net toward the finish. A good club and they should go right through to the provincial title. The losers congratulated them after the thrilling and exceptionally clean and well-handled contest. No hard feelings in evidence at all.

* * * * * *

Fought to the Finish

Petes went down fighting furiously to the finish and were not disgraced by any means. Gave it all they had but 'twas pretty much a case of seven or eight good senior "B" puckists against 14—the Clippers being better balanced. They're a solid outfit and hand-picked all the way through. At that, it was just a tossup tilt with the issue much in doubt till that final gong. Only three minor penalties in it, Petes getting two, and plenty fast and close from the first faceoff till the overtime finish. Visitors got a goal in each of the regular periods, whilst Clippers got three in the third and the big money marker early in the extra inning. Steele, Fryia and Dugan were local marksmen, with Gus Leonard aiding on two, and Stewart and Mason one apiece. Ray Harding was brilliant in goal throughout.

* * * * * *

So that concludes the long senior "B" campaign which started early in November. Coach Jim Ellis did a fine job with the material he had, and the Petes put on a darned good show through their lengthy schedule and in group playoffs. Did well, too, against the classy Clippers, even though bowing out. They had a lot of fan support in playoffs, and several hundred Peterborough people were on deck last p.m., making plenty of noise. The executive and the players rate a lot of credit for the 1951-52 showing, though they naturally were pretty disappointed last night in losing out after leading for two frames. But that's sports for you. Tough luck, gang.

Protect Perch

CORNWALL, Ont. — (CP)—District anglers and commercial fishermen at a meeting here went on record as favoring restrictions on the size and sale of perch fished from the St. Lawrence. A resolution suggested a minimum of eight inches for both types of fishing, because of gradual depletion of the perch population in this area.

Teepees File Protest On Use Of Stewart

TORONTO, April 10 (CP) — St. Catharines Teepees have filed an official protest against Guelph Biltmores in the use of forward Ron Stewart in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A finals.

Coach and general manager Rudy Pilous, whose Teepees were beaten by Biltmores in the final, said he has new evidence that the playing of Stewart was illegal. He said the entire case should be reviewed by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Announcement of the St. Catharines protest followed by a day the news that Montreal Canadiens, now engaged with the Biltmores in the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup finals, also are protesting the use of Stewart.

Guelph was allowed to use the former Toronto Marlboros player after a telegraph vote of C.A.H.A. members.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Jackie Robinson, the brilliant negro infielder, became the first of his race to break into modern Major League Baseball when the Brooklyn Dodgers five years ago today announced purchase of his contract from Montreal Royals of the International League. The announcement came after Montreal beat Brooklyn 4-3 in an exhibtion at Brooklyn.

Teachers Take Hoop Win Over Students

The teachers do it every time. At least that's what P.C.V.S. students are beginning to think, especially after the men teachers handed the Grade 13 boys a 43-40 defeat Wednesday in the annual teachers - students' basketball game.

Earlier this year the teachers triumphed in volleyball, then came up with a convincing 7-2 victory in the annual hockey game. Wednesday's victory in basketball was their second straight in the annual series; they defeated the students by a larger score last year.

The teachers opened their practice session Wednesday with five players; then Al MacQuarrie was clipped accidentally on the nose (a possible broken bone). That left only four teachers and they had to recruit two senior team players, Dave Langhorne and Terry Brown.

Smooth Handlers

Close-checking by Jack Cullis and Zolton Temesy accounted largely for the teachers' win. Their smooth ball-handling combined with the dashing attack of Langhorne and Browne, working the ball in close for layup shots.

The students had an array of basketball talent in Dan Griffin, Bryon Young, Don Ash and Paul Frise. Besides these they could rely upon nine others to help provide a breather.

Points by Gord Johnston, Cullis, Temesy and Langhorne gave the teachers an 11-7 score in the first quarter. They kept their scoring distributed in the second quarter and managed to hold a 21-19 score at the half.

Led by Young and Griffin the students pressed in the third quarter, nearly overtaking the lead. But Cullis and Langhorne dropped in points to keep the students edged to within one point of the teachers, who held the lead.

The students' Ash and the teachers' Cullis shared scoring honors each with 12 points. Langhorne chalked up 11 for the teachers while Brown and Temesy each scored eight. Griffin had eight for the students.

Canadiens Dump Biltmores In Bruising 7-5 Triumph

MONTREAL, April 10 (CP) — Montreal Junior Canadiens and Guelph Biltmores took a breather today following the bruising, bone-crushing game, Wednesday night that saw Canadiens come out on top 7-5 to even up the series at one game apiece.

The scene now shifts to Ontario where the best-of-seven series resumes at Guelph Friday and continues at Toronto Sunday afternoon.

Pacing the victors with a pair of tallies apiece were Les Lilley and Butch Mackay. Singletons came from Don Marshall, Connie Broden and Dave McCready.

For the visitors, Ken Laufman got two and Dean Prentice, Howie Howell and Ron Murphy one each.

21 Penalties

The game was studded with 21 penalties, including two majors and a misconduct. Twelve came in the scoreless opening period.

The stalwart Guelph team was never ahead but came from behind a two-goal deficit in the finale to tie the score at 4-4.

Aldo Guiolin, Guelph forward, was lost to his team in the second period when he crashed into the boards. In hospital, it was reported he had suffered a broken bone in the right leg.

Tempers ran high in the wide-open game and boarding, stick-swinging and high-sticking were the order of the day. Bucky Hollingworth of Canadiens and Andy Bathgate of Guelph were major offenders, each getting a major and a minor. Hollingworth also talked himself into the 10-minute misconduct penalty.

A. Caccavella Leads

A. Caccavella had high three of 866 and M. Hill top single of 332 this week in the Major Bowling League at Playfair, as Herb's led teams with 3550 pinnage and a single of 1319. Six points went to Wood, B & E., Sun Life and Clapper's over U.E.W., Brewers, Kawartha and Wonder Bread; while 4-2 wins were taken by Herb's, Plazas, Crowley, Campbell, Stud, Champs, McCleod, Kingsmen and Selkirk over Bickell, Mowry, Cherney, Lillian's, Odeon, Examiner, Darling's and Revenoors respectively.

Good Scores included: E. Reynolds (322) 861, A. Mattucci (316) 823, H. Killen (325) 803, R. Pearson 794, M. Hill 787, Jake Wade 761, B. McCarrell 756, J. Dormer 735, M. Doris 727, C. Niles (324) 726, F. Hurley 722, E. Dilxon (308) 730, F. Willison 718 and A. Caccavella a single of 329.

ROCKET WINNER—Maurice Richard eludes two Boston defencemen, whirls in front of Goalie Jim Henry and whips the puck into the net. His goal with less than four minutes to play in the seventh game of the series eliminated Boston and hoisted the Habs into the Stanley Cup finals with the Detroit Red Wings. The Bruins are Murray Henderson (No. 8) and Bill Quackenbush (No. 11).

Petes Edged In Overtime By Clippers, 4 to 3 To Lose Senior "B" Series

Clippers scored an overtime goal in Stouffville last night to nudge out the Petes 4-3 before 2,000 fans—nearly 500 of them from Peterborough—and elimiated the Ellis outfit by four games to two in their O.H.A. senior "B" quarter-final series. The Clippers now go against Toronto Lyndhurst in provincial semi-finals, while the Petes hang up their skates after nearly six months of campaigning. They went down battling bitterly to the finish in a well-handled and clean contest, but Nick Bangay's overtime goal at 2:06 spelled their finish for this season.

The same Nick Bangay was the individual star of the game as he slapped in three goals for the Clippers, while Polly Minton got their other one. Bud Watson was a big help for them, too, as he assisted on three, George Stark aiding on a pair, and Hal Gibson one. They scored three in the third period to tie the score and send it into overtime after the Petes led 1-0 in the first frame and 2-0 going into the third. But the Ellis men could manufacture but one in the windup stanza, and the Clippers got the money marker in the extra inning.

Scored One Each

George Steele, Chum Fryia and Arn Dugan tallied for the Petes, Gus Leonard assisting on two, as Bill Stewart and Curly Mason were in on one each. Every one of the Petes battled hard and it looked like their night as they took an early lead and hustled all the way, getting good goaltending, checking well and driving it from the first faceoff. But the better balanced Clippers kept scrapping back and they staged a furious and sustained drive in the third period and the overtime session to earn the narrow nod in a fine fixture. Neither side complained of the refereeing at any time. The winners' goalie was plenty tough to beat again in this fray.

Fryia served an early slashing penalty but no damage was done in his absence. There was but one shot on goal while he was off. Play was fast up and down and players were changed on the fly. Rose drew their only penalty for tripping and Gibson almost scored on a breakaway before he returned. It was hot and even then for a space and Harding came well out to rob Stark on a thrust. Steele banged in the first goal from Gus Leonard with a side shot near the crease as they scrambled around Clippers' net. Dugan came close later as Petes pressed and a drive by G. Leonard and Jopling came close. Bud Watson was robbed as he roared in on Harding near the close of a tight stanza.

Made It Two

Peters was gated for holding to start the second period but the Petes checked well and Harding was solid to hold the enemy off until he returned. Floyd had a good try and Gibson was close at the other end of the rink. Play alternated fast, and a drive by Fryia and G. Leonard nearly paid off. Steele got the Petes only other penalty for charging and Bob Bangay was thefted at close range by Ray before he was back. Clippers had a slight edge on play the last part of the period, despite a swell rush by Dugan, Mason and Stewart. Near the close of the canto, Fryia batted in Gus Leonard's rebound on a hot shot from the side at close range to make it 2-0.

Clippers poured it on in the third and tallied early when Nick Bangay smashed in a side shot from Bud Watson and Stark on a fast rush. Dugan got that one back shortly from Stewart and Mason on an in-close ganging-up play, with a whistling shot high into the hemp. Nick Bangay tore back in to score again from Bud Watson with a high backhand angle drive at torrid speed. Jack Watson was gypped of one as they kept pressing hotly to keep the home fans roaring. Bell scored one but the whistle had gone. Then Minton evened it up at 12:07 from Gibson and Bud Watson in a scramble by the crease edge. Stewart came close as the Petes drove back but time ran out on them.

Got The Winner

Minton nearly notched one in overtime as Clippers piled in hotly again to have an edge on play. Nick Bangay scored at 2:06 on a corner passout from Stark and slap shot at point-blank range. Harding didn't have a chance on it. Bud Watson almost got another on a breakaway as the Petes ganged up. Gibson went off hurt and Clippers iced the puck several times to relieve pressure as the Petes pressed. Harding was taken out in the final minute and it was plenty hot but the Petes couldn't score.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Peters and Wade; centre, G. Leonard; wings, Steele and Fryia; alternates, Dugan, Mason, Stewart, Garvey, West, Floyd, Jopling and E. Leonard.

Stouffville: Goal, Stunden; defence, Baker and Rose; centre, B. Watson; wings, Stark and N. Bangay; alternates, R. Bangay, Minton, J. Watson, Rumney, Gibson, Bell, Machin and Petch.

Referees—J. Shropshire and A. Bellemer.

Livingstons Clip Grads In 79-60 Win

TILLSONBURG, April 10 (CP)—Almost everybody is smiling in this little western town today.

The 5,000-odd inhabitants are plenty pleased about their basketball team's 79-60 victory over Winnipeg Varsity Grads Wednesday night, the game that gave the Livingstons a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five Canadian Senior Men's Cage finals.

On top of that, they anticipate that their favorites will wind up the series with another win here in Friday night's fourth clash, the one which would bring them the Dominion title.

The Westerners took the Monday opener, 63-61, but Tillsonburg bounced back Tuesday to deadlock the series with a 70-56 verdict. Wednesday night, there was no question about it from the opening whistle. The Ontario squad led almost all the way and were by far the better on the 60 minutes of play.

Winnipeg held on grimly throughout the first half of Wednesday night's effort, but faded badly.

The Livvies led 21-16 by the end of the first quarter and held a 38-30 advantage at the half. Opening up, the Ontario crew were in front 58-45 at the three-quarter mark before going on to their 79-60 final.

Roy Williams, lanky Winnipeg centreman, was top scorer of the night with 28 points. Carl Ridd was second in the visitors' point parade with 15.

Bob Phibbs was again high man for the home club, pushing in 19 points. Tommy Gibbons was next with 16 and Bob Simpson potted 11.

Detroit Wings Favored 9-5 Take Canadiens In Series

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL, April 10. (CP)—Detroit Red Wings, the powerful hockey machine that wrapped up the National Hockey League title without extraordinary excitement, ruled 9-5 favorites today over Montreal Canadiens in the Stanley Cup final. The betting fraternity didn't have to indulge in higher mathematics to settle on these odds. While the teams prepared for the opening game tonight of the best-of-seven series, a flashback of past performances was all needed.

The Wings ran out the N.H.L. schedule with 100 points, a margin of 22 over the second-place Canadiens. In the 14 meetings between the clubs, the Wings took the decision nine times and lost only twice. Three games were tied.

The Wings capped this display of strength by unceremoniously mopping up Toronto Maple Leafs, 1951 Stanley Cup champions, in four straight games of their cup semi-final.

In the other semi-final, Canadiens needed the full seven games to overcome Boston Bruins.

Irvin Optimistic

Odds or no odds, you can't convince coach Dick Irvin that his Canadiens won't make the grade against the Red Wings. If they do it will be the first time that the cup—and the title of world champions — has come to Montreal since 1946.

Despite injuries at the outset of the series with Boston, Canadiens showed remarkable recuperative powers. They pulled out an overtime win when on the verge of elimination and then took the deciding seventh game, thanks largely to Maurice Richard's deciding goal.

The Montreal adherents point out, too, that Canadiens whipped the Wings in a semi-final last year before bowing to the Leafs. The Wings are much the same. But since then Canadiens have come up with a flock of rookies who broke out in goal rashes throughout the season.

Must Be Watchful

Strong in every position, and with big Gordie Howe a continual scoring threat, the Wings nevertheless must watch such upstarts as Dickie Moore, Paul Meger and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion.

A couple of farmhands from the American Hockey League—Eddie Mazur and Paul Masnick—got into the final two games with the Bruins and both figured in the scoring. The pair undoubtedly will be trotted out again tonight by coach Irvin.

The Wings will be without Leo Reise, the big blonde defenceman and a top-ranking star in the N.H.L., who suffered a severe foot injury in practice.

Up front, the Red Wings are intact and what combination Canadiens will send against the big production line—Howe, Sid Abel and Ted Lindsay—remains to be seen.

Indians Trip Pembroke 5-3

PEMBROKE, Ont., April 10 — (CP).—Pembroke Lumber Kings will be one game down in their best-of-seven Allan Cup eastern final when they meet the speedy Stratford Indians in the second game of the series.

The Ontario Hockey Association Senior A champions scored a pair of overtime goals Wednesday night to rout the Ottawa District Hockey Association titleholders 5-3 in the opening game before 4,100 fans.

Billy Flick was the big gun for the Indians, scoring two goals including the winning overtime marker. Singles went to Jackie White, George Aitken and Bruce Burdett. Pembroke snipers were Ken Campbell, Bruce Giesebrecht and Jack Carthy.

Goalie Bruce Dale, between the Stratford pipes, turned in a standout performance and robbed several Lumber King forwards from point-blank range. In all, he turned aside 36 scoring attempts to 27 for Pembroke's Fred Murphy.

Aitken suffered the only injury of the game. He ran into a high stick in the dying minutes of the first period and returned in the second period with five stitches over his right eye.

EYE ON THE BALL—Tillsonburg Livingston's Bob Simpson seems frozen in position by the hypnotic influence of the ball in the second game of the best-of-five Canadian basketball championship series at Tillsonburg. The Livingstons defeated Winnipeg Grads 70-5 and Wednesday night 79-60 to lead the series 2-1. Behind Simpson are Roy Williams (6), Ross McCallion (8) and Mike Spack (10), all of the Grads. Simpson scored 11 points in the game.

Here and There In Sport

Thirteen Canadian runners are entered in the April 19 Boston Marathon—one of the strongest delegations in several years.

Five Canadians entered the big race Wednesday, officials announced at Boston, to bring the entry list to 97. They were: Donald and Lionel Nesbitt of the Toronto Track and Field Club, George Rolland and Fred Bailey of Gladstone Athletic Club, Toronto and James H. Sherwood of Hansport, N.S.

Other Canadians previously entered are: Warren Eyre of Toronto, Gerry Loiselle and Gordon Gilmour of Quebec City; Bob Shaver, Roland Bouffard and Francis Amis of Montreal, George Gallant of Shediac, N.B., and Paul Bellineau of Toronto.

The run is over a 26-mile, 385-yard course.

Jake Lamotta outslugged young Norman Hayes in a wild-swinging 10-round bout Wednesday night at Detroit. It was Jake's 100th fight over a 12-year professional career.

Vancouver Eilers, led by Nora McDermot's 23 points, won the Canadian Senior Women's Basketball championship Wednesday night from Hamilton Zion Ramblers. Eilers took the series at Vancouver three straight and the game 46-31.

Pitcher Bob Feller's victory over New York Giants Wednesday was a costly one. The Cleveland Indians ace told Houston, Texas, police that someone entered his hotel room while he was silencing Giants' bats and stole $350.

Motherwell battled its way into the final of the Scottish soccer cup final Wednesday, beating Hearts 3-1 in the second replay of their semi-final tie. Playing at Glasgow, the teams were deadlocked for five hours of play in three games. Motherwell now meets Dundee.

A Canadian equestrian team will be entered in the Olympic games this year for the first time. First trials for the riding team will be held Sunday at the Todmorden estate of the late Maj.-Gen. Churchill Mann near Toronto. A full-scale test to Olympic standards is slated for the end of May.

The Vancouver Sun Wednesday ran a complete sports page story in French as a tribute to Montreal Canadiens' great Maurice (Rocket) Richard. The story was in honor of Richard's spectacular game-winning goal Tuesday night against Boston Bruins. The victory enabled Canadiens to meet Detroit Red Wings for the Stanley Cup.

Robinson Wants Get 1st Punch

By MURRAY ROSE

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., April 10 (AP).—Does Rocky Graziano still hit as hard as ever, or has some of the power gone out of his famed right hand wallop?

"Man, I don't aim to find out," said Sugar Ray Robinson. "I'm going to try and get the first punch in."

"He always could punch with his right," said the sleek Harlemite, "and I'm going to watch out. Of course, we've both slowed down but you got to watch the punchers."

Looks Good

Then the middleweight champion, who defends his crown against the New York slugger in Chicago next Wednesday, went out and showed some of the fastest hands we've seen in a long time. He punched faster than we've seen him hit since that last flurry that stopped Randy Turpin in the 10th round at the Polo Grounds last September.

Against sparmates he fought only in spurts. When the television men turned on their cameras, Robinson lashed out. As soon as the cameras stopped whirring Bobby eased off. There wasn't the slightest resemblance to the rusty swinger who missed so badly against Bobo Olson in San Francisco last month.

"Man, I sure missed out there," said Robinson. I missed him by at least three feet at times. I couldn't have missed any worse unless he jumped out of the ring. That long layoff after the Turpin fight was too much."

Norwood 50-50 Club Hold Easter Meeting

NORWOOD, April 10 (ENS).—The regular monthly meeting of the 50-50 Club was held in the Sunday school rooms of the United Church with the presidents, Stan and Mary Flett in charge.

Following a brief business discussion Wes and Alma Hudson and their group took charge of the meeting. Portions of scripture and prayer were given by Wes Hudson. A pictorial presentation of the Easter story with narration by Marilyn Begg was followed by a duet by Misses Nancy Flett and Katherine Hudson. The remainder of the program followed the Easter parade and several songs and readings presented by members of the group.

A contest and lunch was enjoyed in the basement after which the Rev. H. K. Wright brought the meeting to a close with prayer.

Varcoe Family Holds Reunion

ROSENEATH, April 10 (ENS).—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Norris, Roseneath, have as their guests this week the latter's two aunts and an uncle. They are Orra Varcoe, 86, Cobourg, Mrs. Wiliam Varcoe (nee Maggie Varcoe), 80, of Owassa, Michigan, and Mrs. William Heal (nee Fanny Varcoe), 73, of Peterborough. They also have another sister, Mrs. O. T. Ball (Jennie Varcoe), 90, of St. Thomas, who was unable to be present.

The members of the Varcoe family were born on the Varcoe homestead in Alnwick Township, north of Roseneath, and their parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. John Varcoe, pioneer settlers of this community. Mr. Varcoe, Sr., came from England as a child, and Mrs. Varcoe was the former Ursula Richardson of Centreton. Two of the family are deceased, James Varcoe and Mrs. George Clarke (Elizabeth Varcoe), mother of Mrs. Fred Norris.

At a family get-together at the Norris home, besides those already mentioned were: Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Comfort (nee Vera Varcoe), and daughter Valerie, of Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Varcoe, Roseneath, and granddaughter Janice Black, Bowmanville, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Norris and daughter Brenda, Roseneath.

Bowlers Hold "Do"

The men's City Bowling League completed a successful season with a banquet largely attended by bowlers and sport-minded citizens at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club last week.

After a fine dinner served by Johnny Lavictore and his staff, President Jack Playford went over in brief the league's activities for the past season, and secretary Mel Akers thanked the sponsors of teams for their interest.

Fred Whatley presented captain Jim Herron with the Duffus Trophy to the winning Madill & Post sextette, and each member of the team received a lasting memory of their efforts in a neat trophy to keep.

Dit Clapper presented Jack Wade of McGillis with a beautiful trophy for his high average of 245 for the season. Roy Suddards, also of McGillis, received from Dave Wilson the Ed. Riley Trophy for his 1002 high three, and Roy Lewis presented the Harold Davis Trophy to W. Ruttledge for high single of 420.

The program ended with a draw for cash prizes, won by Jack Wade, Mrs. A. Bailey, 536 Cameron Street, and Miss Caravaggie, 212 Charlotte Street.

U.S. Army Engineers Study Lakes Levels

CHICAGO, April 10 — (AP).—United States Army Engineers will study Great Lakes levels this spring to determine how much damage high water has caused on lakeshore properties.

Col. W. P. Trower, chief engineer of the Great Lakes Division, said yesterday the survey had been requested by the House of Representatives Committee on Public Works. Trower said a report of the study had been scheduled for May 31.

District engineers at Duluth, Milwalkee, Chicago, Detroit and Buffalo will conduct the survey, he said.

In Washington, a group of Lake Ontario property-owners asked the Federal District Court to order alteration or destruction of the Canadian-built Gut Dam on the St. Lawrence River.

They charged that the dam, built in 1903, had caused the lake's level to rise to such an extent that shore properties of 5,000 persons had been damaged.

General Motors Cuts Car Prices $125-$440

OSHAWA, April 10 — (CP) — Price cuts ranging from $125 to $440 on General Motors vehicles are due as a result of the reduction of excise tax on automolies.

"This is definiltely a step in the right direction," William A. Wecker, president of General Motors of Canada Limited, said of the government's action announced in Tuesday night's budget speech.

However, Mr. Wecker said the combined sales and excise tax still remained too high.

He said the tax reduction would mean a considerable saving ranging from $125 on a Chevrolet to as high as $440 at the top of the Cadillac range.

First Bottle Convinced Him Syntona Is Great Medicine

"Cleared Up Stomach Trouble From Which I Formerly Had No Relief," Says This Man. Free Of Headache, Bilious Attacks and Dizzy Spells.

MR. WILLIAM H. MOUNT

"For a long time I suffered from stomach disorders and became very rundown, but the first bottle of Syntona convinced me it is a great medicine," said Mr. William H. Mount, 158 Clarence Street, London, Ontario, in a recent report.

"My chief trouble was with gas, indigestion and heartburn after my meals. I would become bloated, get awful short of breath and have a full heavy feeling across my chest. Sour acid risings came up in my throat. I was subject to sick bilious attacks, throbbing headaches and dizzy spells. Backaches was another of my symptoms and many days I could hardy straighten up.

"I was only taking Syntona one week when I could see it was helping me, so I continued taking it regularly, and now it has cleared up the trouble with my stomach just fine. I can eat many things I couldn't before and have practically no distress with gas, sour stomach or heartburn. Also I am free of the bilious, dizzy spells and headaches and gradually the pain has left my back. I will certainly recommend this medicine to anyone suffering this way as it has given me wonderful relief."

Syntona is a dependable medicine which has helped thousands of men and women right in this city and vicinity. A short trial usually is convincing of its real merit.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. (Advt).

More Canadian Troops Reach Korea

By BILL BOSS

INCHON, KOREA, April 10—(CP)—Elements of five units reached Korea today to begin relieving men of the Canadian army who have served in Korea for almost a year.

Army headquarters announced the program will be completed by the end of June.

Today's contingent, commanded by Major Henri Chasse of Ottawa and Quebec City, embraced two companies from both the Royal 22nd Regiment and the Royal Canadian Regiment and troops from the 23rd Transport Company, the 37th Field Ambulance and the 23rd Field Squadron, Royal Canadian Engineers.

The United States troopship Marine Phoenix after a 20-day trip from Seattle, Wash., have to in the stream in the morning and the troops were ferried ashore.

A waiting train and later a truck convoy took them to "Britannia Camp," Commonwealth division staging camp near the front line, where the staff under Major Charles Hamilton of Brandon, Man., was ready to receive them.

Rigorous Exercises

After their equipment is checked, the infantry troops will undergo a rigorous series of exercises to work out kinks developed during their three weeks at sea and test their preparedness for front line duty.

Sgt. Robert Tunstall, of Calgary, and S. Sgt. Charles Vallieres of Valcartier, Que., said in an interview that, apart from one day of rain, the weather during the voyage had been perfect.

Pte. James Pender, of St. John's, Nefld., praised the meals aboard ship, saying that while the United States style of cooking differed from Canada's, there was lots to eat.

Capt. Rolly Yelle, Quebec City, said he was happy to reach Korea. "It means we get mail tonight, you know—the first since we left home."

Lt.-Col. Peter Bingham, Commanding Officer of the R.C.R.S., visited the troopship to welcome his men.

Lt.-Col. Louis Trudeau planned to meet his Van Doos at Britannia camp.

Although the Marine Phoenix also carried U.S. troops, the Canadians provided most of the entertainment aboard ship, Maj. Chasse said. "Sgt. Bill Brown of Winnipeg organized two orchestras and a concert party which provided a show every week."

'RATTING IS POOR this spring because of low water levels. Pelts are at low levels, too. Veteran guide and trapper Gratton Nicholls paddled into his dock in Little Mud Lake (north-east arm of Chemong Lake) on Tuesday with three 'rats. Trans-Atlantic TV

PARIS, April 10 (Reuters) — Trans-Atlantic Television transmission between North America and Europe will be technically possible in five years time, perhaps less, Davidson Taylor of the National Broadcasting Company, New York, said today. Taylor said one of the big difficulties in international transmission is lack of standardization between countries on receiving sets and broadcasting equipment.

The choir will be assisted by Miss Jean Pengelly, soloist of Timothy Eaton Memorial Church, Toronto.

Deficit Drops

CANBERRA, April 10 (Reuters)— Australia's overseas trade deficit dropped to £19,000,000 for March—the smallest monthly deficit of the current financial year, trade figures showed today. Experts believed the improvement was due to the government's credit restriction policy which made it difficult for importers to obtain ready cash for imports.

Elections Postponed

VIENNA, Austria, April 10 — (AP)—The Romanian Press Service said today Romanian national elections have been postponed for six months. Deputy Premier Gheorghe Gheorgiu-dej told the Bucharest parliament that elections at the present time would seriously handicap the agricultural program. Western observers here believe the postponement is due to the critical economic situation in Romania.

TORONTO, April 10 — (CP) — Ontario's motor licence plates next year will have white numbers on a dark blue background. They will also show the crown, dropped from the plates last year.

A sample plate was displayed in the legislature Wednesday by acting highways minister Dunbar.

The plate did not, however, carry the provincial coat of arms.

Mr. Dunbar said recently that the coat of arms would appear on the plates.

LONDON, April 10— (CP) — The House of Commons has heard —and earnestly debated—a proposal that man should not only be equal, but equidistant.

That is to say, transport charges should be "postalized"—meaning that if it costs the same to send a letter anywhere in the United Kingdom, you ought to be able to send goods from London to Stornoway for the same flat rate as from Piccadilly Circus to Buckingham Palace.

The suggestion came from Hector Hughes, an Irishman with a Welsh name who sits for a Scottish constituency. In his view, Britain must be treated as a unit economically and strategically, as it is geographically for the transport of essentials as for the transport of letters.

"This Island," said the labor member, "should be treated as a unit, not as an amorphous mass of disparate parts to be collected for our own safetly only in time of war."

The root of the argument, as outlined by Hughes and some supporters, is that the presented graduated charges discriminate against remote areas and tend to cause a concentration of population in the southeast of England, near "the best markets and the most numerous consumers."

The debate took some strange twists. Conservative member Sir Herbert Williams was prompted to recall, rather cryptically, a swim he once had in the Canadian Rockies with labor member James Hudson. "We were both exhausted for reasons which I will not mention," said Sir Herbert.

He got on the subject of mountains by noting that as a boy of 16 he had paid twopence for a beer at the foot of a hill, fourpence halfway up, and sixpence at the top. That, he said, was a great lesson in economics.

Capt. L. P. S. Orr, Conservative supported the move for some equality in freight rates.

"After all," he said, "why should mankind have to huddle together, like bees round a honeypot, round the sources of raw materials, or the markets?"

"We ought to work out some method whereby we do not have to gather, like pigs round a trough, in the way we do in these dark, unhealthy, unhygienic, enormous towns, and forsake the fair countryside, the seaside, the mountains and all the rest."

The debate was on a motion to provide standard freight charges across the country. The time limit expired before a vote could be taken, but it probably would have been defeated.

Sharpest criticism of the motion came from George Schwartz, trenchant columnist of the Conservative Sunday Times, who said that Hughes and his supporters were virtually trying to prove that the earth was flat, and "that the population should be spread evenly over it like jam over a slice of bread."

Moisture Ample In Prairies Outlook Bright For Crop

By The Canadian Press

Western Canada enjoyed abundant moisture for the second winter in succession and precipitation figures indicate good prospects for 1952 crops.

Statistics prepared by the meteorological division of the federal transport department show huge increases over normal precipitation in Alberta and Saskatchewan, and a small amount above normal in Manitoba, for the seven months up to the end of February.

For that period Alberta showed an increase of 44 per cent over normal and Saskatchewan 48 per cent. Manitoba was three per cent above normal.

Official statistics for March are incomplete but moisture in southern Alberta was still above normal. Actually floods caused some damage around Medicine Hat and the flood-swollen South Saskatchewan River knocked out three centre spans of the big bridge near Swift Current, Sask. Floods in various areas added to the soaking that the ground absorbed since last autumn.

March precipitation was below normal in Saskatchewan and Manitoba, but the generally dry and sunny weather of the last few weeks was welcomed. Before they can put the new crop in many western farmers still have to get about 130,000,000 bushels off the ground, where it was left in last autumn's bad weather.

Heavy rainfalls last August, while halting the harvest in wide areas of southern Alberta and southwestern Saskatchewan, nevertheless materially improved the over-all moisture situation for the 1952 crop. There was also an excess of nearly 100 per cent in southeastern Saskatchewan, and more than 50 per cent in Manitoba.

During September there were more heavy rains in the southern parts of Alberta and Saskatchewan, with excesses ranging to more than 100 per cent. Northern Saskatchewan and Western Manitoba were high above normal in this month although deficiencies were reported in north and central Alberta and in Eastern Manitoba.

October brought above-normal precipitation everywhere except in eastern Manitoba. The rains slackened off in November with losses of as much as 30 per cent in southern Alberta and Southern Saskatchewan, as well as in Manitoba.

For the three months of December, January and February the winter snowfall was about twice as large as usual in southern Alberta. There were also increases of 10 to 15 per cent in northern and Central Alberta. Southwestern Saskatchewan had 35 per cent above normal, but there were deficiencies in southeast Saskatchewan, northern Saskatchewan, eastern and western Manitoba.

Charge Of Germ Warfare Said Vastly Over-Rated

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, April 10— (CP) — Germ warfare, the great dread of modern man, is vastly over-rated, says Dr. G.D.W. Cameron, federal deputy minister of health and son of Dr. and Mrs. G. S. Cameron, of Peterborough.

Theer isn't a person in the world, says the prominent Canadian medical authority, who can pull the trigger on an epidemic that would cause mass destruction of humanity.

"There may be ways to cause a local epidemic, but we've already worked out strong defences. These are the hospitals, doctors and public health inspectors in every major centre in Canada."

The doctor, giving his personal views on the prospects of bacteriological warfare, said in an interview that there are many diseases and germs loose in the world, but their power to take root and spread in this country have been diminished by modern science.

The big killers included malaria, tuberculosis, yellow fever, typhus and cholera. Some of them were prevalent in tropical climates and thus Canada was spared by her tougher weather.

"And in any case, let's consider just how the enemy would let loose with a germ attack," said Dr. Cameron.

Might Destroy Germs

"Perhaps he would try a bomb, but the burst of the bomb might destroy the germs. They're delicate creatures. He might try to spray Canadians from aircraft, but he would have to be very accurate. The enemy almost would need to come up from behind the victim and spray him with an atomizer before he was sure the disease had made contact."

There might be cases where enemy saboteurs might attempt to spread disease through heavily-populated communities, but again the chance of success was remote.

"Some might want to spread typhoid in a city. But he first would have to wreck the city's filtration plant and chlorine pump. What chances would he have of doing this without being detected?"

"A saboteur might plan to infect school children while they were in school. But what means would be use? Suppose he tried to blow germs up a school ventilation system. How many school children would become ill? Perhaps some, but certainly not all."

Medical authorities in Canada feared outbreaks of smallpox. But Dr. Cameron noted that even with the germ loose in the world, there were relatively few cases reported in Canada.

"No, I don't believe there is anyone in the world who knows how to start a real epidemic."

But, of course, added Dr. Cameron, it pays to keep alert. There were many "unknowns" about germs. It always was possible that someone might find something new, but so far germ warfare was a problem for the theorists and not the practical physician.

Martin Praises Work Of Newspapers

GUELPH, April 10 (CP)—Health Minister Martin told Canadian newspapers today "one of the biggest stories in human history has broken" in Canada but it hasn't been fully written.

"Canada has a story to tell the world, a big story, a front-page headlined story," Mr. Martin said in an address prepared for delivery at the formal opening of a new building for The Guelph Daily Mercury.

"Canadian newspapers should carry the story of the success of our system and our belief in peaceful progress. Here on this continent and in this century, one of the biggest stories in human history has broken but it has not been fully written.

"Canada and the United States, as the noted historian Arnold Toynbee recently pointed out, have succeeded for the first time in the history of mankind in abolishing poverty . . ."

Speaking on "the democratic function of the press," Mr. Martin said "it is up to those who believe in the freedom of expression to get the story of democracy through to those living in fear and ignorance in the half-light of Communism."

The minister lauded the press for its public service.

Perform Great Service

"A newspaper picks up ideas from all over the world and lays them on everyone's doorstep. Newspapers have helped quicken the march of progress by spreading knowledge of new techniques and encouraging people to accept them. They have helped immeasurably to speed up the co-operation of individuals that leads to the achievements of nations. They have been the custodians of public, private and political morality because wrong-doing cannot stand the probing light of publicity."

In Canada the newspaper was an essential part of daily life. To help surmount the vast spaces, Canada had nearly 100 daily papers with a total circulation of 3,500,000. In addition five large weeklies sold 2,000,000 copies weekly and 1,000 local weeklies, 32 farm papers, 200 or more business and trade papers and 58 magazines carried the printed word to the people.

The fact newspaper circulations have grown rapidly in the last 10 years "indicates clearly that we have in this country a very vigorous press but it is also reassuring evidence that the newspaper will never be replaced by other channels of communication.

Average Pay

OTTAWA, April 10—(CP)—Industrial workers' average weekly pay in Canada hit another new high of $53.03 at Feb. 1, the Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday. The previous week's peak was $52.41 at Dec. 1, 1951. The $53.02 figure for Feb. 1 compared with $47.87 at the same time last year.

Bank Head Questions Vast Gov't Revenues

MONTREAL, April 10—(CP)—James Muir, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, Wednesday questioned whether the Canadian government was justified in trying to raise "such vast revenues" as provided for in Tuesday's budget.

Mr. Muir said in a statement that this is a difficult time, "in which the price we have to pay for any hope of safety runs high."

He continued:

"However, more than half of the revenue the government seeks to collect from the people is for so-called ordinary purposes and we have a right to hope that at a time like this, these expenditures will be held to a minimum.

"More than $900,000,000 is for social security purposes . . . and again we hope the government is sure it can afford to make these huge disbursements."

Aussies Want More Emigrants, Industry From Great Britain

MELBOURNE — (Reuters). — Large-scale emigration of people and industries from Britain to the Commonwealth countries is urged by Australian experts as a means of overcoming the present strain on British resources.

They say that a Commonwealth Prime Ministers' conference should be held to discuss such a plan, in which Australia could play a prominent part.

Australian industrial, immigration and banking experts believe it would serve Commonwealth defence by decentralization of industries and at the same time would further the industrial progress of the Commonwealth.

Already some industries complete with personnel, plant and machinery have been transferred to Australia from Britain and have proved outstandingly successful.

Sir Herbert Gepp, adviser to the government on migration and development, says that despite efforts by Britons to produce more for export, and import less, the prospects of Britain being able to pay for her imported food are slight because present British population is too large.

E. F. Atkins, the president of Australia's Associated Chamber of Manufacturers, says decentralization is essential to Commonwealth defence and as important as the immigration of people.

He asserts a strong and united Commonwealth, allied with the United States, could defend the rights of all free peoples.

The general manager of the Bank of New South Wales, S. J. Gandon, urges that private enterprise be given a share in the mass migration plans and recommends that Britain and Australia set up "an organization of first-class minds to consider all aspects of the proposal and advise respective governments."

He says consideration should be given to enlisting the aid of the United States in development plans.

"It seems certain that, in due time, the surplus energy and resources of America will be seeking further outlets. No channel would be better than that leading to the development of countries aligned with her in the struggle against Communism and other forms of tyranny."

Board Approves Change In Wiring

LAKEFIELD, April 10 (ENS)—Attendance at Lakefield District High School for March was reported to be 198 pupils, with percentage attendance as 94 per cent, by principal R. E. Sutton at the April meeting of the Board, attended by all members but one. Chairman G. N. McIlmoyle presided.

The board approved the extra sum of $125.40 for the change in the main service wiring to the type required by H.E.P.C. regulations as of Dec. 31, 1951. The written authorization of this will be sent to architect James Craig.

Approval was also given to the installation of trim pieces in the science, commercial and library rooms for the accommodation of switches next to the door jam.

Mrs. J. A. Spurway will be requisitioned for the following accounts re capital building debenture account: Pierce and Pierce, surveying, $60.70: Bradford-Hoshal Ltd., progress payment $3,607.65. This is the second payment.

C. G. Hunt was appointed delegate to Easter Convention of the Ontario Educational Association, with Erie Pearson as alternative, to accompany Mr. Sutton to the Department of Education re plans for the new school.

The finance committee authorized payment of accounts totalling $843.09. Transportation costs were as follows, Roy Brown, $485.10; F. S. Coyle, $420.00; S. Pearson, $1,113.00; L McColl, $105.00; M. Reddick, $225.00; J. G. Smith, $147.00; total cost $2,495.10.

Tobacco Union Protests To Abbott

MONTREAL, April 10—(CP)—The Tobacco Workers' International Union A.F.L., representing some 6,000 tobacco workers in Quebec and Ontario, Wednesday protested the "attitude" of Finance Minister Abbott and the federal government in the 1952-53 budget.

Union officials, in a telegram sent to Mr. Abbott, said he had "just opened the door a little wider for the entry of American cigarettes," and had "also created further unemployment among Canadian tobacco workers."

Mr. Abbott announced a reduction of three cents a pack in excise tax collected on a pack of 20 cigarettes.

Ask Court To Order Dam Alterations

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP) —The Federal District Court was asked Wednesday to order alterations or destruction of the Canadian-built Gut Dam in the St. Lawrence River between Galop Island on the United States side and Canada's Adam's Island.

The suit was filed by Harold D. Cross and Frances L. Cross, of Montoe County, New York, and others.

They charged that the Gut Dam, built by Canada in 1903, has caused the waters of Lake Ontario to rise causing damage to shore property of about 5,000 persons.

The complaint asserted that the dam was built with consent of the United States government contingent upon no damage caused to property of U.S. citizens.

Charges Mine Used For Politics

By The Canadian Press

A dispute in the Nova Scotia House over operation of a provincially-owned coal mine was the only road-block Wednesday to a drive by four provincial legislatures to wind up their business before the Easter weekend.

A charge that the government used the mine for political purposes was made by Robert L. Stanfield, Progressive Conservative opposition leader, in the Nova Scotia House, expected to prorogue today.

The Prince Edward Island Legislature finished off its business Wednesday and prorogued while the Ontario Legislature sat far into the night to clear its slate. It will prorogue today.

Mr. Stanfield told the Nova Scotia House that the government operated coal mine at Inverness had been operated with "incredible laxity." The system permitted "people on the spot to get away with anything short of murder."

No Check-Up

He said: "Mine property and facilities were improperly used and sold or given away. The government took no effective steps to find what was missing.

"The government used the mine for political purposes."

Replying to the charges, Mines Minister A. H. MacKinnon said that at one time "things may not have been right" but no departmental officials were involved or responsible. The mine was at one time operated under a Progessive Conservative administration, he said, and was more or less a "relief measure."

The Alberta Legislature approved a decision to allow export of natural gas from the province. Liberal and C.C.F. motions designed to delay or stop the export were defeated by suporters of the Social Credit government.

The natural gas will be taken from the Peace River district, probably by British Columbia and the United States.

Suffer Heavy Loss

TORONTO, April 10 — (CP) — E. F. K. Nelson, general manager of the Canadian Retail Federation, said Wednesday that "on-again - off - again taxes always catch somebody." He said in a statement that retailers with large inventories on which they had paid excise tax will suffer a heavy loss as a result of Tuesday's budget but most of them are resigned to it.

Lakefield I.O.D.E. Plans Summer Fair

LAKEFIELD, April 10 (ENS)—Regent Mrs. Kenneth Lichty was hostess to members of the Catherine Parr Traill Chapter, I.O.D.E. at her home Monday evening for the April meeting. The bringing forward of the standard by Mrs. Earl Orr opened the meeting.

The slate of officers, which had not been completed at the annual meeting, was brought in with the following additions, child and family welfare, Mrs. J. McKerchar; empire study, Mrs. James A. Brown; ways and means, Mrs. E. H. Northey; program, Mrs. J. A. Arnott; social convener, Mrs. B. Q. Dench, and publicity, Mrs. Earl Orr.

Mrs. William Croft gave the secretary's report and stated that the proceeds from the skating carnival were $70.

Mrs. T. W. Chaplin, educational secretary, gave a paper on "Art" and colored slides were shown by Paul Richer. These slides included a number taken at Clear Lake of the International Dinghy races held there this summer, some taken while on a trip to Florida and some local ones.

It was decided to hold a summer fair this year in June but the definite date was not set. Further plans will be made at the next meeting and committees appointed.

The regent welcomed Mrs. A. W. Newson, who joined the Chapter at the meeting. The raffle, donated by Mrs. Liehty, was won by Mrs. J. A. Arnott.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Ken Morris.

BANANA CHOCOLATE CREAM PIE

1½ squares unsweetened chocolate
2 cups milk
¼ cup sugar
5 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 baked 9-inch pie shell or six 3½-inch tart shells
3 ripe bananas*

*Use FULLY RIPE bananas . . . yellow peel flecked with brown

Melt chocolate in milk in top of double boiler over rapidly boiling water, beating until blended. Mix sugar, flour and salt. Stir into chocolate mixture. Keep stirring and cook until well thickened. Cook 10 minutes more, stirring occasionally. Stir hot mixture into egg yolks. Cook 1 minute. Add butter or margarine and vanilla. Cool thoroughly. Cover bottom of pie shell with small amount of filling. Peel bananas and slice into pie shell. Cover with remaining filling. Top with meringue or sweetened whipped cream, if desired. Makes 1 pie or 6 tarts.

PUDDING MIXES: Packaged commercial pudding mixes of any flavor may be used as filling. Prepare according to directions on package. Then cool thoroughly and follow the above recipe directions for placing filling and bananas in pie shell.

Gatineau Power Purchase Deal Nearly Completed

TORONTO, April 10—(CP)—The last major private company operating in Ontario will soon be taken over by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

The Legislature was told Wednesday by Hon. G. H. Challies, Hydro vice-chairman, that an agreement is nearly complete to take over the Gatineau Power Company sites on the Ontario side of the lower Ottawa River below the city of Ottawa.

Immediate utilization of the power from the company's Carillon plant involves merely hooking up transmission lines. It produces 60-cycle power.

All members representing ridings in Russell, Prescott and Glengarry counties, which will benefit primarily from such a hookup, commended the government's action. Mr. Challies declined to announce the purchase price.

The announcement came as the Legislature drove toward prorogation, scheduled for 3 p.m. today. The House will sit at 10:30 a.m. to finish up last-minutes business. Royal assent to legislative bills will be given in the afternoon by Lieutenant-Governor Breithaupt. The session opened Feb. 21.

Budget Debate

The Legislature at its night sitting heard a number of speakers in the budget debate. One, Art Child (PC—Wentworth) declared the province should pay three times its present payments toward municipal recreation centres, with a $75,000 ceiling instead of $20,000.

He urged provision of the centres as a guard against juvenile delinquency.

The former goaltender of the Hamilton Tigers hockey team foresaw open-air artificial rinks in every community, which in the summer would be used for dancing and roller-skating.

Country boys should be given the same opportunity as their city cousins to learn hockey and capitalize on it.

He recalled that Guelph Biltmores had paid his way through Ontario Agriculture College. By playing amateur or "shamateur" young people could go through college and even get a "fancy expense account."

Too Much Extravagance

Highlights of the afternoon debate were a plea by Ray Myers (PC—Waterloo South) for a realignment of the system of financing county roads, and an attack by Aurel Chartrand (L—Ottawa East) on what he called the "luxuries and extravagance" of Provincial government spending.

Mr. Myers said that in the county of Waterloo, residents of cities paid an average of 43 cents each toward upkeep of county roads, while those in towns and rural municipalities connected with county government paid $3.34 each.

The town of Hespeler had made two unsuccessful attempts to gain separation from the county, so that it would be on an equal status with cities, whose tax contribution to county roads were only one-half mill.

Hespeler had found that its 3,500 residents paid more for county roads than the 20,000 persons in the city of Galt.

Lowering Standards

Mr. Chartrand said the average family of four persons now pays between $1,700 and $1,800 a year in direct and indirect taxes to all levels of government. Taxes brought "a definite lowering" of standards of living.

G. C. Wardrope (P.C.-Port Arthur) said the federal government should match Ontario's move to pay for municipal taxes on government-owned property and buildings.

He hailed the coming of the St. Lawrence seaway as a boon to the lakehead. It would "enormously" increase the pulp and paper industry, attract many other industries and in time create an industrial situation which would eventually bring steel mills to the lakehead.

S. F. Leavine (P.C.-Waterloo North) paralleled Mr. Wardrope's statement on municipal taxation of federal property when he said that all public utilities should pay municipal taxes. Utilities should be placed on the same basis as other industries.

Wants Highway

W. G. Noden (P.C.-Rainy River) said he hoped a highway would be extended around the northern end of the Quetico-Superior Park to Fort Frances.

Peter Manley (L.-Stormont) joined the budget debate in the night sitting to urge construction of a highway north through Stormont county from Cornwall, a principal port of entry from the United States. Dundas and Glengarry counties, on either side of Stormont, had such highways.

He also asked for straightening of No. 2 highway, which was winding and "outdated" in the light of the traffic it had to bear between Toronto and Montreal.

During passage of Reforms Department estimates, Reform Institutions Minister Foote said the government is willing to make a grant toward construction of a jail farm between Toronto and Hamilton to take prisoners from both cities.

TO TRY "WONDER DRUG"—Six-month-old Joanne Lanouette, in critical condition in an Ottawa hospital suffering from tubercular meningitis, is to be treated with Rimifon, described as a new "wonder drug." The drug, being shipped from Montreal to Ottawa, has been tried at the Hull, Que., sanatorium on two patients. Its use on Joanne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lanouette, will be the first time it has been tried in Ottawa. Dr. Napoleon Tremblay, of the Hull sanatorium, was cautious about the drug which United States clinical experts have termed "possibly one of the great medical discoveries of all time."

Film Industry In India Second Biggest

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, April 10—(AP)—Cowpoke Rod Cameron is back from India, minus 20 pounds from his lean frame and filled with tales of movie making in that country.

Cameron dropped the poundage because of his diet, which largely consisted of canned tuna and cheese. No curry fan is Rod.

"Did you know that India has the second biggest film industry in the world, second only to ours?" he asked over a plate of corned beef hash.

"But unlike our industry, which is centred in Hollywood, theirs is spread out all over the country. And their methods are a great deal different from ours.

Time Means Nothing

"For instance, time means nothing to them. They might take a year and a half to make a picture. Language has a lot to do with this. There are 15 different languages and 300 dialects in India. The scenes are shot over and over again in all the principal languages.

But aside from the language difficulty, they are in no hurry anyway.

"There are far fewer stars than we have in Hollywood, and they are highly paid and much in demand. A star might be making several pictures at once and can earn as much as 125,000 rupees ($25,000) a year. That's a tremendous salary, when you consider that the average Indian earns one rupee a day.

"That's what the movie extras make in India. For their rupee a day, they will do anything, whether it's rioting in a crowd scene or falling off a building. They consider themselves lucky, because the producers keep them on a steady salary, instead of laying them off between pictures."

Cameron remarked that the Indian films run about three hours or more and are generally tear-jerkers. The natives also enjoy American pictures, particularly the musicals and westerns.

The actor journeyed to India with Marie Windsor and Cesar Romero to make "The Jungle."

Springville YPU Easter Meeting

SPRINGVILLE, April 10 (ENS)—The Young People's Union met at the home of Miss Shirley McGee for their Sunday evening meeting.

The Easter meeting was in charge of Hazel McIntosh, convener of the Faith and Evangelism Commission Group and the topic was Bread-Hungry vs. Soul-Hungry.

John Campbell, the first speaker, told a humorous story of the reason man gave for working. It was the vicious circle of working to make money to eat to get strong to make some more money, etc. The speaker reminded the group that that way was not the way of Jesus who urged us to work for eternal life and not for the food that perishes.

Gordon Clifford using the story of the loaves and the fishes as an illustration emphasized the mystery of God's loving care over us.

Bryce Larke took as his topic Jesus "The Bread of Life" who satisfies the hunger of both body and soul but hunger of the soul is most important and for it God gave the gift of His Son.

Lois Paddock and Betty McIndoo speaking of Christ's death on the cross, showed the purpose and meaning it gave to life.

Scripture passages were read by Neil Whitfield.

Then the group divided into smaller groups to discuss the following topics: "What God has a right to expect of us during our earthly life," "How are we going to face up to our duty to God to win souls for Him."

Reports of the discussion groups were then brought forward.

Then Hazel McIntosh, in a brief worship service, said that those whose lives are committed to God take up the challenge to win others to Him and their attitude toward life changes from one of "fighting life's battles" to "singing songs of victory." Prayer and the service of song with Myrna Seymour at the piano brought the meeting to a close.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her mother.

FIVE ROSES ALL PURPOSE FLOUR"

"The children love my baking, and I'm thrilled to think that the neighbours and girl friends are always asking me: 'Elsie, how did you learn to bake your wonderful cakes?"

"The truth of the matter is that I only started 'really' baking a few years ago, but it seems as though with Five Roses everything turns out so perfectly.

"Last week I had baked a special super cake to enter in a contest, but Eric, my little boy, had other ideas about what should be done with a perfectly good cake. Can you imagine, before I realized it, he had helped himself to an enormous slice! I was heartbroken for a moment — but there he was grinning from ear to ear, and covered with chocolate icing, proudly singing: 'Mummy, you sure can cook! Nina and I think you are the best cook in the world!'

"Well, I must admit it's certainly nice to be so popular. So here's to your wonderful Five Roses All Purpose Flour. It's just grand to know that one flour is so perfect for everything from tender, flaky pastry to the most heavenly light cakes that just seem to float away. Anyway, the family certainly make them disappear as fast as I bake them. Personally, I wouldn't change flours for the world, believe me! Good Baking is Easy with Five Roses!"

Sincerely yours, Elsie Hyde

CHILDREN FIGHT FIRE

School children from King George School were on the scene before city firemen Wednesday afternoon to help put out a grass fire on Armour Hill in Ashburnham. Firemen used a handpump on the remains of the fire and made sure no sparks were left before returning within a few minutes to the hall.

SEARCH FOR BODY

City firemen resumed the search today for the body of five-year-old Sharon Littlefair, who drowned in the Otonabee River last January 6. Sharon fell through a crust of thin ice on the river near Burnham's Point. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Littlefair, of 53 Edgewater Blvd. Firemen cruised around Little Lake early today but found no sign of the body. Later they shifted their search to south of the lower locks.

Easter Later, But Just As Frigid As Ever Shivery Holiday Predicted By Weatherman

Easter is later this year, but will the weather be better? Everyone is anxious about the weather that will descend upon Peterborough in the next few days.

The weather forecast today sent a shiver through the city. Snowflurries were predicted for Friday. At best Friday will be cloudy and cool.

Will the girls have a chance to wear the new dresses and Easter suits they spent their savings on? It depends on how well they can resist the cold. The weatherman says that Saturday and Sunday will probably be clear, but cool.

Warm winds and sunny skies first thing this morning held out false hopes. People who have been waiting to get out into the country after months of confinement, thought that this was going to be a golden opportunity. Fishermen began to get out their tackle and try a few casts with their rods.

They tried to remember where it was they saw that promising stream last fall where trout were bound to be growing big and fat.

But by noon, although the temperature had climbed to 59, the skies were already beginning to cloud over as a warning of the weather on the way. By night, the thermometer would go to two degrees below freezing.

Official Defends Policy Of Segregation In S. Africa

Much of the criticism directed at South Africa's racial policies can be traced to a "phenomenon of modern thinking," Alexander W. Steward, Information Advisor to the South African High Commissioner to Canada declared Wednesday night. Speaking at the annual meeting of the Peterborough branch of the United Nations Association, Mr. Steward said that millions eagerly accept the ready-made thought patterns presented to them by columnists, commentators and newscasters."

"In the same way as millions of people today allow a handful of professionals to play their football and hockey for them, they allow professionals to do their thinking for them and without questioning the material or the measurements, multitudes step into ready-made patterns of thought," said Mr Steward.

Shaky Foundations

"As a result, it seems several of today's basic assumptions rest on very unsure foundations." To illustrate this point, Mr. Steward cited two examples:

Democracy, he said, has come to be regarded as an end rather than a means.

"It seems to be widely accepted that the granting of universal franchise is the ultimate indication of good and enlightened government. But I hardly need say that democracy was not invented for the sake of the ballot box. Nor was it invented so that every man might have the right every four or five years to put a cross on a piece of paper—whether opposite the name of a candidate or opposite the picture of a parrot or a beetle. Democracy was invented as a means of securing the happiness and welfare of the people, and it justifies itself only when it can be shown clearly to contribute towards that end."

Mr. Steward then turned to the much-talked-about "equality of man."

"The common deduction from this proposition seems to be that men are not equal but that they are the same," he continued.

"However, I cannot help feeling that the equality of man is more closely associated with his uniqueness than with his sameness. In any case, it is difficult to believe that one does honor to the equality of man by directing men of all kinds and colors into a mold which happens to have proved suitable to the temperament and genius of

40 Normal Pupils Signed Up For Teaching

Already 40 of the 125 students attending the Peterborough Norman School this year have signed contracts for teaching positions next term, L. W. Copp, principal, said today.

A year ago a few more students than this year had been signed up because arrangements were made earlier last year.

Mr. Copp pointed out that a number of the top students this year are slated for the Peterborough public schools teaching staffs. Others are signed for schools in Ottawa (two), Kingston (7), Belleville (four) and Oshawa.

The starting salaries for the students next fall have increased slightly during the past year. The young teachers so far have contracted for annual salaries ranging from $2,000 to $2,400 a year. Last year some students started teaching at $1,900 a year.

Last year most of the students had signed for schools before the term was completed early in June.

Easter Holidays.

The students left today for their Easter holidays in their homes and there during the week from April 21-25 the teachers-to-be will teach in the urban schools. This is part of the new program started this term providing the students with more continuous teaching time.

Also during that week the Normal school staff will be visiting high schools in the area, Kingston on the east, Orillia on the west, Haliburton on the north, and south along the lakeshore. There they will be interviewing students who are planning to enter Normal school next year.

The prospects for next year indicate that the enrolment will be just as large as this year and maybe higher. About 160 high school students will be interviewed.

City Observes Easter In Churches

Community Service In All Saints' In Afternoon

A three-hour community service for members of all the Protestant churches in the city will be held Friday in All Saints' Anglican Church at 12 noon.

The service is under the auspices of the Peterborough Ministerial Association and will be conducted by the Rev. M. P. Poole of All Saints' Anglican Church.

The form of the service will be meditation for Good Friday based on the seven last words from the cross. The last hour of the service will be broadcast.

The following ministers will give short addresses during the service: the Rev. William Leaton, of Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church; Major Douglas Sharp, of the Salvation Army; the Rev. A. A. Mathews, of George St. United Church; the Rev. Ivan C. Morgan, of Murray St. Baptist Church; the Rev. H. G. Douglas, of Knox United Church; the Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon, of Trinity United Church.

Combined Choirs

Music for the service will be provided by a combined choir of members from the various churches under the direction of George Chandler, choirmaster at All Saints' Church. Miss Margaret Flower will be the organist.

A special three-hour service will be held in St. Peter's Cathedral Friday afternoon and will start at 12 noon. Stations of the Cross services and a sermon will be conducted in the remaining Roman Catholic churches in the city Friday afternoon and masses of the Pre-Sanctified will be held in all the churches in the morning.

Larry Forbes To Be Cadet At Banff Camp

P.C.V.S.'s cadet corps will be represented this year at the national cadet camp, Banff, Alberta, by its commanding officer, Lieut.-Col. Larry Forbes. He is one of 50 cadets from Ontario attending the summer camp.

Chiefly a bandsman during his early cadet years, Lieut.-Col. Forbes has been in charge of the band for the past three years. He was elected commanding officer this year by his fellow officers and the teacher-instructors.

Two years ago the corps was represented at the annual camp by George Fanjoy, now attending the Royal Military College, Kingston.

Before the cadets leave for the west, they will have a two-week camp at Ipperwash on Lake Huron, undergoing extensive preparatory training courses. There they will be outfitted with equipment for the western camp.

Special Train

A special train will leave Toronto with the Ontario cadets and at Sudbury will meet a train from the eastern provinces, taking boys to the camp. With cadets from the western provinces they will assemble the camp about three miles from Banff.

Some of the camp time will be be spent on sight-seeing through the Yoho Valley. There they will see Mount Eisenhower, Kicking-Horse Pass, Takakkaw Falls, the Great Divide and Lake Emerald. Other places of interest will also be visited.

The actual camp training takes up 40 per cent of the time. The boys study advanced engineering, practical first aid and radio. One week will be spent at a bivouac camp 10 miles north of the main camp. There in the wilds of the Rockies the cadets will practise fieldcraft, woodwork schemes, bridge-building, field cooking and mountain climbing.

Soldiers Return From Korea War

Two Peterborough men are returning to Canada this weekend on rotation leave from service with the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade Group in the Far East.

Sgt. Charles Johnson, 71 McKellar St., and Pte. W. Crouch, 223 Perry St., will both be coming to their homes for a month's leave following their arrival in this country.

Cpl. H. J. Baldwin of Lakefield and Pte. F. J. Cann of Cobourg are also in this group arriving for rotation leave.

Reginald Reid Heads Council

Reginald Reid, sales manager of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company, was elected Wednesday chairman of the Peterborough branch of the Ontario Industrial Education Council. He succeeds Clarence B. Neal, president and general manager of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company.

The election was held at the branch's annual meeting in the collegiate library. More than 20 representatives of the various factory managements in the city attended.

Others on the executive are: Clyde Cameron, Peterborough Lock Company, 1st vice-president; George Batley, Canada Packers, 2nd vice-president; B. W. Switzer, secretary - treasurer. Committee chairmen elected were: public relations, James Fraser; skilled and semi-skilled trades, L. J. Sparrow; guidance and industrial relations, H. J. Moebus; commercial occupations, Bruce Payne; supervisory training, J. J. Dutton.

First Shearing Strange, Frightening For Toddlers

By DON SWAIN

"It's time junior had his first haircut." This fateful announcement is enough to send father ducking behind his newspaper or dashing out to the garage to tinker with the car, for it's a cinch he wants to escape the experience if he can. Some are lucky. Either junior behaves and enjoys his first clipping, when his father finally trudges downtown with him after exhausting all possible excuses for getting out of it, or, he is conveniently sent out of town on business for a couple of weeks, and mother does the honors.

Two mothers had an experience Monday afternoon, neither they, the youngsters, nor the barbers who did the shearing are likely to forget for awhile. It's also a safe bet they won't be looking forward to taking the young tyros back for their second visit, either.

Better Than Show

Having one young fellow in the shop for his first haircut is usually enough to make the chair warmers in the "next line" drop last month's magazine and watch developments with either interest, amusement or annoyance. But two at once—that is something you have to see to appreciate. After placing a small board (always kept handy for these situations) across the arms of the chair the barber puts on his friendliest smile and then one youngster's mother begins edging him toward the chair.

It was obvious that this was going to be a fight to the finish. Junior immediately served notice he had no intention of giving in without a struggle. He started squirming and wriggling, and as soon as his mother plopped him on the board, he gave out with a war whoop that would make an Apache sound like a rooter at a lawn bowling tournament.

Meanwhile, the other youngster in the shop watched with more than casual interest. Just as the first barber began taking wild jabs and snips as he tried to clip the moppet's bobbing head without stabbing him, the second barber arrived back from lunch.

The second youngster was smaller than the first and unable to put up as effective a struggle as 'mama' started propelling him toward the chair.

Once he was in the chair, both started chorusing their protests in unison, but in different keys. The second barber went through the same hit and miss efforts to shear his reluctant customer as his fellow tonsorial artist in the next chair.

Off Key

Barber shop quartets are noted for their harmony but this duet was strictly off key. The longer they were in the chairs the louder they howled, each trying to outdo the other.

However, the harried barbers were just as persistent in completing the job, as the youngsters were in doing everything they could to make things difficult. The mothers pleaded with the pair to calm down. The barbers kept ducking, twisting, taking a quick clip, at an elusive strand of hair and all the time doing as much quick foot work as they moved around, in front of and behind the chairs, as if they had been a couple of boxers training for a big bout.

The first youngster, red-faced from crying, clambered down from the chair. After having his coat tugged on, he indicated there were no hard feelings on his part, by taking the money over to the barber.

The second youngster just rubbed his eyes and showed no indication of feeling any different than he did when he was in the chair.

No Hatchet Burying

He was not having any of this being friendly business after what he had gone through. No, sir. He just stared at the barber with a steady glare and an angry expression on his face as he left the shop.

"Bring them in anytime your downtown," the one barber told the mothers as they were leaving. "It doesn't matter whether they need a haircut or not. Let them sit in here for awhile and they'll get used to coming in. It took more out of them than it did the kids," he chuckled as they left.

The other barber, who had the most difficult youngster to handle motioned the next customer to his chair, then mopped his brow and reached for his pipe. After lighting up, he took a few puffs to calm his nerves, shook his head, then starting cutting his customer's hair.

Hold Parents Responsible For Children

Parents should be held liable for damages caused by their children, in the opinion of the city council whose legal proposition was included in a report of the Board of Works.

The preamble says: that whereas wilfull damage by juveniles to public property is reaching "serious proportions."

But, it is necessary to prove under the present Juvenile Delinquent Act that the parent or guardian "has conduced to the committing of the offence by neglecting to exercise due care of the child.

"And whereas experience shows that it is almost impossible in all but exceptional cases to prove neglect on the part of the parent or guardian."

"And whereas if action is taken under other Statutes to secure restitution for the damage done, any restitution that may be ordered by the Court can be enforced only in the rarest cases against a child and there is no legal obligation by the parent or guardian to make such restitution on behalf of his child."

Petition Government.

"Therefore be it resolved that the Minister of Justice for Canada be petitioned that Sec. 22 of the Juvenile Delinquent Act be amended to permit orders by the Courts to compel the making of restitution by parents or guardians in such cases."

Council is asking the Ontario Municipal Association to endorse this resolution.

New Tax Ruling Muddles Revision Of CNR Capital

OTTAWA, April 10 (CP)— A federal government decision to start taxing the C.N.R. has thrown a big complication into proposals for revising the capital structure of the $2,500,00,000 national rail system.

Informed quarters said Wednesday the Crown company tax system laid down in Finance Minister Abbot's budget Tuesday night is not likely to take any dollars away from the C.N.R., but it will add many complexities to the working out of the multi-million-dollar capital revision plan that has been in the making for a year.

As a result, it is considered possible that the recapitalization proposals — recommended by the Royal Commission on Transportation a year ago—may not come before parliament at this session.

However, recapitalization to give the C.N.R. the financial relief recommended by the commission—one way or another—is described authoritatively as "on the rails"—whether for this parliamentary session or next.

So Bogged Down

Under Mr. Abbott's new tax system, the C.N.R.—with several other Crown companies—would be charged with the general corporation tax on its earnings. While the tax varies, on any surplus of C.N.R. size it would amount to 50 per cent. The competitive Canadian Pacific Railway pays that.

The hitch in the case of the C.N.R. is that it is so bogged down with old debts that it cannot show a surplus in normal years. Its $46,000,000 debt interest burden threw it into a deficit position last year despite a big operating surplus.

Royal commission recommendations would have rewritten the C.N.R.'s capital structure in such a way that the national line would have had a surplus of about $8,-000,000 for 1951.

Under the recapitalization plan, the system would keep the $8,-000,000. By the tax on government companies, the government would take half of any such earnings away.

Members Of All Parties Decide Redistribution Under Census

OTTAWA, April 10 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said Wednesday the majority of members of parliament, regardless of party affiliations, will decide how representation in the Commons should be redistributed on the basis of the 1951 census.

He made the statement in the Commons in launching a redistribution debate, to be resumed when members return from the Easter recess Monday, April 21.

Under terms of a redistribution bill now before the Commons, Saskatchewan would have five of 20 seats and Manitoba two of 16 seats. Nova Scotia would lose one seat, British Columbia would gain four, and Ontario and Quebec provinces would remain unchanged.

An all-party committee will be established to recommend how the redistribution, to take effect with the next federal election, should be effected.

Mr. St. Laurent introduced a resolution asking the committee to study whether steps should be taken to prevent a province from losing more than 15 per cent of its seats at any one time. The same resolution made it clear that a province with a population of 800,000 could not have more seats than a province with 850,000.

The resolution submitted Wednesday in a form revised from last week originally was interpreted as one that would reduce Saskatchewan's loss to two seats.

Resolution Not Clear

Mr. St. Laurent said many had told him that the resolution was not clear. Its aim was to prevent the representation of any province from dropping more than 15 per cent in any redistribution. It also was aimed at making sure that a province with a small population did not have more members than one with a greater population.

The resolution also suggested that Yukon-Mackenzie River constituency, now represented by one member, be split and represented by two members.

Representation then would be divided as follows, with existing representation in brackets:

Newfoundland seven (seven); Prince Edward Island four (four); Nova Scotia, 12 (13); New Brunswick, 10 (10); Quebec, 75 (73); Ontario, 85 (83); Manitoba, 14 (16); Saskatchewan, 17 (20); Alberta, 17 (17); British Columbia, 22 (18); Yukon, one (one); Mackenzie River, one (nil).

Bensfort Women Plan Hostess Tea In May

BAILIEBORO, April 10 (ENS) — April meeting of Bensfort Woman's Association was held in the basement of the Church Tuesday afternoon with the president, Mrs. Merton Thompson, in the chair. The devotional was taken by Mrs. Frank Buckham and Mrs. A. Vowels.

Readings were given by Mrs. R. Crews on "Easter, Made the Bible" and by Mrs. Allen Dawson "It Is Easter Once Again."

Members were asked to have donations for the bale in by May 15.

Plans were discussed for a "Hostess Tea" to be held on or about May 28.

Master Bobbie Chadwick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Beryl Chadwick, is a patient in Peterborough Civic Hospital.

Messrs. Harold and Eric Beebe were visitors to Toronto on Tuesday.

Hastings W.A. Plans Program For Easter

HASTINGS, April 10 (ENS) — April meeting of Group 3 of the W.A. of Trinity United Church was held at the home of the president, Mrs. J. G. Thompson. The worship was under the convenorship of Mrs. Leonard Switzer.

Scripture was read by Mrs. Alton Thompson, and prayer was led by Mrs. Switzer.

The Rev. N. Cole dedicated the offering and then spoke a few words and announced the Easter program.

Next meeting will be held May 6 at the parsonage, committee responsible being Mrs. E. German, Mrs. E. Fleming, Mrs. W. Edwards, Mrs. H. G. Fairman.

Crash Victims To Have Special Cemetery

GRENOBLE, France, April 10 (Reuters).—The 58 persons who died in the November, 1950, crash of the airliner Canadian Pilgrim in the French Alps are to be reburied in a specially designed cemetery near the scene of the greatest air disaster involving Canadians, it was learned Wednesday.

The airliner, turning from a Holy Year pilgrimage to Rome, crashed near the peak of 9,000-foot Mont L'Obiou Nov. 13, 1950. All but two of the passengers and crew were Canadians.

The Archbishopric of Grenoble has decided to present a piece of ground at the little village of La Sallette, near Mont L'Obiou, with a chapel of Our Lady of Sorrows to the committee of families of the victims headed by Most Rev. Maurice Roy, Archbishop of Quebec.

Two local architects, Jean Pierre Relave and Paul Habulloud, have designed the project.

The 54 Roman Catholic victims of the crash, temporarily buried here, will be transferred to the new cemetery. The four Protestant members of the crew will be buried near them but separately.

Find Planes Better For Wounded Men

OTTAWA, April 10 (CP).—The budget provided some income tax relief for a few people—those earning more than $400,000 a year.

If the rates had not been changed they would pay all their earnings and more to the government in income tax. Under the new rates, a person earning $400,000 can keep $40,000.

Under the old rates, said an official, any one earning more than $400,000 a year was subject to a graduated tax rate of 80 per cent and a defence surcharge of 20 per cent. In addition, he paid 4 per cent on investment income. The rates would total 100.8 per cent of income.

Under new income tax rates the maximum is 90 per cent. The official said he could probably count on one hand the number of Canadians who pay the maximum.

Those in the high categories would not be greatly affected by the 2 per cent levy on incomes for payment of old-age pensions. They would be $60 a year, the maximum which can be deducted from income tax for social security purposes.

British Inventor Wins Suit Gets $9,250,000

NEW YORK, April 10—(AP)—A $341,600,000 patent-infringement suit brought by Harry Ferguson, 65, British inventor, against the Ford Motor Co. and others was settled today for $9,-250,000.

The suit had been on trial before Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan for more than a year. It was started about four years ago.

A consent judgment signed Wednesday involved only a part of the patent-infringement claims made by Ferguson. It was announced that the settlement payment was made by Dearborn Motors Corp., national marketing organization for the Ford tractor.

Other corporate defendants named in the suit were Sherman Tractor and Equipment Co., of Mt. Vernon, N.Y., and the Ohio Tractor and Implement Co., of Columbus, Ohio.

Not Normal Times

Commenting on the settlement Henry Ford II, head of the Ford Motor Co., said:

"In normal times Ford Motor Co. would carry such a suit to a final conclusion in the courts. These are not normal times.

"Under the circumstances we were glad to get rid of the litigation to avoid the expense, harrassment and further interference with our tractor business involved in additional years in the courts."

Until 1946, the Ford Company produced Ferguson tractors under an agreement reached in 1939 between Ferguson and the late Henry Ford.

After 1946, Ferguson charged, Ford and the others conspired to steal his tractor ideas, destroy his own set-up for producing in the U.S., and undermine his financing operation.

GENERAL ELECTRIC
FLUORESCENT and GENERAL LIGHTING
LAMPS

NOW BACK TO PRE-WAR PRICES—OR BELOW!

Yesterday you'd find it difficult to name an article that cost less than before the war—TODAY YOU CAN! The prices on most G-E general lighting lamps—also on popular fluorescent types—have been rolled back to the point where many types are now offered at, or below pre-war prices. These across-the-board reductions have one simple explanation. The demand for G-E lamps has grown to such an extent that new manufacturing economies are possible as a result of our huge output. Also improvements have been made in manufacturing methods and the prices of certain raw materials have fallen slightly.

This all adds up to the fact that your best lamp buy—the lamps that stay brighter longer—are now a better buy than ever.

You can buy G-E lamps—at the new low prices—wherever lamps are sold.

60 and 100 WATT G-E LAMPS in SMALLER, MORE VERSATILE size give 7% MORE LIGHT at LOWER COST

Two distinct improvements! New smaller size means, for example, that you can now use new 60-watt lamp in equipment which formerly could only take a 40-watt lamp. As well, "coiled-coil" filament construction gives about 7% more light than former larger-size bulbs.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

45,000 Women In Quebec Back Drive For 'Thrift'

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Forty-five thousand women in farming communities throughout Quebec—members of Les Cercles De Fermieres — are behind the National Council of Women's drive for "thrift."

The Association director, Miss Anne-Marie Vaillancourt of Quebec City, says various suggestions about economizing have been distributed to members of "Les Cercles" which were first organized in 1915 and are similar to the Women's Institutes in English-speaking sections of the country.

Miss Vaillancourt has offered a few personal suggestions for stretching the meat budget.

As an economical dinner she recommends: carrot pin-wheel meat loaf; creamed potatoes; canned peas with celery; heated rolls with butter or margarine; lemon meringue pie or tarts.

Carrot pin-wheel meat loaf: one pound hamburger; 1½ teaspoons salt; one-quarter teaspoon pepper; one onion (minced); one egg (grade B); one tablespoon milk; one cup soft bread crumbs; 1½ cups shredded raw carrots; two tablespoons minced parsley.

Mix ingredients except carrots and parsley. Roll on sheet of wax paper with a wet rolling-pin to make a rectangle six inches wide and one-half inches thick. Spread with mixture of carrots and parsley. Roll like jelly-roll. Put in shallow baking-pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) for one hour.

Economical Supper

As a suggested supper menu: ketchup-glazed meat loaf; oven-browned potatoes; broccoli; bread and butter or margarine; warm gingerbread with apple butter.

Ketchup glazed meat loaf; 1¼ pounds hamburger; one egg (grade B); one cup soft bread crumbs; one cup milk; one chopped onion; 1¼ teaspoons salt; one-quarter teaspoon pepper; one-half teaspoon poultry seasoning; one-quarter cup ketchup.

Mix all ingredients except ketchup. Shape into a roll and put in shallow pan. Spread ketchup evenly over meat. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) about one hour.

Macaroni Ragout; one-half cup chopped onion; one-half cup diced celery; one-quarter cup fat or salad oil; one pound ground veal and pork; three cups canned tomatoes; two cups kidney beans; one eighth-ounce package shell macaroni (cooked); salt and pepper to taste; one teaspoon chili powder.

Saute onion and celery in fat in a skillet. Add meat; cook until brown, using side of a spoon to break into small pieces. Add remaining ingredients. Cook 30 minutes or until thick. Six servings.

Next week: Dominion Women's Association Council, United church.

DOROTHY DIX

Beat Self-Consciousness By Interest In Others

DEAR MISS DIX: I have three children, 4, 6, and 10. In bringing them up, I have tied myself down so much that I have developed a complex when talking to or visiting others. I never did have too much poise or personality, but at least I felt more at ease with people than I do now. My husband and I both realize our mistake in not building more of a social life, but how can we undo the error now? I dread meeting strangers, and though we have just joined the church and are meeting nice people, I actually get chills when I think of talking to them. It doesn't happen when we have guests in our own home, or with people I have known a long time.

This situation is not helping me to be a good wife, or a good and patient mother. I have a devoted husband who never mentions my shortcomings, but I know he would like to see me more active socially.

AUDREY MAY

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: To overcome acute self-consciousness such as you have is not easy, but you do have in your favor the fact that you are young, apparently have many opportunities to get among people and have a naturally friendly spirit. Many other young mothers get into the same spot; they spend the child-rearing years totally isolated from the rest of the world, then feel terror-stricken at the thought of crawling out of the shell. However, I assure you, it's the initial step that hurts most. Once you get out among people and find anew how friendly and understanding they are, your sociability will assert itself.

Take The Plunge

Unfortunately, no one can guide you in that first step. The very nature of the cure necessitates your taking it alone. Since you are affiliated with a church, that is your best base of operations.

Join the women's group in the church, and volunteer for whatever project they have on hand—or coming up—such as a bazaar, church supper, or similar activity. Working with other women will break down the barriers of your reserve more quickly than anything else. You needn't search for topics of conversation, they are there, ready made.

The parents' association of your children's school will also provide a similar outlet for you. Here, too, conversation comes easy, being, as it is bound to be, about the children, school and teachers. With these two sources to begin on, you should soon overcome your dread of strangers and will, in fact, look forward to meeting them. As you make new friends, the circle of acquaintances naturally grows and its expansion will put an end to your seclusion.

Develop a hobby; study it in a university extension course, or at a special school. The interest that has developed in the last few years in oil painting and ceramics has seen some fine work produced by people who never suspected they had an iota of talent in these fields. Classwork, too, provides a common interest that makes conversation a natural thing, rather than a form of torture. Producing a work of art yourself will also contribute a sense of achievement that can overcome your feeling of inferiority.

Also suggested are Red Cross work, civic clubs and volunteer work on charity drives. The important thing is to try to make "work", rather than the mere passing of a social evening or afternoon, your means of re-entry into the world. This system gives you less chance to worry over the impression you are making, and willing workers are so in demand by the various agencies I have suggested that you'll be welcomed with open arms. Above all, remember it's only the first step that's difficult.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My daughter is 12 years old and in the eighth grade. Once a month there is a dance in her school, supervised and chaperoned by the teachers. The majority of the girls go to these dances. My daughter and a few others are forbidden by their mothers to attend. Am I unfair to the child, as she would like very much to go?

MRS. M. S.

ANSWER: Certainly a mother can't be blamed if she leans over backward in an effect to protect her children. If you would worry too much over your daughter attending these dances, it's better to keep her home. However, since they are on school property and thoroughly chaperoned, I can see no harm in her going. In fact, it could be a great benefit to her.

Girls who learn how to act at dances, to converse with boys naturally, to dance with poise and grace, carry these qualities over to the later years and become the charming young women of high school and college. Keeping the child home from these affairs just promotes a feeling of martyrdom. Twelve is the beginning of the awkward age, and these school dances are probably being conducted with the sole intention of helping pupils carry through this period with a minimum of self-consciousness.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I met a very nice girl about two years ago and have been seeing her twice a week during this time. I think she has a few bad manners, such as having me met at the door by another member of her family when I call. I think she should open the door herself. I am then brought into the parlor and entertained there by the rest of the family until she's ready.

F. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: There's nothing wrong with your girl friend's behavior. Girls traditionally have the privilege of keeping their men waiting, and it gives you an opportunity to become better acquainted with the rest of the family. Be as gracious to them as they are to you.

Prefer Men In Classes

TORONTO, April 10 (CP). — Men restaurant workers have a better eye for dirt than women, Ralph Erwin of Winnipg said Wednesday night. He runs a training school for potential employees.

"We prefer men to women in our classes," he told an interviewer.

"Men stick with us longer, and they are cleaner than women.... By the time we get our girl classmates they are so used to improperly - washed plates and streaky silver that it doesn't bother them."

He is here for the annual convention of the Canadian Restaurant Association.

Lily Lake W.A. Meets

LILY LAKE, April 10 (ENS)— Mrs. Roy Hancock was hostess to the members of Lily Lake W.A. with Mrs. Evans McConkey a cohostess.

President Mrs. Arthur Hancock had charge of the meeting and scripture was read by Mrs. McConkey and prayer offered by Mrs. Hancock.

Roll call was answered with recipes for a cook book and an Easter thought.

Secretarial report was given by Mrs. Everett Tully after which Mrs. McConkey gave a suitable reading on cancer entitled "After a long illness".

It was decided to hold a sale of plant slips and bulbs at the May meeting and also to donate to the community chest.

Solos by little Ronald Hancock accompanied by his mother at the piano were much enjoyed and piano solos by Bobby Hancock were appreciated.

Lunch was served by the hostesses at the close.

BOTTLE-FED BABIES

If your baby is bottle-fed, be sure to watch little bowels closely. Mother's milk has a natural laxative effect which helps take care of baby's need. Lacking this, a bottle-fed baby often gets fretty, feverish and suffers constipation and upset stomach. Let Baby's Own Tablets help you keep baby's bowels on schedule—sweeten upset stomach—relieve feverishness and teething troubles. No "sleepy" stuff — no dulling effect. Easily crushed to a powder, if desired. Don't let your baby suffer — get Baby's Own Tablets today at your druggist. Only 30¢.

Barbara Brent's BUYS AND WHYS
A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, April 10 — Know any brand new babies? Perhaps there's one in your house—and if there is, he's the most important thing in the world. That's why it's so important to feed him wisely and well on HEINZ BABY FOODS. They're so good for him — and so easy for you to prepare. Just take them from the tins, warm them up and serve. M-mmm! Four luscious cereals and a tempting variety of strained meat food products, soups, vegetables and desserts — including the brand new Strained Arrowroot Custard Pudding . . . all cooked to baby-ready digestibility in Heinz gleaming kitchens. Tiny tots (and toddlers, too!) thrive on them . . . and how they love them! So, for baby's sake — ask your dealer tomorrow for Heinz Baby Cereals and Strained Baby Foods. You know they're good because they're Heinz.

April Weather is often deceptive. What looks like a nice day for a long walk can catch you with your umbrella down. B-rrr! Back home to change — and what you'd like most is a good cup of coffee — quick! Then I'd suggest you try the tastiest, quickest coffee I know . . . INSTANT CHASE & SANBORN COFFEE. It takes no longer to make than boiling the water — then — m-mmm! — isn't it good? The flavour's there — and the real lift. No wonder, it's backed by nearly 100 years of coffee experience! I always keep a jar of Instant Chase & Sanborn handy. It's a real friend when I'm feeling tired — and a real delight when guests drop in. You see, it's as easy to make ten cups as one. And economical — you save up to 40c per pound compared with ground coffee.

They Say "Imitation is the sincerest form of flattery" . . . so I was both flattered and pleased when Mrs. Jones asked me how I got my sheets so white. I told her, of course, that it was Blue that did the trick. It's so easy — so inexpensive and it works every time. Yes, Blue prevents clothes turning yellow. Just a swish or two of Blue in the final rinse and your wash will be snow white. And, when you use Blue, you're not taking chances with anything that might damage your fine fabrics. For Blue is kind to all fabrics. And it costs just a few pennies a month — gives you snowy, brilliant-beautiful washes. Yes, for the whitest wash, it's RECKITT'S Blue.

Spring Cleaning will be a "breeze" for me this year. With ENERGINE CLEANING FLUID to remove grease spots, paint, chewing gum or "what-have-you" from upholstery and rugs—there'll be no hard work—no big cleaner's bills. And other "clean-up" jobs I've discovered Energine will do for me . . . it works wonders cleaning tubs, basins, tiling and refrigerators—stubborn stains vanish and porcelain surfaces shine. Try it! Energine is so quick and easy to use—leaves no tell-tale rings on fabrics of any kind—and it's absolutely safe. Contains no acids nor caustics! Take my tip—put Energine on your shopping list today . . . just 25c at drug and department stores.

It took ten years of scientific research by Blue-Jay to develop Phenylum and it was well worth the effort. For now Phenylum is effective in 95% of the cases tested—works 33% faster to get rid of corns and calluses. That's why so many folks are saying — "It's the best news in years for people with foot trouble!". Ask your druggist today for Blue-Jay Corn Plasters with the new wonder-working Phenylum. You'll be thrilled by its speedy relief.

There's Big News waiting for daddy when your youngest has just had his first "CREAM OF WHEAT" treat. He'll try to tell daddy how good it is. M-mmm! And this favourite cereal is good for your toddler! For 5 Minute "Cream of Wheat" is bumful of so many of the things that babies need to maintain normal growth and health. It provides iron for good red blood and Calcium and Phosphorus for diets deficient in these elements. And, mother! — just five minutes of boiling and 5 Minute "Cream of Wheat" is cooked to full digestibility, even for baby—tempting and flavourful . . . so good the whole family will enjoy it!

You'll Thank Your Lucky Stars for DOMOLITE when Spring housecleaning time comes 'round. You see, this famous vinylite plastic fabric cleans so easily. Just wipe with a damp cloth. No ironing, of course. And Domolite (made by Dominion Oilcloth & Linoleum Company) is easy to sew. Make kitchen and bathroom curtains, aprons and drapes with it! It wears and wears —repels moisture, oil and dirt— and its price is a pleasant surprise. See the beautiful colours and patterns at your department or variety store. And write to me— Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q.—for free, illustrated literature showing what you can make with Domolite.

Designed For You! Yes, the Gurney engineers had you in mind when they designed their new '52 GURNEY Range. You'll find that everything you cook with it will turn out perfectly. Cooking and baking are made so much easier with the special Gurney features— automatic clock control — interior oven light . . . and, above all — the special Gurney "Even-Heat" oven that keeps the temperature exactly right— automatically — on the sides, the top, on the bottom — and even in the corners! But you'll want to see the Gurney features for yourself. Ask your dealer to show you the new Gurney ranges — all of them "kitchen-tested" for carefree cooking.

April Has A Freshness that reminds me of something. Yes, you've guessed it . . . JELL-O JELLY POWDERS. So refreshing, and so marvellously tangy . . . truly, Jell-O is as tempting as an invigorating April day. Of course, there's good reason why Jell-O makes such delightful desserts and salads. Y'see, Jell-O's fruit-fresh flavour is locked right in each tiny particle. You release it by adding hot water to the Jell-O. Any way you serve them—plain, with fruit, or whipped — Jell-O desserts are as fresh and delicious as an April breeze. And once you've tried them, you'll serve tempting Jell-O salads often, too. Remember, there are 7 delicious "locked-in" Jell-O flavours. Keep several packages of Jell-O on hand.

That Gay Spring Bonnet you liked so much when you bought it . . . what's happened to its charm? Truth of the matter is — the hat is still as pretty as a picture but you don't feel "up to it". Sluggish and tired? Then try my remedy. I'm just one of the many who find that a daily glass of lemon in water taken first thing on arising in the morning, helps the system to regulate itself. Lemon in water alkalinizes and aids digestion, there's no unnecessary irritation, sometimes caused by harsh laxatives. This natural fresh fruit drink is good for you — it's full of Vitamin C. But — do be sure to insist on SUNKIST LEMONS when you're shopping — their full-flavoured juice makes all the difference.

You're A Wonderful Cook when you know the secret of flavour— flavour to set every taste bud a-tingle—flavour to bring plates back for more. That's why I urge you to use WINDSOR SALT. It makes all the difference between "dull" and "delicious". For instance, when you prepare a whole fish—before cooking it, rub the inside as well as the outside of the fish with Windsor Salt. It does wonders in bringing out the flavour! I always use Windsor Salt—in the kitchen and at the table. One of the things I like most about it is that it's always free-running . . . no annoying lumps, no matter how damp the weather!

More Beautiful Women use Woodbury Face Powder . . . why don't you? Yes, lovely women instinctively choose this exquisitely light, fabulously fine powder. Only WOODBURY FACE POWDER, with its secret blending process and special foundation-cream ingredient, offers such exciting satin-smoothness, such superb, vibrant shades. And it clings so beautifully for hours longer. Why not try it? See the truly thrilling difference. Woodbury Powder costs just 23c, 45c and 75c. And try the superb Woodbury lipstick, too. Creamy, clinging—in 7 tempting shades . . . 23c and 55c.

It's "Easter Bunny" Time Again! Gosh — it seems only a short while ago that "Rudolph the Red-nosed Reindeer" was the hero of the hour. How the months fly by! If you don't take steps, next Christmas may catch you short of gift-money again. Then what of the promises you made yourself last year? As for me, I've just been to the BANK OF MONTREAL to start a Christmas Savings Account. It's the easy way to make sure of money to buy toys, ties, a tree and trimmings galore — not to mention a big, plump turkey! Regular saving — even in small amounts — will give you the kind of Christmas you wanted last time — a really merry one with no regrets. Thousands of Canadians are Christmas savers! So why not open your B of M Christmas Savings Account now? The folks at the B of M will be glad to help you.

Mrs. W. R. Philp Speaks To Trinity Mothers

Trinity Baby Band Mothers, meeting at the church Wednesday evening, welcomed as guest speaker their former president, Mrs. W. R. Philp who is now secretary of the Baby Band in the Peterborough Presbytery.

Mrs. Philp first spoke on the Easter theme and then gave a most interesting outline of the history of Baby Band, which was started 25 years ago. She gave as the purpose of Baby Band "To foster a missionary spirit from the earliest years and to preserve and increase the interest of mothers in missionary work."

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. D. Aitken and thanked by Mrs. N. Nesbitt.

Mrs. E. Edmondson's group was in charge of the meeting and Mrs. B. Northey read scripture. A reading "Meditation on the Cross" was given by Mrs. A. P. Legon and "Meditation on the Resurrection" by Mrs. J. Pierce. Mrs. J. T. Stewart led in the prayers.

Mrs. W. B. Gordon presided for business. Members were reminded of the Baby Band mothers rally on April 24th at Mark St. Church which is to be addressed by the Rev. W. Tonge of Lakefield.

Final plans were discussed for the Maytime tea which is to be held May 7th under convenership of Mrs. E. Wellman. As in former years this annual tea will be highlighted by the sale of children's summer clothing, as well as home baking, candy and white elephant tables.

Three new members welcomed at the meeting were Mrs. A. L. Smoke, Mrs. Trevor Clarke and Mrs. W. B. Arnup.

Mrs. Edmondson's group served refreshments after the meeting and a social time was enjoyed.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN C. CARRUTHERS were pictured cutting the wedding cake at the reception following their marriage Wednesday afternoon. The bride is the former Margaret McNeill.—(R. G. Brook Photo).

Honeymoon In New York Follows Rites At Ida Church

In St. John's Anglican Church at Ida Wednesday afternoon the wedding was solemnized of Margaret Josephine McNeill and John Clifton Carruthers of Peterborough, by the Rev. Arthur Chate.

The bride, who is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McNeill of Ida was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of champagne French lace over taffeta which was fashioned with a strapless bodice cuffed with a deep band of the taffeta and topped with a cut-away style bolero. She wore a matching lace and taffeta bonnet and her cascade bouquet was of Amazon lilies.

Only bridal attendant was Mrs. Eric Fallis, cousin of the bride, who was wearing a ballerina length frock in nile green of a similar style. She wore a matching headdress and carried a bouquet of Bettertime roses.

The groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Carruthers also a brother, and Arnold McNeill of Toronto, uncle of the bride.

The reception was held at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club. The bride's mother received in a gown of aqua taffeta and wore a navy hat and corsage of camelias. The groom's mother also received and wore a gown of azure blue faille taffeta with redingote of violet crepe and her blue hat was banked with violets. Her corsage was of talisman roses and violets.

Leaving later for Toronto to catch a plane to New York City where they will honeymoon, the bride wore a grey suit with matching topcoat and a flowered hat in grey and wheat shades with accessories in the wheat shade.

Mr. and Mrs. Carruthers will live in Peterborough on return.

St. James W.M.S. Holds Easter Thankoffering

Easter thankoffering meeting of St. James' W.M.S. was held Tuesday afternoon in Wesley Hall with 24 members attending. Mrs. G. Hewitt opened with Easter thoughts and prayer. Mrs. E. Kitney, assistant secretary, read minutes of a special meeting in March, and Mrs. R. English, treasurer, reported for the first quarter. Mrs. E. Johnston, corresponding secretary, read invitations from the mission circle of Trinity United Church and Knox W.M.S. to special meetings, also a letter from Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe, Presbyterial president. Messages of appreciation for remembrances in sickness and bereavement were received.

Christian Stewardship secretary Mrs. W. Brown gave a timely reading on the benefits of "tithing." Mrs. W. K. Sloane, supply secretary, announced a bale of used clothing will be prepared for shipment to Korea in a few weeks. Hospital and home calls were recorded by Mrs. G. Rowe, who also reported sending Easter cards to shutins.

Worship service was led by Mrs. R. English on the theme, "Easter Gave Us The Bible." Scripture readings of the "Crucifixion and Resurrection" as told by Mark were given by Mrs. B. Pitchford, Mrs. A. Saunders and Mrs. Hosker. The first christian sermon by Peter was read by Mrs. L. Bird. The story of Paul's conversion in Luke by Mrs. W. Peel and Mrs. K. Sloane.

The offering was received by Mrs. W. R. Moncrief. A lovely Easter solo was sung by Mrs. H. MacCormack, accompanied by Mrs. H. Doig. Mrs. English closed with prayer.

Rev. E. Rowland Addresses St. Andrew's WMS

The Rev. E. W. Rowland delivered a most challenging address to St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society at their Easter Thankoffering meeting Wednesday. He said "we cannot afford to mark time, we must pull our stakes and proceed to higher ground. Our Canadian population is expanding as more people arrive on our shores. May we make this a successful experiment in Christian democracy.

"The United Church is confronted with an unprecedeuted challenge. Will Canada become a safe place for our children and children's children or a land where God is forgotten? Let us make Canada the land of Gods' opportunity."

Mr. Rowland closed his address with a most earnest appeal that Grace Church be made an ornament and blessing to the United Church of Canada.

Mrs. A. A. Munro, president, presided for the entire meeting and used as her call to worship a poem entitled: "The Robe of a King."

Several announcements were made Keene auxiliary is to visit St. Andrew's and provide the program for the Autumn Thanks-offering. Conference Branch executive meets in St. Andrew's April 23rd when Miss Marjory Miller of Afrfca will speak. The lilac tea is to be held June 6.

Mrs. E. Hawley reported on hospital and home calls and Mrs. E. F. Reid reported the United Church has sent 149 tons of clothing overseas. Mrs. F. Milburn, supply sec. of the Presbyterial thanked St. Andrew's for their splendid bales.

An invitation came from Knox W.M.S. to attend a service in that church on April. 27th to hear Mr. R. Edwards who worked in a hospital in China with Dr. R. B. McClure.

"Easter gave us the Bible" was the theme of the worship service conducted by Mrs. F. W. K. Harris. Mrs. R. Pearson, Mrs. E. Wood and Mrs. A. Davis sang beautifully unaccompanied "Let I Forget." Miss A. Jamieson expressed the thanks of the meeting to all.

Home and School Association News

MAY'S SCHOOL

May's Home and School Association monthly meeting was held Monday evening, Mrs. A. Downer, president in charge.

A short business meeting was conducted and a short devotional period was in charge of Mrs. L. Kidd. Two piano selections were rendered by Miss Irene Williams.

Speaker for the evening, introduced by Mrs. D. Dontzer, was Mrs. Paige Rowell of the Board of Education. She spoke on the new safety patrol system which is being used in Ottawa. She stressed three main points in this system—(1) Better safety for the children. (2) Guard system done away with, and patrol system done by the children themselves. (3) Citizenship training makes good pedestrians in young children.

ELM CORNERS (S.S. NO. 16, SMITH) SCHOOL

Elm Corners Home and School Association meeting took place Wednesday evening. Mrs. A. Gill presided and opened with a scripture reading appropriate to the Easter season. It was announced that election of officers will take place at the annual meeting in May.

Mrs. A. Gariepy drew attention to various books available through the County Memorial Library which could be used to great advantage by members during the summer season.

Mrs. D. Rostocky, from Peterborough District Home and School Council, the guest speaker, was introduced by Mrs. J. Pulcine. Mrs. Rostocky spoke on "Parent and Child Problems". She pointed out that from babyhood children learn to "get along" with others and parents must provide opportunities for contact with other children—they must teach children to be self-reliant rather than try to protect them. And, finally, parents must not cling to their children after they have become adult.

Mrs. G. Carveth expressed thanks for the thought-provoking talk.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. R. Welbourne and her committee.

KING GEORGE

A capacity audience was in attendance at King George Home and School Association meeting Tuesday evening and had as their special guests parents of the new children who will start to school in September.

Mrs. C. Ferguson, president, welcomed the parents and after a short business period Mrs. Brickman's kindergarten class Rhythm Band entertained with several selections. Mrs. Rothschild, also a kindergarten teacher, spoke briefly on some of the things she would like the preschool child to know about school before starting.

Musical entertainment was provided by pupils of Mrs. Northey's class with Miss Savigny at the piano.

The school doctor spoke about what is done about children's health at school, stressing importance of pre-medical examination and immunization.

Mrs. R. G. Maniece of St. Luke's Church and Mrs. K. Armstrong of Mark St. Church told of the Sunday school classes held at these churches and invited parents to send any children not already attending another church.

Mrs. Northey's class sang a very appropriate song. Stop! Look! and Listen, just before the chief speaker of the evening, Mrs. Paige Rowell, spoke on "School Gufards".

Mrs. A. Roberts and her committee served refreshments.

RIFLE RANGE SCHOOL

Rifle Range Home and School Association met Monday evening with Mrs. E. Davis presiding. Devotional period was conducted by senior girls of the school. White and wine tapers shed a soft glow on a miniature cross, making a perfect setting for the impressive service. Shirley Flint read a short Easter message, followed by the singing of "Birds are Singing," in which Ellen Tyndall, Jacqueline Quinn, Florene Brinson and Gwenyth Hope took part. The Easter story was then told, each pupil reading part of the script. A chorus of "Jesus Christ is Risen Today", and a poem, entitled "Easter is for all People," read by Gwenyth Hope, concluded the service.

Miss Mary Haddow, guest speaker, was introduced by Mrs. Davis, and an interesting and informative half-hour followed. Miss Haddow, who is a medical missionary home on furlough from Bolivia, talked on "Schools in Bolivia", and her topic not only enlightened her audience on the educational system in that republic, but also imparted a wealth of geographic and historic knowledge.

Listening to Miss Haddow, it was not at all difficult to visualize small groups of Indian boys, (direct descendents from the great Incas tribe)—trudging along the sideroads on their way to school on the mision "farm". Many of them are poorly clad and barefooted, and those coming from a great distance carry their bedding, and their food supply. These boys stay on the "farm" during the week, looking after their own simple needs. Here they are taught the three R's and also better forms of agriculture, including crop rotation, and soil conservation. It is interesting to note that until a year or two ago only boys attended public school. It was considered a waste of time to teach girls, as their help was required on the farms and in the homes.

Time passed all too quickly as the speaker recounted stories, — many amusing and all interesting, —of her life and work amongst the Indian tribes in Bolivia, and it was very evident to all that the influence of christianity has changed and improved not only the education of the children, but the living conditions of the adults as well. Improved homes and farmlands in the vicinity, and clean and mannerly children speak eloquently of the fine example set by missionaries in this field.

Mrs. Davis thanked the speaker, and a social hour followed, with Mrs. R. Brinson and Mrs. J. Quinn in charge, assisted by Mrs. N. Andrew, Mrs. M. Northey, Mrs. L. Welch, and Mr. J. Quinn.

Salvationists Guests Of Silver Cross

Silver Cross Chapter meeting was held Wednesday evening in the Y.W.C.A. Green Room. President Mrs. A. S. Williams called upon Mrs. Mendell Braund and Mrs. H. J. Parnell of the Salvation Army for inspiring contributions to the program

Mrs. Braund chose the hymn "He Smiled On Me" and sang in appealing style. Her accompanist was Mrs. E. Macdonald. Mrs. Parnell then gave a running commentary on the 27th chapter of St. Matthew. She said: "Life is full of contrasts, daylight and dark, sickness and health, joy and sorrow. Jesus' death was a contrast to the entering of Jerusalem hailed as a king." She continued "Humanity is fickle, for afterward they mocked him and gambled for his only possessions—his clothes."

Mrs. Parnell remarked on Jesus' courage, his restrained feelings, dignity, patience, and wonderful words "Father forgive them for they know not what they do." She then turned to a modern story and described the strain of a family during a thunderstorm and the remark of one member "I'm proud we have a God who can shake this world."

A letter from Gravenhurst Sanitarium, read by corresponding secretary Mrs. A. Fitzgerald, advised that there are 22 inmates who have need of friends. Members voted to send cigarettes to the men and chocolates to the women. Two plants are to be sent to recently bereaved members of the Chapter.

Mrs. A. Ebbs and Mrs. T. Hendry will look after purchasing $10 worth of wool to knit up for forces overseas. Convener of veterans' affairs Mrs. E. Pruner was given $50 to prepare boxes for seven men overseas.

The president thanked all who helped in the success of the recent tea. Six delegates are to attend the National convention at Niagara Falls the end of this month.

A beautiful Easter lily will be placed by Mrs. Hendry in the Civic Hospital chapel where furnishings are provided by the Chapter.

Fashions

PAIR WITH FLAIR

Two easy-sews with but a single idea — to make you look beautifully smart. Sundress is cut low, collared; and fits divinely. That bolero is the fashionable spencer-length, and is gaily decorated with a huge bow.

Maple Syrup Has Lost Its Aroma

MONTREAL—(CP)—How to put the old-time aroma back into maple syrup is one of the problems facing producers today.

Present quick-processing methods have all but eliminated the rich, sweet smell obtained by slow-boiling over a wood stove.

However Quebec Agriculture Department experts are hoping that before long they will be able to recommend a new method of evaporating the maple tree sap that will leave a fully-aromatized syrup.

The maple syrup industry in Quebec, which brings farmers an average annual gross income of $10,000,000, is safeguarded carefully by provincial specialists.

J. R. Methot, chief of the Maple Products Industry division of the Agriculture Department, recently outlined steps taken by his department to promote better production and improve marketing methods in the province.

Quebec Big Producer

Mr. Methot produced some statistics on the industry in the province. A 1941 census showed 21,336,000 maple trees are tapped annually on 25,000 Quebec farms, he said. Quebec produces 85 per cent of all maple syrup in Canada, and more than the whole production of the United States.

"At present prices, this represents a major industry in the province, which explains the particular interest being shown in producing methods, classification of products and marketing," he said.

The introduction of aluminum pails to collect the sap, ruled out allegations by United States authorities in 1938 that Quebec maple syrup contained lead.

"It was found that sap from Quebec maple trees did not contain lead, but that possibly due to the evaporating process the finished product did contain a small proportion," Mr. Methot said. This brought the switch from tin to aluminum.

Mr. Methot said he believes there are about 20,000,000 maple trees easily accessible, which are yet untapped in the province. With better marketing facilities, producers should be more willing to tap these reserves, he said.

Nurses Claim Aircraft Better

TORONTO, April 10 (CP) — Wing Cmdr. Don Nelson of the R.C.A.F.'s transport command said Wednesday that aircraft carrying 24 or more men soon will begin operating between Canada and the United Kingdom in addition to the service now run to Kirea.

He told a class of 15 R.C.A.F. nurses here that aircraft are superior to ships for transferring sick or wounded men because the men reach major treatment hospitals faster. Fewer beds at base hospitals and fewer nurses aboard ship are required.

The nurses came from air force stations scattered from Gander to Victoria for a two-week course at the Institute of Aviation Medicine here.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Baked Ham Glazed For Easter

These glazes are so glamorous that I would like to spare a few lines just raving about them, but the directions are lengthy so I have to restrain myself.

(If ham is not your dish for Easter dinner, I've given you fried chicken — yesterday — and roast lamb last week at this time — so I've done my duty by all of you gals who are looking for help.)

Savoury Baked Ham No. 1

One 10 or 12-lb. ham, bone in, rind on, not tenderized, about 1 tablespoon whole cloves, 1 stick cinnamon, 3 cloves garlic, 1¼ cups vinegar, 1 small glass apple or crabapple jelly or apricot puree, 1 cup brown sugar, 4 teaspoons dry mustard, ¾ cup water, ¼ teaspoon each cloves and cinnamon, 2 tablespoons vinegar (additional), 1 cup sugar. Wash ham and put in large kettle and completely cover with boiling water. Add whole cloves, stick cinnamon, garlic, 1 cup of vinegar and the granulated sugar. Cover and simmer gently for 3¼ hours. Do not overcook or ham will not slice neatly. Turn off heat and let ham cool in cooking liquid. Remove from water, trim off skin carefully and pat mixture of the brown sugar and 3 teaspoons dry mustard into it firmly. Whole cloves may be inserted evenly all over surface now. Place ham in open roasting pan, add ¼ cup vinegar, the water and bake in oven of 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour. Do not baste until ham is brown and crust is hard. Fifteen minutes before serving time make sauce: Mix together in small saucepan the remaining 1 teaspoon dry mustard, the spices and 2 tablespoons vinger. Add the jelly or puree and heat until jelly is melted. Serve ham on hot platter garnished with endive or parsley or watercress, and pour hot syrup over. Carve ham straight to bone and pour spoonful of sauce over each serving. . .

Glazed Baked Ham No. 2 (Not Parboiled).

Ham should stand at room temperature if it has been in refrigerator — for 3 or 4 hours to remove chill. Place fat side up on trivet in uncovered roaster and bake slowly at 325 deg. Fahr., allowing 18 to 20 minutes per pound for a large ham weighing 12 lbs. or over, and 25 minutes per pound for a ham weighing less, or for half hams or picnic shoulders. Test with metal skewer at end of cooking time close to bone to see if it is tender. Do not overcook or it will not slice neatly. Remove ham from pan and pour off fat. Put 4 cups hot water in pan. Make a long slit lengthwise of rind, and then carefully remove it.

Make the following glaze and spread it over the ham: 1 cup solidly packed brown sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ cup corn syrup or honey, 2 tablespoons pineapple or apple juice or cider or ginger ale. Mix these together to a smooth thick paste. Pour over top of ham and with a fork distribute as evenly as possible — but do not have it too far down on sides as it will just melt off. Return ham to oven in pan with water in it, but have ham on trivet, and bake 20 minutes at 425 deg. Fahr. to melt and brown glaze.

✧ ✧ ✧

Accompaniments and Garnishes: Baked or Broiled fruit slices are ideal garnishes and accompaniments for ham. These include pineapple rings, apple slices, orange halves, banana chunks or halves, apricot or peach halves. If these are raw, they require cooking under the broiler, so must be turned and tested. If they are cooked, they require only browning. If you brush the raw ones with a mixture of sugar and butter they will brown more readily. The fruits with cavities at centre should have a half a maraschino cherry too.

What's Right?

A man is introduced to a woman and wonders whether it is his place or hers to offer to shake hands.

WRONG: He offers his hand.

RIGHT: He waits for her to offer her hand and if she doesn't he simply says, "How do you do?"

✧ ✧ ✧

You are in a situation where you should introduce yourself to another person.

WRONG: Say, "I don't believe I know your name."

RIGHT: Give your own name and the other person will then tell you his.

6—In Memoriam

GIARDINO—In loving memory of our dear father, Carmine Giardino, who died April 11, 1950.
Gone dear father, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take you place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still.
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—Sadly missed by sons and daughters.

GIARDINO—In loving memory of my dear husband, Carmine Giardino, who passed away two years ago, April 11, 1950.
O what I would give to clasp his hand;
His dear, kind face to see,
To hear his voice, to see his smile,
That meant so much to me.
His spirit has fled,
His sufferings o'er,
At the fireside he will
Join us no more.
—Sadly missed by his wife.

CITY OF PETERBOROUGH

BUILDING PERMIT FEES

Following a policy of Charging Costs of certain specific services directly to the persons receiving the service, the Council of the City of Peterborough have now adopted a Sale of Fees for Building Permits. In the past such Permits have been issued free in this city, although the practise of charging fees covering Building Permits and Inspection has been in force in other cities for years.

The amount of the fee varies with the estimated cost of the work, and the fee is payable for Repairs or New Construction. Fees are also charged for Permits for Removal or Demolition of Buildings.

The following amendment to the Building By-law shows the method by which the Permit Fees are calculated:

"Section 7 of By-law Number 4466 is amended by adding the following sub-sections:

(7) Before any such Permit is issued, the applicant shall pay to the City Treasurer, a fee for such Permit based on the estimated cost of the work according to the following schedule:

If the estimated cost is less than $50.00, there shall be no fee except in the case of a garage.

If the estimated cost is not in excess of $200.00, the fee shall be $0.50

If the estimated cost is in excess of $200.00 and not more than $500.00, the fee shall be $1.00.

If the estimated cost is in excess of $500.00 and not more than $1,000 the fee shall be $2.00.

If the estimated cost is in excess of $1,000 and not more than $50,000, the fee shall be $2.00 for the first $1,000 and $1.00 for every additional $1,000 of cost or portion thereof in excess of $1,000.00.

If the estimated cost is in excess of $50,000 and not more than $100,000, the fee shall h $51.00, for the first $50,000 and 75 cents for every additional $1,000 of cost, or portion thereof in excess of $50,000.

If the estimated cost is in excess of $100,000.00, the fee shall be $88.50 for the first $100,000.00 and 50 cents for every additional $1,000.00 of cost or portion thereof in excess of $100,000.00.

The maximum fee shall be $100.00.

Removal permit fee shall be $1.00.

Demolition permit fee:

50,000 cu. ft. or less $2.00

50,000 cu. ft. to 100,000 cu. ft. $3.00

And for each additional 50,000 cu. ft. or portion thereof $1.00

Advertising device annual permit fee, for sign or advertising device located wholly or partly upon private property $1.00

(8) ADJUSTMENT OF PERMIT FEES:

Wherever a permit has lapsed or been revoked or has been voluntarily surrendered and the work abandoned, a refund shall be made on requisition by the Building Inspector to the City Treasurer, of a portion of the fee charged, calculated according to the estimated value of the work done, provided, however, that no refund shall be made which shall result in retention by the Corporation of a sum less than $5.00.

a mere handful of nations."

Complete Switch

Since the beginning of the post war era, the world attitude toward South Africa has done a complete about face, he told his listeners. Then, the former nawspaperman who served as a war correspondent in the Second World War before going into government service outlined the reasons for this change which has resulted from the racial policies adopted by the South African Government headed by Dr. Daniel Malan.

"Until the post war years, South Africa had a reputation any country in the world might have envied," he said. Mr. Steward went on to say that his country deserved this, because "The South African people were the first to bring civilization to Africa and created a progressive state out of a primitive wilderness. South Africa made her full contribution in two world wars and is now fighting with the U.N. in Korea."

Great Reputation

Until recently, Mr. Steward said that South Africa was regarded as a "moral asset to the Commonwealth because it stood as a vital example of the triumph of tolerance, understanding and statesmanship and of how victor and vanquished could come together in unity, as personified by General Jan Smuts, the late South African Prime Minister who led the Boers against Britain, then accepted the results of defeat and became the leader of one of the chief countries in the Commonwealth.

Now, Mr. Steward said, all has changed. "In the space of a few years, almost the whole of this reputation has crumbled away and South Africa is now regarded as an obstacle to international understanding, an aider and abbettor of Communism and an embarrassment to the Commonwealth."

So much so, that it is being said in some countries that the time has arrived for the Commonwealth to wash its hands of South Africa's "contaminating association." At the root of this basic change in the attitude of other countries toward South Africa is aparatheid—the racial policy of the Malan government he said which means the separate and parallel development of white and non-white races of which there are about 15 different groups in the country.

Not New

This separate development is not something revolutionary introduced by the Malan administration, "there has been racial separation in South Africa throughout its history," he said.

However, governments had adopted a laissez faire attitude of hoping that the country's racial problems would solve themselves as more and more people of different racial origins flocked into urban centres in the wake of the industrial revolution which followed the opening up of mines in the interior.

"This was the situation that confronted the Malan Government which came to power in 1948," said Mr. Steward.

"There was frustration, resentment and tension among the people. The policy of allowing things to develop, of hoping that some acceptable solution would present itself, had failed. No one of any of the groups was sure what his place was in South Africa or what his future would be. The time for compromising appeared to be over. One of two directions had unequivocally to be chosen, and the alternatives were these: the integration of all races or the parallel and separate development of each of them."

There are two streams of thought from two entirely different factions directed at the problem, he said.

First, there is "the legitimate and just desire of colored peoples to enjoy a greater share of the better things of life. Secondly, there is the Christian and humanitarian motives of western nations to establish a fair deal for all.

"Although these two streams of present day thought do appear to be the same on the surface, they stem from different origins but have South Africa in common."

Racial problems have existed for ages and probably will exist in the future but the basic question is whether or not civilized man is going to survive against nature. At present, the white man's techniques are the only agents which can wrest the means of civilized living from the hard South African soil. The final outcome of civilization in South Africa will not depend on the whites alone, but on the winning of the black masses for civilization."

Mr. Steward followed his talk with colored movies on South Africa.

Trees Numbered

MONTREAL —(CP)—Inventory of trees located on city streets and in 146 parks and playgrounds has been completed, and progress of each tree will be recorded from now on. Listed are 33,281 street trees and 7,623 in parks, not including the great wooded parks of Mount Royal and St. Helen's Island.

Greater Effort For NATO Needed-Admiral

NORFOLK, Va., April 10 (AP).—Admiral Lynde B. McCormick said today the present level of forces of the Allied Atlantic command "introduces risks which are unacceptable."

Much greater effort by all nations associated with the command "must be applied to build up the forces which are required to maintain control of the high seas and the coastal waters which concern us," he asserted in a talk prepared for delivery at eremonies formally establishing the first international ocean command in history.

McCormick and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower are co-commanders under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, of which 14 countries, including Canada, are members. High ranking officers of most of these countries attended the ceremonies today as McCormick took over officially as supreme Allied Atlantic commander.

Will Fall Short

In his talk, he said that "even the increased maritime forces which have appeared in N.A.T.O. planning will fall short of those necessary to give Europe and the Allied European command the direct and indirect support which we envisage they will require from us."

"Remember that the tasks of this command are by no means proportional to the size of the navies of potential enemies," he went on.

"But no tinge of defeatism is with us here today. The very fact that so many nations have taken the concerted action which led to this ceremony gives one a feeling of buoyancy.

"Let us consider this command as a ship that we are now launching. I know I am speaking for my N.A.T.O. Atlantic command comrades when I pledge that we will keep this ship on course and in position. And if forces of aggression ever threaten overtly the security of our association of peace-preserving nations, we intend to have our ship ready to fight."

Mrs. Maria Gannon

Pallbearers at the funeral Tuesday of Mrs. Maria Gannon, who died Saturday at her Ennismore home, were Vincent Murphy, William Cavanaugh, Frank Killen, Jack Donoghue, and Leonard and Hubert Flood.

Mrs. Gannon's father-in-law gave the name to the narrows between Pidgeon and Buckhorn Lakes. Her mother's family name of Harrington is commemorated in Harrington's Narrows, between Buckhorn and Chemong Lakes.

Mrs. Gannon was 90 and died after a short illness.

The funeral was from her family residence to St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, where requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. P. Lynch. The Rev. V. J. Gillogly and the Rev. S. Perdue were in the sanctuary.

Graveside prayers were said by Father Gillogly and burial was in St. Martin's cemetery.

Mrs. Ernest Benson

The funeral for Mrs. Ernest Benson, the former Josephine Johnston, 657 Aylmer St., who died Monday was held Wednesday from the Kaye funeral home. The Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church conducted the service.

Pallbearers were William Muirhead, Howard Macdonald, Andrew Jackson, Herbert Henry, John Donaldson, Al Tartar. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

To Supply Wheat

VIENNA, Austria, April 10 —(AP)—The Communist-affiliated Democratic Union party said today Communist Hungary will soon supply Austria 1,000 carloads of wheat. It said the deal was arranged at the Moscow economic conference. Austrian officials said the wheat delivery was provided for in an Austro-Hungary trade agreement and has been overdue for many months.

Issues Edict

TEHRAN, Iran, April 10 (Reuters)—Prime Minister Mohammed Mussadegh's powerful religious supporter, Atayullah Kashani, Wednesday issued an edict to businessmen urging them not to deal with foreign insurance companies—especially British concerns. Kashani asked Iranians to give their business to Iranian insurance companies.

Specifies Terms Of Agreement

TORONTO, April 10 (CP) — The proposed agreement between the Ontario Hydro Commission and the Gatineau Power Company involves only purchase of the Gatineau company's lines and transmission facilities in Eastern Ontario, Hon. G. H. Challies, vice-chairman of the commission, said today.

(The Canadian Press reported erroneously earlier that the agreement involved purchase of the company's power sites on the Ontario side of the lower Ottawa river.)

Mr. Challies said today that the agreement, near completion, does not involve purchase of power sites or generating equipment.

The commission would buy the Gatineau's assets of line and transmission facilities in Russell and Prescott counties and the north part of Glengarry counties.

The villages of Hawkesbury, Vankleek Hill L'Orignal, Alfred and St. Eugene and rural areas in the three counties would then be linked with the commission's power pool system and receive their hydro power from the commission.

Ask Shorter Week

LONDON, April 10 (Reuters)—Three million British engineering and shipbuilding workers will soon ask for their working week to be reduced from 44 to 40 hours, the Amalgamated Engineering Union said today. The claim, covering men in rearmament factories, will be submitted by the Confederation of Shipbuilding nd Engineering Unions on behalf of 30 unions. They will also ask for more pay.

Declares Council Mistaken About Decision

NORTH BAY, April 10—(CP)—Sturgeon Falls town council has misinterpreted a recent R.C.A.F. decision to open a practice range along Lake Nipissing, Wing Commander W. M. Foster, commanding officer of R.C.A.F. Station, said today.

Sturgeon Falls is 23 miles west of North Bay on the shore of Lake Nipissing.

The officer was commenting on a report that Sturgeon Falls council had gone on record as opposing establishment of a "bombing target" on Lake Nipissing "close to the mouth of the Sturgeon River."

The target area will be clearly marked with buoys, he said, for the protection of persons boating or swimming.

"We need the range badly, and the only disadvantage we can see is that we understand the section is a good one for fishing bass and pike. When the target is in use—about two days a week—it will be put out of bounds," Wing Commander Foster said.

"We hope to start using the range about mid-summer."

Weatherilts Of Bethany Potato Champions Inspired By Junior Club

The success and fame of T. Weatherilt & Sons of Bethany as specialist potato growers sprouted from a Junior Farmers' Club.

They won the championship at the recent Central Ontario Spring Show with an entry of the Sebago variety, but perhaps the savor of distinction had faded into the remembered honors attained in such larger companies of competition as the Royal Winter Fair and the Canadian National Exhibition.

The story of the Weatherilts was outlined last week in the Bowmanville Statesman. Incidentally, that weekly newspaper published an excellent review of the Spring Show in at least half a dozen articles, some of them illustrated with photogarphs. It was particularly fitting that they should do so, because Durham was the outstanding county in the Show, especially in the success of its exhibitors.

The support of the Statesman and also of the Oshawa Times has been a sincere evidence of interest that gives assurance to the hopes and efforts of the directors of the Show for its permanent establishment in the cause of Central Ontario agriculture.

However ,that reference is aside from the record of the Weatherilt family. When its two teenage boys, Earl and Charles, registered at the short course at Bethany in 1934 under the direction of Ed A. Summers of Bowmanville, agricultural representative in Durham, they began the shaping of the Weatherilt future.

Youngsters who sign up for an agriculture project club have no gift of vision of the possibilities opening before them. One meeting seems much like another, helpful and educational and developing social experience.

Soon after the Short Course a potato club was organized was Mr. Summers, and the Weatherilt boys joined it.

The Statesman story carries on from that commonplace initiative. Each boy received a bag of certified seed of the Dooley variety, gift of the Lions Club of Bowmanville. The only condition attaching to it required each boy to return a bag of table potatoes in the fall.

Their First Fertilizer

To stimulate the club crop, each boy was given one-half bag of fertilizer, mainly to observe its effects on growth. That half a bag was the first commercial fertilizer used on the Weatherilt farm.

The results were as rewarding as Mr. Summers probably promised. The Weatherilt boys harvested 20 bags for each bag of seed, and won the Club's first prize. Its program was expanded the following year. Each boy planted half an acre. After the harvest the Weatherilt lads drew third prize.

"That same year," the Bethany correspondent of the Statesman recalls, "Earl Weatherilt and Clarence Brown, another Club member from Bethany, were chosen to represent Durham in the junior judging competition at O.A.C., Guelph. They placed third against teams from most of the other counties of Ontario."

"In 1936 the variety of potatoes was changed to Irish Cobblers. Each boy obtained a bag of seed from Northern Ontario. At that time the Weatherilts were seeding only three acres in potatoes, mostly with a variety called Snowflakes. The price was 75c for the 90-pound bag. All work was done by hand. At that stage eventual specializing in potatoes was hardly a bright prospect.

The Weatherilts grew their first Katahdin potatoes in 1937, and enlarged their acreage. The price was better at $1.25 for certified seed.

Lighten Labor

Earl, the elder son, remarks: "Even that price didn't seem much in comparison with the work. We had to get up before daylight to dust them for bugs and did it with sacks. But we had secured a digger by this time, so that simplified the harvesting to some extent." A little later they commenced using a planter.

In 1939 they conducted an experiment on fertilizer for the Ontario Agricultural College in competition with many other growers and had the most satisfactory results. They were gradually increasing acreage and yield, also increasing the fertility of the soil by use of fertilizer and crop rotation. Ten years ago they purchased a 4-row sprayer to help combat late blight.

In 1944 through the Durham County Crop Improvement Association a "500 Bushel Club" was formed and 20 members joined. Any means of obtaining a top yield was permitted. The Weatherilt Family have won several awards in this Club.

Last year's low prices were discouraging. This year with potatoes selling close to the $5.00 mark for 75-pound bags is another story.

Congratulations are certainly due to Mr. Milton Weatherilt and his sons Earl and Charles on their achievements in this line of farming. "A great deal of the credit is due to our Agricultural Representative, Ed. Summers," says Earl Weatherilt. "I am quite sure we would never have undertaken potato growing so extensively if it had not been for him and other agricultural officials."

Value of Club Work

The experience of Milton Weatherilt & Sons during the last 18 years is recommended to Peterborough farmers who have boys and girls eligible for one of the project clubs that are being organized by Robert E. Bell, assistant agricultural representative in this county.

Incidentally they are only one family of the central Durham group who have been developing the potato business in Manvers and Cavan townships. Some of them are: Delbert Olan and his son Albert; Ernest Cavano; Henry Blakely, once a champion but now retired, having sold his farm to a tobacco planting company; Alfred Johnston; Donald Lowes and others.

They have all achieved prominence in their specialty, some more than others, and they have put the Manvers-Cavan potato lands on the agricultural map of Ontario.

LOUIS CADESKY of Louada Manor Farm, Harvey township, paid $23,520 (7,900 guineas) for this 15-months-old Shorthorn bull at the Perth sales in Scotland. Calrossie Armada, accompanied by two heifers from the same herd, will be delivered to the farm on Pigeon Lake early in May after a quarantine period of 30 days at Halifax. Mr. Cadesky has five other heifers to come from Scotland. Their shipping date may be uncertain as there is some foot and mouth disease in southern England. Armada's sire was Calrossie Welcome out of Calrossie Broadhooks Ann by Kirkton Baronet. Iin his latest purchases Mr. Cadesky is adding a lot of imported Shorthorn quality to his Louada Manor herd.

Wellington Sutton of Otonabee Elected Chairman of Ontario Farms Forums' Association....500 Forum Delegates Attend Convention in Toronto.... Thomas Lane of O.A.C. Reports Increasing Interest in Land Use Programs....Nineteen Boys Register in Tractor Maintenance Club.

Mr. C. Wellington Sutton of Otonabee was elected chairman of the Ontario Farm Forums at their convention Tuesday in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto. He was promoted from the vice-presidency of the provincial association.

Five hundred Forum delegates attended the convention, a substantial increase over last year's assembly.

Vice-chairmen are James Reid of Codrington, Northumberland, and John Day of Haldimand County. Peterborough Forums were represented by close to 40 members who travelled together by C.P.R. In the expense of the trip they were assisted by the Federation of Agriculture and the county forum committee.

Mr. Sutton succeeds Edward Lang as chairman. The convention received with regret the resignation of Clare Burt, Toronto, secretary. His retirement was caused partly by the demands on his time in promotional work among the Forums, especially at night meetings around the province requiring much absence from his home.

Ontario had 793 active Forums during the winter, 82 fewer than a year ago. Sixty-seven new Forums were organized.

Mr. Sutton told the Examiner that the convention was marked by more enthusiasm than ever. Some decline in the number of groups was offset by the spirit and quality of the active Forums. Many of them paid the $3 per family membership fee in advance last season, providing grateful financial help to the central organization.

"We had a fine crowd," Mr. Sutton said. "Seven of the counties sent bus loads of delegates, and it was felt that with the exception of the first series of broadcasts the subjects during the winter were all educational and well presented."

Mr. Robert Graham of CBC reported that the national radio system had spent approximately $250,000 on the winter's broadcasts. They were national hook-ups and were heard from coast to coast.

Mr. Bird is chairman of Zone 4 counties, which includes Peterborough.

"LAND USE CAPABILITY"

Land use capability is a comparatively new phrase that is receiving more attention in Central Ontario farm practice.

It signifies particularly the planned use of land, as explained by Thomas Lane who has been assigned by the O.A.C. as extension man in soil conservation and farm planning in the district comprising the counties of York, Ontario, Peterborough, Durham, Northumberland and Victoria.

Mr. Lane was here on Wednesday, and visited at their farms: Walter Thorn, Bert Armstrong of Otonabee; Don Milburn, John Edmison, Dave Kerr and Reg. McMullen of Smith; also John Nurse and Gerald Anderson of South Monaghan and Edgar Bowman of Plainville in Hamilton township, Northumberland.

Essentially Practical

Land use capability integrates such elements of practice as soil types, degrees of field slopes, erosion, drainage, crop rotation. The Harry Blewett farm in Smith provides a demonstration of land use capability in actual practice.

From their knowledge of soil types, men like Mr. Lane in the O.A.C. extension service reduce soil varieties into eight classes for land use. The first four classes comprise arable land that can be cultivated; and the last four range from limited cultivation to no cultivation suggesting use in grazing and reforestation.

Flexible Plans

Planning for use invites suggestion of programs to farm owners or, as the case may be, generally confirms practices which owners have adopted. Such planning is flexible. If experience indicates the advisability of departure from some details of a program, they can be put into effect without interrupting the rest of any scheme.

Land use capability is aimed at both farm improvement and farm profits. In its most practical form, including planning of the fields, a farmer knows by reference to his plan and adopted rotation how much acreage he should have in fall wheat, corn, other grains, hay and pasture and so on, three or four years in advance.

Some contour plowing and strip cropping may be recommended, and if the owner has available time there is likely to be some tree planting on marginal land.

Mr. Lane remarked that the most encouraging aspect of the extension work in land use capability is the quickening of interest manifested by farmers themselves. They are asking for it, are co-operative and do not hesitate to make suggestions of their own as knowing their soils better than any one else.

This response has developed to such an extent that Mr. Lane has ample work for this season in his territory, but says he will find time to take on any other farms where planning the use of the land is seriously considered.

19 IN TRACTOR CLUB

Irvine McIntosh, leader of the boys' tractor maintenance club, has nineteen boys under his wing, as reported by Bob Bell Tuesday. A few more may come in before the next meeting but as it is the club has more members than last year and is getting away to a promising start.

The present muster roll: Walter Clark, Norwood; Bill Danford, Warsaw; Delwyn Stinson, South Dummer; Keith Chamberlain, Norwood.

John DeNure, North Monaghan, is president; Ray Allen, Douro is vice-president; Carman Bulmer, Smith, is secretary-treasurer.

Andrew Pugh and Bruce Hill, Otonabee; Bruce King of Belmont; Eddie Corkery, Ennismore; Paul Jopling, Smith; Lloyd Thompson, Norwood; Danny Brenson and Carl Howson, Otonabee; Frank Sanderson, Smith; Terrence Doherty, Bob Hutchison and William Chamberlain, Otonabee.

The Department fieldman for the district is R. G. Gregg.

Purpose of this junior club is primarily to teach the boys practical methods of maintenance of tractors as a necessary economy, but also efficiency in handling them, and awareness of hazards in their operation.

Organization Meetings

Mr. Bell is sending out notices for the first meetings of the beef cattle and swine clubs Tuesday, April 22, followed by dairy cattle clubs on Wednesday the 23rd. This is another season's opportunity for the youngsters. They make the clubs first by their membership and after that by the enthusiasm with which they carry through the season's projects.

Mr. Bell remarked that he was glad to see more boys from Dummer turning out so far. He had a call this week from Lorne Pimmett after an absence from the office. Lorne brought the encouraging news that he was again available as leader of the beef cattle club.

EGG MARKETING NOTE

Peterborough egg producers should be fully informed by this time of the purpose of the vote that is to be taken Thursday to Saturday, April 17, 18, 19, next week, on the proposed marketing scheme.

It is designed to set up a scheme generally for the stabilizing of the egg market, and eventually the poultry market providing producer control under the Farm Products Marketing Act.

This scheme provides for a marketing board composed of eight members representing the eight districts into which the counties of Ontario are grouped. Peterborough is in "b" district with the counties from Frontenac to Hastings and Prince Edward, inclusive.

This board will be given authority to own land, buildings and equipment and to engage in the business of marketing eggs; also to collect a license fee of one cent a dozen of eggs sold through registered egg grading stations, to be deducted from the returns owing poultry producers for their eggs, and to be paid monthly by the egg grading stations to the local board.

The announcement says: "If you are a poultry farmer, are over 21 years of age and have produced eggs during 1951, or will be producing eggs in 1952, you are entitled to vote. Any member of a farm family over 21 years of age may vote, but only one member per family may vote."

The scheme will not come into effect in Ontario until at least two of the western provinces approve of similar schemes, "and these three schemes are combined into a national plan."

It is also provided that the marketing of poultry meats, live and dressed, may be added to the egg scheme at a later date, without a second vote at that time of the poultry producers.

Experience in the marketing of eggs by the provinces will decide the expansion of the plan to include poultry. If it is enlarged the petitioners request a license fee of 1/10 of one cent per pound on all poultry to be deducted from returns owing to producers.

Eligible farmers are being urged to vote one way or the other. The agricultural representative is thec hief returning officer in each county. The period for balloting is from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Poll officials are appointed.

It should be noted that the scheme does not apply to the sale of eggs by a producer to a consumer, as on the market or elsewhere; or produced and sold by a producer to a retailer, except where the retailer buys through a central organization and sells through more than five outlets.

Sentiment of some of the largest producers of eggs is not evidently in favor of the scheme. One man quoted Prof. Snyder of Quelph in a statement, not specified as to time at which it was made, that the ideal flock was from 2,000 to 3,000 birds, and that the small flock was obsolete.

Ken Betzner, on the other hand, has asserted that 96 per cent of all eggs produced in Canada were produced from flocks of 500 birds or fewer.

It has also been pointed out that in the handling of surplus eggs, which this scheme is aimed at, the government floor has been doing exactly that for some years.

Many Factors Determine Soil's Nature

Soils differ greatly in their natural state. Some are very fertile, others have to be improved before crops can be grown on them successfully, while still others are unsuitable for agricultural use due to their low fertility or due to undesirable physical conditions. These different soils are not in their present condition by some haphazard arrangement but have formed over the centuries as a result of the influence of a number of factors.

The chief factors which determine the nature of our soils are the physical and chemical nature of the mineral materials which have arisen geologically, local drainage conditions, climate, vegetation, and the activity of micro organisms. The combined action of these has produced layers in the soil which may differ greatly from each other and from the original mineral material. The degree to which the different properties of the soil have developed can often be related to the age of the soil or the length of time the mineral materials have been exposed to weathering.

Some characteristics of the soil can be definitely related to one or more of these factors, says P. C. Stobbe, Soil Specialist at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. For example, the deficiencies of some minerals and excesses of others in the soil have been inherited from the original mineral material, while the organic matter and nitrogen content can be related to climate and vegetation or to natural drainage conditions.

The natural condition of most soils is greatly changed by cultivation. Some soils are greatly improved by cultivation and crop production, while others may be lowered in fertility by the same practices. A knowledge of the natural characteristics of the soil and of the conditions which have brought them about, is of considerable assistance in determining the agricultural practices which will prove beneficial.

Better Hay and Pasture Bright Chapter In F. C. Paterson's Review

In his review of the activities last year of the Peterborough branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Mr. F. C. Patterson reports 157 meetings held in that office.

Public use of the office is further indicated in the 7,363 incoming telephone calls and 7,338 visitors.

Circular letters mailed were 21,176; letters received 3,799; letters written 3,908, bulletins and reports distributed through the office 11,034.

Mr. Paterson addressed 72 meetings during the year, and his assistant, R. E. Bell, 55. Other meetings attended by Mr. Paterson were 40; and by Mr. Bell 78.

"On the whole, 1951 was profitable for good farmers," Mr. Paterson summarizes. "There were good crops, and for most of the year, good markets and prices. Recent market conditions following curtailment of exports of farm products have tended to reduce production planning to some extent, but have not affected interest in our extension program for better farming."

"During the past year, with the help of Robt. E. Bell, our able Assistant Representatives, the Junior program has been enlarged with more Junior clubs and more kinds of clubs than heretofore. The Junior Farmers have improved their program, and we have a growing list of club members . . ."

Further on, Mr. Paterson remarks: "We are trying to develop a program that will benefit the most people, especially farmers who are not the top-ranking few, nor the bottom group who do not seek to improve their position, but rather the larger in-between percentage who require and respond to extension information.

"We also strive to encourage mroe of our people, especially those connected with organizations, to accept more responsibility, and do things for themselves."

Municipal Support

Mr. Paterson pays tribute to the county council and to the reeves and councils of the townships which adopted the warble fly control early last year.

Total number of cattle treated in the first spray was 22,981, and in the second, 22,778.

All cattle were T.B. tested in 1938-39 and again in 1949. Only a few reactors were found in the second test, so the area is considered accredited? Tuberculosis is seldom heard of in our livestock. This is a great change from 25 years ago when the disease was common in cattle, hogs and poultry.

"About the end of the fiscal year, March 31, 1952, there were about 442 members of Maple Cattle Breeders Association in the district surrounding Peterborough. The breeding program is growing. Most of the members are well pleased. Improvement of commercial herds is noted throughout the district, not only by the owners, but by the markets, the neighbors and all concerned."

As to rhinitis in swine: "This disease has not been important during the past year. It has decreased."

"We have not received adequate co-operation of boar owners in preparing the quarterly pig survey. Many of the owners appear to be of the opinion that the information obtained from them will not be of advantage to them."

"The 37 hay and pasture plots in the county are only those which have been provided with seed. Actually, we have many individual farmers with better demonstrations than some of those set up by the Crop Improvement Association. Over the last ten years, our services in connection with hay and pasture improvement have been accepted by many individuals who are getting excellent results through the use of better seed mixtures, increased fertilizer use and better management.

Many of these serve as demonstrations for their neighbors or others who see them.

There are very few registered seed growers in the county. Most farmers are interested in getting a crop of good feed, so, much of the grain is mixed. Interest in better seed is increasing. Fall wheat has been improved through the Crop Improvement Association and the 50 Bushel per Acre Winter Wheat Clubs. Oats have been improved on many farms through the use of good varieties of registered seed. Most of the good farmers, however, are content to use Commercial No. 1 quality of seed for feed production.

There has been improvement in the production of clover seed. Last year's crop of red clover was excellent. Some of it was of high quality."

The report continues its review of many phases of rural interest and activity.

Number of farms using grass silage 25; with trench silage—none; stack silage—none.

Contouring farming has been observed on two farms; farm operation according to plans—4; Farms with ponds, estimated—none. Four farmers expecting to establish ponds in 1952. Many septic tanks are being installed. We receive many requests for bulletins.

Some of the comments are singled out for quottation as the many-paged report continues.

"Local leadership in club work in this county is becoming a more important factor each year. Most of the boys who are acting as club leaders have had some training at either Guelph or Kemptville, and for the most part are well qualified to carry on a large part of the responsibility in the completion of the club program."

There were eight boys and girls' club propects and 86 girls in homemaking and garden clubs.

County Agricultural Committee: "This committee is being retained in the county because it has been useful and stands ready to consider and act on questions arising from time to time, serving as an advisory committee to the agricultural representative."

Mr. Patterson is chairman of the following organizations: County plowmen, cheese producers, vegetable growers, crop improvement, Yorkshire breeders, county agricultural committee and Central Ontario Spring Show.

Various other associations conduct their management entirely from their own membership.

Will Resign From U.S. Army If Nominated--Eisenhower

EASTER PASTORAL in Peterborough County this year is a bare landscape of brown sodden fields dotted with ponds of surface water. Swift-flowing streams sparkle past last-melting drifts in the shade of cedar thickets. Frogs tune up in the swamps. Groundhogs bask at the doorways of their burrows Sheep wander from muddy winter barnyards to investigate the short, pale green shoots of grass by the water's edge. It is dull and drab but life is starting again. —Examiner Staff Photo.

Will Leave NATO On June 1 General Reports

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED POWERS IN EUROPE, April 12. (AP)—General Eisenhower disclosed today he aims to be home in Abilene, Kas., by June 4—33 days before the Republican national convention. The White House announced Friday that at his own request his job as boss of the North Atlantic Treaty forces will end June 1. Until he leaves Eisenhower told a press conference, "I am not going to discuss any kind of political questions, so I can devote myself to this job."

He said he hasn't made definite plans to campaign for the presidential nomination. However, his public announcement gave his well-organized backers the plow they need to till the political fields.

Eisenhower said he had "not the slightest information" on who his successor as N.A.T.O. commander may be.

He also disclosed he will resign his permanent commission as a five-star General if he is nominated so he would be "free to speak, like any other citizen, on any subject."

May Resign

But, he said, he will resign only if he is nominated.

No General of his five-star rank can be forced to retire, but he can resign if he wants to.

As long as he keeps the lifetime job, he draws full pay of $18,761 a year. Of that amount, $7,034 is in non-taxable allowances, and the remaining $11,457 is taxable base pay.

When he leaves S.H.A.P.E., Eisenhower reverts to the inactive status he held previously as president of Columbia University. In that status he will be subject to some military regulations. This could place limitations on campaign discussion of past matters of high policy which still remain classified as secret though the reasons for actual military secrecy do not exist.

His talk to reporters included a plea to keep N.A.T.O. going strong because "the quest for peace is always with us."

"Security, peace and liberty—which we live at S.H.A.P.E.," the General said.

He said publication of his request to go back on inactive status

Minden Boy, 7, Shot Accidentally By Older Brother

MINDEN, April 12. (ENS)—A seven-year-old Maple Lake boy was shot and killed Thursday afternoon when a hunting rifle in the hands of his 13-year-old brother accidentally discharged and the heavy-calibre bullet tore through the upper part of his chest. The fatal shooting occurred in the kitchen of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cooper's farmhouse, 15 miles northwest of Minden, while the family were housecleaning a front room. Dead is Leonard Cooper, one of nine children of Mr. and Mrs. Cooper. He would have been eight years old on April 22.

There will be no inquest.

Richard, the 13-year-old brother, and Billy Nicholson, a cousin of the family, came in from the sugar bush Thursday afternoon to find Mrs. Cooper preparing to paint and paper the front room.

Moved To Safety

A .44 calibre rifle and a .22 calibre rifle were hanging horizontally on one wall, held in place by a makeshift rack consisting of nails driven into the wall. So the walls could be cleaned properly Mrs. Cooper decided the guns should be taken down and removed to the kitchen pantry for safe keeping. She didn't know they were loaded.

Eleven-year-old Betty Lou Cooper handed the .22 calibre rifle to Billy Nicholson and the heavy hunting rifle to her older brother. In the handling of the heavy gun the lever was worked and the gun became cocked.

Billy laid his gun in the pantry and met Richard in the doorway of the narrow closet. Richard swung around to avoid a collision and somehow the .44 rifle discharged and the bullet struck his brother, sitting a few feet away, on a kitchen chair.

Entered Chest

The bullet entered the right side of Leonard's chest, just below the collarbone, and it continued on through.

"I was in the front room putting on wallpaper when I heard the gun go off," Mrs. Cooper told The Examiner. "I went into the kitchen and said 'Who has been shot?' "

Strengthen Dikes Along Missouri, Floods Worsen

OMAHA, Neb., April 12 (AP)—Tons of muddy water rolled relentlessly at flood levels and higher along nearly 1,000 miles of the Missouri river today.

The unprecedented flood crest, which dealt a smashing blow to the South Dakota capital city of Pierre at mid-week, was two days away from Sioux City, Ia., its next major target, and about five days away from the Omaha-Council Bluffs, Ia., metropolitan area some 100 miles below Sioux City.

But already hundreds were homeless even in those downstream areas. Thousands of acres of rich farm land were awash. Damage estimates ran into the millions.

For Omaha and Council Bluffs, with 366,000 metropolitan area residents, there was just a chance that the worst flood disaster of local record could be averted and the cities were making the most of it. Evacuations and dike-strengthening operations hit a feverish tempo in the two cities in anticipation of the historic 30 foot crest expected next Thursday.

Red On Rampage

In North Dakota, a four-foot rise in 24 hours caused the Red river of the north to burst banks along a 150-mile course from Wahpeton to Grand Forks. Meteorologists predicted a 34-foot crest, about 17 feet over flood stage, in the Fargo area by next Wednesday. This would equal the second worst flood height in the area's history.

STRENGTHENED DIKES

Say Membership Stumbling Block

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—The issue of compulsory union membership was reported today to be the main stumbling block in the United States steel dispute.

Steel companies themselves apparently could not agree on the union shop question. This would require all steelworkers to belong to Phil Murray's United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.)

Some firms were reported willing to give Murray a modified form of the union shop, others still were holding out against it.

The union's executive board bluntly warned Friday night that its patience was "not inexhaustible"—a plain hint from the union that if industry was loath to make a contract, the government should do so if a strike is to be avoided

"The time is overdue," the union's executive board said in a resolution, "for a settlement based on the (wage stabilization) board's recommendations."

Canadian Urges Trade Pushed With Moscow

LONDON, April 12— (CP) — Michael Freeman, described as a Canadian delegate to the Moscow Economic Conference, said in a radio interview today in Moscow that Canada may become separated from the main channels of international trade unless action is taken promptly.

The interview was monitored here by the BBC.

Freeman, identified by the English-speaking interviewer as a Canadian importer and bakery executive, said delegates to the international conference have been able to make many business contacts and that a certain volume of business has been done. Seven Canadians including Morris Miller of Montreal are attending the conference.

"There have been exceptionally cordial relations between all the delegates and I think the conference has served to break down many barriers that have existed in international trade until now," Freeman said.

Queen Retains Windsor As Family Name

LONDON, April 12 (Reuters)—The Queen Friday perpetuated the House of Windsor as the ruling family of Britain.

An announcement in the official London Gazette said she will retain the name of Windsor, instead of using Mountbatten, her married name. Her children, too, will be Windsors.

The Windsor family — though not the name—is traced back to Egbert, King of Wessex, who died in 838 A.D.

Two important family matters still remain for the Queen to decide:

1—When to confer the title Prince of Wales on her 3-year-old son, Charles, heir to the throne. He already is Duke of Cornwall.

2—When she will move a special decree giving the Duke of Edinburgh precedence next to herself thus making him "Britain's First Gentleman."

There had been much discussion as to whether the new Queen would break the Windsor succession by using her married name.

The name Mountbatten was taken by her husband when granted nationalization in 1947. Before that, he was Prince of Greece.

In announcing her decision to use the Windsor name, the Queen ensured that her son will carry on the House of Windsor when he eventually reigns in her place.

Windsor, the name of her father, and his father before him, George V., was adopted by the Royal Family during the First World War because the original, Saxe-Coburg-Gotha sounded too Germanic.

The name Saxe-Coburg-Gotha derived from Prince Albert, consort of Queen Victoria, last sovereign of the House of Hanover.

At the same time, Princes of the British Royal Family who had Germanic names chose British ones. Thus Battenburg became Mountbatten.

Army Investigates Theft Of Supplies At Petawawa

OTTAWA, April 12. (CP)—Charges will be laid soon against a group of army men and civilians following an investigation into missing supplies at Petawawa military camp, the Defence Department said Friday night. Details were scarce of what supplies disappeared from the big military establishment. Department spokesmen were equally reticent about how they turned up on the civilian market. Some were reported seized in a series of raids by R.C.M.P. officers at Pembroke, about 10 miles from the camp. The seizures were reported to include army blankets, clothing and boots.

However, a Defence Department spokesman said hundreds of tons of supplies might be involved in the thefts, and some of it was scrap metal.

No Details Given

"In advance of a trial, the department does not want to say anything further so as not to prejudice our case," the spokesman said.

A "few people" were involved in the investigation, he said, but declined comment on reports that some were officers and men stationed at the camp.

"It is expected that the inquiry will be wound up soon when other reports involving specifications for defence buildings have been investigated."

Between 200 and 300 buildings were completed recently at the camp to serve as married quarters for servicemen and their families. However, the spokesman declined to say whether these were the buildings referred to.

A report from Pembroke said Col. Duncan Douglas, campaign commandant at Petawawa, recently posted an order that all personnel leaving the camp would be searched.

Norman Hill Killed On Job

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 12—(CP)—Norman Corky Hill, 28, a Niagara riverman who left the river because his mother said it was too dangerous, was killed in an accident on a construction job Friday.

A stone about three inches in diameter fell to the bottom of a 300-foot deep shaft in which he was working, pierced his safety helmet and struck his head.

His brother, William Red Hill Jr., was killed last August in an attempt to go over Niagara Falls in "the thing" a make-shift cylinder of inner tubes and netting. Norman, who formerly did wild life conservation work and sometimes rescued bodies from the river, gave it up after his brother's death.

Father of the two men, William Red Hill worked and did stunts along the river until his death.

Saves Children

BUCKSPORT, Me., April 12 — (AP).—A mother stood calmly on a barrel outside her blazing home Friday and safely caught three of her children tossed from the second floor by two others, who then leaped to safety. The dwelling was destroyed. Mrs. Paul Clements, 45, caught Brian 5, Paul 9, and Oliver 10. Rilla, 18 and Roy, 20, jumped.

Rebels Claim Bolivian Revolt Success

LA PAZ, Bolivia, April 12 — Bolivan rebels claimed today their revolt to overthrow army officers, who had seized power 11 months ago, was a success and that Bolivia's most popular politician soon will return from exile to head a new government.

Hernan Siles, civilian leader of the rebels now controlling the capital and most of the country, told a crowd in downtown La Paz he will hold power until exiled Victor Paz Estenssoro, leader of the National Revolutionary Party (M. N. R.) can return and form a cabinet. He is expected by Monday.

A report received at Arica, Chile, quoted undisclosed sources as saying an election will be held in Bolivia within five months.

Paz Estenssoro polled more votes than any other candidate in presidential elections last May 6 but failed to win an over-all majority. Before the Congress could choose among the three leading candidates, a military junta forced its way in, voided the election and abolished Congress.

The fate of the ousted military chiefs was not clear. It was reported that some met Friday with rebel leaders outside the city and agreed to halt the battle, which was taking a heavy toll of lives and destroying many homes on the city's outskirts.

Unconfirmed reports from Oruro, Boliviia, heard in Arica, said 1,000 persons were killed and more than 3,000 wounded in the fighting which began at dawn Wednesday.

Flier Falls Out Of Plane, Falls Back In

TOKYO, April 12 (Reuters).—A United States flier fell out the door of a cargo plane over Korea Friday, plummeted through space, then fell into the same door again.

Bucking heavy weather, the plane had lurched down and by a fluke, scooped the falling man into the open door.

He is Capt. Fred C. Seals of Dallas, Tex.

Seals landed sprawling on the floor, out of breath but unhurt.

Minutes later, a new lurch of the plane sent a water tank bouncing up to the ceiling and down again on Seal's ankle breaking several bones

The plane was a mile above Korean mountains dumping parachute supplies to ground forces when it happened.

"I was standing near the open door helping the crew push the stuff out over the drop zone," Seals said.

A trick air current threw the plane down and into a twist.

"Next thing I knew I found myself in mid-air," Seals said.

"I was wearing a parachute and tried to kick myself clear so I could pull the ripcord without fouling."

All the Texan could say about what happened next was: "Suddenly I found myself back inside the plane, sprawling on the floor."

Missing Pair Reach Base

OTTAWA, April 12 (CP) — An R.C.M.P. constable and his Eskimo guide, missing nearly two weeks on a routine patrol out of Cambridge Bay, N.W.T., have returned safely to their base, R.C.M.P. headquarters announced today.

A brief radio message from Cambridge Bay said the men returned to Cambridge Bay April 9. Both were reported to be in good condition.

Constable James A. O'Malley, 23, of Harris, Sask., accompanied by 31-year-old David Panioyakak of Cambridge Bay, left Cambridge Bay March 25 with a team. They were to make a routine patrol to Bathurst, about 150 miles southwest. The trip normally takes four days.

Cambridge Bay is on the southern edge of Victoria Island, some 200 miles inside the Arctic Circle.

Today's message said the patrol got lost in Blizzards in Warrender Bay, which is on King Peninsula and about half way between Cambridge Bay and Bathurst.

Gales and blizzards lashed the area and when the two men were not heard from, aircraft were put on the search. Native ground patrols were sent out from Bathurst.

Great Bronze Bells Peal End Of Lent

VATICAN CITY, April 12 (AP)—The great bronze bells of St. Peter's Basilica rang joyously today to mark the end of lent and the beginning of the Easter celebration of Christ's resurrection.

Holy Week's mournful observance of Christ's passion and death on the cross ended when, at the end of a pontifical mass, the choir broke into an exultant Gloria. Then the first deep-toned note was struck from St. Peter's bells. All the bells of Rome's more than 400 churches joined.

Immediately after that, the purple drapes that covered the crucifixes and pictures and statues of Christ were removed and the work of gladdening altars with flowers for Sunday's Easter services was started.

Sunday at noon (6 a.m. EST) the Pope will appear on the balcony of St. Peter's Basilica to give his traditional Easter blessing "Urbi et orbi"—to the city and the world. Some 300,000 Romans and pilgrims are expected to pack

Easter Vacationists In Crash

No Hope 39 Left Alive In Shark-Infested Waters

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, April 12. (AP)—Police refused today to let Singer Jane Froman see her pilot husband, Capt. John C. Burn, one of 17 persons who survived the sea crash of a Pan-American Airways plane crash in which 52 persons are believed to have perished.

The singer, who flew here from New York, was informed that Burn is being held incommunicado on orders of the district-attorney.

Glenn Lawrence, general manager of Pan-American's San Juan office, confirmed the situation and said he does not know the reason.

Meanwhile, the search continued for 39 of the plane's Easter-holiday passengers still missing in the shark-infested Caribbean although the Coast Guard said there was "practically no hope" they still were alive.

Thirteen bodies were picked up near the scene of the crash, three miles outside San Juan harbor, putting the toll of presumed dead at 52.

A near miracle saved the 17 who escaped after the plane plunged into 10-foot waves and broke in two. Burn and his four fellow crew members were among those saved.

A similar crash, when Burn saved Miss Froman after landing in the Tagus River near Lisbon, Portugal, nine years ago, fostered their romance and marriage.

Burn's flight would have brought him home for a wedding anniversary celebration today with Miss Froman. Instead, Burn again is in a hospital and Miss Froman flew to an anniversary by his bedside.

Eyewitnesses said that Burn was something of a hero in the crash. He helped launch four life rafts before the forward section of the big four-engine plane sank, and urged everyone to put on life preservers. A few minutes later, Burn was seen in the water, holding a baby in one arm and an elderly woman in the other, and swimming grimly toward one of the rafts. A rescuing coast guard seaplane pulled all three aboard, but the woman and the child died within a few minutes.

Most of the dead and missing were Puerto Ricans. Seven of the 64 passengers and all five of the crew came from the United States.

One whole family of Puerto Ricans was wiped out. The father, Pedro Brignoni, 45, of Brooklyn, N.Y., had flown to San Juan to bring back his wife and six children after a two-year separation.

One baby was saved—but became an orphan. He is Mark Van Daalen. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Van Daalen of St. Paul, Minn., both are missing. All the crew survived.

Burn had sent a message saying he was trying to return to the airport after one of the plane's four engines conked out.

Britain Appoints Ambassador To Tokyo

LONDON, April 12 — (AP) — The foreign office today announced the appointment of Sir Maberly Esler Dening to be ambassador to Tokyo on resumption of full diplomatic relations with Japan once the peace treaty goes into effect.

The 54-year-old envoy has been head of the United Kindom's liaison mission to Japan since last Aug. 24. He formerly was assistant under-secretary of state at the foreign office. From 1943-46 he was chief political adviser to the Supreme Allied Commander, Southeast Asia, Lord Louis Mountbatten.

Not Dry Eye In House As Eisenhower Tells 70 Of World's Highest Officers He's Leaving

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED POWERS IN EUROPE, April 12—(CP)—There wasn't a "dry eye in the house" when Gen. Eisenhower told a meeting of 70 of the world's highest ranking officers Friday he was leaving his job as supreme commander.

A description of the scene was given today by Gen. Anthon Drexel Biddle who said it was "one of the most dramatic and moving incidents of my experience."

Biddle said Eisenhower told the officers his heart would always be in his military work.

"You could have heard a pin drop. Here were nearly 70 of the highest ranking military officers in the world. They were silent. Their emotion was so deep there was not a dry eye in the house."

Biddle said Field Marshal Montgomery, Eisenhower's deputy, mounted the stand and paid tribute to his "good friend" amid "wild applause."

Other sources revealed that Montgomery tried to talk Eisenhower into staying out of politics.

Montgomery was quoted as having told Eisenhower his experience as a soldier did not equip him for the rough and tumble of politics.

The field marshal said he himself had entered into politics briefly after the war and got nothing but trouble.

Reds Must Do Yielding On Korean Truce–U.N.

MUNSAN, Korea, April 12 (AP)—United Nations and Communist truce negotiators went through the merest flicker of the motions today, each waiting for the other to suggest a compromise.

"They've got to give," said Maj.-Gen. William K. Harrison, United Nations sub-delegate.

Communists showed no signs of yielding. At each of the seven brief sessions this week they suggested a recess unless the U.N. command had something to propose.

Today's meeting took only one minute, the shortest this week. Total time for the seven sessions is 33 minutes. They would have taken less time if the generals didn't have to wait for translations.

Harrison told newspapermen the U.N. negotiators' waiting attitude is "not frivolous. It's serious business."

Expect Roaring Argument

Senate Plans To Fight Patronage System Change

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—A roaring Senate argument has been fired up by President Truman's plans to shift more than 21,000 federal jobholders from political patronage status to civil service.

Unless either the House of Representatives or Senate kills the surprise move within 60 days, it becomes law under terms of the Government Reorganization Act of 1949.

The battle is expected to be decided in the Senate where since 1789 most Senators have had the privilege of confirming federal officials "appointed by the President by and with the consent of the Senate."

The surprise reorganization plans submitted Thursday would apply to a long list of favorite political plums, including 21,438 postmasters, 64 United States marshals, 51 collectors of customs and a large number of other customs officials.

Some Republicans charged Truman with foreseeing a Republican victory in the fall elections and moving to blanket thousands of Democratic officials under civil service protection.

A veteran Democrat, Senator Walter George of Georgia promptly announced his opposition and added:

"If the Senate has any respect for its responsibilities in selecting and confirming honest and efficient officials, the move will be defeated."

Church Founders Honored With Plaque

A church building committee that really built the church is being honored by the congregation of Knox United at the Easter morning service. In 1909, under the ministry of the Rev. H. J. Keith, Knox decided to build. Plans were laid, some funds collected, and the Building Committee appointed. It called for tenders. They were all higher than the committee thought it could afford.

As H. J. McCannan, former alderman, retired real estate dealer and a member of the original committee, now tells the story, the committee decided to be its own contractors. And so they became. The building committee supervised the building itself, letting out sub-contracts when needed.

For instance, the brick work was sublet to Goodwin and Dix, and the work done complete—cost of bricks, mortar and laying—for $17 a thousand bricks. They were bought from the Curtis brickyard for $8 a thousand. The cost of such bricks now is between $50 and $60 a thousand.

James Graham, father of Alderman Norman Graham, supervised the carpentry. William Henry, now retired city assessor, did the plastering. So the jobs were let out in parcels, and the building committee kept its eyes peeled and a hand in the work. Among the committee was the present lieutenant-governor of Manitoba, the Hon. R. F. McWilliams.

Oak Plaque

The names of the committee have been inscribed on an oak plaque. This is being unveiled Sunday morning. Mr. McWilliams is one of four surviving members of the committee. The other three are the Rev. Dr. H. J. Keith, first minister of Knox, now retired in Ottawa; H. J. McCannan, Walkerfield Avenue, and William Menzies, Reid Street.

Here is the complete committee whose names are perpetuated on the oak tablet: Rev. H. J. Keith, Andrew McKenzie (chairman), H. J. McCannan, (sec.-treas.), Robert Mulligan, J. F. Morrison, William Menzies, Robert Clifford, J. P. Ego; R. F. McWilliams, Howard Shurter, W. J. Buyers, and David Hamilton.

Foundations and main floor of the building were laid in the fall of 1909. It was finished, complete with tower in the fall of 1910. The cornerstone was laid by the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, the Hon. John Morison Gibson. The church was opened on December 6, 1910. Its total cost was about $25,000.

The plaque being unvieled Sunday was executed by H. G. Lewis, 556 Aylmer Street, a member of the present congregation. The service will be conducted by the present minister, the Rev. H. G. Douglas.

Before the new church was built the congregation, formerly a mission of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, had existed independently since 1904. What is now the adjoining "Lecture Hall" on Reid Street was the original church, built in 1904. The name "Knox" was taken and the congregation formally constituted on June 6, 1905 with 42 communicating members.

FIRE DAMAGES BUS

With smoke and flames pouring from the engine in the rear of his bus, Colonial Coach driver N. Wills, 287 Stewart St., stopped his coach at Argyle and Water Sts., Friday night and extinguished the blaze with the aid of nearby residents and firemen. A small extinguisher which driver Wills had was not enough to put out the fire but a man arrived with a larger one and the fire was practically out when the firemen arrived a few minutes later. No estimate of the damage to the bus is available. The three passengers escaped with their luggage.

U.S. ARMY OFFICER PRISONER AT FORT HENRY—After 120 years as the biggest fort in Canada historic Fort Henry, used as a prisoner-of-war camp during the Second World War, finally snared a high ranking United States Army Officer in one of its 19th century stocks. Visiting old Fort Henry at Kingston while on a visit to Canadian military establishments the "prisoner" was Colonel J. T. Stewart, of Belton, Texas. Not looking too happy he is shown with a "fellow prisoner," Lieutenant-Colonel T. E. Sisson, a senior staff officer at Eastern Ontario Area headquarters, Kingston.—(National Defence Photo).

More Housing Seen For Ontario

TORONTO, April 12 — (CP)—Ontario this year will likely see the start of new efforts by the Provincial and Municipal Governments to provide more housing for a growing population.

As the Ontario legislature prorogued on Thursday, Lieutenant-Governor Louis Breithaupt gave royal assent to 136 bills passed during the seven-week session. Five of them designed to give impetus to private industry to build more homes.

One new act will aid the building of low-rental housing in deteriorated areas of large cities. Two new crown corporations have been set up to provide loans for rural housing and help establish young farmers on the land. Another bill will permit provincial grant toward construction of homes for the aged.

The new statute with perhaps the widest popular appeal is the one to pay mean-test pensions of up to $40 monthly to totally and permanently disabled persons from 18 to 65 years of age.

The legislature also lined up Ontario behind the St. Lawrence river development by ratifying the agreement with Ottawa for participation in hydro-electric development of the river.

A new approach toward aiding municipal finances came in the decision to pay grants in lieu of municipal taxes on property of the government and provincial crown corporations.

Th work of the legislature will continue after the session in four select committees which will study lakeshore erosion and water levels of the Great Lakes, keep rent control regulations under review, plan a complete revision of the Province's Companies Act and examine election laws in the light of last November's election.

Rockcroft Man Fined For Impaired Driving

Charles Brown, 36, Rockcroft, was convicted Thursday of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol. Brown was charged on March 29 with driving on George St., while his ability was impaired as the result of having consumed liquor.

He was fined $50 and $2.50 costs. Brown was defended by Gordon H. T. Farquharson. He pleaded not guilty to the charge but was found guilty on the evidence by Magistrate W. R. Philp.

"'Oh, I've shot Lenny," said Richard.

'I lifted Leonard off the chair but he didn't say anything. He seemed to breathe for a little while, but he was dead when Dr. Agnes Jamieson arrived."

Phone Police

Mrs. Cooper phoned O.P.P. constable Al Edwards of Minden after phoning for Dr. Jamieson. He conducted the investigation..

Mr. Cooper, an employee of General Motors in Oshawa, was away at work when the shooting occurred. He arrived home in the early hours of Friday morning.

All nine Cooper children, ranging in ages from 17 years to one year, live on the family's 100-acre farm in Stanhope township, Haliburton county.

The death of Leonard leaves eight: Milton 17, Richard 13, Betty Lou 11, Beverley 10, Larry 6, Linda 5, Susanne who will be three years in May, and the youngest Shirley, just over a year old.

The funeral will be at 2.30 p.m. today at the Maple Lake United Church. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Bottled Coincidence

WARKWORTH, April 12. (ENS)—Messages in bottles usually turn up in the oceans, after thousands of miles of travelling. On April 4 Arthur Meneilley of Norham found a bottle in Lake Ontario, at Brighton Bay, with the name and address of Miss Helen Knox of Norham in it. He took the note to Miss Knox, and she told him she had released the bottle and note in the mill pond at Norham on April 4, 1950. Norham is a mile south of Warkworth.

Recalls Memorial To Queen Victoria

The hymn, "When our heads are bowed with woe," has been a favorite of R. Hendry of J. J. Turner Co. Ltd., for 50 years. It was impressed upon his memory by its appropriateness at the memorial service in the Royal Burgh of Rutherglen, on the day of the funeral of Queen Victoria, Saturday, Feb. 2, 1901.

The close correspondence in the day of the month of that event with the death of King George VI on Feb. 6, 1952, was mentioned to The Examiner some time ago by Mr. Hendry. He found among some old correspondence a black envelope containing the order of the service which he attended as a youth in the Evangeltistic Institute, Greenbank St., Rutherglen.

The Empire was mourning the death of Queen Victoria and the end of her long and historic reign. The black bordered program of the service, which Mr. Hendry had all but forgotten, recalled to him vividly the details of that occassion. The printed hymns were: Psalm XLIII; When our heads are Bowed With Woe ; Lead Kindly Light; For All The Saints Who From Their Labours Rest; and the National Anthem.

Rutherglen, on the Clyde, is an eastern suburb of Glasgow, an ancient city with centuries old associations in the history of Scotland.

Usually such programs of current events, great and small, do not survive their occasions. The present moment does not suggest eventual value in the records of the community. And so, it has come about that Mr. Hendry has been requested to send to Rutherglen, for its archives, the order of service which somehow he kept. It lists the names of ministers who participated in that service, including the chairman, Rev. F. W. Stevenson, M. A.

OBITUARY

WALTRAUD RAJSKI

BETHANY, April 12 (ENS). — The death occurred here today of Waltraud Rajski, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Rajski, after an illness of several months. The family came from Germany two years ago and had become established here. Mr. Rajski is employed at the Canadian General Electric Company in Peterborough.

Waltraud was a bright pupil at Bethany Public School. She returned several months ago from the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto. The funeral will be Tuesday at 2 p.m. from St. Paul's Anglican Church.

CAN ATTEND CAMP

City employees who are members of the Armed Forces in training will be permitted to attend summer camp of their units, in addition to the regular vacation period time off from employment. However, remuneration during camp time will be suspended. This action by the council was in response to a letter from Hon. Brooke Claxton, Minister of National Defence.

Six U.S. Fliers To Be Punished

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 12 (AP).—A senior official at Randolph Air Force Base here indicated stiff punitive action Friday against six lieutenants who refused to fly.

Maj.-Gen. J. K. Lacey, commanding crew training, said in a statement:

"I regard this as a case of alleged disobedience to orders . . ."

The Air Force said only six fliers were involved in the "sit-down strike," but there were reports others had asked for voluntary suspension from flying.

Those refusing to fly were Second World War fliers called back to duty as reservists.

Some of those asking voluntary suspension from flying argued that they had served in the last war and now are married.

Maj. Albert Hatcher, public information officer, said one of the fliers who refused to go aloft faces court martial charges of disorderly conduct.

In northern Montana, the flooding Milk river was falling along its entire course except at the towns of Malta and Wagner but the rise there was so slight dikes were expected to hold. The river earlier had made 3,300 homeless and caused damage estimated at $2,000,000.

A drop of nearly two feet in the Missouri river level freed the 5,700 residents of Pierre, and the 700 in Fort Pierre, for rehabilitation work.

But downstream—at Yankton, S.D., Sioux City and its cross-river neighbor, South Sioux City, Neb., and along the Iowa-Nebraska reaches past Omaha—the flood situation worsened.

Doubters Contribute To Christian Religion

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The Christian world owes a great deal to Thomas, as it does to all honest doubters.

Doubt, it should ever be remembered, is not unbelief. It implies the will to believe; but it seeks evidence, conviction.

It is through doubt that error is overthrown and fact and truth established. It operates in every sphere of life to bring about improvement and progress.

The scientist doubts the established explanation of certain things, and he evolves a theory more in accordance with the facts. The mechanic doubts the effectiveness of a machine or engine, and he produces a better one. But his aim, his purpose is positive.

Place In Religion

Perhaps we do not recognize how much this same process has operated in religion; though one can see it very well if he takes an intelligent view of the development of truth in the Bible.

Is an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth, the real and ultimate law of right in human relationships? Gradually a sense of mercy prevails; cities of refuge are established, but ultimately comes Christ's law of love, even to one's enemies.

But what has this to do with the Resurrection of Jesus? Just this: that I believe deep in the minds of many people with the will to believe there are unexpressed doubts regarding this supreme miracle.

The fact that doubt is unexpressed, or perhaps even unrecognized, does not make it less real. It is one thing to believe with conventional assent, but quite another thing to believe with intense conviction in a living Christ, as Paul, for instance, believed.

And little, as I see it, is done to transform doubt, or conventional belief, into that strong conviction. It is assumed that we ought to believe.

What Is Proof?

What is the proof that Jesus really rose from the dead? That the Bible says so is proof to some, but to others there is still the question: Are the records true?

When I was a theological student our textbook in "Apologetics" was constructed around an elaborate argument to prove that the Resurrection of Jesus was "the best attested fact in history."

The elaborate argument left me cold. To me the supreme evidence of the Resurrection, and of the truth of the Gospel records, is in what happened to those who give us the testimony.

What, other than the proof to them, and their intense conviction, could have changed the lives of ambitious self-seekers, and sent them forth as men of spiritual power with a new understanding of the world-wide Gospel that Jesus had committed to them?

That to me is the miracle, and the proof of that greater miracle of the Life and Voice that speak from beyond the Cross and the unsealed tomb.

Mrs. H. Carleton Dies, Gave Name To Chapter

Mrs. Edith Walker Carleton, wife of Dr. Harry G. Carleton, 316 Margaret Ave., died Friday morning at Kingston General Hospital after a brief illness.

Mrs. Carleton was a prominent member of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire who recognized the value of her service by giving to one of its Peterborough Chapters the name Edith Carleton Chapter. She was a daughter of Walter W. Walker and his wife Eleanor Weston.

Survivivng are her husband, her mother, of Perth, one daughter, Eleanor, sons Edmund and Harry of Peterborough, a sister, Mrs. William Clement (Lena) of Perth, and a brother Murray of Potsdam, New York. Private funeral service will be held at her late residence Monday at 1.30 p.m., followed by service at All Saints Church. The Rev. M. P. Poole will officiate.

Burial will be at Roslin Cemetery, east of Stirling.

Delegation Asks Protect Birds

A delegation of three, representing the Humane Society, the Fish and Game Protective Association and the Peterborough Nature Club called on Police Chief John Thompson Wednesday afternoon.

The delegation, consisting of Mrs. S. O. Shields of the Humane Society, Norman Bradley of the Fish and Game Protective Association, and Lewis Bird of the Nature Club were protesting that birds were being shot down with air rifles in the city.

In a leaftlet published by the Nature Club, it is pointed out that it is illegal under the Game and Fisheries Act for anyone under 16 to own or use a rifle, airgun, sling shot or bow and arrow.

The act also forbids the shooting or harming of any birds except crows, starlings, house-sparrows, blackbirds and cow-birds.

The three organization through their representatives claimed that youngsters are molesting birds in the city and urged Chief Thompson to enforce the law by cracking down on teenagers with air rifles.

Chief Thompson assured the delegation that all members of the force have been instructed to be on the look-out for such infractions, and that a number of air rifles have been taken away from boys who were using them to shoot birds or in some other dangerous manner.

Girl 11 Dies After Crash

OTTAWA, April 12 (CP)—One of seven persons injured in a Good Friday railway crossing accident at Vars, Ontario, died in hospital here early today.

Dead is 11-year-old Giselle Charbonneau, who died without regaining consciousness. The little girl was brought here Friday with the rest of her family. Hospital authorities were not able to determine the exact cause of death until X-rays were available.

Critically injured are Loretta Charbonneau, 17, Helen, 15, and Gerard, 13.

The children were on their way to Good Friday church services when a Montreal-Ottawa westbound freight smashed into their panel truck at a level crossing at Vars, 20 miles southeast of here.

Also injured in the crash were Bernard, 22, driver of the truck, Paul, 19, and Louise, aged 10. All are suffering from shock and other injuries.

Will Leave

was delayed because of his desire to break the news himself to the other N.A.T.O. commanders that he was leaving.

The General will leave April 16 for Brussels to begin a series of farewell visits to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization capitals in Europe.

"If I should be nominated I shall promptly submit to the President my resignation from the armed services," he said.

Eisenhower told reporters that in the next several weeks—while he remains here—he will devote himself entirely to the affairs of his command.

"I am not going to discuss any kind of political questions, so I can devote my attention to this job. I must prevent politics from affecting this vital job. There are important things to do which I believe I can do."

15-Minute Address

Eisenhower made a 15-minute address to some 200 newspapermen in the main conference room at Supreme Headquarters, but refused to submit to questioning.

The General began his conference by explaining that "in the past month my personal life has been markedly changed.

"Since my January statement (in which he said he would accept but not seek the Republican nomination) events in the United States and their incessant repercussions here have made it impossible for me to remain.

"These pressures compel me to wait no longer. I hope that this act of asking for relief will release me from these pressures and make it possible for me to finish up the job I have set for myself here."

"In the main," Eisenhower said "the letters speak for themselves. They briefly summarize the accomplishments of S.H.A.P.E. that allow me to return to civilian pursuits. I was assigned to this post from an inactive status, and it has always been my intention to return to civilian life when my assignment was finished."

Board Of Education Asks No Parking Beside Schools

City Council is being asked by the Board of Education to amend their traffic bylaw so there will be no parking on one side of those streets bounding public school properties. The restrictions would mean no parking on the side of the street nearer the school. Motorists would be free to park their cars on the other side.

"Children have a tendency to run out onto streets from behind parked cars, causing accidents," said Chairman W. B. Gordon. "This should help to remove some of the risk."

The recommendation came from the supervision committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Paige Rowell.

If the end of the school area comes within a city block, the no-parking restriction will extend for an extra 20 feet along that side of the street into the adjoining block.

The parking restrictions are part of a campaign by the 1952 Board of Education to reduce to a minimum the risk of schoolchildren being hurt in traffic accidents while going to and from school.

Safety Patrol System

In co-operation with the Police Commission, Separate School Board and city police, the Board have taken the first steps to have here a "safety patrol" system, similar to the one operating in Ottawa.

The "stafety patrols" in Ottawa are carried out by the children themselves. Not one child has been injured since it began in 1946. Constable Don Mackay has already seen the Ottawa system at work and is preparing a similar one in Peterborough. The training of children in safety consciousness—and particularly in this safety patrol scheme—will start soon.

If the bylaw is amended there will no longer be parked cars adjacent to schoolgrounds that children can hide behind and then dash out into the traffic lane.

And the "safety patrol" scheme specifically forbids children to jaywalk. They must cross intersections at supervised corners. Delinquents are disciplined in courts, also supervised by the children themselves.

The objective: no more traffic fatalities or injuries among schoolchildren.

Hockey Champs Tendered Dinner

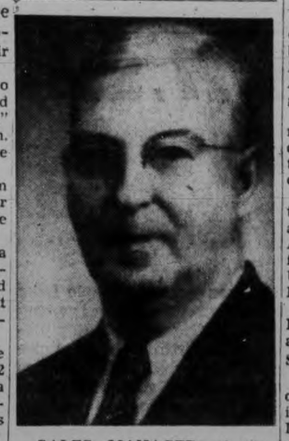
At Prince of Wales School on Wednesday evening the Students' Council presented the intermediate hockey team with a banquet for winning the public school championship.

Guests for the evening were R. J. Bolton, principal of the school, Clarence Boorman, president of the Kinsmen's club, Bob Thorpe of the Timber Structures and Harvey Wilson, coach of the team.

Bob Hutchinson, president of the Students' Council, welcomed the guests and then dinner was served by five girls of the council assisted by some of the boys' mothers.

After dinner the Kinsmen's cup was presented to the captain of the team by Mr. Boorman. Bob Thorpe, star of the Peterborough lacross team and playing coach of the Mann Cup team this year, presented the players with crests. Mr. Bolton gave a brief talk. Mr. Wilson was given a small gift by Bob Hutchinson. Mr. Wilson expressed his thanks to the special guests and spoke briefly to the boys on the qualities of a good sports. The council provided small trophies for each player.

The evening ended with two films shown by the coach.



SALES MANAGER of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co. at one time, Henry J. White, who died in Montana on Tuesday, will be buried Tuesday in Little Lake cemetery. Son of the late T. H. White and Mrs. Annie Brown, he is survived by his widow, the former Olive Mowat Winchester, and a sister, Miss Edythe White, of Toronto. The body will be at the Comstock funeral home from Monday until Tuesday, when the Rev. C. G. Boyd will conduct the funeral service.

43 Chambers To Meet Here

Representatives of 43 chambers of commerce and boards of trade from Kingston to Oshawa and north to Haliburton will attend the Peterborough Regional Conference of Chambers of Commerce to be held at the Empress hotel April 22 and 23.

It is expected that approximately 150 will attend.

Former UK Constable Police Officer Here

Dennis Smith, 27, 575 George St., was appointed by the Police Commission Thursday to fill the vacancy on the force caused by the resignation of Constable Douglas Stark who left the department to take another position on March 22.

The new constable is no newcomer to police work. After he was discharged from the R.A.F., where he served as an air gunner, he was a constable on the Worcester police force for nearly four years. He resigned to come to Canada in July last year. He is married and has one child.

The appointment is effective April 21.

Bible College Commencement To Graduate 26

The Eastern Pentecostal Bible College will hold its first Peterborough commencement exercises Monday evening in the Brock St. Arena, at which 26 students will graduate.

Twelve previous commencement exercises were held by the college in Toronto. This will be the first in Peterborough since the college moved here last summer.

This term 26 students formed the final year, 28 the second year and 56 the first year of studying. A number of the graduates are from Canada, some from the United States and others from Bermuda and England.

Two of the graduating class, Harold Collins and Hilda Robbins are from Peterborough.

Sunday Service

On Sunday at 2.30 p.m. a baccalaureate service will be held in the new Pentecostal church on Dublin St. The service will be conducted by the college principal, the Rev. Charle Ratz, and the president of the college board of directors, the Rev. J. H. Blair, Hamilton.

The baccalaureate address will be given by the Rev. Carl Brumback, Jacksonville, Florida, who has been conducting evangelistic meetings this week in the church.

The college's 110-voice choir, under the direction of the Rev. Fred Parlee, college musical director and pastor at the Pentecostal church, will be singing special music. Several selections will be the Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's Messiah; the Victor by Schubert, and the college song, the Crusaders' Chorus by Lesley Smith.

On Monday night the commencement exercises will begin at 7.45 p.m. after the processional march of the student body into the Brock St. Arena. People attending are asked to be seated before the march begins.

There the valedictory address will be given by Ruby Barton of Toronto; other student speakers will be William McKinnon and Pauline Vaters of St. John's, Newfoundland.

The charge to the graduates and the dedicatory prayer will be given by Mr. Ratz, and the presentation of the diplomas by Mr. Blair.

Special music has been arranged by the college choir.

U.N. Infantry Repulses Attack

SEOUL, Korea, April 12 (AP)—United Nations infantry repulsed Red probing attacks all along the 155-mile Korean battlefront Friday night and early today as the ground war flared anew after a two-day lull.

Bad weather grounded U.N. planes, but naval units Friday night continued a steady hammering of Communist positions on both coasts of North Korea.

Supporting the Red ground probes begun late Friday, Communist artillery and mortars fired more than 2,000 rounds against United Nations positions. The most serious Red attack was launched Friday night against U.N. forces entrenched on a hill near the Mundung Valley on the eastern front. The U.N. infantry dropped back, saturated the hill with artillery fire and reoccupied the hill at dawn today.

Jolliffe Predicts New Scandals

TORONTO, April 12 — (CP)— E. B. Jolliffe, Provincial Leader of the C.C.F., said Friday that Ontario in the next four years will "witness a melancholy procession of scandals" in provincial government affairs.

He told the 18th annual Ontario convention of the C.C.F. that the Progressive Conservative Government will "on its own record, convict itself of incompetence and ineptitude." The scandals, he predicted, might come in the fields of liquor administration and "stock-ateering."

The defeat of the C.C.F. Party in the provincial election last November was part of a general apathy which is spreading through the democratic world, he said. The C.C.F. standing was reduced from 21 to two seats in the Legislature.

Bandsmen In Huff Over New Bandmaster

PORT ARTHUR, April 12 (CP) —Port Arthur bandsmen are in a huff over the new bandmaster. He is a Fort William man.

The fact is, a leading bandsman in Port Arthur said Friday, that if City Council does not reject the tentative appointment of F. E. C. Walker, Fort William, most of the 50 applicants for positions with the newly-formed band will withdraw.

P.S.—Port Arthur is just spitting distance northeast of Fort William.

Blames Communists

CARACUS, Venezuela, April 12 (AP)—The priest of a Roman Catholic church where 53 persons were killed Wednesday in a panic among the worshippers blames the tragedy on Communists. Msgr. Hortensio Carrillo of Santa Teresa church Friday denied previous reports by church spokesmen who said pick-pockets had started the panic by a false fire alarm.

News Problem For Reporters

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP) — The search for truthful news taxed the ingenuity and enterprise of newspapermen during 1951, Frank J. Starzel, general manager of The Associated Press, said Friday.

"Newsmen were confronted by iron curtains, bamboo curtains, confidential files, restricted information and downright censorship," Starzel said in his annual report.

"These news barriers, these active and hidden censorships, came at a time when it was not only difficult to get the news, but when the cost of getting that news was tremendously increased."

Starzel's report was mailed to members of The Associated Press, co-operative news-gathering organization, in advance of the AP's annual membership meeting here April 21.

During the year, AP domestic newspaper membership increased by 13 to 1,733. Domestic radio membership increased 58 to 1,126. In the United States and 72 countries abroad, the AP served 5,564 newspapers, radio stations and publications.

Norwood Woman Dies In Toronto

NORWOOD, April 12 (ENS)—The funeral of Mrs. W. H. Tucker was held Tuesday night from the William Sherwin funeral home, Toronto, with burial in the Norwood cemetery Wednesday afternoon.

The Rev. H. K. Wright, of the Norwood United Church, conducted the graveside service.

Mrs. Tucker died Monday at St. Nicholl's Hospital, Toronto, following a short illness.

Mrs. Tucker, the former Margaret Rachel Stinson, was born 91 years ago in Hastings, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Stinson. And for the past 10 years she had lived at 12 Queen's Grove Road, Toronto; before that she spent most of her life in Norwood where her husband, the late W. H. Tucker, operated a grocery store. She was a member of the United Church.

She is survived by three stepchildren, Cecil W. Tucker, W. Basil Tucker, both of Norwood, and Mrs. H. E. Elphick, of Toronto, and one sister, Mrs. Dorcas Jackson, of Norwood.

Pallbearers were J. C. Riseborough, Edward Scott, Bert Scott, William Montgomery, Rork Ferguson, Alfred Rogers.

Foiled By Ice

MONTREAL, April 12 (CP) — The Norwegian motorship Thorsgaard failed Friday in a bid to be the first ocean-going vessel to reach Montreal when ice conditions forced her to return to Quebec City. At that time she was 98 miles from her goal.

Takes Three Lives

VANCOUVER, April 12 (CP)—A 61-year-old man who committed suicide Friday accidentally carried two men to death with him. Police said the man uncoupled a gas line in his east-end rooming house to kill himself and fumes seeped into rooms on the third floor above, taking the lives of two 65-year-old men.

Find Body In River

LONDON, Ont., April 12 (CP)—The body of an unidentified man—dead 10 days to two weeks—was pulled from the Thames river Friday near Wonderland pavilion.

Two Suggestions To Settle Teachers' Salaries Offered

For a satisfactory settlement of the salary issue between the Board of Education and secondary school teachers, I. M. Robb, secretary of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Association, has put forward these two proposals:

1. An across-the-board payment of $100 to each teacher, besides the present cost-of-living bonus.

2. A further increase of $200 in the maximums that teachers may get.

Mr. Robb said there is now dissatisfaction among the teachers with the Board's salary schedule and teacher-board relations are "deteriorating."

Referring to the first of his two proposals, Mr. Robb said that an extra boost of $100 to each of the secondary school teachers in Peterborough would only cost the Board $40 a teacher or $2,000 altogether. He suggested the money be paid in September.

Ask Meet Committee

If the Board felt they couldn't comply with this request he asked it to meet them in committee to discuss the matter.

Trustees M. J. Collins and G. Wilson Craw objected to the term "deteriorating" being used to describe the Teacher-Board relationship.

"Is this true. Art our relations that poor." asked Mr. Collins.

Stanley Adamson said he wasn't aware of things being as bad as that. To the best of his knowledge the salary issue is the only one outstanding.

Chairman W. B. Gordon agreed.

Mr. Robb had previously met with a sub-committee of the Board to discuss the salary problem. It was a four-hour session.

The Board Thursday night referred the matter to the sub-committee for a report and a recommendation.

Wasn't Grass Seed As Claimed Co. Says

Arthur LaBelle, who was arrested by Toronto police, Tuesday, on a three-year-old warrant for a false pretence charge here, appeared in police court Thursday.

W. B. Gordon appeared for LaBelle and he was granted a remand for two weeks. Bail was set at $200.

LaBelle is charged with selling Stanley G. Payne, purchasing agent of the Western Clock Co., $100 worth of seed which LaBelle claimed was Velvet Bent Grass Seed.

It is alleged that LaBelle obtained the money under false pretences with intent to defraund because the seed was not grass seed as LaBelle is said to have claimed it was when he sold it.

Regular Feeding Required In Building Good Lawns

By HENRY PREE, NEA

Good lawns depend as much on regular feeding as on watering and midsummer care. A complete plant food, such as 4-12-4, 10-6-4 or 5-10-5, should be applied some time during the next there weeks.

Enjoy the garden catalogues, but make sure that the plants you select will thrive

Supplied at this time, it assures grass plants of available food when they start growing. This extra nourishment permits grass to develop quickly and crowd out the weeds.

Plant food applied during early spring does not have to be watered in for there is enough moisture from melting snows in the soils to absorb it. There is no danger of burning the grass at this time.

Use about three pounds of fertilizer for every 100 square feet of surface—and rake, broom or drag the surface so as to work the fertilizer down to the soil where it belongs.

You will spend a lot of time this month reading the many alluring catalogs which will appear in almost every mail. We all do this and become a bit intoxicated by the wonderful illustrations and many-times over-enthusiastic descriptions.

Check all the things you want; that will take the first reading of each catalog.

Go over your list a second time and hesitate long enough to visualize each plant in your own garden. Does it fit in? What space have you for just this shrub, perennial, annual, or whatever it may be? Are the colors what you want?

In other words, does your garden want it and really need it? Don't forget that seeds have a way of producing plants that require a large space even though they themselves look so small.

The best time for making this spring's garden plans is now instead of when time is at a premium later in the spring. The first step in planning a garden is preparing a list of vegetables the family wants to include. It's not important to list varieties to be planted. This can wait unil seed is ordered.

An actual plan, sketched on a piece of paper, according to scale, is the best way to outline a garden. Last year's garden plan can be used to furnish some ideas for the new one. If these plans are kept on hand from year to year, it makes planning much easier.

The most important point is deciding where each vegetable will be planted. In deciding this, it's important to consider the method of cultivation. If tractor equipment is to be used, plans can be made for wide rows and room at the end of rows.

Long rows are necessary in this type arrangement, even if it means planting more than one vegetable in a row. For hand cultivation, the garden rows can be spaced from one to three feet apart, depending upon the vegetable.

Gardening Questions

Q—Is there a special way to grow the dwarf Salvia? I have a small greenhouse and I am new to the business of growing plants. My trouble is damping-off of the plants. I do not water after the sun is down and do not water on dull days unless the plants are extra dry.—D. G.

A—Damping-off of seedling plants is a common greenhouse disease. It can be prevented by sowing seed in a very sandy soil mixture sterilized by saturating it with boiling water or with formaldehyde and treating the seed with Arasan. Over-watering of the seed soil is a contributing cause. No fertilizer should be used in the soil until the seedlings are transplanted from the flats to pots or other flats.

Q—We have an "air plant" which was sent from Florida. It is just a broad leaf, and supposedly thrives on air and sunlight, pinned to a curtain. What is the proper way to remove and care for the tiny shoots or new plants which are growing along the sides?—R. E.

A—The plant in question is called BRYOPHYLLUM, a tropical plant closely related to hens-and-chickens. Its flowers are purplish or reddish. As soon as the tiny shoots are large enough to handle, say ½ to one inch, cut them from the parent leaf and pot them in rather rich, friable loamy soil.

B.C. Election In June

VICTORIA, B.C., April 12 (CP)—British Columbians will vote June 12 in a provincial general election. An order-in-council dissolving the 22nd legislature was passed at a cabinet meeting Thursday shortly before Premier Johnson made public the election date. A coalition government of Liberals and Progressive Conservatives, in power since 1941, ended Jan. 18.

Race Prejudice Has Deep Roots

Several newspapers have commented very freely upon a recent happening in San Francisco which has come to be known as "the Sing incident." The story is this: a Chinese called Sing Sheng bought a house in San Francisco's Southwood district, which he intended as a home for himself, his wife and their one child; the white neighbours objected to his occupancy of the house, on grounds that a "non-Caucasian" in the neighbourhood would lower property values; to decide the matter, Sing Sheng took a vote among the neighbours, and they voted 174 to 28 that he and his family should leave the district at once.

* * *

This is depressing reading and it shows white humanity in an unflattering light. But we are not as sure as some newspapers that anything can be done about it. One writer, in Ottawa, says that by exposing the behaviour of the San Francisco people in the Southwood district, we may hope to shame them out of their prejudice. We are by no means sure that this is possible; when a great many people in a community share a prejudice, very little can be done to make them change their minds.

* * *

Perhaps Canadian newspapers should be a little less ready to moralize upon such incidents as this in the U.S.A.; it would not be too difficult a task to uncover instances of similar prejudice in our own country. And it is easy to exaggerate the desire of people in general for racial toleration; only a very small number of people anywhere, possessed of uncommon strength and sweetness of character, and uncommon intelligence, are capable of behaving without prejudice toward their fellow-men of all colours and creeds. Most of us are incapable of such tolerance, try as we may.

* * *

The late Sigmund Freud remarks in one of his deeply perceptive essays that much of the misery of mankind springs from the urge of human beings to expect too much of themselves; they wish themselves, and especially their fellowmen, to behave like saints, and suffer bitterness and disillusion when this expectation is not fulfilled; a more realistic appraisal of the nature of mankind, and more charity towards its failures to achieve the highest ideals, he thought, would lessen the tensions which give rise to wars and social maladjustments. We think that it is asking too much of the citizens of a San Francisco suburb to expect them to open their arms to a family which, in their opinion, threatens their property and their even more cherished ideal of themselves as people of superior nature. And it is altogether too easy to rebuke them from a safe distance.

* * *

When Dr. Malan imposes hardship upon a whole race, a protest may be in order. When a San Francisco suburb imposes hardship upon a single Chinese family, we may regret their attitude, but before we say too much about it we should ask ourselves, with perfect honesty, which way we would vote if a similar situation arose in our own neighborhood?

Educative Frills That Pay

Critics who want schools to return to instruction in the three R's pure and simple (it was really never either) should ponder several cases cited in the annual report of the superintendent of Peterborough schools. The report was presented on Thursday and contained accounts of the work and results of one of the "frills" in Peterborough schools—auxiliary classes.

The Board of Education had maintained for many years a special class for mentally handicapped children. More recently three other auxiliary handicraft classes were started for physically normal children who are slow to learn by ordinary teaching methods. There are two for boys (at Queen Mary and Central schools) and one for girls, at Central. Undoubtedly these classes are expensive: enrolment must be kept low, special equipment is needed, and specially trained teachers. Are these handicraft classes frills?

One boy, until the age of thirteen, lumped along at the bottom of the school, had poor manners, often played truant. Then he was transferred to an auxiliary class, where he spent three years. At the age of sixteen his reading ability advanced to Grade IV standards, his arithmetic to Grade V. And while his R's were not neglected, he acquired skills in shopwork techniques. He has been steadily employed at a factory for the last four years. Another lad, similarly backward in regular classes, made great strides in a handicraft class, acquired confidence, and left at the age of sixteen to work at a semi-automatic machine in a large production department.

Here is another case which the teacher cites, of a boy who entered the handicraft class at the age of thirteen, with Grade II ability in reading, Grade IV in arithmetic, with "an average manual ability so that shopwork became an outlet for his energy and means of recognition."

"His steady progress in reading seemed keyed to his manual development. At the end of three and a half years' instruction he scored Grade VI in vocabulary and Grade VIII in comprehension on a standardized test (Gates Reading Survey)."

This boy is now a foreman in a local plant.

Instead of boredom, misery and futility at school, these pupils were happy, developed their capacities, and have become useful citizens, paying their own way and contributing to the society of their city and country. Frill?

First Flowers

Easter is a time of Spring, and indeed the Christian significance of the festival is deeply merged with antique and primitive observances of the renewing of the year. In gardens hereabout crocuses are peeping, tulips sprouting, and even in woodlands, the first verdant tinges of Spring are to be seen.

The late English master at the Peterborough Collegiate, F. J. A. Morris, long ago expressed the welcome our hearts feel after a cold, slow winter, in his poem "The First Hepatica":

Welcome! sweet flower, the firstling of the year:
A little while and thou wert fast asleep
Couched in the hollow of the woodland here;
For all thy kind, when winter snows lie deep,
Cowering in dell and glade, close cover keep . . .

The poem breathes everyone's sense of delight at seeing again, amidst dead leaves and dry bracken, the first shy flower of spring:

Thou votary of Spring! with upward gaze,
Wide-eyed thy face is lifted now . . .

A Bull For Harvey

Louada Manor Farm in Harvey township is getting a Scottish immigrant who travelled across the Atlantic in considerably more style than most Scottish immigrants do. He came with his own personal doctor and a couple of attendants, and is presently down at St. John, (N.B.) having a final physical inspection. He comes from the well-bred Calrossie family of Perth, whose name he bears: "Calrossie Armada", and is only fifteen months old. The farm owner paid $23,520 for this prize young bull. He will be a sturdy addition to the excellent herd of Shorthorns which Mr. Louis Cadesky keeps on his Harvey farm. It is through the importation of such fine breeding animals as this that Canadian herds are becoming famous and the quality of animals throughout the country raised.

The price seems high for one fifteen-month-old creature. However, one must look on him as a machine to make machines. The original installation of the master-machine in a factory may be fantastically expensive, but over the years the product created from the investment—other machines useful to the productivity of Canada—repays the original cost, sometimes with great profit. "Calrossie Armada" is a welcome addition to this district.

A Feast For The Eye

By the end of February our winter landscape has lost its fresh beauty, and until the end of April we have very little to look at which can refresh the eye. It is at this time of year especially that we need spectacles which will surprise and delight us, and it is in this respect that we must be particularly grateful to the P.C.V.S. Junior Dramatic Club for their presentation of the Chinese Play, Lady Precious Stream. Apart from its virtues as a dramatic performance it was certainly the most eye-pleasing play that has been seen in Peterborough for a long time.

The costumes and draperies which produced this effect were with a few exceptions the property of Peterborough people. It was somewhat surprising that so much authentic and beautiful Chinese costume and fabric could be unearthed in the city. Certainly the audience left the theatre with the feeling that there is an unguessed-at store of beauty in this city which is very rarely exhibited.

Of late years the student dramatic groups in Peterborough have become more adventurous than formerly in their choice of plays. The performance of Lady Precious Stream was a pleasant adventure in a style of play presentation with which most of us are unfamiliar. In addition, as we have said, it was a feast for the eye, and doubly welcome in a time of year when Nature is one vast eyesore.

BIBLIOMANIA

Distinguished Writing

DUVEEN, by S. N. Behrman (Random House of Canada)

THIS REMARKABLE BIOGRAPHY has already appeared in six parts as a Profile in The New Yorker; in that form it attracted a great deal of favourable attention, and undoubtedly it will meet with even greater acclaim as a book. It is a perfect thing of its kind—a perceptive but not spiteful study of a remarkable man, who is worthy of such attention, but whose full-dress biography could hardly escape dullness.

Sir Joseph Duveen, later Lord Duveen of Millbank, was perhaps the greatest dealer in fine paintings that the world has ever seen. He would touch only the greatest works, and he would sell only for the highest prices, to people whom he considered worthy purchasers. He concentrated his skill upon a handful of very wealthy men—chiefly Americans—and he helped them to form magnificent collections which are now, for the most part, possessions of the nation in American galleries. One gathers that his clients were men of means first, and men of taste a long way afterward. Duveen cajoled, bullied and goaded them into buying pictures which he had to sell. His methods and his personality were such as to give acute pain to his technical advisor, Bernard Berenson—perhaps the greatest living expert on the art of the Renaissance—but Duveen was honest, and he had a true love and respect for art. In this study of him his character as charlatan and huckster is by no means overlooked, but in the end the reader is left with deep respect and even an affection for Duveen. In his own way, he also was a masterwork.

What a pleasure it is to be called upon, in the line of reviewing, to read a book written by a man who knows how to write! Many books today are written by utterly artless amateurs; others are the work of dullards who have a grasp of grammar, but are otherwise mere wallowers in ill-chosen verbiage. S. N. Behrman writes with taste, economy, wit and point, which bring tears to the seared eyeballs of the sorely tried reviewer. It is with genuine pleasure that this truly excellent book is recommended to readers of every sort.

THE EQUATIONS OF LOVE, by Ethel Wilson (MacMillan)

HERE ARE TWO BEAUTIFULLY-TOLD long stories, the finest of their kind I have ever read from a Canadian pen. The stories are Canadian in that the writer lives in British Columbia and they have Canadian settings: the first "Tuesday and Wednesday" in Vancouver, the second "Lilly's Story" moves between Vancouver and up the coast, ending in Toronto and Winnipeg. In themes, quality of writing and sensitivity of portrayal, they are good stories without regard to nationality.

"Tuesday and Wednesday" is an account of two days in the life of a slatternly young woman of Vancouver's down-town slums, Myrtle Johnson. Myrtle works by day for Mrs. H. X. Lemoyne. Mort, her husband, works as little as possible. On Tuesday he has just taken a job as gardener to Mr. and Mrs. H. Y. Dunkerley, but on Wednesday his day-dream and swagger lead him to look for another job. Myrtle and Mort are born and habitual drifters on the surf of society. The author's detailed picture of them, their moods and their environment is of them as individuals, but interprets a whole class of people. Their backgrounds are deftly and freshly set out. The people among whom they move—Mrs. Dunkerley, Mrs. Lemoyne, Vicky Tritt (Mort's mousy spinster cousin), blowsy Mrs. Emblem (Myrtle's aunt) are a gallery of vignettes. Atmosphere, characters and story are engrossing.

* * *

LILLY'S STORY, the second and longer of the two in the book, tells of a girl growing up in squalor, deserted by father and mother, and destined it seems to be just a speck of flotsam in Vancouver. As an adolescent she is a waitress in a Chinese restaurant—before the days when Chinatown was frequented by white people in search of an unusual and good meal. Rather pretty, unconcerned with either morality or the difference between right and wrong, and illiterate, but with a wary intelligence, she almost falls prey to the lures of a houseman named Yow. She drifts through life until she is about to have a baby. Then she feels an urge to become "like folks". When her baby girl is born Lilly develops a passion to give her a respectable life. She succeeds, for herself and her daughter, inventing a background (including a husband) and creating her own honest, careful foreground.

Ethel Wilson's art in drawing even minor characters is like a quick black-and-white sketch, an impression so deft and sure with few lines that life and character are instantly revealed. Here is the reader's introduction to Yow:

"Yow who inhabited the little room opening off the box-room, was the Chinese cook of this family. He was a formidable Chinaman, tall, pock-marked, and with a droop of one eyelid which added cynicism to his already disillusioned face. Even in the house when wearing his Chinese slippers, he walked with a proud and swaggering gait. His look was derisive. He admitted that he, in China, had killed two men—one slowly, one quickly. He also said that he had been beaten to within an inch of his life. All this may have been true. He could juggle the affairs of this family of nine people, and have an extensive private life of his own on the side very easily, although the pressure made him bad-tempered".

Both stories are told with gentle strength and humour. They are very human, kindly stories, yet the author's method is of artistic detachment from her subjects: no preaching, no moralizing, and just a dash of sentiment to add piquancy to the portraits. Very good stories, beautifully told. Her first two book were "Hetty Dorval" and "The Innocent Traveller". This new book, "The Equations of Love", is so good that it will send new readers to the first two to see what they have been missing.

THE SON OF ADAM WYNGATE, by Mary O'Hara (Musson)

THERE IS A RICHNESS about this novel which is rare in modern fiction; it is a pleasure to read a book by a writer who is wise, and who does not appear to be cramming all her wisdom between a single set of covers. I confess that the book was a surprise to me, for I had avoided reading Miss O'Hara's other works, believing them to be about animals; I am sure now that I must be quite wrong about them.

The theme of the book at hand is religion, and Miss O'Hara writes about religion with a perceptiveness and lack of cant which is deeply interesting and refreshing. Her principal character is a New York clergyman who is a mystic. It is by no means common for a clergyman or anyone else to be a mystic, and it is even less common for a writer to describe mystical experience in terms which are to be comprehended by the general reader. But Bartholomew Wyngate is very real, and the trials which assail him are very real, also. It is only at the end of the book that this wonderful combination of depth and reality seems to fail, and personally I did not care what the author did at that point; the man and his fate had been finely brought to life, and the novelist might be excused any device to bring the story to an end.

THERE ARE MANY CHARACTERS in the book, and they are all given a depth and individuality which makes them suitable inhabitants of the world of Batholomew Wyngate; Louise, his wife—and a very odd wife for a clergyman—and his brother Ramsay seemed to me particularly good, but perhaps the author's best achievement is to bring to life a family of attractive, but quite human children.

This is a book which many people will read and re-read with keen pleasure. Though not a difficult book, it is not a book which can be gobbled. It is a rewarding and distinguished piece of fiction, marked everywhere by the strongly individual intelligence and wisdom of the writer.

Tarzan Tarzanovich

(THE LONDON TIMES)

PLACING his foot upon the body of his kill, he uttered the reverberating cry of the bull ape." It was thus, if childhood memories are not at fault, the Tarzan was wont to signalize the successive proofs of his prowess. It struck one at the time as slightly ostentatious, but one realized that Tarzan knew no better and after all he generally had done something pretty good, like turning an alligator inside out or throwing a buffalo over a cliff.

But of all his feats none is better worth reverberating over than his latest; he has got past the Iron Curtain. It is true that Russian audiences are not being allowed to swallow him neat; the films in which he appears are preceded by a foreward which "explains that Tarzan is the child of a rich Englishman, raised in innocence by the jungle apes, and that he never encountered the corrupting influence of bourgeois culture till he met American explorers."

The first of these two statements is, of course, historically correct. The fact that Tarzan's father was an English nobleman (Earl Greystroke) is too often forgotten, and nobody in Hollywood, most regrettably, has even taken the opportunity of making a film called "Tarzan in the House of Lords" ("See the mighty ape-man swinging from chandelier to chandelier in Britain's historic legislature! See him rout the famed corps of Beefeaters on the battlements of Big Ben while all London watches spellbound!")

As for the corrupting influence of bourgeois culture, one cannot help feeling that the Russian authorities ought, in their own interests, to have been rather more specific. Compared with most heroes of American films, Tarzan seems singularly immune from the dread effects of bourgeois culture. He does not wear a top-hat, go to night-clubs, own a yacht, drink, gamble or even read the wrong sort of books. He is, it is true, an individualist, but he cannot very well help that, since there is, as it were, only one of him. His failure to realize that all American explorers are, ex officio, Imperialist spies must tell against him to some extent; but otherwise it is not easy to recall any outstanding symptoms of Western degeneracy.

It would really be more satisfactory if the Russians got down to it and started making their own Tarzan films. In these the protagonist would be a less isolated figure; the ends of doctrine might best be served by making him the chairman of a small committee of apemen and apewomen, organized on collective lines and marked by a tendency to go in for useful things like irrigation schemes instead of frittering away their energies wrestling with rhinoceroses. In the end, no doubt, the explorers—Russian explorers—would turn up, and for the first time Tarzan and his colleagues would learn of the existence of the U.S.S.R., a piece of intelligence which might well cause their chairman to utter the revereberating cry of the bull ape. Off they would all set for that bounteous and happy land, and outside their deserted huts we should see, to soft music, the baboons gazing in reverent awe at a life-sized portrait of—. But perhaps it would not be fair to give away the denouement.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And when the sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome, had bought sweet spices, that they might come and anoint him.

And very early in the morning, the first day of the week, they came unto the sepulchre at the rising of the sun.

And they said among themselves, "Who shall roll us away the stone from the door of the sepulchre?"

And when they looked, they saw that the stone was rolled away: for it was very great.

And entering into the sepulchre, they saw a young man sitting on the right side, clothed in a long white garment; and they were affrighted.

And he saith unto them, "Be not affrighted: Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucified: he is risen; he is not here: behold the place where they laid him".

"But go your way, tell his disciples and Peter that he goeth before you into Galilee: there shall ye see him, as he said unto you".

And they went out quickly, and fled from the sepulchre; for they trembled and were amazed: neither said they anything to any man; for they were afraid.

Now when Jesus was risen early the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, out of whom he had cast seven devils.

And she went and told them that had been with him, as they mourned and wept.

And they, when they had heard that he was alive, and had been seen of her, believed not.

After that he appeared in another form unto two of them, as they walked, and went into the country.

And they went and told it unto the residue: neither believed they them.

Afterward he appeared unto the eleven as they sat at meat, and upbraided them with their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they believed not them which had seen him after he was risen.

And he said unto them, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature". —Mark 16, 1-16.

Letter To The Editor

COMMENT ON DIVORCE

Sir: Your editorial "C.C.F. Scrutiny of Divorce", piques me, although what you say is true—divorce is, you say, a part of modern life and so it seems is war (and for the same reason) but surely it need not be so; and since the cause for both is the same—so is the cure then?

"But divorce is no new thing, we have had it from the time of Moses (and before, no doubt); the law of Moses seems harsh to women. Deuteronomy 24: 1-4; and was of course further cause for divorce (spiritually); but read verse five, "when a man taketh a new wife, he shall not go out to war, neither shall he be charged with any business; but he shall be free at home one year, and cheer up his wife which he hath taken"—surely that is a better law than we have today, and a long honey-moon.

But He said through His Son, something different in Mark 10: 5-6; and in verse 7, a man shall leave his parents and cling to his wife,—but present day economies make this difficult, and so could be an impetus towards divorce; ideally every family should have their own roof, and I believe their own garden (fig tree); and a wise government and school and church would see to this, and it goes without saying surely that one should be taught to be an adept husband or wife.

"HULLO. LOOK! SOMETHING COMING UP ALREADY"

A-F-I-E-L-D with NICK NICKELS

An official communique from the Honorable Harold's inner sanctum in Queen's Park contains some good news in the algae battle for the coming summer.

A $20,000 program will be presented in his Estimates to the House.

Plans are already underway, and a program is being laid out to implement action. Competent biologists will study plankton, chemists will study water conditions and other professional personnel will be engaged in this co-operative undertaking. These experts will be drawn from the Department of Lands and Forests, Ontario Department of Health, the Ontario Research Council, the University of Toronto and the National Research Council of Canada.

Breakdown of budgetary requirements will be $10,000 for salaries, $5,000 for maintenance and travel and $5,000 for equipment.

Two quotations from Mr. Scott's memo follow:

"An algae bloom has been causing very considerable annoyance to cottagers on the shores of the Kawartha Lakes from Sturgeon to Rice Lakes in recent years. This condition is undoubtedly related to the shallowness brought about by flooding of marginal lands in the construction of the Trent Canal, which canal system, of course, makes the Kawartha Lakes such a highly-favored area at the present time.

"Other factors relating to the algae growth are the summer temperatures favorable for its growth, the natural high fertility of the water, the particular current and wind action which occurs during the summer. This troublesome algae bloom has constituted a real nuisance during recent years and requires an intensive investigation of the existing conditions in order to work out methods for its control."

It seems that all the while individuals and groups have been lambasting the Government to "do something", it has been quietly and efficiently laying out a large program of attack. The chosen roster of experts from the various scientific groups mentioned above leaves no doubt of the magnitude of the job before them. Their findings and recommendations in '53 will, we hope, be the beginning of the end of Curse of the Kawarthas.

Lake trout fishermen will have to wait until May 15 to try their luck in Victoria and Peterborough Counties. In Haliburton, it's May 1st.

Three fish sanctuaries in Haliburton County—MacDonald Lake in Havelock Township, Clear or Clean Lake, same township, and Black or Eyre Lake in Eyre Township—will be opened May 1 to public fishing. The property is owned by Hay and Company and permission to trespass should be obtained at their mill office at Kennisis Lake.

Luck with smelt dippers at The Front has been fair these last few nights, say those who have been putting in some late cold hours. Expert observers at Grafton estimate this week-end will see the height of the run.

One devotee told me a Treasure Island tale about he and 20 other fishermen being marooned. The approach to the mouth of Shelter Valley creek is by way of a long narrow gravel lakeshore bar which forms the beach at that spot. A crowd of drunks who didn't quite reach the right spot decided to dig their own creek outlet; it wore to several feet in width and depth while the serious lads were on location. The latter group found themselves marooned for a considerable time after the revelers had woven their ways back to their cars. Rugged sport, this smelting.

Chambers of Commerce hucksters are back from Cleveland after completing a creditable job of selling the Kawarthas to Ohio people. Americans were elated with the booth and our salesmen were elated with the great numbers of honest-to-gosh inquiries.

Two-thirds of the visitors had been up in our country before and the balance promise to come up this summer for the first time. Because the booth this year was a five-way co-operative effort—Peterborough, Lindsay, Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls and Rice Lake—it ran like a well-oiled machine. All that is needed next year is a co-operative district folder.

He knows all the answers about fish spawning, too, especially goldfish. You ought to hear him hold forth about tropical fish—mouth breeders, guppies, swords—Why, this straight-forward birds and bees business with our common game fish varieties is too simple for him to bother explaining. Of course, the later he stays at his office the less he feels like explaining anything.

Famous Deaths—V.

Jesus Of Nazareth (c. A.D. 29)

And as they led him away, they laid hold upon one Simon, a Cyrenian, coming out of the country, and on him they laid the cross, that he might bear it after Jesus. And there followed him a great company of people, and of women, which also bewailed and lamented him.

But Jesus, turning unto them, said, "Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for me, but weep for yourselves, and for your children.

For, behold, the days are coming, in the which they shall say, Blessed are the barren, and the wombs that never bare, and the paps which never gave suck. Then shall they begin to say to the mountains, Fall on us; and to the hills, Cover us. For if they do these things in a green tree, what shall be done in the dry?"

And there were also two others, malefactors, led with him to be put to death. And when they were come to the place which is called Calvary, there they crucified him, and the malefactors, one on the right hand, and the other on the left.

Then Jesus said, "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do." And they parted his raiment, and cast lots. And the people stood beholding. And the rulers also with them derided him, saying, "He saved others; let him save himself, if he be the Christ, the chosen of God."

And the soldiers also mocked him, coming to him, and offering him vinegar, And saying, "If thou be the King of the Jews, save thyself." And a superscription also was written over him in letters of Greek, and Latin, and Hebrew, THIS IS THE KING OF THE JEWS.

And one of the malefactors which were hanged railed on him, saying, "If thou be the Christ, save thyself and us." But the other answering rebuked him, saying, "Dost not thou fear God, seeing thou are in the same condemnation? And we indeed justly; for we receive the due reward of our deeds: but this man hath done nothing amiss."

And he said unto Jesus, "Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy Kingdom." And Jesus said unto him, "Verily I say unto thee, Today shalt thou be with me in paradise."

And it was about the sixth hour, and there was a darkness over all the earth until the ninth hour. And the sun was darkened, and the veil of the temple was rent in the midst.

And when Jesus had cried with a loud voice, he said, "Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit," and having said thus he gave up the ghost.

When City Had 5,000

A local paper dated January 3, 1873, makes very interesting reading and give illuminating picture of difference between past and present.

The population of Peterborough was approximately 5,000 in 1873. The census figures were 4,871.

The paper is well-filled with advertisements, welf displayed. We find in the professional list some well-known local names. Among the lawers were D. J. Hatton, G. Edmison, James F. Dennistoun, John Burnham and W. H. Moore. The doctors included W. Bell, H. C. Burrill and G. P. Ford.

One very interesting advertisement was that of Ormonde and Walsh's drug store. This was Peterborough first drug store, founded in 1856 by Charles Ormonde, situated on the site of the present E. L. Payne store and has been carried on, under various ownerships, for nearly a century. Other advertisements were those of Nicholls and Hall; Fairweathers predecessors of Barrie's; Peter Hamilton and William Lech.

There were house and lots for sale, many sheriff's sales and information as to a young ladies' school on Aylmer St. conducted by the Misses Grundy, a very appropriate name.

Apply For Waterworks

A sign of the town's progress was an application was to be made to the Legislature for the town of Peterborough to construct a waterworks. The local news items reported a verdict of guilty of child murder against Mary MacKenzie. The Collegiate Institute had an enrolment of 346 and there were 140 interments in Little Lake cemetery.

An account of the installing of officers of the Corinthians Order of Freemasons contains some familiar names with Walter Beale at W.M. and J. J. Lundy, Harry Winch, Rev. V. Clementi, Fred Hall and John McClelland in the list of officers.

A Week of Prayer was advertised to begin on Jan. 8 and the Wesleyan-Methodist (George St.) Sabbath School celebrated an anniversary showing 416 scholars on the roll with an average attendance of 236.

A well-known local institution is brought to mind by the report of the annual meeting of the local Peterborough Agricultural Society with Isaac Garbutt in the chair. How times have changed is shown by a statement of the 1872 income: Balance on hand, $45.07; government grant, $700; receipts, $191.28; member's subscription, $143.50. Total 1,679.85.

There is an announcement that W. J. Mason and T. Evans Bradburn had entered into a partnership to carry on the grocery business, formerly John Bradburn's. In the industrial world it was noted that the Auburn Mill was ready for the installing of machinery.

Ashburnham To Unite

In municipal affairs a bylaw was passed for the union of Peterborough and Ashburnham but this was not carried out until 30 years later.

A county bylaw was advertised authorizing a large loan to the Ontario and Quebec Railway Co.

Among general items was a report of the death of the French Emperor Napoleon III.

A striking feature is the list of current market prices for various foodstuffs, etc. Potatoes were quoted at 35 to 40 cents a bushel; dairy butter roll 18 to 20 cents; eggs 15 to 17 cents a dozen; turkeys 80 cents to $1; geese 45 to 60 cents; chickens per pair 30 to 35 cents; pork $4.75 to $5.25 per 100 pounds, and beef $4.50 to $5.00 the hundredweight.

A span of 80 years has made a vast difference in the cost of living.

IN THE CHAPEL AT THE CIVIC HOSPITAL Mrs. Alfred Williams, this year's president, and Mrs. B. W. Harvey, first president of the Peterborough branch of the Silver Cross, adjust flowers at the stained glass window. The chapel and furnishings were one of the projects undertaken by this organization of next-of-kin of men and women who fell in the two World Wars.

Silver Cross: For Memories and Action

By COLLETTE FERGUSON

June 4, 1950 the chapel of the Peterborough Civic hospital was dedicated. The plaque on the door of the chapel reads—

"In grateful memory of the men of Peterborough who gave their lives in the Second World War. The furnishings of this chapel are the gift of the Peterborough Chapter of the Silver Cross Women of Canada."

The Peterborough Chapter of this association was formed in June 1948. Its 26 charter members were all women who had lost husbands or sons in the First and Second World Wars. This chapter was one of many that were organized in communities across Canada and in this same year the association became recognized as a national organization.

The members of the organization dedicate their work as an association to the memory of the men who were killed while serving their country in the armed forces. The organization took its name from the silver crosses that are presented by the Canadian Government to the next-of-kin, usually wives and mothers, of members of the armed forces who were killed in action. All members have received the Silver Cross.

Its Purposes

The aims of the Silver Cross Women are to bring recipients of the silver cross into closer relation through an organized association; to forward the welfare of widows and mothers of former personnel of the armed services, who were killed in action or died as a consequence of service and the welfare of servicemen and ex-servicemen who are hospitalized or in need of assistance.

At present there are 40 members in the Peterborough Chapter.

The chapter received its charter at a lawn tea held in June 1949. It was presented by the National President of the Silver Cross Women, Mrs. W. H. Jacobs.

The first executive included: Mrs. B. W. Harvey, president; Mrs. B. D. Hall, 1st vice-president; Mrs. J. L. Young, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. Elizabeth Pruner, treasurer; Mrs. Norman Fee, recording secretary; Mrs. C. H. McWilliams, corresponding secretary.

Chapel Furnished

The biggest project of the chapter to date, has been the furnishing of the Civic Hospital chapel. As well as furnishing the chapel, the chapter donated a beautiful memorial window and an honor roll of Peterborough men, who were killed in the Second World war, for the chapel. The members always keep flowers in the chapel.

The chapter's activities to help veterans who are in hospitals, include the donation of two wheel chairs to Sunnybrooke hospital Toronto and one to the Hospital for Tuberculosis at Gravenhurst in 1951. This year the members are hoping to donate a chair to the Kingston hospital.

Gifts are sent at Easter and Christmas to veterans in both Peterborough hospitals and the hospital at Gravenhurst. Subscriptions of the Examiner are paid for by the society for veterans in Sunnybrooke and Kingston hospitals. Parcels are also sent men from Peterborough serving in Korea and Germany.

The chapter raises money for these activities by holding teas and fur sales.

The present executive of the organization is: Mrs. A. S. Williams, president; Mrs. F. C. Patterson, first vice-president; Mrs. B. D. Hall, second vice-president; Mrs. S. Gibbs, third vice-president; Mrs. John Allen, treasurer; Mrs. Norman Fee, recording secretary; Mrs. Alex Fitzgerald, corresponding secretary.

The Silver Cross Women have as their motto the following excerpt from the poem, "For the Fallen," my Lawrence Binyon:

They shall grow not old
As we that are left grow old;
Age shall not weary them,
Nor the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun,
And in the morning,
We will remember them.

EXCELLENT AND CHEAP PUMPKIN SOUP.

TAKE a Knuckle of Veal and a Knuckle of Ham. In absence of the Veal, use a Calf's Foot or a Cow-heel, or even some Bones; and, in place of the Ham, use part of the Hock of Bacon. Cut and chop these up; put them into a two-gallon stew-pan; then add to them two large onions sliced, one carrot, two middle-sized turnips sliced, with skin on, the outside leaves of a large head of celery cut into small pieces, one tea-spoonful of ground allspice, one table-spoonful of salt, and a piece of butter or marrow the size of a walnut. Place the stew-pan on the fire; keep stirring the contents with a wooden spoon, to prevent them sticking to the bottom of the pan, and until there is a kind of white glaze on the pieces of meat; then add by degrees, one gallon of hot water; peel and take out the seeds of a Pumpkin about six pounds in weight; cut it into pieces, and put it into the stew-pan; boil until the pieces of Pumpkin are quite soft; pass as much as possible of the contents of the stew-pan through a coarse hair-sieve; then boil it again, adding more water if too thick. Season it with a table-spoonful of pounded sugar, a tea-spoonful of pepper, and more salt if required. Serve in a tureen, with some fried bread cut the size of dice.

THE SEA

The sea—this truth must be confessed—has no generosity. No display of manly qualities—courage, hardihood, endurance, faithfulness—has ever been known to touch its irresponsible consciousness of power. The ocean has the conscienceless temper of a savage autocrat spoiled by much adulation. He cannot brook the slightest appearance of defiance, and has remained the irreconcilable enemy of ships and men ever since ships and men had the unheard-of audacity to go afloat together in the face of his frown.

Two Referees Penalized By Provincial Police In Minor Hockey Benefit

President Don Smedmore and his hard-working P.M.H.A. executive staged their annual farewell benefit ice-show on Thursday night at Civic Arena to raise much-needed funds for the association. The show proved a good success, though the crowd fell short of expectations due perhaps to holiday plans. A lively and amusing puck-duel between the local Provincial Police officers and the champion Timber Structure lacrosse stars featured a comedy-studded display, greatly enjoyed by all. Though the coppers dropped an 8-5 verdict it was a reasonably close contest particularly after the first frame when Arn Dugan and Curly Mason were arrested and forced to play against their team-mates.

Jailed Them.

Officer Bert Howden giant of the provincial squad, next gave referees in general a lesson, when he cooped referees Pete Nigh and Bill Romanyhi for ten minutes for talking back to a player. This latter move delighted a long-suffering crowd of referee-baiters who laughed as the arbitrators sat and watched the rival competitors commit mayhem, at will, for a spell. A large-sized copy of O.P.P. rules covering hockey was produced in mid-ice by the officers to prove validity of their decisions. Late in the frame, the coppers claimed a penalty shot on Batley because he had committed robbery, and won their point, but Bat again stopped Howden's penalty drive to the consternation of the law.

Ashbee Winner.

The annual speed-skating race found eight entrants and was won by Don Ashbee, closely followed by Brian Robinson, who carried the disc around the ice three-tenths of a second slower than his fleet rival. Ashbee's time was 14.5 seconds; Bobby Thorpe followed with 15 seconds flat and evergreen "Robert The Red," Red Creighton sped around the course in 15.2 seconds.

(Incidently can anyone beat Red's record time producing a birth certificate of 39 years or over).

Following the hockey game, a special novelty stunt was introduced to Peterborough when the first presentation of lacrosse on skates found the Timber Structures divided for the first time into rival teams playing eight-a-side against one another. Moon Wootton guarded the nets at one end and Bill Edgar held the other cage. The Woottenites composed of Arn Dugan, Bob Thorpe, Red Creighton, Joe Whitnell, Brian Robinson, Russ Slater and Bill Killingbeck emerged victorious over the Edgar pack by a close margin in the 20-minute duel. The period was featured by an end-to end rush by Moon Wootton, who showed his versatility by taking the ball at his goal and skating through the entire team to score, late in the period. Edgar had Curly Mason, Ross Powless, Don Ashbee, Mick Magee, Bud McDougall, (who does credit to his dad at 15). George Louth of Georgetown and Tom Armitage of Manle, both provincial men.

Next season the executive of the P. M. H. A. hope to stage an even bigger and better show featuring a beauty contest.

Timber Structures— Goal, Batley; defence, Creighton, Wootton, centre, Ashbee; wings, Slater, Whitnell. alts., Mason, Powless, Robinson, Magee, Killingbeck, Thorpe, McDougall, Dugan.

Prov. Police— Goal, Roy Feeley, defence, Jim Healey, Harold Armstrong, centre, Archie Eady; wings, Tom Armitage, George Louth. Alts. Wallace, Mohns, Ray Poupe, Bert Howden, Stan Judson, Ray Lawson, Emmett Crough, Wally Greg.

Athletic Park Sought As Site For New School

BETHANY, April 12 (ENS) — The Bethany Athletic Association met in the town hall on Thursday evening with Ross N. Carr returned as president for a second term; Vincent Jackson, first vice-president; Reg. Edmunds, second vice-president; Mrs. Bernard Neals, secretary; John Coburn, treasurer. Clarke Pomeroy, Roy Jarvis, J. C. Cummiskey, Robert Sisson and Miss Evelyn Mantle were appointed as the entertainment committee; Bert Ginn, Harry Ryley and Creighton Carr as the park committee and George Smith, caretaker

A request from the Women's Institute for a donation to help with their project of renovating the hall basement was favorably received and $50. voted.

A delegation of school trustees, H. Rayson, C. Pomeroy, E. Smith and F. W. Reynolds attended the meeting. Mr. Rayson announced that it was their intention to build a new public school in the near future and in their opinion the athletic park was a suitable central location, if the association would consider selling a portion of their property. There was considerable discussion and no agreement was reached. The trustees will confer further with the public school inspector

Plans were made to repair the fence surrounding the athletic park, also to add some new seats for spectators. The caretaker was instructed to have the power lawn mower repaired.

The usual celebration of May 24 and official opening of the baseball and softball season were discussed, with details left in the hands of the entertainment committee

Len Watkins Leads

Len Watkins led men in the Mercantile Bowling League this week at Duffus' with a single of 335 and triple of 768. Best for girls in trios was Helen Francis with 695 and Lenore Lee topped them in singles with a 268 effort. A & P went best for teams with 3078 pinnage.

Shutout victories were marked by Crowe's over Neill's, Austin's against Bond's, and Prudential over Braund's No. 2, as 3-1 wins went to Loblaw's over Braund's No. 1 and A & P against Utilities.

The standing has Loblaw's with 71 points, followed by Braund's No. 1 with 63, Utilities 62, Prudential 58, Austin's 54, Crowe's 53, A & P 51, Neill's 33, Braund's No. 2 with 30 and Bond's with 25.

Allow Players To Wear Gloves

By The Canadian Press.

The Ontario Amateur Softball Association at London Friday ruled that all players will be allowed to wear gloves. Previously only catchers and first basemen wore them. An unlimited size cleat on softball shoes also was agreed on—the maximum previously being ⅜ of an inch.

Minor teams—bantam and peewee—will be able to use a smaller ball, not less than 10⅞ inches or more than 11⅛ inches in circumference. Approval was given to introduction of two new series to aid softball in small communities. They are intermediate D and junior D for centres of under 500 population.

Doug Smith of Toronto was re-elected president and Frenk Feaver, Hamilton, secretary. Among those elected to the executive were J. G. Brady, Oshawa and F. R. Stewart, Grimsby Beach.

Flanagan Wins Narrow Victory

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP). — Del Flanagan held a victory over Arthur King of Toronto today but it was one he shouldn't brag about.

The back-pedalling, side-stepping St. Paul welterweight won a unanimous but very close 10-round decision before 1,734 fans at St. Nicholas Arena Friday night.

It was a dull, drab, foul-packed fight most of the way that brought boos from the fans.

Flanagan fled from the aggressive Canadian through most of the fight, jabbing at the right eye of his incoming rival By the fifth King's right eye was half shut and by the end of the eighth frame it was tightly closed. Then Del opened up a little.

In the 10th, desperate L'il Arthur crooked a left hook to Flanagan's jaw and a left and right to his head that opened a cut over and under Del's right eye. Flanagan said the gash was caused by a butt. King had been warned by referee Harry Kessler for butting and low blows.

Flanagan was warned to stop holding and heeling. King said his eye puffed because Flanagan constantly rubbed a glove over the optic.

The votes, all for Flanagan, were: referee 5-4-1; judge Harold Barnes 5-4-1; judge Bill Recht, five rounds for each but seven points for Flanagan and five for King. The A.P. card had it even, 4-4-2.

Pigeons Get Lost With Game Results

VENTURA, Calif., April 12 — (AP)—An experiment to fly baseball results via racing pigeons appeared today to have been a fouled-up idea.

The plan was to send inning by inning details of an exhibition game between the Ventura and Fresno teams of the California League from Ontario, 100 miles away, to a radio station here.

The station hoped to compile the details for a re-created broadcast for Ventura fans Friday night using the pigeons in lieu of Western Union's missing facilities, due to the country-wide strike.

But by broadcast time, seven hours after the game began, only one bird had put in an appearance —and he bore tidings of the second inning.

What happened in the first, or the other seven innings, remained undetermined.

Volunteers Put Out Norwood Chimney Fire

NORWOOD, April 12 (ENS)— What might have proven to be a disastrous fire was brought under control by a few volunteer helpers with the use of extinguishers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W .H. Giffen Friday morning, when their chimney caught on fire. The chimney was damaged and the house had some smoke damage.

Belleville and Cobourg clubs have applied to the local Girls' Softball League for entry. No word yet from Lindsay lasses. Junior Woollens may not return, but three Peterborough squads are pretty sure entries, Outboard Marines, Ashby's and Westclox—though, if the latter give up their franchise, Burtol's are expected to take it over, Prexy Bill Flint advises. All of last year's teams are being contacted early next week, and the re-organization meeting has been set for 7.30 p.m. Thursday in the Y.M.C.A. Officers elected at that time, entries taken, and plans made for the season, which opens next month.

Doug Gillespie returns to senior "A" lacrosse as playing coach of the revamped Owen Sound Crescents in the O.L.A. Jerry Johnston, Dundas coach last year, goes to Owen Sound help Gillespie, and he takes along Norm Shortridge and Jack Platt of Dundas. Some of the other Crescents' possibilities, Bun Morganson says, are Tony Capula, Stu Scott and Onions Smith, as well as regular resident players of that town. Looks like an eight-team setup with a shorter schedule between teams lying further apart and more tilts worked among the closer centres. Annual O.L.A. meeting is in another week, and the senior schedule should be drawn up shortly.

Hermann Meets Zorra

Hans Hermann and Zorra the French Tarzan go in the main pro mat bout here Tuesday. Hateful Hans and rough Hi Lee took a most doubtful team decision o'er Zorra and Lu Kimm here last time out, but the Frenchman feels he can handle Hans himself, so the match was made. Twice in recent weeks, the villains of the piece had to run for it to escape angry fans after the top bout, so 'tis time these matmen behaved themselves and cut out the illegal stuff. Hans is one of the worst offenders. Warren Bockwinkle meets Strangler Bob Wagner in the semi-final, while newcomer Herb Larson is pitted against big Bill Stack in the prelim of the card.

Detroit Wings more or less fluked a 3-1 win o'er Canadiens in Montreal to open Stanley Cup finals. Got one goal with McNeil down on the ice, another on a screened shot and the third on an empty net with the goalie pulled too soon. P.A. announcer gave the "one minute to play" when there were two minutes left, and Irvin pulled his goalie. Lindsay promptly shoved one into the yawning cage. This pulled goalie business backfires so often, eh? Gets us how mistakes by the clock, the timers or the announcer can creep into Stanley Cup playoffs in big cities. Such errors occur occasionally up this way, but you expect more in the major hockey league towns. Next game is tonight in Montreal and then they head for Detroit.

Ashbee Proved Fastest

Don Ashbee won the puckists' skating race at the arena on Thursday night and the Max Swanston Trophy, with Red Robinson a close second, followed by Bob Thorpe and Red Creighton—a guy who has been nudging 39 for several years. The hockey-playing Timbermen lacrossers took an 8-5 exhibition over the provincial police—proceeds going to the P.M.H.A.—but the law won over the refs by giving both of 'em a 10-minute penalty for interfering with a player! The fans loved that, and now we realize how come you sometimes see a "holstein" car in a non-parking zone. An exhibition of lacrosse on skates rounded out an entertaining evening put on by Don Smedmor & Co.

Guess we've got to dig out the long woollies again. Thought hockey was o'er here till next fall, and that the ice would be out of the arena this weekend. But, no, Toronto Lyndhurst Motors have rented the rink for their O.H.A. senior "B" series with Stouffville Clippers, and that's no April Fool joke! Walt Smillie arranged it, and the Lyndhursts will play their home games here Monday and Friday. First of the best-of-seven is in Stouffville tonight—Clippers having erased the Petes to advance. They also have the Wednesday tilt at home. But there'll be senior "B" playoff action between these two Toronto teams here Monday and Friday at 8.30 of the clock. So, there it is, puck fans, if you want to see provincial semi- finals.

Branca Finds Fans Forgive And Forget

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP) — Ralph Branca, who threw the famous home run ball that decided the 1951 National League pennant, says he's happy to find baseball fans are not like elephants—they do forget.

"I thought I'd get a terrible riding this spring," the big Brooklyn righthander said today. "Instead, I found the fans—not only down in Florida but all the way up on our trip home—very understanding.

"They hardly got on me at all. They're either fine sports or they don't hold it against a guy for just one pitch. There was little or no ribbing from the stands. I was surprised."

Branca served up a three-run homer to New York Giants' Bobby Thomas in the ninth inning of the decisive playoff game last year. The blow sent the Giants into the world series against the Yankees.

Tillsonburg Wins Basketball Championship

TILLSONBURG, April 12 (CP) —The town went wild Friday night.

Jerry Livingston's Tillsonburg Basketball Club won the Canadian senior championship and this town of 5,000 people revelled.

The 4,000 fans who packed the Tillsonburg arena saw the Livingstons down Winnipeg Varsity Grads 55-54 to take the best-of-five series three games to one.

Winning the title was the "greatest thrill of my life" for Jerry Livingston, but he gave full credit to his boys.

It was triumph too for 24-year-old Paul Thomas, youngest coach to ever win the championship.

Just about the proudest boy in Tillsonburg today is Red Curren. He scored the winning basket for the Livingstons with only a minute and a half left in Friday night's game.

The win was the second taste of glory this season for Tillsonburg's Bob Simpson, a member of the Ottawa Roughriders football team that won the Grey Cup in Toronto last November. Simpson was selected for the all-Canadian football team.

Blames Shooting

Winnipeg coach Jack Carmichael blamed the Grads' foul-shooting for their loss.

"We just didn't seem to have it at the last of the game," he said "In fact we havn't played a good game all series, including our win Monday night."

Leading the Tillsonburg attack Friday night was Harry Wade with 18 points. Carl Ridd paced Winnipeg with 16.

The Livingstons took an early lead in the first quarter, but Roy Williams led the Grad attack and narrowed the score. A free throw by Ridd with only 40 seconds left put Tillsonburg ahead 16-13.

The Livingstons forged ahead again in the second but the Grads, again paced by Williams tied the score 23-23. Winnipeg moved into a 26-25 lead, but it was short-lived. Simpson and Thomas connected with baskets. Williams caught a free throw but Thomas and Curren put Tillsonburg ahead 31-27 at half time.

The third quarter was uninspired as both squads battled for points and it ended with the Livingstons still in the lead 44-34

Scrambled For Points

The Grads, with 10 minutes left for them to keep their title hunt going, scrambled for points. A one-hander by Ross McCallion tied the score 52-52.

Thomas and Ridd exchanged free throws, then Bill Coulthard popped in another convert with less than three minutes remaining

Another scramble, and Ridd slipped one in to put Winnipeg ahead 54-53. Ridd and Jack Willett fluffed free throws, both costly for the Grads

Then Curren sank a rebound toss and the winner with a minute and a half left. Ridd had a chance to tie the score on another foul shot. It hit the rim and bounded out.

In the last minute of play the Livvies waived three free throws in favor of their precious point and held on to the ball until the final gun.

Team Captain Suspended

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 12 (AP).—President Tom Lockhart of the Eastern Hockey League said Friday that Joe Desson, captain of New Haven Tomahawks, is under automatic suspension as the result of an attack upon referee Mike Slowik in a game between the Hawks and Johnstown Jets here Thursday night

Asked if that meant a lifetime ban on the veteran defenceman, a native of Niagara Falls, Ont., Lockhart said "it could amount to that."

Lockhart said Desson has been suspended for receiving a game misconduct penalty for plunging Slowik head-first into the boards.

Desson, arrested by police after the affair, had a breach-of-the-peace charge continued in New Haven court until April 18. He is free on $500 bail.

Lockhart also said that any repetition of Thursday night's barrage of debris from the fans in the fifth game of the E.H.L. championship playoffs, in which the Jets lead New Haven 3-1, would result in "immediate forfeit of the game and the series to Johnstown."

Here And There In Sports

By The Canadian Press

Ken Gee, Wigan Rugby League Club's international forward, said Friday he has no knowledge of any offer to play in Canada. He was commenting on a report in a Toronto paper that he has accepted terms to go to Canada. He recently took over the management of a hotel in Wigan, Lancashire.

General manager Branch Rickey of Pittsburgh Pirates Friday night reinstated southpaw pitcher Bill Werle, suspended indefinitely and fined $500 April 3 for breaking rules. The fine will stand.

Reg Coleman of Hamilton and Jim Stinson of Bradford, Pa., tied for first place with 988 Friday in the annual Indian shoot at the Hamilton Gun Club. Archie Bowie, St. Catharines, and Tom Allen, London, topped Class D snipers with 86.

Browning Ross, 27-year-old postman from Philadelphia, ran 15 miles Friday in one hour, 25 minutes and 41 seconds to win the annual Firestone War Veterans' road race at Hamilton. He was almost three minutes ahead of Luther Burdell, also of Philadelphia. Ray Martin, Toronto, was third.

Canadian troops in the Far East are going to be brought up to date on Canadian sport. Four sports commentators will leave Vancouver by air April 25 on a two-week tour of Japan and Korea to give illustrated talks to the troops on major events of the last year. They are Douglas Smith of Montreal, Henry Viney of Calgary, William Good of Vancouver and Tom Foley of Ottawa.

Bob Christenberry said Friday at New York that champions should defend their titles against the No. 1 contenders and within a six-month period. The chairman of the State Athletic Commission said: "If a man dodges a worthy opponent, I don't think we should let him fight."

Dick Mayer and Skee Riegel, each in his third year as a pro, tied for the first-round lead in the $10,000 Greensboro, N. C. golf tournament Friday with four-under-par 67s.

Chicago's Town Club's team bettered the world 400 yard women's indoor swimming and diving championships Friday at Daytona Beach, Fla. A Danish team set the previous record, 4:05.7.

Britons cut down their gambling by an estimated 50,000,000 pounds last year. The Churches Committee on Gambling estimated Friday that Britain's get-rich hopefuls invested 600,000,000 pounds on horse and dog tracks, football pools and fun fairs in 1951.

The annual Ontario C.C.F. convention at Toronto Thursday went on record against boxing as too brutal a sport. Delegates supported a resolution declaring that a C.C.F. government will see its athletic commission maintaining the closest watch on professional and amateur boxing regulations.

A talented group of boxers from Ottawa carried off six of the 10 titles at stake at Sudbury in the Eastern Ontario boxing championship tournament Wednesday

Guelph Edges Montreal In 7-6 Triumph

GUELPH, April 12 (CP). — Guelph Biltmores won the third game of the best-of-seven series of the Memorial Cup playoffs 7-6 Friday night with Ron Stewart pacing the attack with a pair of goals.

Guelph took the game, but only after Canadiens whittled down a five-goal lead. Montreal was trailing 6-1 when the Canadiens began a scoring attack which brought the 4,250 hometown rooters to their feet The Montreal crew rapped home four scoring shots during the first 12 minutes of the session; three of them while Guelph was shorthanded

But a Montreal penalty gave Guelph a chance to regain command of the play and the Bilts scored again. A minute later, Montreal started its upsurge again and netted their final count to make it 7-6. They removed their goalie in the final minute of the game in a desperate effort to force an overtime period. But a stiff Guelph defence staved off the six-man Montreal attack.

Other Guelph marksmen were Andy Bathgate, Harry Howell, Ron Murphy, Chuck Henderson and Billy McCreary night. They earned berths in the all-Ontario Olympic trial finals at Toronto later this month. Sudbury boxers were successful in three finals. Heavyweight honors went to big Nick Shoppoff of Sudbury by default.

Sqdn. Ldr. Tony Golab, 33, one of Canada's all-time football greats, has been appointed commanding officer of the R.C.A.F. station at Hamilton.

New York Giant outfielder Willie Mays will have to report for induction into the armed forces May 17 as ordered, selected service officials said Thursday. The 20-year-old Mays had claimed he is the chief support of four of his nine brothers and sisters but officials said he didn't meet requirements for dependency deferment.

Hermann Accepts Challenge Of French Tarzan

Zorra the French Tarzan will tackle hateful, arrogant Hans Hermann in the main wrestling bout next Tuesday evening in the Brock Arena. The speedy and muscular Frenchman, with the flying feet, demanded a crack at the towering Teuton, following that wild tag team bout here Tuesday when Hans and Lee took a doubtful deciding fall over Zorra and Kimm.

Emerging from this brawl as the strong ones on each side were Zorra and Hermann, and a bout between this pair is a mat "natural" for the fans. Hermann will require all his strength and rough tactics to hold his own against the popular and versatile Tarzan of the ring.

Warren Bockwinkle, who made such a hit with the fans in his bout with Brazil, tackles rugged Strangler Bob Wagner in the semi-final. Bockwinkle demonstrated that he is one of the best matmen in the game, showing plenty of speed, science and the ability to stand up under rough going. He'll need all this against Wagner.

Herb Larson, making his first appearance in a local ring, clashes with Bill Stack in the opener.

Wings Take Opener 3-1 Time-Clock Causes Fuss

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL, April 12. (CP)—Detroit Red Wings, favorites over Montreal Canadiens in this best-of-seven Cup final, have the first game already stowed away. The Wings took Thursday's opener 3-1, a game highlighted by confusion resulting from an erratic time-clock. Good Friday was no holiday for the Red Wings. They had an hour's brisk workout at the Forum. Canadiens took a rest. The Wings went into the series after a nine-day lay-off, awaiting the winner of the Boston-Montreal semi-final. It took Canadiens seven tough games to get past the Boston Bruins.

In the first period Thursday night the Wings looked sluggish, a little off the necessary tempo for world series hockey. Canadiens missed golden opportunities. On other assaults on the Detroit nets, Goalie Terry Sawchuk snuffed out the goal bids.

Goalie Gerry McNeil of Canadiens also put on a commendable show, and this series may yet come down to a steady battle of goaltenders.

Couldn't Be Blamed

Tony Leswick, Detroit's alert little wingman, scored two of his team's goals. Neither could be blamed on McNeil.

The third came near the end of the game, after McNeil had been taken from the nets and just before the full force of the time-clock schemozzle had erupted. Ted Lindsay lifted the puck into the open net.

Leswick's first goal, in the second period, came while McNeil and his two defencemen were sprawled on the ice. Leswick pounced on the loose puck and flipped it in.

In the third period, Leswick let go with a long drive, just inside the Montreal blue line, and the screened shot whipped into the net. Four minutes later, Tom Johnson rapped in Canadiens' lone goal, from just outside the crease, after Sawchuk had blocked Bert Olmstead's shot.

Embarrassing Moments

The time-clock business is still an embarrassing subject to all concerned. Timekeeper Cappy Lane of New York said the clock was not correctly marking the minutes and that caused confusion in the second period when a penalty time was wrongly announced.

Lane said that, as insurance, stop-watches were also used in the final period. The announcement was made of the "final minute," but the big time-clock ran another full minute.

The muddle caused coach Dick Irvin to pull Gerry McNeil from the net a full minute before he would otherwise have done so. After Detroit's third goal, shot into the open net, McNeil was sent back—and the game still ran a minute and 16 seconds. Then the automatic siren sounded and the period-end green lights flashed automatically

Much Criticism

Those censuring Lane said he should have used the manual device to set off the signals, if he were sure the game had gone 20 minutes by the stop-watches. And he should also have consulted referee Bill Chadwick.

There was censure of Chadwick, too, for accepting the "last-minute" information and then not doing something when the clock went spinning along for another 60 seconds

Lane blamed the mechanism of the clock, or some tinkering with it by an electrician between periods. He said the stop-watches were correct and that the period actually ran 21 minutes, but that in the confusion at the time he thought perhaps his own calculation by the watches had been wrong.

Cattle Prices Lose Early Gains In Week

OTTAWA, April 12 — (CP) — Early gains of 50 cents to $1 on eastern cattle markets were wiped out during the week and western centres closed 50 cents to $2 lower than last week, the Agriculture Department reported in its weekly livestock review.

Toronto had 7,340 cattle, all fresh recepits, up to Thursday's close. The heavier run, coupled with a much slower beef movement, more than wiped out early gains of 50 cents and $1. Steers and heifers were $1 below Monday, with the close on choice steers $26-27, good quality going for 24.50-25.50, and good heifers at 24-24.25. Choice fed yearlings were cashed at 26-27, good cows 19-21, and 19-21 for good heavy bulls. The week's holdover on Thursday evening was 300 cattle.

Montreal traded 1,566 cattle. Good and choice steers were mixed at 27-28.25, mediums made 24-26.50, medium heifers 20-26, good cows 21-23, canners 10-15, good bulls 20-22.50, a few 23.

Winnipeg weighed 1,350 cattle Choice light steers were taken at 25.50-26, but choice heavies could only 25-25.50. Good lights were at 24-25, good heavies 23-24.50, good heifers 23-25, good cows 19-20, good bulls 18-19.50.

Hog prices were only fractionally changed at a couple of centres where a firmer tendency was shown.

Toronto remained at its previous level of 26 for Grade A hogs and 16 for sows dressed basis. Montreal was at the same figures —GradeA 26 and sows 16 dressed Winnipeg hog market showed little more firmness, Grade A selling up 25 cents at 24.75 and sows dressed, at 13 and 14.

Toronto held a steady pace at 30 to 31 for good heavy lambs, had some common to medium kinds between 15 and 28. Montreal had only a few sheep on sale between 10 and 22.

Find Montreal Ahead In Population Race

OTTAWA, April 12 — (CP). — The metropolitan area of Montreal has a greater population than the metropolitan area of Toronto.

The Bureau of Statistics, issuing final 1951 census figures for metropolitan areas, reported on Thursday that Montreal has a population of 1,395,400 and Toronto 1,117,470, a difference of 277,930. The figures covered the cities and their suburbs. The population of Montreal proper is 1,021,520 and of Toronto 675,754.

The populations of major urban areas in Ontario included: Brantford 52,231, Guelph 30,387, Kingston 49,237, Kitchener 63,009, Peterborough 41,191, St. Catharines 67,064, Sarnia 41.303, Sault Ste. Marie, 40,490, Sudbury 70,884.

James A. Nickle

MARMORA, April 12—(ENS) —The funeral of James A. Nickle took place on Thursday afternoon and was one of the largest to be held here in some years. His many affiliations occasioned representation from a wide area. St. Andrew's Church was filled to capacity for the service which was conducted by the pastor, Rev. George D. Young, B.A., B.D.

Burial took place at Zion Church cemetery, North Marmora. The pall-bearers were Charles Kelly, George Fox, Ed. Robinson, Beryl Carman, George McCann and Bert Hagerman.

Forest Fire Threat

BOSTON, April 12 (AP).—The forest fire threat has reached the danger point in many parts of Massachusetts, forestry director Raymond J. Kenney said today. Firefighters battled more than 100 fires in scores of Bay State communities Friday. Kenney said that Cape Cod has had no rain for 19 days, and that the woods there "are drying out fast."

Capra Denies He's Retiring

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, April 12—(AP) —Frank Capra, one of Hollywood's most famous directors, denied printed reports that he is retiring from the screen.

The director, who is noted for such hits as "As It Happened One Night" and "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," has been reported as having put Hollywood behind him for the easy life at his ranch at Fallbrook, Calif.

"No, I'm not retiring," he said, when asked to comment. "I finished up my deal at Paramount and I'm going to take it easy for about a year. But I'm not giving up pictures. As a matter of fact, I'm working on some scripts right now."

Capra has made four pictures since returning from the army. None of them has matched the brilliance of his pre-war films . . .

Just Corn.

This week's award for honesty in advertising goes to the Los Angeles theatres which showed a Ma and Pa Kettle film and a Judy Canova effort. The ads said frankly: "America Loves Its Corn." If such honesty continues, you might see ad lines like this:

"Quo Vadis — "More gore than ever before."

"Detective Story"—"Kirk Douglas blows his top again."

"A Streetcar Named Desire"—"A screwball and a slob meet in the French quarter" . . .

Movie Misses

It's fun to think about lost opportunities. For instance, nearly every studio in town could have had "Streetcar," but they turned it down because of censorship fears. Warners took a chance.

On the other hand, Warners owned "The African Queen" for a long time (Bette Davis was eager to do it.) The studio gave it up and now others are making a mint from it. Warners also passed up "Broken Arrow," and 20th-Fox made it a hit.

M.G.M. owned the rights to Jim Thorpe's life for years, but did nothing about it. Warners finally made the film. And M.G.M. also relinquished the Zapata story to 20th-Fox. David Zelznick once had the rights to "The Greatest Show on Earth". I understand Cecil B. DeMille has made a film along those lines.

Starr Plans To Seek P.C. Nomination

OSHAWA, April 12 — (CP). — Mayor Michael Starr of Oshawa said Friday night he will seek the nomination as Progressive Conservative candidate in the May 26 Federal by-election in Ontario riding. He was narrowly defeated in last November's provincial election.

A riding convention to name the candidate has been scheduled for next Friday in Whitby. The by-election was called to fill the seat vacated by Walter Thomson, the Leader of the Ontario Liberal Party.

Bitten By Lion

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP). — Oscar Konyots, 45-year-old trainer, was bitten by a lion Friday night as he performed before some 12,000 circus spectators at Madison Square Garden. Konyots suffered a laceration of his left forearm and was taken to hospital. Circus officials said he probably will appear as scheduled today.

Fashion Show Versus Tractors

The subject of tractor maintenance may encounter some distraction from the girls' fashion show at the meeting of Peterborough Junior Farmers, Tuesday, April 15 at the Normal School, at 8.30 p.m.

According to the program, Glen Stark will be chairman of the young men's section at which Mr. R. G. Gregg, fieldman for the agricultural engineering dept of O. A. C. discusses tractors and what to do if anything ails them. At the same time, the girls' topic, with Miss Elaine Savigny as chairman is: "How and What To Wear" along with the fashion show, of which Miss Amy Curtis is going to be commentator.

The fashion show might have some of the answer to that problem of recent years about "keeping them on the farm," even if eligible young men are primarily concerned on occasion about the well-being of tractors. Little rumors here and there intimate that the weeding out of bachlerhood among Junior Farmers of the area is likely to continue in the not too distant future, and about the same rate as in the last year.

Miss Marilyn Barnard and Mr. Keith McIntyre are in charge of along with the fashion show, for recreation period when tractors and spring raiment have served the early aprt of the evening. Parents and friends of the Juniors are invited to this affair. Another date for the little book is the Junior Farmer Formal at Club Aragon April 25.

Norwood Enjoys Lakefield Play

NORWOOD, April 12 (ENS)— A well-filled hall greeted the three-act comedy farce "Here Comes the Prince," presented by the Young Adult Society of the Lakefield United Church and sponsored by the Norwood L.O.L. 34, held in the Norwood town hall Wednesday evening.

Before the play started and during intermission, Mr. and Mrs. David Nixon and Mrs. Walter Rodgers provided music on the piano, violin and guitar. Candy was sold by the ladies. Lunch was served to the cast by members of the L.O.L. Lodge. Taking part were: Harry Wannamaker, Bette Millage, Jean Millar, Mayne Grylls, David Spence, Ralph Millage, Lois Kellar, Shirley Graham, Eileen McCracken, the Rev. W. H. Tonge and Garnet Graham.

Nine Fatalities Reported Over Holiday

By The Canadian Press

Easter has brought death so far to nine persons in Eastern Canada.

As thousands of Canadians were on the move in the first long weekend of the year, five were killed in traffic accidents and four in other mishaps.

A Canadian Press survey early today showed that eigh' persons were killed in Ontario and one in New Brunswick between Thursday evening and midnight Friday.

Mary McClelland, 4, of York Mills, near Toronto, was fatally injured in a fall from her father's moving automobile. She managed to open a door unnoticed and struck her head on the pavement.

A carload of young men—some of them servicemen coming on Easter leave from Camp Borden —rammed into the rear of a truck 20 miles south of Barrie, Ont. James Milne, 27, an airman from Vancouver, and Raymond Dickson, 27, of Barrie, were killed.

Two Die In Accidents

Two persons were killed in separate accidents near Cooksville, 15 miles west of Toronto. Murdo Graham, 37, of London, Ont., died in a two-car crash, and an unidentified man stepped in front of a bus.

Norman (Corky) Hill, 28, one of a family of well-known rivermen at Niagara Falls, Ont., was killed in an accident on a construction job. He gave up the river as too dangerous after his brother, William (Red) Hill, Jr., was killed trying to go over the Falls in a rubber-tube "barrel."

Near London, Ont., 13-year-old Peter Westman was drowned when the canoe in which he was riding with friends capsized in a diversion channel of the Fanshaw Dam.

Leonard Cooper, age 7, was killed at Minden when a rifle in the hands of his brother accidentally went off.

Another boy, Gerald Albert, 8, of Edmunston, N.B., died when he fell into a well in the back yard of his home. It had been cleaned and left uncovered.

Missionary's Needs Dazzle Storekeeper

OTTAWA — (CP) — Hardware merchants are used to all sorts of odd requests but petite Pat Styran, 23, threw a curve the other day that startled one dealer.

Pat ordered a galvanized bathtub, 12 padlocks and a police whistle. And that was just the start of her list of household necessities for a four-year stay in Africa as a missionary. She leaves this month for Nigeria with financial support from Calvary Baptist Church here.

She will be out of touch with a store for some time so her stock of clothing includes a dozen pair of shoes, 24 new dresses, eight nightgowns, 18 pairs of stockings and a pair of mosquito boots.

Pat will take along some household goods too, among them a folding bed and deck chair, and, of course, the galvanized bathtub.

A use for the padlocks isn't hard to imagine. But the police whistle stumped everyone. Pat says that is to summon the natives who she hopes will help operate a small hand grist mill which rounds out her list of essentials.

Stock Market Investors Take Week Calmly

By DICK BAIDEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto stock market investors took Finance Minister Abbott's budget and the approaching Easter holiday with an almost unruffled calm this week as four sessions of trading produced few substantial changes.

With the exchange closed from Friday to Tuesday, the unusual book balancing before a long weekend created only a small flurry of activity and little price change.

Taxation changes affecting automobiles, household appliances and soft drinks, announced in the federal budget found limited reaction Thursday. Ford A shares gained $2.50 following the 10 per cent special tax reduction and General Steel Wares climbed $1.50 Orange Crush stock strengthened slightly.

Trading continued briskly with daily volume averaging about 4,250,000 shares. A growing list of secondary golds, particularly junior producers, competed with western oils for speculative attention. Industrials, however, showed activity only in selected leading issues.

Few Early Changes

Toronto opened the week Monday with few early changes. By the close, however, golds had bucked a sharply weaker market to post a broad list of gains, particularly among secondary issues. Papers and industrials eased in Montreal.

Toronto prices closed with little change Tuesday despite moderate noon strength. Papers continued to slip in Montreal but

One of the nicest of Easter customs is the making of colorful Easter baskets. After they are finished, the children can fill them with candy, cookies or flowers, and then hang the baskets on doorknobs of favorite friends and neighbors. Everybody has a wonderful time, and a charming precedent is established for years to come.

For Parents Only

Making Plans For Easter Which Include The Family

By NANCY CLEAVER

"In this brown seed, so dry and hard,
I see a flower in my door yard,
You, chrysalis in winding sheet,
Are butterfly all dainty sweet,
All life is warmed by
Spring's sweet breath,
And Christ our Lord has conquered death."

Agnes W. Storer.

Little children are puzzled by long words like "Resurrection" and "Immortality." But they can watch with wonder and delight the sprouting of a seed; the butterfly coming out of his coccoon!

Parents know that some time during their childhood, their son or daughter will be confronted by the death of a loved older relative or some one he knows. Easter can help prepare a child for this difficult experience.

Any thoughtful father or mother finds it hard to explain the mystery of the passing of an individual from this world to the next. But it is the wise parent, who at Easter time, tries to put into simple words the Christian's faith in immortality.

To the early Christians the egg was symbolic of life after death. They rejoiced in the Resurrection.

For centuries peoples of many lands,—Egyptians, Romans, Persians, Greeks have practised the art of coloring designs on eggs. Some of these patterns were very ornate. This year many New Canadians will recall childhood scenes in far away countries as they color the traditional designs of their race on Easter eggs.

Boys and girls of junior age love handcraft. Do let them either blow eggs or hard-boil them and color them. The sets of vegetable dyes which may be purchased at a grocery store for icings etc. are useful.

Junior can use his paint box or set of poster paints. Special packages of dyes for Easter eggs have detailed directions. Spread out newspapers on the kitchen table and floor, and keep an eye on the dying process, so you can come to the rescue if needed.

Ask your librarian for a copy of one of the delightful little folk tales about the Easter Rabbit. This legend can be traced to an old German superstition that White Hares laid eggs on Easter Eve as a special gift. Good children looked for colored eggs or candies from this mythical Easter Bunny.

Making candy is a big thrill for either a boy or a girl. There are some very simple recipes in every cook book. Some busy mothers even resort to the "Icing Mix" packages which have recently appeared on the grocery shelves. Why not plan to let your child make his own candy treat during the Easter holidays? If you dampen an enthusiasm for cooking at an early age, it may not reappear later!

New clothes as an Easter custom goes away back to the reign of Emperor Constantine in Rome. He arranged Easter religious processions and decreed that everyone should join in, dressed in new garments.

With the high cost of living, new clothes for Easter are a bit of a problem in a home with several children. This is a good time to point out at a family council that the money for clothes in the family budget must stretch to meet the needs of all the members of the family.

Parents as well as children must have their wardrobes replenished from time to time.

Jokes are made about a child's "Sunday best." But this custom is part of making Sunday a special day, set apart from week-days. It does children, as well as adults, good, to dress up to attend church.

"Man looketh on the outward appearance, but God looketh upon the heart," the Bible says—Both are important in a child's anticipation of attendance at morning worship with his parents as a happy, satisfying experience.

Easter is one time when all thoughtful people are grateful for the witness of the church to things spiritual in a materialistic world. It lies with parents to see to it that it is a festival with a real meaning for their children.

At Easter Christians rejoice, not only at the return of Spring, but at the belief in life after death. Even as Christ rose again from the dead on that first Easter morning, we know that we too and those we love, will live on after this life is over. We echo Charles Hanson Towne's "Easter Prayer."

"Show me that Thou art April, Lord,
And thou the flowers and the grass,
Then, when awake the soft spring winds,
I'll hear Thee pass!"

Buckhorn W.I. Names Members

BUCKHORN, April 12—The annual business meeting of the Buckhorn W.I. was held in the community hall Tuesday. A report of the Unitarian Service work carried on in Greece, in which all institutes had a share, was read.

A play by the Young People of Lakefield is to be put on in the hall May 6th. Life membership pins are to be given to all members who have been in this institute for at least 20 years and four could qualify for them.

Committees were appointed to make arrangements for the play, banquet and quilting.

For the election of officers for the coming year Mrs. S. Wood was appointed chairman and Mrs. W. Pearson secretary.

The new officers are: president, Mrs. T. Mason; first vice president, Mrs. N. Ross; second vice-president, Mrs. T. Gordon; secretary, Mrs. W. Pearson, treasurer, Mrs. S. Wood; organist, Miss Mary Nicholls; press reporter, Mrs. McPhee; district director, Mrs. S. Wood; directors, Mrs. Reeves, Mrs. N. Windover and Mrs. McPhee.

W.M.S. Holds Easter Meet At Millbrook

MILLBROOK, April 12 (ENS)—The Easter Thank-offering meeting of St. Andrew's United Church W.M.S. was held on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. H. R. Edmunds.

Members of the Golden Link Mission Circle were guests. In the absence of the president, Mrs. R. Matchett, Miss Estella Hetherington conducted the service which had as its theme "Easter Gave Us the Bible." Miss Augusta Clarry was at the piano. Those who assisted with scripture readings included Mrs. David Lunn, Mrs. H. R. Edmunds, Mrs. John Ridge, Mrs. John McKnight, and Miss Mary Widdis.

The Rev. A. M. Butler spoke briefly on the Easter theme. He told also that St. Andrew's share of the fund for the new United Church training school being built in Toronto would be $280. He said that a project was being planned by the committee incharge to hold a "Canada Night" on May 1st when each of the various organizations of the church would be responsible for one item on the program, or for a booth showing the work of the church among newcomers to Canada, among the French Canadians, the work among Indians.

Yvonne Richards and Anne Dawson gave the vocal duet "He Lives" accompanied by Miss Hetherington.

Miss Gertrude Clarry, Mrs. John Ridge, Mrs. John McKnight and Miss E. Hetherington assisted the hostess in serving refreshments.

Lakefield Minister To Speak At Hastings

HASTINGS, April 12 (ENS)—Easter meeting of the Evening Auxiliary was held in the Sunday school room. The president welcomed members and visitors and in opening read a verse "How much shall I give?"

The Rev. W. H. Tonge of Lakefield will speak at the May 13 meeting. A letter was received from missionary Constance Wagar in Trinidad.

On May 13, the Auxiliaries from Norwood, Westwood, Roseneath, and the Anglican and Presbyterian churches here are to be invited to hear Mr. Tonge. Commitee will be Mrs. Cliff Scriver, Mrs. G. Thompson, Mrs. A. Thompson and Mrs. W. Thomas.

A donation of $10 was voted to the training school fund.

Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe invited the Auxiliary to her home for the June meeting, committee to be Mrs. J. Baker, Mrs. S. Bonds Jr., Mrs. F. Crate, Mrs. H. Young. The worship was taken by Mrs. E. Oliver, assisted by Mrs. R. Burnham, Miss J. Lamb and Miss M. Scriver.

A group from the choir, Mesdames J. G. Thompson, E. Hess, J. R. Jones, A. Thompson and C. Scriver sang "Hallelujah. What a Saviour." A duet "In the Garden With Jesus" was sung by Mrs. E. Hess and Mrs. J. G. Thompson.

The Rev. N. Cole spoke a few words and pronounced the benediction.

He was appointed to his present position January 19, 1949.

'Take What You Get' Tea Held At Warsaw

WARSAW, April 12 (ENS) — Easter meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held Tuesday afternoon in the Sunday school room with the president, Mrs. Dyson, presiding. The topic for the day was "Easter Gave Us The Bible." Scripture verses were read by Mrs. Bolt, Mrs. Hazel Payne, Mrs. William Darling, Miss Clara McCracken and Mrs. Edwards.

Mrs. George Taylor was in charge of the programme which consisted of a duet by Lulu Payne and Doreen Little; Miss Clara Payne read extracts from a letter she had received from her niece who is in South America. Mrs. Pratt gave a reading "My Mother's Bible," and Mrs. Dyson sang a solo.

An interesting feature was the Take What You Get Tea which was served by Mrs. Dyson and her daughter at tables which had been previously arranged with each persons name on their plate along with the five articles they had chosen.

Tests To Be Secret

MELBOURNE, April 12 (Reuters)—British atomic-weapon tests to be made in Australia this year will be the most secret ever held in the western world. Even prime minister Robert Menzies will not be allowed to attend as an observer, the Canberra correspondent of the Melbourne Argus reported today.

Dollar Climb Cuts Profits On Newsprint

TORONTO, April 12—(CP) The high position of the Canadian dollar is cutting into the price which Canadian companies get for their newsprint, D. W. Ambridge, president of Abitibi Power and Paper Co., Ltd., said in effect at today's annual meeting.

The improvement of the Canadian dollar [illegible] terms of the American dollar [illegible] a serious matter for companies which export their products to the United States and who are paid for them in American funds.

"As a concrete example of this: On July 1, 1951, we were getting $123.40 Canadian funds in New York for a ton of newsprint. On April 4 we received $113.39, although the price of newsprint in New York in U.S. funds was the same ($116) on both dates. Anyone can see how serious this will be if it continues."

Mr. Ambridge said demand for newsprint "continues at a very high level both in the United States and in the free world, and our newsprint mills are operating at full capacity." On the other hand:

"Demand for pulp and boards in the United States and the rest of the free world now can easily be supplied by the producing capacity available on this continent and elsewhere, due to both a slackening of demand and to recent increases in capacity.

"Demand for fine papers in Canada has slackened in some lines and backlogs of orders in the hands of producers are significantly smaller.

"Altogether, the future is very obscure. . . ."

Tom Gard's Note Book

Some months ago I handed out a tip as to how one might antique an old picture frame. This must have aroused considerable interest for the matter has continued to pop up from time to time. It is a pleasure to repeat the formula.

TO ANTIQUE A PICTURE FRAME

Old picture frames, heavily ornamented with deep carvings are ideal for the purpose. In applying the glazing fluid the trick is to brush it on evenly, then wipe off immediately by working from the centre towards the edges, or removing it from the high points of the carvings. A light coat of varnish gives the finishing touch.

BEDROOM SCREEN

We have a new neighbour on our street. He turns out to be quite handy with tools. His first job after moving in was to construct a fine bedroom screen using B.C. Fir Plywood, and when finished he started to construct a second one for his sister, but this time he utilized scrap wood from packing cases. It is a question which is most attractive.

BIRD FEEDING STATION

A naturalist friend has constructed a bird feeding station from an old piano seat, the top being of glass to permit full view of the birds. An old coffee table might serve the same purpose. He endeavoured to impress upon his visitors that the closed end should always face the prevailing wind as this prevented the feed from being blown away.

STRETCHER FOR SOCKS

Necessity is the mother of invention, so my friend George turned a coat-hanger into a stretcher for socks. To make it more attractive he gave it a coat of enamel by simply dipping it in the can and then hanging it up to dry.

AROUND THE HOME

TO ANTIQUE AN OLD PICTURE FRAME
BRUSH ON AN "ANTIQUE GLAZE," COMPLETELY COVERING THE SURFACE - THEN WIPE IT OFF IMMEDIATELY, EXCEPT THE PORTION THAT NATURALLY REMAINS IN DEPRESSIONS.
IF DOING LARGE OBJECT, SUCH AS A TABLE, DO A PORTION AT A TIME, ENDEAVOURING TO SECURE A UNIFORM SPREAD.

RECIPE FOR GLAZE
1 TABLESPOON OF CLEAR VARNISH
3 TABLESPOONS OF PURE TURPENTINE
1½ TEASPOONFULS OIL COLOUR RAW UMBER
ADD MORE OR LESS OIL COLOUR FOR A DEEPER OR LIGHTER ANTIQUE. STIR THOROUGHLY.
IF IN DOUBT CONSULT YOUR LOCAL PAINT MERCHANT.

Paint Styling To Old House Can Achieve Amazing Result

A new house should be styled to suit its architecture and to be in harmony with its surroundings. But it is in the field of old houses that paint styling can achieve the most amazing results. Here are some ideas to be applied in styling a re-painting job:

Study your house carefully. Does it seem to be too high for its length? Paint the roof a dark color. Dark rooms seem to sink lower to the ground.

If the house has shutters, paint the shutters of the upper story the same color or tone as the roof. This will visually bring the roof line lower as the eye will travel to the bottom of the dark shutters. Paint the remaining shutters the colour of the body of the house.

Does your house have a roof line cut up with too many gables? Everything about a many-gabled roof should be dark. Nothing should stick out in color. No dormer. No stacks. No chimneys.

The longest and straightest lines on a many-gabled house are the lines nearest the ground. Feature the front door. Feature the shutters on the lower floor only—so that the eye does not unconsciously lift above the first floor, but is held at the point where the lines are longest.

Do the dormers in your house project too much or not enough?

Dormers can make a small house seem larger by being painted on their faces the color of the side wall of the house, thus carry the side wall color up into the roof and giving the appearance of additional height. Dormers on a tall house should be painted the dark roof color, making the house seem lower.

Is your chimney wall the protruding type that is visible from the outside, as it comes from ground to roof? If so, is it too large for the size of the house?

Large chimneys are large at their base, if anywhere. To appear smaller, they should be painted the same color as the body of the house. They will blend with it and their size will not be noticed.

Do protruding chimneys of your house seem too small and weak looking? The same rule for blending the chimney with the house applies to smaller chimneys.

Window openings of different sizes should be painted the same color as the body of the house. Otherwise they will disturb the unity of its overall shape.

Shutter Help

Where a color accent is needed to lower the roof line or to draw attention to the first floor, shutters help to achieve this result.

If shuttered windows are of various sizes, remove all smaller shutters and leave only those of the large and more uniform size.

A dark, warm colored door on a light colored house . . . or a light, cool colored door on a dark house give a welcoming note.

These are just a few of the things "Paint Styling" can do for your house. The tools you use are dark colors and light colors. You must remember that light colors always help to make things look larger. Dark colors help to make things look smaller. Warm colors . . . reds, oranges, yellows, yellow-greens . . . seem to bring things toward you. Cool colors . . . blues, violets, blue-greens, blue-grays . . . seem to push things away from you.

Roofs, more often than not, suggest the color plan that should be developed around your dwelling. It's wise, however, to consider the tints and tones that appear on adjoining houses if you don't want a continual neighborhood battle of colors. If you have no near neighbours, then it is merely a matter of your own personal reference.

Colors For House

If you have a gray roof, your house will look well if the body of it is painted soft yellow, oyster white, pale green, light gray or a pinkish beige. White, cream or gray will go beautifully with these as a trim.

As for shutters or doors, here are some of the tones that will set off these combinations: blue-green, dull blue, lettuce green, coral, yellow, rust, turquoise.

If your house has a green roof, white, cream, gray or pale green will be effective as a body color, set off with a trim of white or cream. For accent colors on shutters and doors, you can use the blues and blue-greens to good advantage—also, various shades of gray, straw color or some of the rust tones.

If your house has a reddish roof, you'll be wise to choose sand color, cream or gray for the body and cream or white for the trim. With these tones you will find that dull blue or rust and brown tones will serve you well for your shutter and door colors.

Buff, cream and white will look well as body colors with a brown roof. These call for cream or white as the trim color and old blue, Verdigris green or russet tones for doors and shutters.

HOUSE NO. 60-18—Since pioneer days the one-storey Colonial cottage has been a favorite with Canadian home lovers. Its snug, friendly lines are equally appealing in frame, brick, stone or stucco. Pictured above is a sparkling white clapboard home nestled on a corner lot. Here we find a traditional exterior, but a room arrangement atuned to today's living. See how the combination of living and dining rooms has eliminated the "boxiness" so common in many small homes. The huge fireplace serves as a point of interest for both areas. Closet space is plentiful throughout the house, and the two bedrooms are well spaced for privacy. Trim and shutters are green, and the asphalt roof is of autumn shades of brown. The house contains just under 20,000 cubic feet.—For working drawings write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Norwood WMS Meets At Mrs. D. Paxton's

NORWOOD, April 12 (ENS)—The Easter meeting of the Evening Auxiliary of the United Church W.M.S. was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. Donald Paxton, Pine St., with Miss Lila Kirk, vice-president, in the chair.

Mrs. Stanley Flett, who is on the committee for the "New United Church Training School" campaign fund, gave a report on this.

Mrs. John McConnell, leader of the group in charge of the worship service, gave a reading on the theme "Easter Gave Us the Bible," followed by a prayer. Scripture readings on the crucifixion and resurrection were given by Mrs. Russell Gardner, Mrs. Irwin Warren, Mrs. John Loughton, Mrs. David Hall, Mrs. Jack Stewart, Mrs. Allen McNab and Mrs. H. R. Atkinson.

These were interspersed with Easter hymns accompanied by Mrs. Rork Ferguson on the harp. The Easter thankoffering was then taken and dedicated, and Mrs. J. McConnell gave the closing benediction. A vote of thanks was then given to Mrs. Paxton and to Mrs. Ferguson for her music and all those taking part in the program. Lunch was then served by Mrs. McConnell and her group.

Slight Earthquake

Victoria, B.C., April 12 (CP)—A A light earthquake shock was felt in Victoria yesterday. No damage was reported.

St. Paul's W.A. Holds Easter Meeting

COLDSPRINGS, April 12 (ENS)—The W.A. of St. Paul's Church held their Easter meeting on Wednesday.

Mrs. Jack Gordon, convener of the program, presided.

There were 18 members present. Mrs. Carl Bowman read the minutes.

The sunshine committee appointed were: Miss Ileen Gibson, Mrs. Leslie McIntosh and Mrs. Clifford Timlin.

Mrs. C. Brooks read a poem, "A Man on the Cross." The devotional topic, "The First Memorial Easter," was ready by Mrs. N. McIntosh and prepared by Mrs. R. D. P. Davidson. Mrs. Ford led in prayer. Mrs. C. Minifie sang a solo "Alone," accompanied by Mrs. P. Harris.

The topic, "In the Church" was given by Mrs. E. Jamieson. Mrs. A. Jamieson gave a paper, "I am He who liveth and was dead, and behold I am alive for evermore."

The meeting concluded with a bird contest conducted by Mrs. E. Jamieson and won by Miss E. Hoskin and Mrs. J. Fields.

Lunch was served by Mrs. J. Gordon and group.

Quilt Competition Planned For Norwood

NORWOOD, April 12 (ENS) — A meeting of a special committee Mrs. C. A. Copp, Mrs. Frank Andrews, and Mrs. Gordon Parker, met and drafted plans for a quilt project to be open to all Women's Institutes in Peterborough county. Prizes will be awarded for color scheme, workmanship and design.

The committee is anxious to make the women's division of the Fair a bigger success than ever this year.

Pleads Innocent

SANTA ANA, Calif., April 12 (AP)—Edward G. Robinson Jr., 19-year-old son of the actor, pleaded innocent Friday to two bad-cheque charges. His trial was set for May 26. The amount involved is about $145. Young Robinson claimed he had reimbursed the recipients. The cheques bounced during the period he was in the parental doghouse because of his marriage to actress Frances Chisholm.

'Copter Services

LONDON—(CP)—An air survey of London's 1951 Festival of Britain site has been completed as part of a plan to use the Thames south bank for inter-city helicopter services. Officials think the service may one day be the cheapest form of travel.

MURDERER SUES PUBLISHER—Elias Meek, 21-year-old Cornwall murderer sentenced to be hanged June 10 for the knife-slaying of his employer's wife, has brought suit against a United States publishing company and its Canadian distributor for $100,000. The suit charges injury to Meek's character and to his trial by reason of an article in the magazine, Inside Detective, published previous to his trial. Meek has been granted a stay of execution pending appeal of his conviction.

Mrs. Wesley Petherick

NORWOOD, April 12 (ENS)—The funeral of Mrs. Wesley Petherick was held Thursday afternoon at 2.30 p.m. from the McConnell-Warner funeral home, Norwood, with the Rev. R. G. Newman, of Havelock United Church, officiating. Burial was in Maple Grove cemetery, Havelock.

Mrs. Petherick died Monday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Albert Elliott, R.R. 3, Hastings, following a lengthy illness.

She was the former Mary Ann Gray, born in England 72 years ago. Mrs. Petherick spent most of her life in Belmont township in the vicinity of Rush Point.

Pallbearers were Harry Petherick, Donald Petherick, Lyle Petherick, Charles Petherick, Albert Elliott, Cecil McMillan.

Flower bearers were Charles McConnell, Gordon McConnell, Charles Davidson, Ned Keating, Robert Hiller, Erol Main. Out-of-town friends and relatives were Mr. and Mrs. Erol Main, of Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. George Gray, Robert Hiller, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Petherick, Stanwood; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Petherick, Petherick's Corners; Mrs. John Dewey, Campbellford; Mr. Robert Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Hill and children, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McConnell, all of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ackerman, of Belleville.

Plan Atomic Plant

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission announced Friday it is planning a new $1,000,000,000 plant to produce uranium-235, a key atomic substance in war or peace. Sites in the Ohio river valley are being studied, it said.

Deputy Minister Speaks To Lions

MILLBROOK, April 12 (ENS)—A. J. Carroll, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, was the guest speaker at the dinner held by the Lions Club in the waiting-room on Monday evening. The subject of his address was his trip to Britain this year when he accompanied prie-winners in Canadian plowing matches.

Mr. Carroll was introduced by Leonard Henderson and Melville Wood expressed the group's thanks to the speaker. The address was given at the Lions' annual agricutural night dinner. Each Lion club member is asked to bring as his guest a friend who is a farmer.

Pauline Drope, of Harwood, gave her speech on "The Cow" which won first place in the last provincial public speaking contest for public schools.

It is singularly fitting that the earth should celebrate its awakening from Winter with a glorious pageantry of bud and blossom when we, of Christendom, celebrate the miracle of the risen Christ. It is fitting, too, that we brighten and beautify our homes---rejoice in the warmth that brings new green and growth to our gardens--- and array ourselves in new clothing in response to the primal urge of Spring.

But it is in our hearts that Spring and Easter work the greater magic by fulfilling the eternal promise of hope renewed. It is a time of remembering Him who conquered death that we might have this hope. On Easter morning let us enter His House and give Him our gratitude and our love. Be one of the worshipping throng. COME TO CHURCH ON EASTER!

The Easter Promise

Arise, O Heart! Fling high thy praise
This ever-glorious day of days
Which God hath given to men.
Sing heart and soul with one accord
In joyful thanks to Christ the Lord,
Who died—yet rose again!

Though troubled be our earthly life,
Beset with envies and with strife,
This day thy faith renew—
For when He burst that rock-bound tomb
And rose in splendor from its gloom,
For thee, He triumphed too!

As spring's redeeming, fragrant breath
Brings life anew to wintry death,
So stands His Promise, still.
And all His blessings He shall pour
Upon the earth for evermore—
When men obey His Will.

Let every organ, every voice
In mighty harmony rejoice
This blessed Easter-tide.
His Peace shall vanquish all our fears,
His rich compassion dry our tears,
If He but be our Guide.

James Allen, D. O.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

PROPERTY REVALUED

Sarnia will complete in June reassessment of all property in the city.

HIGH WATER

Pigeon Lake is now the same level as Sturgeon, due to the spring run-off. The dam between the two at Bobcaygean which normally causes a considerable fall of water from Sturgeon Lake into Pigeon is merely like a boom now, with water rushing across it unhampered by damming.

JAYCEES AID TOUR

Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Speaker's Bureau conducted W. S. MacDonnell on his tour of city schools in conjunction with National Wild Life Week. Jaycees on the tour were: Al. Tingley, Ken Billings, George Hutchison and Doug. Vaisey.

SYRUP ON MARKET

First offering from the rural production season of 1952 on the market this morning was maple syrup. Several farmers set up their shiny new cans early. Market looked as if in its George St. location might line up a lot of trade today.

CONSTABLE MACKAY REPORTS

Constable Donald Mackay reported to the Police Commission Thursday on his recent visit to Ottawa, to observe the system of school safety patrols in operation there. He is planning on introducing the same scheme here. Right after Easter, he will begin safety lectures to students at Queen Mary School. The commission authorized the purchase of white safety harnesses and raincoats for the patrols suggested by constable Mackay. Mayor Hugh Waddell congratulated constable Mackay for his "fine report and initiative in getting started so soon."

TAG DAY APPROVED

At its April meeting Thursday, the Police Commission approved an application from the Peterborough RCAF Air Cadet Squadron to hold a tag day April 26. April 20 to 26 is Air Cadet Week and the local group which operates under the Peterborough wing of the R.C.A.F. asked permission to hold the tag day which it said will be practically its only source of revenue. In approving the request, the commission suggested that the organization find some other means of raising money, as Magistrate W. R. Philp said it is not the commission's policy to grant a similar application every year, as tag days are becoming too numerous.

SAM STUART

Still Going Strong At 91 Sam Stuart Of Pioneer Stock

By DON GRANT

Tell Sam Stuart, 16 Inverlea St., a good joke, give him a springy jig with a good square dance caller and he'll live until he's a 100 years old. Recently the stocky son of early Cavan township pioneers celebrated his 91st birthday. Mr. Stuart is made of the same stuff that helped his grandfather, John Stuart, cross from Ireland in 1815 and begin his trek into the farmlands of Ontario.

That hardy settler with his family worked his way from the New England States, across to the Welland Canal and finally reached his journey's end in York with his brothers.

Grandfather Stuart later that year became one of the first five settlers in Cavan township, arriving there at approximately the same time as John Deyell.

There in 1861, young Sam was born on the farm along the first line of Cavan, two miles west of Bailieboro.

Started Own Farm

Reasoning that "there's no money working for the other fellow", Mr. Stuart struck out on his own on a farm in Harvey township in the early nineties.

He recalls that a trip to Peterborough in those days meant getting up at 3 a.m., hitching up the team to the wagon, and riding the 20 miles to the town. It also meant late hours arriving home.

This isolated life lasted a year and he moved closer to Peterborough, to a farm near Buckhorn where he stayed five years. Then he moved again to the ninth line of Emith where he sold out in 1903.

For a time Mr. Stuart worked with the Dickson Lumber Company, now the Peterborough Lumber Company. Driving a team across the country throughout the Peterborough district, Mr. Stuart recalls many a winter's fun in the lumber camps.

Sold Out At 72

Later he turned to farming again, first in Dummer, along the Dummer road, and finally near Keene, selling out when he was 72.

Since then Mr. Stuart says he's been "just fooling around".

As far as Sam Stuart is concerned there's nothing better than a square dance. The tall, well-built man first learned his stepping at a dancing school during a winter in the woods at Young's Point.

Mr. Stuart recalls that once a week for two winters a George Scrimgeur taught dancing in the small village. About 50 people attended each night.

Referring to the modern dancing, Mr. Stuart claims "they don't keep time to the music now".

Another favorite past-time of Mr. Stuart's was driving a car. Late in the fall of 1917 he bought his first car and until three years ago drove everywhere.

With a bright sparkle in his eye Mr. Stuart is always ready for a joke. He explains it simply with "I like fun".

Will he live to be 100?

"I'm sure going to give it a try."

Near Tragedy Ends Honeymoon

Bride, 21, Suffers Shock, Cuts, As Car Flips Over

An Easter honeymoon in New York City ended in a near tragedy Friday night for a Lakefield couple when their car went out of control and rolled over several times a mile-and-a-half south of the village on Highway 28.

A truck driver's perverted sense of humor is blamed for the crash which sent Victor Ward, 21, and his 21-year-old bride of a few hours to the hospital on their wedding night.

Ward, who is recovering from severe shock, told police he tried several times to pass a light truck travelling ahead of him as he drove towards Peterborough.

Each time as he would get even with it, he said, it would speed up. Then, when he would drop behind, he said it would slow to a snail's pace. After trying to pass the half-ton truck several times, Ward said he became annoyed and speeded his car up. This time the truck would neither let him pass or let him drop in behind.

Car Flipped Over

He applied his brakes, and tried to skid back behind the truck on to his own side of the road. His car then went out of control, weaved from side to side on the highway, then flipped over and after overturning several times, came to rest on its wheels crossways on the highway.

Mrs. Ward was unconscious when occupants of cars in the wedding party travelling behind the bride and bridegroom reached them and pulled them from the wrecked car.

An ambulance rushed Mr. and Mrs. Ward to Civic Hospital in Peterborough. Several stitches were required to close the facial cuts she received in the accident and her condition is described as "fairly good" today. She is also suffering from shock and several bruises and scrapes about her legs.

After being treated for shock and bruises, Victor Ward was allowed to leave hospital, as he had received no apparent serious injury.

Truck Stops

A light truck of the type described by Ward stopped at the scene of the accident and occupants of the other cars in the wedding party travelling behind confirmed Ward's story of how the truck driver prevented him from passing.

The driver was questioned at the scene and provincial police indicated after the accident that a charge is likely to be laid in connection with the accident.

After being married in Lakefield United Church at 2 p.m. by the Rev. W. H. Tonge, a wedding reception was held at the Empress Hotel. After returning to Lakefield, the Wards set out on their honeymoon trip to New York which ended a few minutes later in the crash that sent both newlyweds to hospital.

OPP Constable Harold Armstrong is investigating.

Normal School To Get Fresh Coat Of Paint

A paint job started during the war years at the Peterborough Normal school has been started again. A Peterborough paint contractor has been awarded the work which will include parts of the interior and exterior of the building.

The rooms and hallways receiving the new coat of paint were not done when the job was first started. The new contract includes completing the painting.

There is no definite color scheme for the rooms. In some cases the colors have been chosen by the Normal school masters.

Work has begun on the interior while the exterior will be done later this term.

Ideas From Afar

LONDON—(CP)— Letters from two British Army men serving in Singapore were among those reaching a "staff suggestions" box at a local railway station. Officials said "if it is possible for men in Singapore to send ideas, it should encourage men at home."

A NEW YORK HONEYMOON ended just south of Lakefield for Victor Ward and his bride, May, Friday night when their car (above), gaily decked with "just married" signs and wedding streamers overturned several times on Highway 28. Mrs. Ward (below), pictured with her husband after they were married in Lakefield in the afternoon, spent her wedding night in hospital recovering from shock, facial cuts and bruises. Her husband also suffered from severe shock and was released from hospital after being given out-patient treatment.—(Wedding Photo by Duke Studio)

Last 7 Words Of Jesus Theme Of Service

The last seven words from the cross were the theme for the three-hour community service held in All Saints' Anglican Church Friday afternoon.

These seven words were the last words spoken by Jesus when he was crucified.

"Father, forgive them for they know not what they do.

"Today thou shalt be with Me in paradise.

"Woman, behold thy Son! Son, behold thy mother.

"My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?

"I thirst.

"It is finished

"Father, into Thy hands I commend My spirit."

The following ministers each gave an address on one of the seven words: the Rev. William Leaton of Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church; Major Douglas Sharp of the Salvation Army; the Rev. A. A. Mathews of George St. United Church; the Rev. Ivan C. Morgan of Murray St. Baptist Church; the Rev. H. G. Douglas of Knox United Church; the Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon of Trinity United Church; the Rev. M. P. Poole of All Saints' Anglican Church.

Mr. Poole conducted the service.

Special music was provided by a combined choir of members from the various churches under the direction of George Chandler, choirmaster at All Saints' Anglican Church. The organist was Miss Margaret Flower.

The service was under the auspices of the Peterborough Ministerial Association.

Marked Muskrat Carcass Put In Trap Hyjacker Tripped Up, Jailed 10 Days

Angered at having his muskrat traps pirated, a Keene trapper hit upon an ingenious scheme to catch the pelt hijacker, and it worked.

In police court Thursday, O.P.P. constable Thomas Armitage explained how James Kempt placed a marked muskrat in a trap as bait and caught William Robertson of Keene, whom he suspected had been looting his traps.

This is how it was done. Kempt marked his initials on a piece of wood and placed it inside the mouth of a muskrat carcass. Then, he pierced both the muskrat's ears and left it in a trap on his trap line.

Some time later when he visited his trapline again, the muskrat was gone.

Carcass Identified

A visit to Robertson's house, in company with provincial police produced the evidence. Kempt identified the carcass.

If Robertson was surprised when he was confronted with the evidence of the pierced ears and initialed stick, he was dumbfounded when Magistrate W. R. Philp after listening to the evidence with keen interest, sentenced him to 10 days in jail.

Robertson pleaded guilty to the charge but from the look of surprise on his face when sentence was passed, he had apparently not taken the matter very seriously.

There Are Rackets That Bloom In the Spring, Beware!

Watch out, chum. Take a firm grip on yourself and keep right on going. That chic young lady with the tooth paste ad smile approaching you with a pad and pencil may have spotted you as an "easy mark."

If you're a fellow who is willing to take a friendly word of advice, you'll just keep on walking and not look sideways.

However, if you're still not convinced that an attractive appealing dish like this one could be mixed up in any nefarious scheme stop and see what she wants. Then, after you've shelled out a few hard-earned bucks for a 20 year subscription to the latest publishers' prize package, start figuring out how she talked you into it.

About this time of year, sharpers start polishing up on their rackets and begin looking for soft hearted citizens who will fall for their super-smooth high-pressure sales talks and before you can say "sucker," you, my friend, have been taken for a ride.

If really happens, too, and right here in Peterborough. A Downer's Corners man came close to losing $50 the other day but the city police department swooped on the culprits and he recovered his money.

Fast Sales Talk

Two young ladies (didn't we warn you?) approached him on the street and gave him a fast sales talk to get him to subscribe to a service magazine.

The magazine was authentic and the two girls were authorized agents. But, the man was a little hard of hearing and his eyesight was also poor, and he signed his name twice, once to a receipt, and once to a cheque for $50.

He had bought a subscription to the magazine for more than 80 years.

He bought the magazine for his son who was in the navy, and he thought he was signing a receipt and would be billed later for $2 or $3. After the transaction was completed, the man called at his bank (the girls had conveniently inquired if he had a bank account and where, "to establish his credit") and was informed that a cheque for $50 had been cashed on his account.

Old Enough

A hurried call to the police department followed. The girls were spotted in a restaurant and at the police station they admitted cashing the cheque, but coyly explained that they had told the man what the cheque was for and that they certainly believed he was old enough to know what he was doing. The money was handed over and both young ladies left town in a hurry at the "suggestion" of the police.

Men are not the only victims of racketeers. Another type of pocket-picking scheme that is usually tried on women who live alone was pulled off successfully at least once a couple of weeks ago in the city.

Two men called at a house on Harvey Street. One doffed his hat to the lady who answered the door, and started convincing her that her chimney was not only a dangerous fire-trap but so rickety it was liable to fall apart brick by brick. His companion unhooked a ladder from a shabby panel truck, used it to climb up to the roof and started dismantling the chimney.

By the time the woman had made up her mind whether she wanted the job done or not, it was completed. She was informed that she had just driven a good bargain by getting it done for $200. A contractor later said he could have done the same repairs for $40.

Spring rackets are as varied as they are crooked. Take this one for instance which was reported about a month ago. Detective Sergeant John Stevenson explains that it operated this way.

One man stopped another standing on a corner and asked for a "light." As he was handing back the matches, a third man approached dressed in bush clothes. He flourished a large roll of bills, informed the pair he had just been paid off after working in the bush all winter and inquired where he could have a good time.

The man who asked for the light then told the lumberjack he should not have so much money in his pocket. Why not put it in the bank he asks? The lumberjack replied he did not trust banks. The man who was asked for the match was then asked if he had any doubts about the safety of banks. In this case, the man replied that he had an account of his own, and the lumberjack then bet the first man $50 he could not draw $100 from the bank he had named.

Make $50

Believing this an easy way to make $50, the man insisted he could and the three went to the bank where the $100 was obtained. The man who asked for the match then insisted that all three go to his hotel room to exchange the money, as "it was dangerous with so many people watching."

At the hotel room, a card game was proposed. The man who had just won the $50 said he did not care to play, but by this time, the cards were being dealt and the first man who approached him asked for $5 so he could play as he had an excellent hand. Of course, the lumberjack lost, and lost a second time. The man who was winning, then got a real hand the third time, and suggested that the first man loan him all his $100 plus the $50 he had won in the bet as he insisted he could not lose. The lumberjack won, then magnanimously suggested that since he had won, he take the other pair, his accomplice, and the man who had been taken for $100, on a party.

As they were leaving, the lumberjack said he would leave all the money except a few dollars in the room under the pillow and return for it later. Then, the man who had lost at cards suggested to the "sucker" that he take the key to the room. "I'll keep him busy for awhile," he suggested, as they were leaving the hotel, "you return, get the money and we'll split half and half."

When the man returned to the room, there was no money under the pillow. He did not see the lumberjack nor the other man again, and is still looking for his $100.

Board Plans To Rent Auditorium

Original Intention Stays In Spite Of Possible Lawsuit

The Board of Education are going ahead with their original intention of renting Queen Mary Auditorium to the Summer Theatre Group. This is in the face of strong indications that legal action may be taken against them by one or more nearby residents.

In March the board were informed that a Toronto legal firm, representing a Peterborough client, were of the opinion that by renting the auditorium the board had gone "far beyond its powers and rights."

The Toronto legal firm said the board are vulnerable on the grounds (a) that the performances are a legal "nuisance," and (b) the auditorium is being used contrary to the zoning bylaws of the city.

The matter was referred to the supervision committee of the board for consultatoin with the board's solicitor T. J. Carley, QC.

Thursday night this resolution was passed unanimously by the Board:

Already Committed

"That Mr. Carley be instructed to reply to the letter of (the Toronto legal firm) stating that the board has already committed itself for the use of the premises by the Summer Theatre for the summer of 1952; but will do all in its power to avoid causing any inconvenience to residents of the neighborhood."

At the same time the board authorized Mr. Carley to draw up a contract for use of the auditorium with Michael Sadlier, the director. The terms will be substantially the same as last year.

Last year an objector to the operation of the Summer Theatre was C. L. Upper, 602 Hopkins Ave.

There was some indication that an injunction might be taken out against the Summer Theatre on the grounds of "nuisance". The board made some changes to try and eliminate complaints of nearby residents: a parking restriction bylaw was passed by city council, performances were ended earlier so the noise of departing patrons would not annoy early sleepers, and stage settings were delivered and put together away from the sight of residents; Sunday noise was also curtailed.

In the end no legal action was taken.

Students Keen On Conservation Expert Finds

After speaking to more than 3,000 children in Peterborough elementary schools, William MacDonnell, secretary-manager of the Canadian Forestry Association of Ontario, Thursday afternoon wound up a four-day visit here promoting conservation.

Mr. MacDonnell was brought to Peterborough by the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association as part of their activities during wildlife week.

Climax of the conservation education-campaign will be an essay contest on the subject "Protecting Our Wild Life".

"We've certainly been delighted with the interest shown by the school children," said Mr. MacDonnell. "The teachers and educational authorities have been most co-operative."

He said the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association were estimating that they would get as many as 1,000 entrants in the essay contest.

Well Organized

"A lot of credit must go to the Association for working out the details," he said. "Cam Rowatt, chairman of the Association's educational committee, has done a particularly fine job."

Besides the more than 3,000 school children, Mr. MacDonnell spoke to 250 adults, and attended 20 other meetings—all devoted to the theme of conservation.

He warned one group of scouts about the danger of bush fires started by carelessness and found that he had some apt pupils. One sharp-eyed lad saw his father try to stamp out a cigarette butt by a single grinding motion of his heel. The lad called his father's attention to the cigarette. There was still some spark of fire left in it.

The result: a temporarily embarrassed father, but a good lesson in fire prevention.

Film Show

During their tour of the schools Messrs. MacDonnell and Rowatt showed a film entitled "Our Forest Heritage", They also handed out booklets on the protection of birds (printed by the Peterborough Nature Club), on the conservation of wild life, and the prevention of forest fires.

The essay contest is open to elementary school pupils in the city, in Grades 5-6-7-8. Entries must be in by April 30, not more than 200 words in length, and based on the knowledge gained by the pupil during the conservation program at his school.

Essays will judged 50 per cent for grammar and composition, and 50 per cent for conservation value. Prizes will be awarded for the best essay in the contest, regardless of grade; and for the best two entries in each grade.

A complete list of rules and regulations, governing the essay contest, will be given to each teacher.

LAST YEAR'S, MY DEAR?—Katy and Betty Weaver, twins, are only 11-months-old, but the young girls display all the hauteur of two Park Avenue debutantes as they eye each other's Easter bonnets. Give them a couple of bouncing baby boys from down the street, and a four-passenger baby carriage, and they'll be all ready for the Easter parade.

Easter Assures World Not Abandoned By God

God didn't make the world and then abandon it.

That is the assurance we get at Easter, the Rev. Maurice P. Poole said Thursday at the weekly Kiwanis luncheon.

"But the lesson of history is that however we build our civilization it must be based on God," said Mr. Poole. "Otherwise that civilization goes out of existence."

Mr. Poole chose as his subject "On What Are You Building?"—a reference to Jesus' parable about the man who built on rock rather than shifting sand.

"What everyone needs to realize is that if his house of character is going to stand, it must be built on God. When you are building your house be sure you build in on something solid."

Too often we "build" on ourselves, he said. Even in our prayers we think of ourselves first—uttering a "catalogue of complaints and wants".

Duty To God

It is not sufficient to help others, to be kindly or to be what is generally known as a "good Samaritan". Besides our duty to our neighbor there is our duty toward God. The spiritual aspect must not be neglected.

"Christianity is ourselves belonging to God," said Mr. Poole.

As an example of this spiritual obligation Mr. Poole took the story of Joseph, whom Potiphar's wife tried to tempt into adultery.

Joseph did not decline these advances because (a) he had been told to do so by his parents, or (b) he philosophized that if everyone acted as he did civilization would be impossible. Yet both these arguments would be valid. Instead Joseph declined, said Mr. Poole, saying: "How can I do this great wickedness and sin against God?"

Three Rules

Mr. Poole laid down three precepts:

1. Education is not enough. To the so-called "three Rs" a fourth must be added: religion. Even the U.N. had been disappointing, he said, because it lists religion as one of the 10 chief reasons for differences among nations. And in the U.N. skyscraper there isn't a room alloted for meditation or prayer.

2. There are no values apart from God. Jesus saw men as individuals, not as swarms of humanity; he was not just a "good man" but the one who died for our sins—the ultimate recognition that man depends on God.

3. Civilization is doomed unless it is built on God. Our present civilization which, presumably, we will hand on to our children is a "civilization of gadgets". Our accomplishments with gadgetry is the only difference between our civilization and that of the peoples of the Eastern hemisphere.

"Twenty civilizations have gone before ours; unless we build on God ours will fail also," said Mr. Poole.

Mr. Poole was introduced by Dick Raine and thanked by the Rev. B. S. Morwood. President Walter Howell was in the chair.

'Holy Week' Topic At Roseneath W.A.

ROSENEATH, April 12 (ENS)—"Holy Week" was the subject of the address given by Mrs. T. S. Coyle guest speaker at the Anglican W.A. meeting. The speaker urged her listeners to "walk with Christ and think seriously" and said "it was idiotic to smile under some circumstances." In conclusion she said, "Accept peace and receive the special gift that Christ brings."

The meeting was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James Webb. The president, Mrs. Ray McCracken, presided. The scripture reading was given by Mrs. William Robins.

Included in the correspondence read by the secretary was a letter from the diocesan secretary regarding the 66th annual meeting to be held at Christ Church, Toronto, April 29 to May 1.

Mrs. James Brown, treasurer, reported pledge fees and affiliation fees paid in full, and a balance on hand of $108.96. Mrs. W. J. Robins, E.C.D. treasurer, reported receipts $3.85. Mrs. Edgar Braithwaite, Sunshine convener, reported two boxes sent to the sick. Two fancy quilts were on display that were made by the members since the last meeting.

Gifts of food and clothing were donated by the members to be sent to England. Mrs. Hector Winkworth is convener of the parcel committee. Final plans were made for the play "That Watkins Girl," to be held on April 16.

Plans were made for the May meeting when the members of the society will entertain the members of sister societies in the township hall.

Lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Jack Webb.

Beef Cattle Producers Approve Floor Price

TORONTO, April 12 — (CP)—The president of the Ontario Beef Cattle Producers Association Thursday expressed satisfaction with the federal government plan to establish a floor price for beef.

"I'm happy about the proposal—it is the only fair thing," said Bert Warnica. He added that farmers had suffered a drop in price from a high of 37 cents a pound. The time now had come for all citizens "to help save the cattle industry."

A 25-cent-a-pound floor has been set for good steers at Toronto. It will vary in other markets and for other grades.

Labor-Company Showdown Lawyer Predicts

Each round of wage increases demanded by organized labor and granted by management hastens the day of a final showdown between two opposing trends, Robbert Carley told Peterborough Kinsmen Thursday night.

"A showdown is due and when it comes, I predict it can only result in a stalemate," said Mr. Carley, who is a partner in a well known Peterborough law firm.

In the last 50 years, the pendulum of power has swung far, Mr. Carley said. The Carnegies and other captains of industry who broke strikes and labor unions by importing foreign labor, could not survive today. Today, unions are in the drivers' seats, but Mr. Carley added "serious-minded people are asking, has the pendulum swung too far," and are there any limits to how far it will continue to swing?

Consumer Paying

To date, he said, most of organized labor's gains "have been made at the expense not of management nor or dividend receivers, but at the expense of the consumer."

In most cases, he said, wage increases to workers have been passed on to consumers by increasing prices. "But when the day comes that the public refuses to buy at existing prices, and wage increases can no longer be passed on, but must be absorbed out of profits, then management must either refuse labor's demands or relinquish its control."

The answer to this economic impasse will have to be a compromise and he suggested "more liberal profit-sharing schemes than we know now," as perhaps the most acceptable one.

ROMAN ORIGIN

The English words palace and palatial are derived from Palatine hill in Rome, traditional site of the founding of Rome.

WHAT? WHAT? WHAT?—Charlie, a proper English mouser, is surprised and indignant at being used as a steed by this tiny kinkajou. Quite irregular, you know. The little visitor from South America is wearing a knitted sweater against the rigors of the English climate. The two animals are pets of W. Taylor, manager of the Maidstone, England, zoo.

See Retail Cut In Cheese Price

LONDON, Ont., April 12 (CP)—Retail cuts in the price of cheddar and processed cheese were forecast Thursday by leaders in the dairy industry.

The reaction followed Wednesday's agreement at Belleville to a 31-cents-a-pound price for cheddar cheese.

Processed and cheddar cheese manufacturers, producers and dealers watched the Stratford Cheese Exchange today where the first lots of the product went under the block at the new lower price.

"We can't tell exactly what will happen," said George Kidd, secretary-treasurer of London Cheese Products Ltd., but he forecast that processed cheese (75 per cent of Canadian consmumption) would likely drop three cents a pound and more.

The cheddar cheese situation according to officials of the industry results from Embargoes on export of milk cows to the United States as a result of the foot-and-mouth disease. This is causing a huge surplus of milk in Canada.

Britain, one of the best outlets for the product, has announced it has no dollars to buy.

Lack of a floor price on the product. It was not known just how far down the price would go.

George Quackenbush Cemetery Caretaker

LAKEFIELD, April 12 (ENS)—George K. Quackenbush of Peterborough was appointed caretaker of the Lakefield Cemetery, replacing William Lloyst who recently resigned, at the annual meeting of the Cemetery Board held Wednesday in Memorial Hall.

Six applications for the position were received by the Board and some of the applicants were present for a personal interview.

Mr. Quackenbush will assume his new duties within a month and Lloyst will remain for a time to assist him.

Mr. Lloyst has been caretaker for the past eight years and prior to that was assistant to the late Alfred Higgins.

Chairman Bruce Fitzgerald presided for the meeting which was well attended.

As this was the annual meeting, officers were elected for the coming years as follows; chairman, Bruce Fitzgerald; vice-chairman, Erie Pearson; secretary-treasurer, George H. Spence. These officers were all re-elected. Committees are: property Stanley Rosborough, Wellie Pearson, Wilfred Nichols, Erie Pearson and Stanley Higgins; finance, J. H. Sherin, Theo. Crawford, Wilfred Nichols and George H. Spence.

Washable Neckwear Adds To Spring, Summer Clothes

Fashion is sticking her neck out this spring, and no wonder. There are more beguiling ways of dramatizing the neckline of a dress, suit or coat than any season has provided for many a year.

And happily enough, most of the enticing little neckwear touches are as safe in soap suds as you might wish them to be. Checkerboard-woven cottons, oxford cloth, nylon, linen, Swiss embroidered imports, pique and permanent tricot pleating all qualify for quick soap-and-water dippings.

You'll be personally pleased with this neckwear boom because it offers something interesting for every type. And fabrics are keeping pace with styling when it comes to variety.

ALWAYS welcome news is washable glove and ascot scarf sets such as this one. The patent leather bag can be cleaned with a soapy sponge.

If you are fond of sheer chiffon scarves tucked in at the neckline, this is certainly your season. Add a tiny nosegay of roses or a bouquet of violets.

Daring stripes in pull-through ascots are grand if you're a woman who loathes frou-frou. You'll like the tiniest curl of pique or linen outlining your new scoop necks. Other favorites this season are the nylon and nubby woolen stoles which wash so beautifully, and can be worn with spring suits now, and later with summer dresses.

Stock ties with their own built-in wing-collar points lend just the right note of daintiness when you are in the mood to look feminine but not coy.

The middy collar is important these days, too. Squared-off and deep at the back, it rolls in soft lapels and V-neck at the front. Bows are as big and dramatic or as small and sweet as the occasion calls for. Some of them are big enough to double for a blouse with a buttoned-up suit jacket. And they're not all made of pique or organdie by any means.

Bold-patterned taffetas are particularly effective set jauntily under the chin.

In addition to washability, which makes the new neckwear so easily adaptable to any number of outfits, most of the pretty spring 'extra touches' require a minimum of ironing care. Either they can do without the iron entirely, or require so little they present no problem at all.

These little furs, designed by Georges Kaplan, know no season. Girl (above) wears silver fox stole, worked like figure eight, with insets of red velvet. Mink capelet (upper left) is circular, is mounted on braid. Gray Russian broadtail jacket (upper right) has convertible sleeves and a lining of gay black-and-white checked taffeta.

Other small furs for Spring include starlight mink shrug jacket (lower left), the skins worked circularly to hug the figure. Versatile pouch stole (lower right) can be worn upside down for evening, the collar creating a peplum. Norwegian blue fox stole (above) has one end that can be worn as sleeve or unsnapped to lie flat.

Little Furs Add Glamorous Touch

There was a time when a woman, referring to her "furs," was talking about her fur coat and possibly a sedate set of furs that she wore about her shoulders in a rather settled fashion. That time is past.

Far from being "standard," the furs of 1952 take many forms. But the accent is on the little fur in any one of many designs. It may be a sleeveless ermine bolero, a shrug jacket, a "sweater," a stole scarf, a tiny mink capelet or a starlight mink spencer.

These are furs unlimited by time, place or climate. The little furs are worn morning, afternoon and evening.

In price, too, furs have become accessible to almost everyone When a woman can deck herself in a mink capelet at a price that's really budget, she's likely to do just exactly that. This is the year for the woman who's always yearned to own mink in some form.

Color-wise, furs long ago took to the rainbow. This year, the pale tones are stressed and something special has been added in the way of gay plaid and checked silk taffeta linings, sometimes co-ordinated with gloves and even hats.

Mission Band Program

OMEMEE, April 12 (ENS). — The Wide Awake Mission Band of Trinity United Church had their mothers as guests at their April meeting, for which they arranged a special Easter program.

President Homer Brooks was in the chair, and assistant secertary Eva Morrison acted for Edna Gladding who was ill. Thirty-one boys and girls took part in the program, which included a sketch by the boys, "The Gift Box," and an impressive Easter exercise by girls. The Misson Band purpose was quoted by the primary boys' and girls' group, and the entire band sang the Mission Band hymn. Recitations were "Spring Voices," by Barry Lang and "The Wisdom of April" by Judy Whetung. Nancy Robinson led in prayer. A special Easter offering was received by David Roose and Grant Hart and dedicated by Homer Brooks. The Mission Band Superintendent gave a brief talk on the Easter significance of the Worship Centre pictures and those of the flannelgraph scenery, relating them to scripture passages read by assistant leader Miss Grace Sibley. Mrs. J. A. McConnell was pianist.

Refreshments were provided by W.M.S. members Mrs. V. E. R. Zufelt, Mrs. V Lang, Mrs. R. Brooks, Mrs. H Deyell, Mrs. H. Lang, Mrs. S. Moyer and Mrs. M. Jones, and included a large birthday cake with candles, in honor of the president's eleventh birthday. Nancy Robinson moved a vote of thanks to the W.M.S. ladies.

2 Diet Advisers Open Office For Consultation

MONTREAL —(CP)—Two slim attractive dietitians have undertaken a venture believed unique in the Province of Quebec. They hope to trim down overweight people by prescribing individual diets.

Gertrude Bernard and Madeleine Le Blanc, both members of the Canadian and American Dietetic Associations, have opened an office in Montreal for consultations.

Until now the girls have held office hours in the evenings only, but Gertrude intends leaving her position as director of personnel with a Montreal firm shortly to concentrate on her work on a full time basis.

The girls, who work in close collaboration with their clients' doctors, also prescribe diets for large families seeking best nutritional buys for their food dollar.

Their greatest number of clients to date have been men.

Men Stick To Diets.

"We were surprised, but it seems that most men are anxious to lose weight," say the girls. "They stick to their diets more closely than women, too."

The dietitians make a complete case history of the food habits of each patient. They find out where a person eats —at home, or in a restaurant, whether he "nibbles" between meals, and other habits.

Then they prescribe the diet. This is followed for two weeks and then they check to see how much weight the client has lost. The diet is reduced or added to, depending on the patient's progress.

The girls do not believe in drastic measures where dieting is concerned. "If one loses weight too quickly," says Gertrude, "the skin gets flabby and there is nothing you can do about it.

Each diet they prescribe contains the requirements of the nutrional boards of the United States and Canada. Both girls have had hospital experience and claim "we have seen so many people hospitalized due to bad nutritional habits that we feel sure there is a field for our type of work."

London Shops Display Smart Headgear For Spring Wear

By MURIEL NAARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Come sleet, snow or shine, a new Easter bonnet has the same appeal for women as a decorated Easter egg for a child—or so it seems in Britain.

Among designs now on display, is a fashionable Watteau bonnet in fine, honey-gold Baku straw with flimsy face veil and trimming of mimosa sprays, calculated to give a light touch to a trim black town suit—and still look delightful with flimsy summer dresses.

Natural and burnt straws in rough weaves compete with smoothly sophisticated black, navy and white designs. Most important of the pastel shades are delicate greens and Dresden pinks—two colors worn by the Queen during her Canadian tour.

From Aage Thaarup, the Queen's milliner, come "teen and twenty" styles such as a shell shape in coarse, natural straw trimmed by a posy backed by wide velvet ribbon. Marguerites and roses are two of this year's trimming favorites among the larger flowers.

Thaarup's teen-age styles are mostly small and shallow. If brims exist they are brief, even on the trim straw boaters decorated by velvet ribbon. High-crowned white boaters are banded with emerald velvet.

Aside From Straw

Pique and grosgrain make a nice change from straw and some of the most effective styles have navy or black crowns of smooth straw supporting side-sweeping brims of white grosgrain, many of which are double and interlined with straw.

For the chic miss there are pretty gloves to match the pretty hats. Take, for instance, a black suede glove with deep cuff of clover-pink satin, matching the pink veil and crown button to a black mandarin straw.

The Edwardian boater in ice blue with blue eye veil, narrow black ribbon and trimming of black daisies, can be worn with blue chamois gloves, on the back of which is a central panel of black velvet ribbons that separate to cover the four fingers.

A Dutch cap in stiff grosgrain with the usual winged sides can be purchased in black, navy, chocolate, blue, pink and gold for as little as 19s. Combined with matching pique or cotton gloves, this little number is given added charm by embroidered daisies, sunflowers or marguerites that are also carried on the gloves.

One of the smartest of the smooth town styles is the flying saucer shape in fine white straw, the dropping sides of which are trimmed by two feather antennae. The shallow depth of the hat shows just the right amount of a new, up-swept hairstyle.

Easy Refreshments For Easter Parties

Easter parties are usually the casual kind that plan themselves.

Simple refreshments are always best to serve, particularly ones that can be prepared ahead of time.

Party spread can be made early, and in quantities large enough to last for several parties.

Combine various types of cheese, meat, fish, or poultry with pickles, olives and spices. These can be placed in bowls and everyone allowed to serve himself. Instead of a bowl, a grapefruit or onage-shell makes an excellent container for the filling.

Spread suggestions: cream cheese, finely minced garlic, salt and pepper and Worcestershire sauce; or cream cheese, mayonnaise and chipped dried beef; again, cream cheese, ground, steamed prunes, figs or apricot and chopped nuts.

Finely minced ham or chicken, chopped olives and gherkins and nuts also make a fine spread Liverwurst, chopped pickles and mayonnaise make another tasty sandwich.

THE SUB-TEEN OF THIS YEAR is a lucky girl. For her, there are sleek cottons for school-wear fashions as smartly styled as those in her big sister's wardrobe. The girl (left) who's playing teacher wears a broadcloth dress in smoke gray that's banded and trimmed in white pique. The pique bands of the bodice are continued at right angles down the side of the full skirt. Her companion (right) has a sleeveless sheath in apricot cloque cotton. A clever left-side closing is fastened with shiny, white buttons. White also bands the armholes, collarless neckline and the two left-hand patch pockets that are set above and below the self-belt.

Stirling Couple Observe Golden Wedding

MARMORA, April 12 (ENS). — Mr. and Mrs. Oneseme Foresteli of Stirling celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home on Sunday when 60 relatives and friends joined them for the happy occasion. Both are enjoying good health and Mrs. Forestell ably takes charge of her household duties. They have one daughter, Mrs. Jack Ackers of Stirling; five grandchildren and one great-grandchild. The buffet luncheon was highlighted by a wedding cake and a bride's cake, and the home was beautifully decorated with spring flowers.

Included in the many beautiful gifts were a silver tea service, two arm chairs, silver sugar and cream set, a tri-lite floor lamp and an electric tea kettle. An address was read by John O'Donnell, Stirling.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Dan Forestell and Mr. Chas. Forestell, Coniston; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Forestell and son Glen, Oshawa; Miss Anne McCloskey, Whitby; Mrs. James O'Connell, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Forestell, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Forestell, Mr. and Mrs. John Laffin, Mr. Michael Quinlan, Madoc; Mrs. S. Bibby, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Kelleher, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Forestell, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Forestell, Mr. and Mrs. Tobias Forestell, Misses Ann and Mary Quinn, Campbellford; Mr. and Mrs. Will Forestell and son Billie, Norwood; Mr. and Mrs. George O'Brien, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. George Forestell, Mr. William Forestell, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cook, Marmora.

Sparling-Would

HAVELOCK, April 12—(ENS) The marriage took place in the parsonage of Havelock United Church last Saturday of Vera Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Would of Havelock, to David Roy Sparling, of Norwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sparling of St. Mary's. The Rev. R. G. Newman performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a blush rose tailored suit with navy accessories and corsage of mauve sweet peas and pink roses. Miss Betty Baker of Norwood was bridesmaid, wearing a suit of pastel green wool, with natural hat and gloves, and a corsage of pink sweet peas and yellow roses.

Mr. Kenneth Troumper of Norwood was groomsman.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents were Mrs. Would received in an aqua suit with natural hat and gloves, and a corsage of pink carnations. She was assisted by the groom's mother who wore a grey suit with white accessories, and a corsage of white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Sparling left on a honeymoon trip to Toronto and points west, the bride travelling in her wedding suit and natural color shortie coat. They will live in Norwood.

Darling-Morton

The marriage took place in Knox United Church Thursday evening, of Elaine Morton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Morton of Toronto, and Ernest Darling, son of Mrs. Harold Darling of Peterborough and the late Mr. Darling. The Rev. H. G. Douglas officiated.

The bride was wearing a becoming navy dress and white straw hat and white gloves and her corsage was of pink carnations. She was given in marriage by Mr. Joe Watson and attended by Mrs. Robert Miller, who also wore navy with white accessories and a corsage of carnations.

Mr. Neil Selkirk attended the groom.

Following a short honeymoon in the United States, Mr. and Mrs. Darling will live at 591 Sherbrooke St.

Hand-Made Invitations Add To Easter Party Fun

Wondering what to do with the youngsters during spring vacation? Why not let them have an Easter party and let them make their own invitations? It will increase their pleasure and anticipation immensely, and also help to occupy the restless hours that inevitably come with vacations.

Using yellow or pale green ordinary drawing paper, measure and cut out an oblong that is 7 inches across the top and 9 inches long.

Draw a line across the top one and one-half inches down. Then draw lines along each side one inch from the edge, and draw another line across the bottom three and one-half inches from the edge.

The invitation itself can be written or printed in the centre section (which should measure 4 inches by 5 inches). To make the writing job easier and less messy for your youngster, use a fountain pen filled with purple or emerald green ink. For decoration the youngester may want to draw pictures of Easter eggs or a border pattern in a contrasting color. For this, simply flush out the old ink in cold water and fill the pen with the contrasting color. Washable ink is best, because it can be easily washed out in case of accidents, and because gayer colors are available in this type of ink.

The next step is to fold in the edges and make the envelope. Fold in the sides first, along the one inch lines already measured out, then fold the bottom up and the top down. For a final touch, you can fasten the top flap down by pasting on one or two of the bright Easter decals left over from Easter egg decorating.

The last step is to write the address on the reverse side, using the same green or purple ink.

With a little help from an adult, any child over five can make up invitations like this and gain the satisfaction of creating something himself.

Tivey-Smith

The marriage was solemnized in Grace United Church by the Rev. E. W. Rowland of Lillian Florence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith of Ennismore, to Cecil Tivey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Tivey of Coe Hill.

The bride was wearing a powder blue suit and navy accessories and her corsage was of deep red roses. Bridesmaid Miss Marjorie Tivey wore a navy suit and pink accessories.

Groomsman was Mr. Stanley Smith.

A reception followed with guests attending from Lakefield, Omemee, Oshawa, Coe Hill, and Ennismore. The bride's mother wore navy with grey accessories and the groom's mother chose gray with black accessories. Each had a corsage of red roses.

The couple will live at 564 Brioux Ave.

Fluke-McCoy Rites

MARMORA April 12 ENS) —A quiet wedding took place at St. Andrew's Parsonage, Marmora, last Saturday when Doris May McCoy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex McCoy of Marmora township was united in marriage to James Ralph Fluke.

Rev. G. D. Young officiated. They will live in Madoc township.

Publish Details Of Prince's Togs

ILFRACOMBE, Devon, England (CP)—British mothers now can obtain knitting details of high-neck sweater, gloves and cap, similar to those worn by Prince Charles in the gardens of Clarence House.

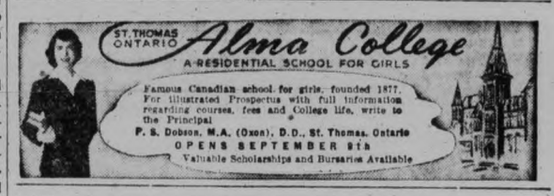
Ever since the three-year-old Prince was photographed in a white sweater colorfully patterned with ships and sailors, knitting mothers began worrying the fashion journals for a pattern.

Now, Margaret Youings, designers of the Royal sweater, has produced a number of scarlet-coated sentries marching across the front, and instructions on how it can be knitted have been published.

Mrs. Youings, who started these designs as a hobby, now has a shop here and supplies firms in North America. A "Royal Tour" number bound for Montreal is patterned by the Royal train that took the Queen and her husband across Canada. It is, in fact, Canadian in every detail.

Tortoise Shoes Fad

Tortoise shell shoes are the latest fad in Nassau, Bahamas, it is reported. Platforms of the shoes are of cork, to which the moulded sheet of shell is fitted, so that the shoe is light. Straps of hand crocheted natural linen cord hold the platform to the foot. A matching handbag of hand tied linen cord of intricate design and fitted to a moulded tortoise shell frame completes the set.



THE SOPHISTICATE

The dress with a high-fashion look to wear in the smartest circles. The new triple-tiered bertha collar frames your face, the glittering, rhinestone buttons march down the front. The waist is tiny . . . the skirt a full whirl-around. In Bates' washable and shrink-proofed Picolay in lilac, ice blue, shell pink, buttercup yellow. ALSO IN WHITE.

DOROTHY DIX

Does Wife Owe Her Loyalty To Children Or Husband?

DEAR MISS DIX: Two years ago I married a man who is abusive and an alcoholic. He spends his money on himself and for good times of his own. I have nursed him through several periods of illness and have tried to make a good home for him. I have had to work since we were married to support myself and keep the home together. I have two children by a previous marriage, and my busand bitterly resents them. His family tries to keep him from drinking, but they give me no cooperation when I try to stop him.

I left him once but he begged me for another chance, promising he would do better. His promises didn't last long. Now he has decided to leave town and start all over again somewhere else. I would have to leave my children if I went with him, and this I don't want to do. His family is very bitter toward me because I feel my place is with my youngsters. He wants me to leave the children with their grandmother and go with him. Where does my duty lie?

MARGIE

ANSWER: While a mother's paramount duty is to her offspring, there are times when a little wholesome neglect may be exercised in the possibility of a greater good. Such a case of divided loyalty aries in your case.

If you want to stand on the actual question of obligation, your children come first. However, if there is a chance that your husband will rehabilitate himself in another town and be willing to again assume his job as head of the family, I think it's worth some sacrifice on your part to help him.

Be Sure They're Cared For

You must first be sure that the children are well cared for, if their grandmother is willing and able to take them, let them stay with her for a few months. Then you must have some assurance of your husband's good intentions. The best helf for him would come through Alcoholics Anonymous, which you can locate through the telephone book of your nearest city, or through a hospital. He should also show some evidence of being willing to accept your children as part of the family when he is able to resume work. If it is his intention to have you give up your youngsters for good, drop the whole project and let him go on alone. A temporary absence from them is all you could be expected to endure.

As for his family—don't worry about them. They are naturally under a real strain with their wayward son and brother. Probably if he straightens out, they'll be more agreeable to you.

I hope you're successful in establishing a new and happy life for yourself and your family.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband and I are quite upset over our 20-year-old son and would like your advice. He is a student at college, and has been dating a very lovely girl. He drives her to class every day and sees her three or four nights a week. The girl is engaged to a serviceman now stationed in Japan. My son says there is nothing serious between them, but as she is the only girl he sees, we feel he is being dishonorable to continue the friendship.

MRS. L. I. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Both your son and the girl are being far from honorable in their actions. I'm sure they are both old enough to know it, too, regardless of his assurance to the contrary. He should stop seeing her at once, and try to make dates with other and more eligible girls.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a freshman in high school and in love with a man 27 years old. He and his wife don't get along and are thinking of getting a divorce. We have been seeing each other for about three months. Do you think I should forget about him or wait until he is free? A. N. X.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If you had given me your name and address I'd have written your mother to stop this crazy affair before it goes too far. The man should be sent to jail and you should be locked in your room until you come to your senses. How can a nice young girl get mixed up with a scoundrel who robs the cradle for a little diversion! Stop seeing him at once and go with boys in your own group.

Readers' Saturday Column by Mary Moore

QUESTION: In answer to your request for a Dutch cake to which Mary R. is referring, I think the following may be the one she tasted:

Ontbijkoek (Breakfast Cake).

Eight eggs separated, 2¾ cups brown sugar, 3 cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1½ teaspoons cloves, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, 2 tablespoons candied lemon peel minced, 4 tablespoons candied citron minced, ½ cup almonds, coarsely ground.

Beat the egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored, slowly add the sugar and beat for 5 minutes. Sift flour, baking soda, cinnamon, cloves, and nutmeg together and add slowly to egg mixture. Add lemon peel, citron and almonds and mix well. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour mixture into well-greased pan and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. Fahr.) for about 40 minutes.

✧ ✧ ✧

I enjoy your column immensely as I firmly believe that cooking is fun, and am an ardent recipe collector.

I wonder if you have a recipe for fudge made with sweetened condensed milk,—the type cooked the normal way until the soft ball stage? Lise R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: When I received your letter I telephoned my Dutch friend Reini and asked her how to pronounce "Ontbijoek." She strung off something like "objkuk" and I said "Fine — now it's as clear as mud." Then I read her your recipe. 'Oh, Mrs. Moore, why not you ask me when you want (then this word again) ontbijkoek?" She told me this was exactly the right recipe and that she would make me one for Sunday morning's breakfast—and she did! It was wonderful. Thank you so much, Lise, because it was due to you!

Chocolate Fudge

Two cups sugar, 1 cup water, 1 tin sweetened condensed milk, 3 squares unsweetened chocolate, 1 cup nut meats are optional. In large saucepan mix together the sugar and water and bring to boiling point. Add the sweetened condensed milk and boil over low heat until mixture will form a soft ball when tested in cold water (236 deg. Fahr.). Stir mixture constantly to prevent burning. Remove from heat and add chocolate shredded or cut small. Stir until melted. Add chopped nuts used. Beat until thick and creamy and until spoon marks hold their shape slightly. Pour into buttered pan. When cool, mark into squares.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: Is there any way I could get a copy of the uncooked fruit cake recipe? Mrs. L. E. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: There sure is. Right here.

Unbaked Fruit Cake

One lb. graham cracker fine crumbs, 1 lb. seedless sultana raisins, 1 lb. chopped dried figs, ½ cup drained maraschino cherries chopped, 1 cup chopped nuts, 1 lb. chopped marshmallows, 1 pint cream whipped. Mix together the fine graham cracker crumbs, chopped fruits and nuts and marshmallows and whole raisins. Mix well. Whip the cream stiffly and fold into this mixture. Pack into paper-lined loaf pan and pack down very well, using back of large spoon, and make top smooth. Chill for at least 24 hours or more. When needed, cut in slices with very sharp knife, and dip each slice in powdered sugar.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: I find you column most helpful and your recipes are super . . . repeat the one for frozen dessert made with fresh lemons and evaporated milk . . . one reader suggested pasting your recipes on cards . . . it's an excellent idea . . . I am enclosing my quick cocoa cake recipe.—Marg. L.

Quick Cocoa Cake
(No eggs, no butter).

One and two-thirds cups cake flour, 1 teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon baking powder, 1 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons cocoa, ½ teaspoon salt. Sift above ingredients together 3 times. Place in mixing bowl, making a hole in middle and pour in: 5 tablespoons (corn) oil, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 cup lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Mix all together just until blended. Pour into ungreased 9-inch square pan and bake ½ hour in 350 deg. oven. This cake should stand 2 hours before icing otherwise it is very moist.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Thank you for the quick cocoa cake.

I call the frozen lemon dessert New oYrk Lemon Ice Cream and I hope this is the recipe you want.

Mix 4 beaten egg yolks wtih ½ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 cup evaporated milk and ½ cup water. Cook this slowly in top of double boiler, stirring, until mixture coats back of spoon. Remove from heat and chill thoroughly. Now you must have 1 cup of evaporated milk which has been chilled almost to the point of freezing for it is to be whipped—with a cold beater in a chilled bowl. Whip the chilled 1 cup evaporated milk, add 2 tablespoons lemon juice from fresh lemons, and fold in the chilled custard mixture. Add 1½ teaspoons vanilla. Pour into freezing tray and freeze for at least 4 hours. It does not require stirring during the freezizng process.

Mrs. Nayler Named W.I.President

MARMORA, April 12 (ENS)—Officers for the 1952-1953 term to represent Marmora Women's Institute were elected and installed at the April meeting held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. C. Connor with her daughter, Mrs. R. E. Neal, being assistant hostess. The slate was brought in by Mrs. P. Gordon for the nominating committee. Mrs. S. R. Beatty of Madoc, the district president conducted the election and installation.

Following are the names of the newly elected: president, Mrs. H. P. Nayler; first vice-president, Mrs. F. Grant; second vice-president, Mrs. Hogarth Sabine; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. E. Brady; pianist, Mrs. E. C. Prentice; directors, Mesdames R. E. Neal, P. Gordon, and G. Kerr; district director, Mrs. E. Brady; conveners of standing committees: agriculture and Canadian industries, Mrs. C. Sopha; home economics and health, Mrs. E. Belanger; historical research and current events, Mrs. E. C. Prentice and Miss G. Warren; citizenship and education, Mrs. R. E. Neal; public relations and community activities, Mrs. M. Kouri; resolutions, Mrs. L. R. Green; publicity, Mrs. Hogarth Sabine.

In the absence of the president through illness, the chair was taken by Mrs. Hogarth Sabine. The financial statement read by Mrs. E. Brady showed finances to be in a healthy condition.

A letter of thanks was read from the Food for Greece Fund. Mrs. E. C. Prentice reported on the accommodations secured at the town hall and St. Andrew's Church hall for the holding of the annual district convention in Marmora on May 29. Mrs. F. Sweet reported for the public relations and community activities.

Other conveners also reported on the year's work of their department. The district president took over the meeting at this point and gave a short talk congratulating the branch on its successful year. She also gave some ideas for the better functioning of all branches and quoted from a reading on "Good Citizenship."

After the meeting was closed with the National Anthem, Mrs. Beatty conducted a questionnaire under the title "Penny Wise."

Because she was one of the best.
—Ever remembered by her husband Harold.

EASTABROOK— In loving memory of our dear mother, Maude Isabelle Eastabrook who passed away, April 12, 1949.
Beside your grave I often stand,
With heart both crushed and sore,
But in the gloom, the sweet words come,
Not lost but gone before.
God knows how much I miss you,
He counts the tears I shed
And whispres she only sleeps,
Your loved one is not dead.
So I'll be brave dear mother
And pray to God each day,
And when he calls me home to you
Your smile will guide the way.
— Ever remembered by daughters, Jean, Dorothy and Isabelle and sons Bill, Jack, Jim, Ralph, Reg. and families.

HOPKINS— In loving memory of a dear husband and father, George Milton Hopkins, who passed away, April 13, 1950, in his 31st year.

Stock Market

industrials steadied. Toronto prices remained irregular and trendless Wednesday while Montreal papers and industrials traded for little change.

Western oils closed strongly in Toronto Thursday but industrials, golds and base metals made little headway. Industrials remained steady in Montreal but papers eased.

Rail and motors led the New York market slightly lower Monday but rails reversed direction to lead an obedient market higher Tuesday. Steels eased Wednesday but other sections showed little trend. Rails and oils headed a moderate advance Thursday.

From Friday to Thursday the Toronto stock exchange indices showed industrials down 3.61 at 325.81, golds up 2.73 at 91.04, base metals up .15 at 188.96 and western oils up 1.74 at 153.72.

In the Montreal averages, banks were down .25 at 29.61, utilities down .4 at 85.1, industrials down 2.5 at 205.6, combined down 1.8 at 165.4, papers down 14.10 at 714.21 and golds up .56 at 67.36.

In New York, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks climbed 40 cents to $102.40.

Fishermen Return With Sacks Empty

CAMPBELLFORD, April 12 — (ENS)—A number of citizens travelled to Colborne and adjacent points on Thursday evening armed with various sizes and shapes of dip nets, and large bran sacks to carry home the catch of smelts.

The fishermen returned to their respective homes about the same time as the clippety-clop of the milkman's horse echoed through the streets of the sleepy town, and as is often the case with fishermen, the bran sacks were empty but their spirits were high.

Mountainous waves and an unkind wind teamed up to make it a bad night for the prospective smelt-eaters. One group, comprising a local doctor, an insurance man, a barber and a newspaperman, did have smelt on Good Friday. They bought them at a local meat market on Thursday afternoon.

Peter Stuart

The Rev. A. A. Mathews officiated Thursday at the funeral of Peter Stuart, 458 Rubidge St., who died Monday in hospital. Service was held at the Comstock funeral home and burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Pallbearers were Wilbert Taylor, Lewis H. Ingram, Archibald Hillis, Walker Jones, Emery Dubay, and Edward J. Ferguson.

Miss Ada Galvin

Funeral service for Mis Ada Galvin, 50 Robinson St., who died in hospital Tuesday, was conducted Thursday by the Rev. Ivan Morgan, of Murray St. Baptist Church, and the Rev. W. B. Walker, of Lakefield. Service was at the Comstock funeral home.

Pallbearers were Clarke, Harry, Clifford and Walter Garbutt, Bernard Dench and Wilfred Adams.

Burial was in Ray's cemetery, Lakefield.

Chief of Staff

GUAM, April 12—)Reuters) — Dr. Andre J. Richard, French-born co-workers of Madame Currie, has been named chief of staff at the Guam Memorial hospital, it was announced today. He was engaged in radiological research with Madame Curie until her death. Following the Second World War he worked in hospitals in Canada and Puerto Rico.

Attend Demonstration

BERLIN, April 11—(Reuters)—More than 100,000 delegates attended a Communist-sponsored demonstration today at Buchenwald concentration camp, near Weimar, East Germany, where the Nazis slaughtered more than 50,000 people. Buchenwald was liberated seven years ago. The site of the camp will be made into a park.

Principal S. S. Brechon Retiring After 20 Years In Norwood School

HAVELOCK, April 12 (ENS)—The Norwood District High School Board, at its meeting in Norwood on Monday night, received the resignation of S. S. Breckon, principal of the Norwood High School, effective June 30, 1952. Mr. Breckon is due to retire after 20 years' service as principal of that school.

The board welcomed John A. Davidson, of Havelock, county representative on the board, replacing E. N. McDonald, who resigned due to ill-health.

The resignation of B. W. Jackson, assistant teacher in the Norwood High School, was also received. Mr. Jackson, who has been one year at Norwood, has accepted another position.

Rooms Not Needed

The secretary was instructed to notify the public school board at Havelock that the three rooms occupied by the high school students would not be required after June 30, 1952, as the new district high school would be ready for September 1.

The board discussed with a deputation, representing Asphodel, Belmont, Hastings and Otonabee, the matter of the disposition of the old high school at Norwood when not required by the board. Mr. Humphrey introduced the matter and felt that the building should be sold and the amount realized used to reduce the amount of $30,000 on which no grants are paid. Public School Inspector Birkin was present and gave an explanation on department grant arrangements and also informed the board of action taken by other boards in a similar position as the Norwood district. Chairman Buck and Trustee Hamblin gave information as to the assessments, levies and percentages of each municipality, also the contribution that had been made to the new district by Norwood and Havelock and a small portion of Asphodel in monies and equipment which did not cost the area anything. No action was taken by the board.

The board paid No. 8 progress estimate to the Eastwood Construction Company, Peterborough, an amount of $12,154.15; Moyer Supplies, $333.75; and Singer Sewing Co. $102 for new building equipment out of capital account and approximately $5,000 out of current account for maintenance for the month of March.

The board notified the clerk and treasurer of the county of Peterborough that grants received from the Department of Education on the debenture payments on the new school would be remitted to the county treasurer as received by the board.

Agreements With Teachers

The board approved four agreements with teachers effective September 1; also approved $410 quotation on one to three phase electric service and guarantee on 20-year bonded roof and the purchasing order to the T. and S. Company, Ottawa, to replace order cancelled with the Woods Manufacturing Co., Alliston, for the new high school.

Say Petition Protests Paving

Property owners on Monaghan Rd. south are said to be circulating a petition against the paving this year of the seven-block stretch from Braidwood Ave. to Cameron St.

One of their contentions is that the project should be extended northerly from Braidwood to Lansdowne St., that in their opinion it should be a case of all or nothing.

Another objection is to the effect that bus routes should be paid for out of the general fund; that buses are a community service and a community asset; and that the maintenance of the streets on which they operate should be charged to all the ratepayers, instead of levying something like half the cost against frontage.

That was the point stressed several years ago by Romaine St. residents, and their opposition was sustained by the Ontario Municipal Board.

However, in the following year one of the members of the Board told Monaghan Rd. objectors north of Lansdowne St. that they could not take a position that interfered with the progress of the city.

It is reported that the Monaghan Rd. petition will be mailed to the Municipal Board in Toronto.

U.S. Will Launch New Minesweeper

GREAT LAKES, Ill., April 12—(AP). — A new type of minesweeper, the United States Navy's first attempt to build a completely non-magnetic hull, will be launched at Manitowoc, Wis., on April 17.

The U.S.S. Botterel will be the first Navy ship launched on the Great Lakes since the Second World War.

The 375-ton Dotterel, built of Virginia white oak and Oregon fir, has been constructed throughout of materials with the lowest possible magnetic attraction.

Leonard Hutchison

Leonard B. Hutchison, 603 Weller St., who died suddenly Tuesday in Hamilton, was buried Friday in Little Lake Cemetery after funeral service at All Saints' Anglican Church. The Rev. M. P. Poole officiated.

Active pallbearers were John C. Steer, Al Vallely, Harry Eves, Kester Brown, Reginald D. Banslaugh, and Clarence B. Neal.

Honorary bearers were: Dr. Joseph X. Robert, Ross Clarke, William A. H. MacBrien, William F. Beck, George A. Beck, Russell Chambers, Andrew J. Davis, John J. McHale, A. Lionel Fitzgerald, Keith Lech, Claire Collins, Dr. E. Clifford McKee, Thomas L. Armstrong.

Miss Audrey Rose

Funeral service for Miss Audrey June Rose, 19, of 213 King St., who died Monday in a Toronto hospital, was held Thursday at the Kaye funeral home at 2 p.m.

The Rev. F. W. Warburton, of Toronto Gospel Temple, officiated and burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Pallbearers were five brothers and a brother-in-law; Vern, Edward, Donald, Ronald and Alfred Rose, and George Chamberlain.

Strike Settled

PEORIA, Ill., April 12 (CP)—A 13-day-old strike of 24 machinists at Hiram Walker and Sons was settled Friday The machinists whose walkout halted operations when other workers refused to cross picket lines, won a 12½-cent hourly pay increase retroactive to Jan. 1.

5 Motorists Escape When Car Rolls Over

COBOURG, April 12 (ENS)—Five motorists escaped injury when their car hit a tree and rolled over near Bailieboro on Highway 28 Thursday evening. Driver of the car was Ellison Stairs, of 15 Lockwood Ave., Toronto, with his wife and young daughter. Also in the car was Don Miller, age 21, of Cobden, Ont. Earlier reports that all five had been rushed to Peterborough Civic Hospital in serious condition proved without foundation. Provincial Constable Vic Piper, of Cobourg, investigated.

Egyptian Elections Postponed Indefinitely

CAIRO, April 12 (Reuters) — Egyptian national elections, scheduled for May 18, were postponed indefinitely today.

The decision was made by Premier Hilaly Pasha's cabinet which, it was reported, hopes to reach some agreement with Britain before going to the polls.

The Egyptian parliament was dissolved March 24 to make way for the elections but the cabinet acted under martial law decrees to postpone the vote.

30 Days In Jail

CAMPBELLFORD, April 12 — (ENS)—Clayton Akey, a local resident, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail when he appeared before Magistrate R. B. Baxter on a charge of having liquor in his possession while on the interdicted list, here on Thursday.

Akey was fined $100 and costs or the jail sentence. He was unable to raise the fine and was taken to Cobourg by Chief George H. Hardy.

Called To Grass Fire

CAMPBELLFORD, April 12—(ENS) — Campbellford firemen were called at 3 p.m. on Good Friday to extinguish a grass fire that threatened to get out of hand in Seymour township on the outskirts of the town. They dealt with the blaze quickly and efficiently and no damage was caused. The fire was on the property of Mrs. Peter Meiklejohn. The elderly lady does not live in the home at the present time, but the flames jumped a fence and neighbors became anxious for the safety of the house and a barn at the rear of it.

Mild Earthquake

MANILLA, April 12—(AP)—A mild earthquake occurred in the Batanaes Island group, off northern Luzon, Friday, the Philippines Weather Bureau reported. The islands are about 90 miles north of Didicas rocks where a submarine volcano—dormant 90 years—has been in eruption since mid-March.

Canada Very Sorry To Lose Eisenhower

OTTAWA, April 12 — (CP). — Trade Minister Howe, acting Prime Minister in the absence on holiday of Prime Minister St. Laurent, said Friday night Canada is sorry to hear that General Eisenhower will be leaving his European post. "He has done a magnificent job over there," Mr. Howe said. "His loss will be a great one to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

New Treatment For Cancer

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE.

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP).—Threads of radioactive gold are doing a job in cancer treatment not hitherto possible.

They literally sew up the kind of cancer which cannot be entirely removed by a surgeon's knife because it is grown around an important artery or other blood vessel.

This report was made to the American Association for Cancer Research today by Dr. William G. Myers and Dr. Benjamin H. Colmery, Jr., of Ohio State Univeysity. The radioactive gold is made in one of the atomic ovens at Oak Ridge, Tenn. It is produced in the form of a colloid, which is virtually liquid gold.

Slender plastic tubes with hollow centres are filled with the gold colloid. These tubes are the size of the sutures that surgeons use for sewing wounds. The radioactive threads are sewn through the cancer, or part of a cancer, that cannot be removed. The gold threads emit radioactive rays that kill the cancer tissues around them. But the rays do little harm to healthy tissues nearby, because the radioactivity ceases after a few days, before it can do serious damage outside the cancer.

Mrs. Ross Mitchell and Shirley, of Grafton, visited for the past week at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. S. Lawrence.

Mrs. Herbert Pratt has returned home after spending the past week with her sister and family in Peterborough, due to Mrs. Mark's stay in the Civic Hospital.

A variety concert will be held on Friday, April 25, at 8 p.m., at the United Church, sponsored by St. Paul's United Church choir.

The Rev. and Mrs. W. Wright, of the Sudan Mission, will be guest speakers at the Women's Missionary Society meeting of the Free Methodist Church in Warkworth on Tuesday evening. Mr. an dMrs. Wright are home on furlough from Nigeria, Africa, and will show slides of their work in that mission field.

Commencing last Thursday, the stores in the vollage will be open and each Thursday night after until November 1, thus making the three nights Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday for the stores to be open.

Returned To India

PARIS, April 12—(Reuters) — Chandernagor, an island of 45,000 persons near Calcutta, was returned to India Friday by France. The island, ceded to France in 1688 when France was a major power in India, voted in 1949 to become part of India.

Alderman Finds Records Of 1911

Ald. Norman Graham recently came upon a printed reference list of the members of the council of 1911 in some old papers his father, the late James G. Graham, who was an alderman that year.

All the members of that 1911 council are dead. W. G. Morrow was mayor, and the aldermen as listed were: George H. Duncan, William H. Buller, William H. Bradburn, Joseph R. Metheral, James B. Brown, James Edgar, James G Graham, David H. Kerneghan, Harry W. Morgan and John C. Anderson.

These cards are printed annually, showing the members of the standing committee and their chairmen. They fit conveniently into the average wallet.

The chairmen of 1911 were: finance, W. H. Bradburn, afterwards mayor and member of the Legislature; he was also a member of the Utilities Commission; his son was a member of the council in more recent years.

Board of works: J. R. Metheral, father of Mr. A. G. Metheral, welfare officer and plumbing inspector today.

Manufacturers: W. H. Buller, later mayor.

Property (market, health, building): G. H. Duncan.

Mr. Anderson, accountant with the Peter Hamilton Co. with office where the Cherney Building dominates the George and King Streets corner, was later finance chairman. He and Harry Morgan, for many years foreman at the Peterborough Canoe Co., were both residents of Ashburnham.

Ald. James G. (Jimmy) Graham was a contractor. About that time Mr. G. A. Gillespie, father of Ald. James E. Gilespie, was a member of the council.

Robert Bruce Holden

MILLBROOK, April 12 (ENS)—The funeral service for Robert Bruce Holden who died at his home in Millbrook on Sunday was held Wednesday afternoon from G. T. MacPherson's funeral home.

The Rev. A. M. Butler of St. Andrew's United Church conducted the service, assisted by the Rev. Walter Patterson, retired former minister of Grace Presbyterian Church.

The service was largely attended. Five sons-in-law, R. W. Broman of Grand Rapids, Michigan, Dr. L. C. Jenner of Kingsville, Fred MacGrogan of Toronto, Reginald Atchison of South Monaghan and Lawrence Winslow of Millbrook and a nephew Frank Holden of North Bay, acted as pallbearers. It was an Orange funeral with members of the local L.O.L. 79 of which Mr. Holden was a member, and some members of the Fraserville lodge present.

Flower-bearers were Anthony Holden, Basil Holden, Keith Larmer, Ray Findlay, Gordon Might, Roy Smith, Bill Smith, Norman Willan, Douglas Clark and Alan Atchison.

Among those present from a distance were: William Holden, Frank, Tony and Basil Holden of North Bay; Sam Holden, Thomas Ball and Alan Kiel of Bracebridge; Mr. and Mrs. Fred MacGrogan, Norman and Maureen of Toronto; Mrs. A. D. Frank and Mrs. Ed Frank of Niagara Falls; Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Jenner of Kingsville; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Broman of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Miss Martha Holden, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roddy and Willard of Peterborough.

Interment was in Gardiner's Cemetery, Millbrook.

Five Young Pakistani To Visit Peterborough Study Municipal Gov't.

Twelve university graduates from Pakistan are expected to visit Peterborough during the middle weeks of June.

Their trip to this province has been arranged as part of the Colombo Plan in which Canada is a participant nation in a program of assisting countries in southeastern Asia.

One of the purposes of their visit is to observe Canadian methods of [illegible]istration. Kingston Belleville and Peterborough are three eastern Ontario cities that have been chosen for these junior administrative officers to "study at first hand the functioning and operation of urban and rural municipal governing bodies."

Peterborough is the best equipped municipal centre in eastern Ontario, and it is understood that all twelve of the young Pakistani will be directed to this city.

Live In Local Homes

In fact, Mayor Waddell said today that he has already arranged for several of them to be guests in Peterborough homes. By that means they will have the opportunity and advantage of living for a few days in Ontario family circles, enabling them to become acquainted directly with the Canadian way of life.

The young men from Pakistan will see here one of the finest city administration buildings in this country, and also one of the newest sewage disposal plants, a development in public sanitation which neither Belleville or Kingston affords.

It is also understood that some rural contacts will be made, with observation of agricultural practices and rural municipal administration.

Pakistan, formerly part of India, is a member of the British Commonwealth.

Hon. Lester B. Pearson, Secretary of State for External Affairs, said in an address two months ago: "There is one factor of the culture of the West which most leaders of Asia feel could be of permanent value to them. That factor is science and technology. Here, then, it seems to me, is one firm and clearly defined basis upon which to build mutual understanding between the East and the West".

In that address Mr. Pearson said that under the United Nations expanded Technical Assistance Program almost all the countries of the free world (the Soviet Republic refused to participate despite their constant professions for the welfare of the peoples of the under-developed countries) "have co-operated in pooling their resources to give technical assistance to member governments which are in need of such assistance and which request it".

Experts have been commissioned to Ceylon, Burma, India, and elsewhere in southeast Asia. It is a long story. Only parts of it may be quoted.

Because of the urgency of the needs in that populous quarter of the world, Mr. Pearson said, "we helped to establish and are now participating in the Colombo Program for Technical Co-Operation.

It is not possible for the Asian countries to carry out their plans for economic development without trained manpower and without the benefit of technical advice from the West.

Contribution

In addition, therefore, to the $25,000,000 the Canadian Government contributed to the Colombo Plan for Economic Development in the area for the year 1951-52, and to the same amount for 1952-53 for which parliamentary approval will be sought, the government secured parliamentary authorization for an appropriation of $400,000 to the technical co-operation program for South and Southeast Asia for each of the two fiscal years, and is recommending a similar contribution for 1952-53."

Canada is making a large investment in substance, skill and sentiment in that part of the world.

"Typical of the requests we are receiving from our Asian friends," Mr. Pearson said, "is one from Ceylon for a soil conservationist to give courses to groups of trainees; one from India for instructor engineers for the Indian Institute of Science; one from Pakistan for a three-man team to survey and advise on facilities for the preservation, processing and marketing of fruit, milk and similar produce."

The Minister said that this year "we have invited a public health mission to come to Canada. It will be composed of twelve fairly senior public health officials...

Offered Training

"At the request of the Government of Pakistan, we have offered to give training in Canada in public administration to twelve young Pakistani civil servants (the group coming in June) . . ."

The former Peterborough boy who is now Secretary of State for Canada also said: "I think it is true to say that the whole concept of economic and technical aid to under-developed countries and our participation in these programs of technical assistance would have been inconceivable as recently as the 1930's. I think we would have decided then that for both economic and practical reasons such schemes were impossible.

"In participating in these programs we have embarked upon an experiment in international relations motivated by political and moral considerations which are both new and demanding."

Those quotations indicate something of the background from which the twelve Pakistani university graduates are coming across the world to eastern Ontario.

They will spend their first five weeks in Ottawa studying the broad aspects of the government, resources and people of Canada as well as the work of the Federal government departments. Then they come into the Peterborough district.

Some of their names are: Ejaz Ahmed Naik; Mohd. Majid Ali; Aslam Abdullah Khan; Iqbal Masad, and so on. They have already passed into the Civil Service of Pakistan by competitive examinations.

LADIES' GLEE CLUB of the Missionary Training Institute of Nyack, N.Y., will present a concert of sacred music Tuesday night at the Collegiate Auditorium. The service is sponsored by Park St. Alliance Church. Portions of Mozart's Exultate, Jubilate, and Bach's St. Matthew Passion will be sung, as well as the well-known Hallelujah Chorus from the Messiah. The glee club will be accompanied by a trumpet trio.

Four Men Urge New Efforts At Cedar Lake Park

Directors of the Cedar Lakes Park were encouraged to continue their efforts to make the park a public centre of outdoor fun for children and their parents during the summer by four men at a meeting of the Film Council this week.

Norman Gaynor gave a brief history of the park and reported his success in taking his classes of school children to the park last fall.

Campbell Rowatt, representing the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, felt, like Mr. Gaynor, that such a project could be sparked by the enthusiasm of children. He pointed out that since the park was now lying fallow that both children and their parents, and indeed all lovers of the outdoors, were being deprived of outing fun.

Others Successful

Secretary - manager William MacDonnell of the Canadian Forestry Association of Ontario, who has been brought to the city this week by the Fish and Game people to promote Wildlife Week, gave encouragement to the project.

He cited many examples of recreational areas that were developed in various Ontario centres against far greater odds than those confronting Peterborough groups. Mr. MacDonnell said that the idea here was not an original one and that such a development committee would have the advantage of studying other projects and eliminating their mistakes. He hoped to see Cedar Lakes in full swing the next time he was in this district.

Former warden of Jasper National Park, C. J. Phillips recommended the plan highly and saw no reason why it could not be achieved if all its underwriters put their shoulders to the wheel.

The meeting was well attended by about 75 citizens—teachers, engineers, factory workers and executives and many parents. Each seemed enthusiastic that the general discussion of the evening would clarify many hold-up points of the park plan and that it might soon be a reality.

Errant Father Jailed 5 Months On Liquor Count

A Hastings father of nine children, who was said to have refused to work when a job was found for him and only returned home when the Family Allowance cheques were due so he could spend the money for drink, was given five months in Ontario Reformatory Thursday.

John Walsh pleaded guilty to having liquor in a place other than his residence, and admitted being convicted of drunkenness twice so far this year by Magistrate R. B. Baxter in Cobourg.

This marked the first time that a liquor charge has alleged prior convictions in a court outside Peterborough. Magistrate W. R. Philp consulted the Liquor Control Act when Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw asked for a six-month sentence for Walsh.

No Limits

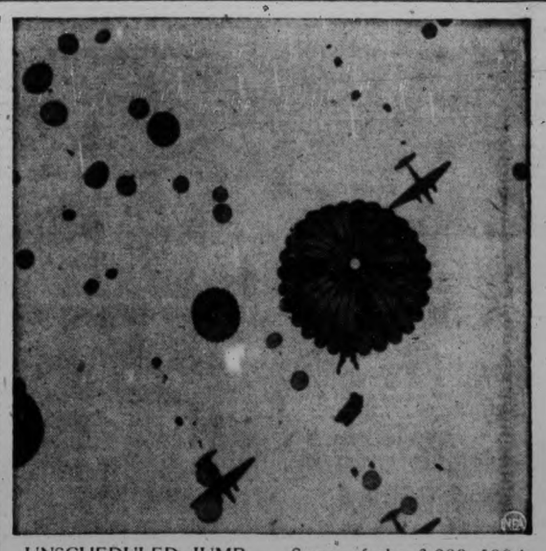
Magistrate Philp said it brought up the question of geographical limitation in regard to previous liquor convictions. After examining the act, he said he could find no limitations in regard to previous convictions anywhere in the province.

In sentencing Walsh, Magistrate Philp recommended that he be sent to Mimico for alcoholic treatment during his term.

O.P.P. constable Donald W. Erskine of Campbellford gave evidence that Walsh had refused a job which had been obtained for him with the Hydro. Constable Erskine said that Walsh had also been in Whitby as a habitual alcoholic. He said Walsh refused the job because he said he could not leave his wife who was not well, with their nine children. However, constable Erskine said Walsh returned home only when the Family Allowance cheques arrive and he uses some of the money for liquor.

Constable Erskine said Walsh admitted ownership of a case of beer which he had hid behind a Havelock hotel and had four pints of beer in his pockets.

Mr. Bradshaw said he would not press another charge against Walsh of having liquor not obtained on his own permit.



UNSCHEDULED JUMP — Some of the 3,000 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team paratroopers who jumped in Operation Long Horn manoeuvres at Fort Hood, Texas, are shown nearing the ground. An order from headquarters had cancelled the jump, but was not received in time. One troper was killed anod 100 others were reported injured.

GOOD FARMERS

It has been estimated that 95 per cent of the 100,000 population of Prince Edward Island was born on the island.

Two Canadians Named Under McCormick

NORFOLK, Va., April 12 (CP) —Two Canadians are among the principal subordinate commanders to Admiral Lynde McCormick who assumed his post Thursday of Supreme Atlantic Commander under the North Atlantic Treaty.

The Canadians are Rear-Admiral R. E. S. Bidwell, commander of the Canadian Atlantic sub-area, and Air Commodore A. D. Ross, air commander of the Canadian Atlantic sub-area.

McCormick's first official act after assuming command was to announce the selection of the subordinate commanders.

McCormick said that in his capacity as commander-in-chief of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet he will serve additionally as commander-in-chief of the Western Atlantic area.

Named Patron

VATICAN CITY, April 12 (AP) —The action of the Pope in naming the Archangel Gabriel as patron of tele-communications was published Friday in Acta Apostolicae Sedis, the Vatican's official record. The Bible says the Archangel Gabriel announced the birth of Jesus to Mary. Christian tradition says he will blow the trumpet on judgment day.

Truman, Canada To Ask Clearance For Seaway

"IT'S HEADED FOR OUR HOUSE" were the comments from children in the home of Mrs. M. C. Martin, 257 Dalhousie St. today. The caboose-type snow plow was bunted off a siding by a runaway coal and freight car at noon south of the C.N.R. station. The car ripped a path with the plow across the street, snapped off a telegraph pole, smashed the wig-wag, and narrowly missed hydro poles. It stopped 20 feet from the Martin home.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Railway Car Bunted Off Track

Traffic along Dalhousie St. was interrupted at noon today when a caboose-type railway car, adapted for clearing snow, was bunted across the street by runaway coal and freight cars. A shunter was backing the cars, three coal cars and a freight car, into a siding, just north of Dalhousie St. on the C.N.R. line. Suddenly the coupler slipped and the cars separated from the engine before the brakes could be applied. The cars moved along the short siding and hit a car standing at the end. The impact sent the caboose rocketing through the standards, sweeping them neatly away.

Stopped At Sidewalk

The runaway cars followed behind, pushing the caboose. It ripped up the ground for 25 feet until it stopped at the sidewalk across the street. In its path of destruction the car snapped off a C.N.R. telegraph post, narrowly missed hydro poles, and carried the wig-wag in front, laying it across a lawn completely smashed.

An eye-witness, Gary Dore, 266 Dalhousie, was standing at his front door when he saw the cars collide and leave the rail line, then stop about 20 feet from the home of Mrs. M. C. Martin, 257 Dalhousie St.

Mrs. Martin's son, Hubert of Toronto, was standing in the Martin's porch when he heard a loud "crash" and "this thing started to cross the road."

"I don't think it could have been further but it would have, if the coal car hadn't been loaded," he said.

"It's fortunate that no cars were waiting for the wig-wag," he added. "It's a good thing that my car wasn't parked in front of the house as usual."

A railway crew from Lindsay is being sent to clear the siding.

Toronto Machinist Charged With Strangulation Murder

TORONTO, April 14. (CP)—A 28-year-old machinist Sunday was charged with the strangulation murder of a 35-year-old brunette, found scantily clad in the bed of his west-end room. Hugh Gillis walked into a police station shortly after noon and told police: "You had better come and see my room."

When police arrived at the rooming house in the Parkdale section they found a woman, identified as Mrs. Violet Smith, no known address, clad only in a black, lace-trimmed dress lying on the pink bedspread of his bed.

On a bureau nearby stood a glass partly full of stale whisky, a ginger ale bottle and a Bible. On the floor were 12 empty beer bottles.

Police said Mrs. Smith—her maiden name was Violet Jansen—was picked up by Gillis in a Queen St. beverage room Saturday night. Between that time and Gillis' appearance at the police station at 1:15 p.m. they had no details to divulge, other than the fact of death.

Believed Tie Weapon

Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson said a tie had been found in the room and her throat had a dark groove which seemed to point to the tie as the murder weapon.

Police said the time of death was early Sunday morning as rigor mortis had set in when the body was examined Sunday afternoon.

The owner of the rooming house, Stanley Dworak, said he knew little about Gillis. The accused was usually quiet except when he had been drinking. Dworak had asked him to leave once but did not insist when Gillis promised to reform.

Dworak first learned of the murder after he returned from an Easter church service with his family. An inspector led a squad of detectives into the murder room on the second floor of the three-storey house. It was then Dworak saw the body lying on Gillis' bed.

Gillis, who is not married, is believed to have arrived in Toronto two years ago from Waterford, N.S. He had been working as a machinist in a large west-end factory and has lived in Dworak's rooming house only six weeks.

Believe Visit To End Strife

CAIRO, Egypt, April 14 (Reuters)—The Egyptian ambassador to Britain is expected to take off tonight on a mission to London which observers believe may bring settlement in the long-standing Anglo-Egyptian dispute.

A special plane has been standing by since Friday and Ambassador Abdel Fattah Amr had been expected to leave this morning. Another delay put off his departure until this evening, an Egyptian office spokesman said.

It is believed the ambassador will take a new proposal from Premier Hilaly Pasha to Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in an effort to solve the Anglo-Egyptian deadlock over Suez and the Sudan.

(In London, a Foreign Office spokesman said Eden is expected to meet the Egyptian ambassador Wednesday.)

Church Floor Caves In Worshippers Dumped

BASHAW, Alta., April 14—(CP)—About 135 Easter worshippers escaped serious injury Sunday when the floor of the Bashaw United Church collapsed.

Worshippers were filing down the centre aisle after the service when the centre beam cracked. The floor sagged into a V-trough, sending members of the congregation into a heap in the centre. Benches slid into the trough.

The church is being remodelled and the eight-foot basement was recently dug. Wooden posts supported the floor pending the installation this week of steel pillars. Bashaw is 70 miles south of Edmonton.

Name Lawyer To Press Petawawa Charges

OTTAWA, April 14 — (CP) — A Defence department spokesman said today that J. W. Pickup, Toronto lawyer, has been appointed to press charges against a group of Army men and civilians involved in alleged thefts of supplies from the Petawawa Military Camp.

The spokesman said Mr. Pickup is reviewing the evidence obtained during an investigation. The camp is about 120 miles northwest of Ottawa.

The Defence Department declined to give information on the investigation. It did not say how many men were involved.

Last week, a Defence Department official said hundreds of tons of supplies might be involved in the thefts. Seizures by the R.C.M.P. were reported to include Army blankets, clothing and boots.

Truce Delegates Set Record Meet For Only 15 Seconds

MUNSAN, Korea, April 14 — (AP)—Korean truce negotiators set another record for brevity today. They met only 15 seconds, including time for translation.

United Nations' Command subdelegates gave no indication when they will be ready to resume the recessde talks on the prisoner-of-war question — one of three major stumbling blocks before an armistice—as requested by the Communists Sunday in a 50-second session.

It was the fourth straight day the negotiators had lowered the previous day's length of time in session.

The record of the quarter-minute session went like this:

Chinese Gen. Hsieh Fang: "Has your side anything to say?"

Maj.-Gen. William K. Harrison, U.N. Command: "No."

Hsieh: "Since your side has nothing to say, I suggest we recess until the usual time tomorrow."

Harrison: "We agree."

The sub-delegates have been deadlocked two weeks over the two other chief issues—Communist insistence that Russia help police a truce and a U.N. demand for a ban on military construction during an armistice.

More than 6,000 words of a Korean armistice document have been written and agreed upon. All this approved wordage has led to optimism in Washington and in the truce-talks village of Panmunjon that agreement on an armistice is near.

In Washington, officials expressed hope that an armistice could be reached possibly by May 1. They based this on a belief that solution was near on the prisoner-of-war deadlock.

But nine vital paragraphs still are in dispute.

Three of the nine deal with exchange of prisoners. The Reds are demanding return of all their men in Allied hands. The Allies insist on voluntary repatriation.

Fire Destroys Ship Ocean Trip Ends

HOWTH, Republic of Ireland, April 14 (Reuters)—The two-masted schooner St. Austell burned to the waterline in the Irish sea today, ending Kevin Lawler's second bid to sail the Atlantic.

Lawler, 29-year-old marine engineer, set sail for the United States Saturday because a girl friend dared him to.

His ship burst into flames off the Irish coast today. Lawler and his one passenger jumped overboard and were picked up an hour later by a fisihng smack. Lawler was all right, but passenger Thomas McDonagh, 40, suffered from exposure.

"It all happened in a flash," Lawler told rescuers.

He was shipwrecked three years ago in his first attempt to cross the Atlantic in a small boat.

US President Promises Co-operation

Request Commission To Give Approval To Canadian Plans

WASHINGTON, April 14. — (AP)—L. B. Pearson, Canada's External Affairs Minister, said President Truman agreed today that the way should be cleared for Canada to go ahead with power aspects of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

Pearson announced after a White House conference that Truman said he will join with the Canadian government in asking the International Joint Commission for approval of Canada's plans.

The commission is a Canadian-U.S. body, which, by treaty arrangements, deals with a variety of questions concerning the two countries.

Pearson said Commission approval is needed for Canada to go ahead alone with power aspects that would affect both countries.

Truman has been a backer of the Seaway plan, stalled in Congress since 1941. In his annual budget message in January he appealed to Congress to approve the project and recommended an appropriation of $20,000,000 to start construction.

Would Go Ahead

Canada has already indicated intention of going ahead alone with the seaway if the U.S. does not take action.

Canada's Transport Minister, Lionel Chevrier, said in a broadcast three months ago that the Federal government will pursue two alternatives of action until it becomes clear which course will be the first to provide results.

The first course would be action under the 1941 Canada-U.S. agreement which has never been ratified in Congress. The other would be an all-Canadian seaway.

At present legislation to authorize a U.S. start on the seaway is in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee awaiting a vote.

Last week a committee member, Senator Alexander Wiley (Rep. Wis.) told a "seaway rally" in Ogdensburg, N.Y., that "we have the necessary votes in committee" and that seaway legislation would go to the Senate despite opposition by committee chairman Tom Connally (Dem. Tex.).

Wiley, long a proponent of the project, said reporting of the legislation to the Senate by the Foreign Relations Committee will be only one of the hurdles before the Seaway bill. He said he expects battles to occur in the House of Representatives public works committee, the House rules committee and finally on the floors of the Senate and the House.

Murphy Resigns As Leaf Manager

TORONTO, April 14 (CP) — Mike Murphy resigned today as general manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs baseball club.

The surprise announcement was made with the opening game of the International League season only two days away.

Murphy's resignation, effective immediately, was revealed in a joint anonuncement by Murphy and Jack Kent Cooke, team president. Both are in Richmond, Va., and the resignation was confirmed by Max King of the Leafs' publicity department here.

Frank Pollock of Toronto, formerly concessions manager and associated with the team for 14 years, has been named the new general manager.

Bought Daughter Stock Must Pay Income Tax

OTTAWA, April 14 (CP).—An Ottawa lawyer, who bought shares of stock for his 14-year-old daughter, has been ordered by the income tax appeal board to pay income tax on the resulting profits.

The board made public its decision today against Redmond Quain, who held the shares in trust for his daughter, Wendy. The girl was not taxable.

In 1949, Mr. Quain borrowed $1,820 from a bank and in turn lent it to his daughter to buy shares of Ottawa Electric Railway Company, which was being wound up. The distribution of assets resulted in a profit of $640.

Husband Wins $139,285, Then Runs Away Goverment Expects Wife To Pay Back Taxes

WASHINGTON, April 14.—(AP)—A Honolulu housewife says her husband ran away with another woman after winning $139,285 in the Irish Sweepstakes. And now, she says, the government is trying to take away the relative pittance he left her.

Mrs. Dorothy Marie Soyack told of her plight in a brief filed in the United States tax court here. Her account:

Her husband pilfered some money from her household funds, bought a ticket in the Irish Sweepstakes and won $139,285.

Two days later (last May 20) he boarded a liner for the U.S. with another woman.

After six days at sea, the errant husband sent her $16,000 and this note—"After I pay my taxes at the end of the year I will send you the rest—and I hope you can get over me."

Then, her brief continues, the tax collector came around to call on Soyack in New York City with a bill for $64,698.08 back taxes. Soyack said he was broke and couldn't pay it.

So now the government has slapped a claim against Mrs. Soyack, demanding that she turn over the entire $16,000 the husband gave her—to help her pay his tax bill.

Father Kills Four Children And Himself, Had No Job, Despondent

TORONTO, April 14. (CP)—Four children and their father were killed early today in what police termed a murder-suicide in a gas-filled room in an east-central rooming house. The five were found by Mrs. Nina Aksiuk, the mother, when she arrived home from work. She pushed open the door and found her husband and four youngsters in critical condition on the floor, overcome by cooking gas.

The victims are Serge Aksiuk, 37, the father; Wladimir, 15, Valentino, 13; Boris, 8, and Natasha, 6.

Police said Aksiuk attached a rubber hose from a washing machine to a gas meter in the basement and led it to a pipe which ran up to the second-storey room. He then uncapped the gas jet—long unused. Police found the wrench beside the uncapped pipe when they investigated.

The windows, the door and the keyhole in the room were carefully sealed.

Father Despondent

Police said the tragedy was apparently brought on by the father's despondency over continued unemployment, and unhappy family relations.

While rescue squads were attempting to revive her family, police said Mrs Aksiuk snatched a belt and twisted it around her neck. When she was stopped, she ran to the window and attempted to leap out.

Police Reject Wage Offer

HAMILTON, April 14 (CP). — The city's latest wage offer was turned down by police Sunday night.

A board of arbitration will now be called in to settle the wage and hour dispute.

Police were asking for a flat $10 a week raise. And they demanded a 40-hour week starting immediately. The city offered a 40-hour week as of Jan. 1, 1953.

A $2.50 basic raise was also offered by the Board of Police Commissioners plus cost of living bonuses which would increase present pay by $4.53 a week in all.

A first class constable earning $62.96 a week would earn $67.49 under the city's proposals. But the officers remained firm on their demands for a $72.96-week—most of it as basic pay and not as cost of living bonus.

U.S. Railroads Given Increase

WASHINGTON, April 14 (AP) —The Inter-state Commerce Commission today gave the railroads a further freight rate increase, estimated to hike charges by about $678,000,000 a year. The rise is nine per cent in the south and west and six per cent in the east.

The order boosts rates 15 per cent above what they were at this time last year.

The railroads applied last year for a 15-per-cent increase. The I.C.C. last August ruled that instead of a straight 15-per-cent raise, the charges should be raised nine per cent in the east and six per cent in the south and west.

Today's order, issued after reconsideration, allows the full 15 per cent across the United States.

This means the rates now will be raised nine per cent in the south and west and six per cent in the east.

Ohio Workers End Strike

CLEVELAND, April 14 (AP)—A week-long strike of 12,000 Ohio Bell employees ended today, but picket lines in a Western Electric dispute were expected to still keep some of the workers away from their jobs.

The Western Electric strike is part of a dispute involving employees in 43 states. There are between 500 and 1,000 Western Electric workers in Ohio and Ohio Bell said "we expect they will picket many of our exchanges."

Western Electric is a Bell subsidiary and the men on strike are repairmen and sales employees.

The W. E. men work in Ohio Bell exchanges.

A pay boost ranging from $4 to $7—same as settlement terms in the Ohio Michigan strike last week—ended the Ohio Bell walkout. The union had asked for $8.40 and the company has been offering between $3 to $6.

Western Electric, which makes telephones for the Bell system, is negotiating its strike in New York City. There, too, negotiators were optimistic, but by no means as confident as at Ohio Bell.

Oh To Be In England

LONDON, April 14—(Reuters)—Hotels at the coastal resort of Brighton were so jammed with holidayers over the long, warm, Easter weekend that 300 persons slept on the beach Sunday night.

74,000 Fleeing As Missouri Battering Levees

OMAHA, Neb., April 14. (AP)—The flood-furious Missouri River threw its record-breaking flood crest at the Sioux City, Ia., area today while forecasters heaped new discouragement on the downstream Omaha-Council Bluffs, Ia., area by raising the predicted flood crest another 1½ feet. The new schedule calls for the arrival early Thursday of a monstrous 31.5 foot crest at Omaha, compared with flood stage of 19 feet. With other rivers rampaging, too, the Red Cross reported 19,349 families in eight or nine mid-west states are homeless or about to be displaced by floods. This was estimated to represent about 74,000 persons.

Army engineers estimated a total of 1,249,000 acres of land are under water along the Missouri and its tributaries from North Dakota to southern Nebras.

For Sioux City, with 84,000 persons, and neighboring South Sioux City, Neb., with 5,500, the crest's arrival was only insult atop injury. Surrender had come days earlier and inundation had been a creeping, progressive thing. Downstream, town after town was either prostrate or abandoned.

But Omaha and Council Bluffs, whose combined metropolitan area takes in 366,000 persons, were fighting it out.

About two-thirds of Council Bluffs' 45,000 persons had fled or were pulling out of their homes. Across the river, in the East Omaha and Carter Lake, Ia., areas, homes of perhaps 5,000 more were deserted. These were ghost areas, patrolled only by soldiers, police and civil guards.

Big Exodus

Experienced relief workers called the exodus one of the biggest disaster movements in memory.

The river, meanwhile, was at record high levels and steadily climbing toward the 30-foot crest expected Wednesday. The old high of 24.6 feet, established in 1881, was passed Sunday.

Early today the reading was 25.4, compared with flood stage of 19 feet.

At 26.6, the river will be at the level which levees and flood walls along the two cities were designed to handle. Today's battle was an effort to add two feet to the levee height, while attending to the sandboils which the tremendous pressure was creating.

The levee task force on the Iowa side numbered 3,000 men. Almost as many worked across the river.

The flood-ravaged Missouri River area extended all the way from Lower South Dakota, along the Iowa-Nebraska reaches and into Kansas and Missouri. But

US Tax Planners Advised Follow Canada

NEW YORK, April 14 (CP). — The New York Herald Tribune said Sunday in an editorial that Canada's response to the threat of inflation puts her ahead of the United States "on the road to assured stability."

Outlining some of the tax adjustments in the Canadian budget announced last week, the newspaper says U.S. tax planners "might take notice" of Canadian methods.

"The willingness of Canadians to accept the sour news of taxes high enough to balance an expanded budget testifies to their understanding that a tax plan which helps assure economic stability is a proper one"

No Accident

It was no accident that since the war the Canadian dollar had reached par with the U.S. dollar, that Canada's national debt had been reduced, that U.S. investment in Canada had greatly increased and that sounder economic conditions than the U.S. enjoys, had been maintained.

"It is not only that she (Canada) has kept to the policy of pay as you go. Accepting the gross tax burden which budgetary balance demands, she has concentrated on improving the efficiency and equity of her taxes."

Skunk Wins Battle With Police Force

BRANTFORD, April 14. (CP)—When police tangled with a skunk here Saturday night the score was: one detective with a broken leg; one policeman "shot" by the skunk; one dead skunk.

Police first trapped the animal in a box and detective Carl Sudden stepped on the box to make sure it was secure. The box broke, the detective's leg broke and the skunk escaped.

The skunk was later caught in a loop on a long pole but sprayed at least one of its captors before it was killed.

EASTER PARADERS—Rainy, windy, cold weather Sunday didn't dampen the Easter parade spirit of Susan and Judith Clark, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Clark, 377 Park St. N. These young ladies were all dolled up in the Easter dresses, coats and hats when they attended Trinity United Church Sunday morning. Mom's umbrella kept the raindrops away.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Sewer Cave-in Kills One, Three Escape

WOODSTOCK, April 14—(CP)—One man died Saturday in a caved-in sewer excavation from which three others were rescued after hours of digging.

David Smart, 42, was found dead under tons of wet clay that slid in on him under steel cribbing in the 17-foot trench in which he had been working.

Rescuers had uncovered him to the hips when a second onslaught trapped both him and the men who were trying to free him.

Ben McDonald scrambled out and Ed Hamilton pulled himself out with the aid of a rope lowered by workers at the surface.

Carl Springstead and Wallace Meadows were caught under the falling earth, as was Ken Likens, a Woodstock fireman who had been helping them in their efforts to release Smart.

Work In Relays

Scores of citizens gathered round the excavation at the south side intersection of Russell and Spencer Streets. Many brought shovels. Rescue crews of four or five men were organized to dig in relays while a bulldozer moved back the earth thrown out by their shovels.

Fireman Likens said fear drove him "almost crazy" as he dug with his hands to free himself and the others.

"We were trapped like rats and we dug like rats," he said. The three hours he spent in the trench were the "most horrible" of his life. His furious digging was all that saved Springstead's life as he tore at the earth and stones to keep them away from the other man's nose and throat.

Speaking of the dead man, Likens said: "We almost had David out when he was buried. I remember telling him to take it easy because we almost had him. Then the cave-in occurred. The last words I heard him say were: 'Hurry up, hurry up.' "

Bombers Smash Red Supply Line

SEOUL, Korea, April 14 (AP)—United States jet fighter-bombers smashed a huge Red supply point near the western coast of North Korea.

The U.S. Fifth Air Force reported 22 buildings destroyed and 11 damaged in the attack west of Haeju. The road and rail hub is four miles north of the 38th parallel near the base of the Ongjin peninsula.

Other fighter-bombers attacked the Communist rail system in North Korea from dawn Monday until early afternoon, when bad weather closed in.

U.S. Sabre jets patrolled ahead of the fighter-bombers but encountered no Communist jet fighters.

Sabre pilots reported they destroyed seven Red MIG-15 jets, probably shot down one and damaged four in Easter Sunday battles over North Korea.

Cloudy, clearing Tuesday evening. Little change in temperature. Winds northeast 20 becoming light at night. Low tonight and high Tuesday at Trenton 35 and 45, Killaloe 32 and 40.

Summary for Tuesday: Mainly cloudy. Cool.

Young Curler Wins In First Bonspiel

Saturday will be a day remembered by Douglas Baptie, 15, as long as he lives. For that day he won his first large bonspiel, playing as a lead for his father's (Harry Baptie) rink at Cobourg.

Then again the finish was a curling thriller. After winning the day's first two games the Baptie rink had to win the third and with a large score. They tied the game 10-all and in an extra end, with Doug neatly laying in two stones, won the bonspiel.

Besides Mr. Baptie and his son, other rink members were R. (Johnny) Johnson, vice-skip, and Rufus Payne, second. They won a combination barometer-thermometer.

Second place in the one-day 'spiel went to Ken Bissett's rink, including Jim Dutton, Barnie Ashmore and Bob McCullough. They won three games also, but their score wasn't as high as Baptie's rink.

Ready For Tests

LAS VEGAS, Nev., April 14—(AP).—Troops were arriving today to participate in new nuclear tests by the Atomic Energy Commission. The first of several contingents reached Camp Desert Rock Sunday.

BELLEVILLE, April 14 (CP)—Fire loss estimated at $12,000 resulted early today when flames gutted the Grier and Batt Manufacturers Agency premises. The damage was principally to stock which filled the large double garage but the building was also badly damaged. Flames were shooting out of the roof when the alarm was turned in.

Mrs. Roland F. McWilliams Wife Of L.-Governor Dies

Mrs. Roland F. McWilliams, wife of Manitoba's Lieutenant-Governor and a former resident of Peterborough, died suddenly Saturday night after a heart attack. She was in her 77th year.

Mrs. McWilliams was recognized as a leader among Canadian women. Possessed of unusual energy, she wrote, lectured, conducted classes in current events, was frequently a delegate to international meetings and was an executive of numerous women's organizations.

She was married to Mr. McWilliams when he was elected mayor of Peterborough. In 1910, they moved from this city to Winnipeg. She was the first woman alderman in Winnipeg history, being elected to office in 1932.

Often Visited

Both the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. McWilliams maintained a close interest in Peterborough affairs and often returned to renew old acquaintances.

Illness prevented Mrs. McWilliams from attending the opening of the city hall last October. Through her husband she sent her regrets.

A native of Toronto, Mrs. McWilliams graduated in arts from the University of Toronto in 1898. A woman of boundless energy, she believed every girl should earn a living before she married. She worked as a reporter for newspapers in Detroit and Minneapolis.

In 1903, she married her college sweetheart, R. F. McWilliams who was then a lawyer at Peterborough. Seven years later they moved to Winnipeg.

World Affairs

During the First World War, Mrs. McWilliams launched a series of classes in world affairs for women. She said she wanted women to be able to read newspapers intelligently. The classes continued for 32 years.

She was the author of Manitoba Milestones, a history of Manitoba and New Canada, intended as a text book for children. She assisted in publication of The Women of the Red River Valley, and following a trip to Russia in 1926 collaborated with her husband in writing on Russia in 1928.

She was appointed in 1944 an alternate delegate to the council of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

In 1932, Mrs. McWilliams was elected to Winnipeg city council and held that post until the appointment of her husband as Lieutenant-Governor in 1940. She had been chairman of the city's unemployment and relief committee. She also was chairman of the first Canadian committee to investigate the present-day Blue Cross plan.

In recognition of her public service, the University of Manitoba awarded her the honorary degree, Doctor of Laws. The University of Toronto awarded her the honorary degree, Doctor of Literature.

Alfred Fallis Turns 90 Easter Sunday

The whistle that woke Alfred Fallis for work at the C.G.E. for 27 years is still rousing him five days a week, although he retired 15 years ago.

Mr. Fallis celebrated his 90th birthday on Easter Sunday and says his health is better now than when he retired in 1937. For example, he is able to read a newspaper without eye glasses.

That 7.24 a.m. whistle is silent on Saturdays and Sundays. "I sleep for an extra hour or so because there is no whistle," says Mr. Fallis.

Born In England

Born in England, Mr. Fallis was a bedstead maker in England, later following that trade in France before he came to Canada. He stuck with his trade in Cornwall, Ontario, then in 1910 applied for a job at the Peterborough C.G.E. plant.

During his 27 years of service in the plant here, he was continuously employed in the controller department, now known as the industrial control. He was an assembler.

Mr. Fallis lives with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harris, 505 Patterson St.

Jigsaw puzzles and reading provide enjoyment for Mr. Fallis's winter months, and flower gardening gives him his summer hobby. In good health, and kept busy with his various hobbies, Mr. Fallis hopes to reach the century mark.

other states, and other rivers, also figured in a grim midwest flood picture.

The Missisippi was at a record high and climbing at St. Paul, Minn. Livestock shipments to the south St. Paul stockyards were embargoed, thousands were homeless and the St. Paul municipal airport was under water. The Minnesota River, a tributary, continued to rise menacingly in Minnesota.

In North Dakota and Western Minnesota, the Red River flirted with near-record levels and hit or menaced towns included Fargo, Moorhead, Wahpeton and Grand Forks.

In Montana, the Milk River lowered and the critical flood situation passed, but water still stood in Havre, Chinook, Harlen, Malta, Dodson and Wagner.

Group Capt. H. Wood Veteran Flier Dies

GREENVILLE, Que., April 14—(CP). — Group Capt. Harry B. Wood, O.B.E., 55, a veteran of both world wars and a one-time newspaperman, died here Saturday.

The son of Charles O. Wood of Montreal, he graduated from the Royal Military College in 1916, was with the Artillery and the Royal Flying Corps in the First World War and was director of careers and postings at R.C.A.F. Headquarters in Ottawa during the Second World War.

At one time he was a member of the editorial staff of the Ottawa Journal.

Surviving are his widow and two sons and his father. Gordon Wood, vice-president of Trans-Canada Air Lines, Montreal, is a brother.

Tunisian Nationalists Stage Demonstration

TUNIS, Tunisia, April 14 (Reuters).—A crowd of nationalists today exploded a grenade and threw rocks at police guarding the residence of the new Premier, Salah Eddine Baccouche.

Police fired into the air. No casualties were reported.

Demonstrators, protesting against French colonial rule, had marched to the house to protest against Baccouche's non-party "transitional" cabinet announced last Saturday. Nationalists have attacked the government as "non-representative."

Baccouche was appointed and ordered to set up a government by French authorities after they had arrested the previous prime minister and three of his cabinet members on grounds that they were anti-French.

Finds Canadian Way Of Life Satisfying

NEW YORK—(CP)—Canada is described to Americans in the current issue of Esquire as "that private heaven you want for a honeymoon—second, first or 23rd."

A travel article by Richard Joseph lists Canada's top recreation spots but it makes much of the friendliness of Canadians and their way of life.

"Most Canadians live at a tempo different from ours," the article said. "They lead a slower, more measured existence, giving themselves and you a complete freedom from pressure."

Has 22 Children

WORCESTER, Mass., April 14—(AP)—Mrs. John F. May, 47, of Millbury, today gave birth to her 21st and 22nd children—both girls. It was the first multiple birth in the family which now numbers 12 girls and eight boys. Two boys died in infancy. The oldest child is 25.

HAS NO EVIDENCE—Newbold Morris (right) confers with Rep. Frank L. Chelf (D-Ky.), chairman of the House Judiciary Committee which summoned Morris to Washington to answer questions about his ouster under oath. Morris testified he has no concrete evidence of government corruption because his probe was scuttled by "entrenched politicians" and never "got off the ground."

Bolivia Will Inaugurate New President Upon Return To Country

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, April 14. (Reuters) — Dr. Victor Paz Estenssoro, exiled leader of the Bolivian National Revolutionary Movement which seized power last week, will be inaugurated constitutional president of the country when he reaches La Paz. At a press conference here Sunday night he said the presidency would not be an easy task after six years of "irresponsible governments which impoverished the country and brought chaos in the government machine."

The revolutionaries won a federal election held a year ago. But before Paz Estenssoro could take over, a military Junta headed by Gen. Hugo Ballivian seized and held power until last week's successful revolt.

Representatives of Bolivia's Army, police, workers and students arrived Sunday to see their exiled leader. He expects to leave for the capital Tuesday.

New Election Unnecessary

The envoys said no elections are necessary since the people's will had been freely expressed last year.

Paz Estenssoro denied allegations that his movement is Communist. "We are Nationalist and fight for the social welfare of the country," he said.

Meanwhile, revolt-bloodied Bolivia, burying more than 300 dead and tending some 1,500 wounded, appeared today under firm control of the new government.

General Ballivian was believed to have taken asylum in a foreign embassy, reported to be Venezuela's. There was no immediate information on the whereabouts of Gen. Humberto Torres Ortiz, his Army Chief of Staff who led the government forces and who signed the formal surrender to the rebels Friday.

The Army, some units of which have opposed the rebels, was practically inoperative today following arrest or disappearance of many of its leaders. Many are reported to have sought asylum in foreign embassies along with other leaders of the ousted regime.

Red Poverty

MONTREAL (CP)—The Communist government of China still has a long way to go in its campaign to improve living standards, said Dr. A. Stewart Allen, medical missionary of the United Church. Dr. Allen, back home after being released from Communist imprisonment, told a meeting here the price paid for improvements to date has been complete conformity to totalitarian rule.

Say Republicans Braced For Fight

NEW YORK, April 14 (AP).—New Jersey Democrats today prepared for a relatively quiet presidential preference poll Tuesday but Republicans braced for a hectic three-way battle.

Up to 1,000,000 ballots are expected. Results are not binding on presidential nominating delegates to be named also—38 by Republicans and 36 with 32 votes by Democrats.

Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee is the only entered candidate for the Democratic nomination as president. And there are but three contests in the party's delegate race.

The Republican story is different. Three presidential candidates are listed on the New Jersey ballot: Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, and former Governor Harold Stassen of Minnesota. The delegates posts are also well contested.

Taft tried to withdraw from the primary after New Jersey's governor, Alfred Driscoll, threw his support to Eisenhower, but his name stayed on the ballot. Officials said he acted too late.

Fire Caused By Pipe Razes Indian Village

LUCKNOW, India, April 14 (Reuters)—A fire believed to have been caused by a hookah (oriental water pipe) razed the northern India village of Daloopur and killed 23 persons, according to reports received here today.

Nine children were among the victims in the fire, thought to have started when the bowl of glowing coals from the hookah overturned and set fire to flimsy draperies.

About 3,000 villagers lost their homes in the blaze.

Youthful Gun-Toter

TIMMINS, Ont.—(CP)—Police at Ansonville warned that severe action will be taken against youths caught carrying fire-arms. The warning came after a 16-year-old boy was found with an unloaded revolver. The boy told police he was "just carrying it for fun."

South Africa To Double Police Force

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, April 14 (AP).—The South African Union plans to double its police force to try to stem mounting crime and political unrest among its 10,000,000 non-whites, a government official said today.

One phase of the plan is to triple the strength of non-white police, now about 8,000-strong, in an effort to restore order in the country's terrorized native areas, Secretary for Native Affairs William Eiselin said.

Eiselin, one of the authors of the Nationalist government's racial policy of segregation (Apartheid), said non-white police are to be equipped with batons and spears, but no guns. The entire police force, now about 18,000 strong, will be boosted to 36,000.

Terrifying Increase

Justice Minister C. R. Swart, recently called the increase in South Africa's crime rate terrifying. It has given the country one of the world's highest jail populations, with more than 1,000,000 behind bars annually, or one in every 12 South Africans. He said the increase of violent crimes has been particularly alarming.

Side by side with the crime increase, stirrings in the Union's great non-white slums have given authorities lots of worry. Most recent development has been formation of a country-wide civil disobedience campaign, expected to further burden police, overcrowd jails and heighten racial tensions. The non-whites outnumber the whites by 9,500,000 to 2,500,000 in South Africa.

Non-white leaders and police seem agreed that the situation stems mainly from low wages, restriction of movements, grim housing conditions and lack of social facilities. Negro, Indian and colored (mixed blood) groups, working as a united front, organized the resistance campaign to defy what they have called the country's unjust race laws.

Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan has warned that as a result not only temporary racial tension, but worse, would follow and the Bantu (Negroes) would suffer first and most.

Two Go Berserk Injure 5 People

NEW YORK, April 14 (AP). — Two men went berserk after a drinking bout Sunday night, police said, stabbed two men and injured three other persons, including a pregnant woman.

Police said Lorenzo Rosario and Flor Gonzalez, both 24, entered a Brooklyn tavern and stabbed Theodore Wolfe, 39, in the neck. Wolfe is in serious condition.

Fleeing the tavern the men knocked down the pregnant woman, Mrs. Rose Giamariano, 20. She suffered a sprained back.

Then Gonzalez picked up a rock and struck Eric Rinsler, police said.

Later, Rosario and Gonzalez accosted Joseph Lisetza, 28, and his girl friend strolling along the street.

Rosario stabbed Lisetza in the neck, police said, and Gonzalez punched the girl in the face. Lisetza was seriously hurt. Their screams brought police.

Counties' Cost For Health Unit Tops $78,000

COBOURG, April 14 (ENS) — Health examination of children of school age was one of the important aspects of the work of Northumberland and Durham Counties Health Unit in 1951, the annual report of the health unit reveals. In a population of 63,243, the total cost af health was $78,667.85 of which the counties share of the cost was $35,815.37. On a population basis the cost was fifty-seven cents per capita.

Highlights of the report showed that 74.3 per cent of the children entering kindergarten had been immunized. Of children entering school 68.3 per cent had physical examinations by family doctors under a health scheme financed by a national health grant. During the year ended, nurses increased the number of visits to newborn infants.

Two court actions were taken to enforce compliance with restaurant regulations laid down by the health unit. Quality of milk sent to pasteurizing plants improved due to better cooling facilities on dairy farms. During the year there were 1,737 persons X-rayed at five regular monthly chest clinics; 28 new cases of T.B. were discovered and 22 persons were admitted to sanatorium of whom 14 were new cases. Disease of the heart was the principal cause of death in the counties of Northumberland and Durham.

Financial statement showed receipts of $98,873.98, made up by the 1950 balance of $16,836.87, provincial grant, $38,500; counties grant, $36,500.00; national health grant, $7,012.11; miscellaneous, $25.00. Among the items in the expenditures were salaries, $54,729.00; transportation, $11,596.12; maintenance, supplies, etc., $7,092.11. Total expenditure, $78,667.85; balance, $20,206.13.

Foil Jail Break

MELBOURNE, Australia, April 14 (Reuters).—Easter vacationists today saw warders shoot one man read and capture another in an attempted armed jail breakout. A prisoner had just scaled the jail wall when a warder in the prison watch tower fired. The prisoner staggered 20 yards and fell dead in a bed of lillies at the rear of a church. The jail chaplain administered last rites in the churchyard while about 100 people looked on.

This is the 30th picture in the Examiner's Baby Picture-Quote contest. For the first five days of each week the Examiner will publish a baby picture and quote from the collection of Constance Bannister and on Saturday will publish the winning local pictures. In the Examiner's contest readers are being asked to submit baby pictures and the trick is to write a suitable caption implying what could have been on the baby's mind to create such an expressive picture. Every home where here are children has an unusual baby picture, so look over your family album, pick out and write the caption and send picture to Baby Photo Editor, Examiner, Peterborough. Pictures must be of babies two years and less. Two prizes of five dollars a week are given and a grand prize of ten dollars at end of contest.
